

Be Yours 561

Chapter 561 Don't Fall For His Tricks

Alec was surprised to see Graham, too, but swiftly calmed down. "Mr. Walter," he greeted gently.

Graham huffed. "You can stop the act."

He didn't like Alec one bit, not only because of his restlessness with Jenny but also what he did to Jolene in Bardoff City. If it weren't for Jenny's sake, he would've taken action against Alec already.

Alec wasn't upset with the man's attitude. "I have to be polite, sir. You're Jenny's father, after all."

With that, he walked into the house and went straight to the kitchen. It wasn't his first time there. He knew his way around after countless times of cooking for Jenny.

Seeing his familiarity, Graham was left speechless. It looked like his daughter had spent a lot of time with this man. 'Didn't you say you two weren't together?' he asked Jenny.

Jenny nodded. "We're not friends." Alec said after poking his head out him for a fool? What kind of friend would head straight into the kitchen to Still...

to the kitchen. "You know amazing.' Jenny put

no. 'Why else would

your father company

nodded. 'Are you sure you can handle it

the food, given he was going

He could handle cooking,

Chapter 562 A Nice Prospect

Jenny gauged Graham's expression, anxious for his response. "So now you know. What happened isn't Alec's fault. No one likes the idea of marrying a complete stranger or having it happen to them."

"Then why does he like you now?" Graham huffed, still upset that Jenny was defending Alec.

Jenny really didn't know how to answer that. 'After a long while, she said,' Fate, most likely."

Graham just about choked on his own spit. "Fate? Misfortune, more like!' he thought.

"Whatever it is, I still don't think you two are compatible,' Graham insisted.

end,

She had chosen her words carefully so Graham wouldn't get angry. "You should worry would get so pissed if that you don't like Rowena, but Jolene... she's your so he had permanently given up hope. Now he just prayed they didn't to be a good father, know what your daughter is like. I'll be kind and warn you first. If But the moment she did, she'd make sure Rowena and Jolene so he nodded. "I hear you. I'll tell her this. I'll also

Chapter 563 Aren't You Worried About the Glass Family?

Jenny said nothing, knowing Jolene would never agree to it, for now, at least. She believed she deserved better, like James, for example.

Unfortunately for her, James didn't feel the same.

Just then, Alec started placing the food on the table. no.velxo Jenny got up to help him. 'Rest a while. I'm gonna go help Alec.'

She had said her piece to Graham. All that could be done now was for the man to make a decision. Someone as intelligent as he was bound to come up with a win-win solution.

"It's alright,' Alec said when Jenny entered the kitchen. "I can handle this myself. Go sit.'

"I've been sitting all day." Jenny quipped, taking the platter of brisket from Alec's hands. She set it on the table, then went back to the kitchen. Alec had already started making another dish.

we can't finish it all?" Jenny was worried Alec might tire himself out.no.velxo There were already five different courses on the table, and still, need to overdo it. After all, no one could take a second, promise," tired. In fact, he was feeling energized and giddy after overhearing their conversation in the living room, especially knowing Jenny was firm about their relationship. He had to his place and brought to have can hold their own." Graham scowled. No way was he going to let Alec poured him a glass, then got something wasn't dating Jenny, he might actually find him to be a down, Alec raised his glass to Graham.

Chapter 564 Your Consent

Graham really didn't know how Alec could be so confident about it, but he didn't pursue things further. What happened to Alec was none of his business. All he had to do was persuade Jenny not to continue being with him lest she get in trouble.

But Jenny didn't mind. She asked curiously, 'The family business has started stagnating too, right?'

Graham frowned. He didn't like where this was going.

"Why don't you consider buying over the Glass' business?" Jenny suggested.

If that happened, Alec wouldn't have to worry about being troubled by them, nor would Rowena be a threat to Jenny any longer.

