

Be Yours 571

Chapter 571 I Think You Are

Alec was somewhat surprised by the seriousness of her question. He gave it some serious thought for several minutes.

After what seemed like a year, he met Jenny's gaze again. "I like how dedicated you are and how strong you make yourself be. I like everything about you."

The first time Alec had seen her, she was tending to a patient. The patient hadn't believed in her skill and had called for the hospital director to vouch for her. Alec had stepped in to vouch for her instead. He hadn't thought much of it at first—he just wanted to plant a good impression since he also wanted Jenny to operate on him.

But things escalated so quickly after they met. He never imagined that he would fall in love with her. Only after all the time they had spent together did he realize he had fallen for her the moment he got to know her.

"I'm not as nice a person as you say I am, you know," Jenny huffed. She wasn't a saint.

that I think you are," Alec beamed. Jenny stayed quiet as being my girlfriend?" Alec asked. It was possible, given how sudden this question came. He had truly made a mistake back then. If she gave him another chance, in this weird friends but not quite lovers situation was getting pretty pointless. But on account of Graham still on the fence about helping Alec, she decided, "Let's wait till after we've dealt with honestly didn't care what Graham thought of Alec. All she was worried about was if Graham would do something to hurt Alec in empathized with Alec for having hidden the situation with Mortimer Faust answer was better than not knowing ended, Graham called Jenny's number to check on her. "It's late," he said. "Come then. It is late," Alec said. He would miss her, but

Chapter 572 You Didn't Bring Any House Gifts?

The next day, Jenny and Alec spent their time sorting things out. Jenny brought Graham to Orchid Village to pay their respects to her grandfather and inform him that she had returned to her family.

Even though Horace wasn't related to her by blood, she still viewed him as her biological grandfather. The old man had raised her to become the person she was today. Not even Graham could compare.

Good thing Graham knew that too. He hadn't forced Jenny to stop referring to the old man as her grandpa, nor did he make her pay respects to his father.

In fact, Graham's father was the one who forced Graham and Jenny's mother to separate. For that reason, Jenny would never recognize him as family, even if she cared about the Walters.

Graham paid his respects to Horace as well, gently touching the gravestone. "Thank you for taking care of my Jenny, sir. She's a fine young woman today, all because of you. I can never thank you enough."

Graham to David Wilkins' home. David hurriedly invited them inside, showing on his attire, he could guess he came from a wealthy left in detention for a few days. She should have been right

Jenny said, "Uncle, about what happened to all her." David nodded. He wasn't educated, but at her. Besides her grandfather and her uncle, she didn't value relations

A pleasure to meet you," Graham greeted politely, waved a hand. "Jenny calls me uncle. n.ovelxo It would be strange if you called me sir. I know I seem old, but I promise I'm got to know each other's ages, and Graham smiled awkwardly, "I

Chapter 573 I Won't Give Her a Single Cent

Graham couldn't deduce what kind of relationship Jenny had with these women. He just had a strong feeling that theirs was very different from her uncle's. However, he didn't think much of it and pulled out a pouch of cash bills from his pocket. He had prepared it beforehand and handed it to Felicity.

"A token of my gratitude. n.ovelxo For the young one's future." He hadn't prepared anything for Hannah. Granted, it would be strange if he did.

Felicity beamed, greedily eyeing the thick pouch. "It must be loaded with cash," she thought. Before she could take the pouch, it was snatched away.

Beside them, Jenny opened the newly-acquired pouch and peered inside.

"What are you..." Graham asked, confused.

There were at least ten thousand dollars in there. Sure, it wasn't much to Graham, but Jenny wasn't about to let her cousin have it so easily.

dollars and shoved it to Felicity. "Here. That's about how much our relationship is to speak

know what I'm front of these two women. Otherwise,n.ovelxo

two hundred dollars. "You're so mean to me, Jenny!

rolled her eyes, retracting her arm. "Alright.

hand. "You can't go back on your word hundred dollars was better than nothing. She didn't have a job anymore, nor did their family have much money. This money was enough sneered, not surprised at

'We raised you, Jenny.n.ovelxo You've found your birth father and will leave with him, most likely never to watching Hannah's eyes

we

Chapter 574 Nothing Good Will Turn Out From This

David relaxed upon hearing that. He truly worried Graham would give the women money, not that he didn't care about them, but because he knew very well it wasn't theirs to have.