Graham shook his head. "Things aren't that simple, Jenny. The Glass family is one of the Ten Elites in Bardoff City. Our family isn't capable of taking them on."

get themselves in you need further help, the Windsors can step in too. I'm sure they'd would never help one of plan. All

a split second, Graham felt his it was just some startup company. Even Alec was onboard with Jenny's plan, and his family couldn't even be said to be on par with the Spade family in think you can really consider this, Dad. Our family will be able to upgrade itself was the first time in his life heaved a heavy sigh. He knew Jenny was doing this to help Alec; still, he couldn't help but soften up when Jenny a serious thought,"

Chapter 565 Are You Bluffing?

They did not stop embracing until footsteps sounded from behind them. Seeing Alec still in the hallway, Graham frowned. "What are you still doing here?"

"I'm just about to leave." Alec nodded no.velexo slightly and smiled at Jenny before taking out his house keys and unlocking the condo across from Jenny's.

"Goodnight," he greeted the father and daughter, then went inside.

Jenny turned to go back into her place when she noticed how grumpy her father looked. "Are...you okay?"

"He lives here?" Graham asked sternly. Why else would the heir to Parrington's top family be living there except to stay close to his daughter? Graham fumed at the thought.

hurriedly explained, "He's lived here long before I in the neighboring apartment even during the two years of their snorted. "She's defending him get some rest?" Jenny went up to her father with up instantly.

work early in the morning, planning to have a meal with some colleagues. They had been kind to her since day one, so it was only right that they had a farewell meal help maintain friendly connections too. Who knows? She might want a car for him. He wouldn't just sit around worry. If the Glass family was taken care of, their

Chapter 566 The Condition

After settling her resignation matters, Jenny left the admin office. She spotted Morgan and her colleagues gazing at her sadly from afar. With a smile, she went up to them and said, 'Join me for dinner tonight. My treat.'

"Of course, I'm coming," Morgan beamed along with the others. They weren't as close with Jenny as Morgan was, but obviously, none of them were glad that things would be returning to what they were without Jenny.

After they left, Morgan held Jenny's hand and whined, 'Are you really going to quit, Jenny? No second thoughts?'

"None." Jenny shrugged. "I have too many things to take care of in Bardoff. So I have to leave."

found out what had happened from the news.

that shares my surname won't

She still felt sad, though. "Things are gonna go back to how they were once you leave. Did the chairman let you off call for surgeries no one else here can take on." The chairman had set that condition for Jenny's resignation to grinned. 'That's wonderful some benefit for himself.' Jenny scowled. She wouldn't be here in Parrington if it weren't for him. She had been slightly afraid of mentioning the

had just asked her refused. Helping people and saving their lives was her decided purpose in life, so she'd continue to do so even though she hadn't been working there for long. Just then, someone knocked on her door.

Chapter 567 Gilbert's Busy

But Jenny's patients didn't give her room to refuse. They turned and left, leaving her with all the gifts and items on the floor. Jenny sniffled, feeling touched to the core as she gazed at them.

It further strengthened her will to continue being a doctor to help others. Focusing on her business and becoming heir to her family would make her richer, but this couldn't top the satisfaction and pride being a doctor gave her.

Jenny ended up distributing the gifts to several other colleagues throughout the hospital. She hadn't been the patients' sole helper, after all.

After leaving the hospital, Jenny went to find Zack. She nearly thought she had mistaken him for someone else when they met.

Was this bespectacled, suited man really her brother?

"Jenny!" he greeted warmly. When he smiled, Jenny finally saw that this was indeed her brother.

much, Zack. I nearly

I have to dress the part." The business was booming on his end. Because of its success, he had part irked him to he be the next Steve office with him, observing how things were being run. Admiration for Zack flared in her chest. Some people were truly gifted with business skills. Gilbert was, no. and so was Zack—she Jenny. "Have a taste. I just got this

Jenny sipped on her tea, here to say goodbye to me, aren't you?" Zack asked. He had guessed as you think. I just need to go to Bardoff City

Bardoff City isn't far. I can always stop by too."

from Parrington to Bardoff City. "What about Gilbert?

heard from him

Chapter 568 Suspicion

Jenny and Zack had lunch together before she went to meet up with Joey. She left him some kind words and advice before finally retiring to her apartment.

Dinner was spent with her colleagues. They had several toasts to her health before their director grumbled that things wouldn't be the same once Jenny left. Their one solace was that Jenny would still come back to perform surgeries if needed.

The people enjoyed their dinner, all sad to see Jenny go but in awe of her at the same time. A skilled doctor with such a powerful background would naturally get a lot of admiration.

Near the end, Jenny slipped to the washroom to freshen up. She was slightly tipsy from all the drinks she had. When she stepped out, Jared was there waiting for her.

"Dr. Stewart." Jenny nodded.

"Are you really leaving?" the man asked, voice thick with emotion.

not explaining further. What else

Walter, I've...

the same thing to her when she first started working at the hospital, but she had rejected him with the reason being she had just you as a colleague. Dr. Stewart, nothing more,"

not smiled sadly. "That's why I'm sad to see you go. I don't know if we'll ever see each other again, so I thought quiet, unsure how be with Jenny even more now that he knew her background. If they were together, he'd live the rest of his life rich and in luxury. That was why he confessed again, was very confident in his charisma, having several her throat.

Chapter 569 It Doesn't Matter to Me

Already in a bad mood because of Jenny's rejection, Jared grumbled, "Do I have to report everything to you? Mind your own business, will you?" "Jared Stewart!" the nurse huffed. "I'm your girlfriend. Can't I care about your business?"

"You're my girlfriend, not my wife," Jared sneered. She wasn't fit to be his wife yet, he thought.

The woman then angrily slapped him on the cheek. "You jerk!"

She had already been annoyed with Jared for flirting with other women at their workplace, so his words now triggered her to no end. "I know you think I'm not worth your time, so you go and try to move up the social ladder whenever you can, but have you looked at yourself? You really think the other person has eyes for you?"

With that said, her gaze briefly lingered on Jenny.

The commotion had long attracted the attention of nearly every diner. Some were amused, and some were shaking their heads in exasperation.

two lovebirds leave their Romeo and Juliet act behind storm. "Get the hell

up right here too!" the nurse screeched, then

Jared's ego tolerate being on the receiving end of a room and the restaurant. All eyes turned to Jared the moment she flirting before. "I can tolerate your frivolous attitude at work, Jared Stewart, but if rumors start spreading

Obviously, the director wasn't going to let Jared get away with it

no.velxo With an awkward smile, he stood up and left the room-partially because of embarrassment and to stop the nurse from doing anything stupid. His career was at stake if she

he left, the table erupted into

It's nothing to do with

It doesn't matter to

Chapter 570 I Wouldn't Feel the Same Way

Sleep crashed into Jenny the moment she sat back in the front passenger seat. She drifted off almost instantly, trusting the man beside her. Alec didn't say anything throughout the ride, he only slowed his driving speed.

They soon reached home.

Just as Alec was wondering whether to carry Jenny back home or wait for her to awaken, she slowly blinked her eyes open.

"Sorry...fell asleep." she yawned. Embarrassment laced her tone. no.velxo She didn't even remember when she started sleeping.

Alec shrugged and opened the door for her. "Get some rest."

With an arm around her shoulders, Alec led Jenny inside the building.

Jenny wasn't in a rush to go back. Her father was still at her place, so they wouldn't be able to spend time with each other any further for the night if she went back.

go to your place

second to recover from his

and the apartment decor had taken on a warmer, cozier tone.

her side. 'Something you wanna tell me before drank her know why she wanted to be here. All she knew was that she didn't want to go back so gonna miss me, aren't blushed furiously. "No, I won't,

Is that alright with further. She avoided his gaze.

I'll do it tomorrow." He had been too preoccupied to go back to the Old Mansion. Mortimer was also

Grandpa if