"You must give us this compensation today, Jenny Walter!" Hannah commanded angrily. No way would she let Jenny leave without first paying them.

Felicity didn't side with her mother this time. n.ovelxo Instead, she tugged on the woman's sleeve. "Let's just let this go, Mom. She's too powerful."

Ever since Jenny had sicced the cops on her, she had held a level of reverence and fear against Jenny. She didn't want her mother to face the same mess.

"She's too powerful? I'll show you powerful!" Hannah sneered, finding her daughter cowardly.

Jenny chuckled at how silly she looked. n.ovelxo "Yeah? What'll you do if I don't give it to you? Beat me up?"

a point. She wouldn't be able to handle the father and daughter on her own. Her husband would obviously not come to her aid, either. With that in mind, she softened up. "Jenny...you're wealthy now. All the same way. This wad of cash was really nothing

Jenny didn't want to be so kind. If it was her family's money, she wanted a say in get my money from trees, and neither did my father. If you want money so bad, get a job," Jenny sneered, glaring at the mother and daughter. "Lazing around at home all day like a pair of fat ticks while little from his agriculture work, which almost always got depleted in the hands of his Felicity's father. He should be taking care her uncle's arm. She was angry about this, yes, but it was their reality. She couldn't do much.

n.ovelxo"Let's get back entering the kitchen, she even told Graham, "I'm warning you, don't give them anything, or you'll this was Jolene speaking to him, he would've exploded with rage. But he held it back because this for a stroll, ignoring the fuming mother and daughter in of shit. He doesn't even have the guts to claim

Chapter 575 What Kind of Father Would...

Jenny and Graham had lunch with David and his family, ignoring Hannah and Felicity's bickering. Afterward, they left Orchid Village and went back to Parrington.

Jenny's plans were nearly complete. All she had to do now was make sure to successfully rescue Stephanie.

Paul hadn't restricted her personal freedom nor stopped her from using her phone, but Jenny hadn't called Stephanie even once to keep Paul clueless about her plans.

After dropping her father off, Jenny went to the Walker family home to meet Stephanie's parents.

"Mr. Walker, Mrs. Walker," Jenny greeted. The husband and wife seemed much more tired than they had ever been.

"Is everything ready, Jenny?" The two asked her eagerly. "Can Stephanie leave with us now?"

"Mhm. That's what I'm here for, actually." She knew the two had waited for a long time for their daughter's rescue.

family, Stephanie had never done so just to not create issues for her parents. The Jenny asked. They needed to get everything done leave

two will take the first

"But what about-"

wife were secure first,

They could only hope for the best now. But they had also heard about Jenny finding her family again, so hopefully, they'd get the extra returning to her apartment, Jenny never stepped outside

Alec silently stared known the day would come when his grandson's wings hardened. He just left in the first place.

needs to expand to the city in order

Chapter 576 Leave

The moment those words left Alec's mouth, Mortimer stiffened up while Old Mr. Faust's expression grew solemn. "What do you mean, Alec? Did he do something to you?"

Old Mr. Faust had promised himself to forgive all the foolishness his son had done in the past, as long as he never hurt Alec, but now...

"Don't spout nonsense, Alec Faust. When did I try to kill you?' Knowing his father's personality, Mortimer forced himself to stand his ground.

Alec sneered, then tossed up several documents of evidence. "You bribed that therapist, didn't you?"

Chills ran up Mortimer's spine. He had totally forgotten about that.

When he found that therapist, he bribed the man not to help Alec's condition. In fact, he had told the therapist to encourage it to worsen. He also promised a boatload of money if the therapist convinced Alec to commit suicide.

a result afterward. Mortimer through the evidence, his face turned dangerously

his son." "Are you out of your absolutely disappointed with Mortimer right now. How could he have raised a son like this? It was fine if Mortimer couldn't help out with

There was no use arguing because no one would you know why he wanted to kill me?" Alec suddenly in surprise. Alec continued, "He's doing this because of that bastard of his. You know that up with him, Old

it takes to let Alfred return to this family and officially assume as heir," Alec continued with a sneer.

Unfortunately for Mortimer, his Faust said solemnly.

to them sharing the same happens to him. Just kick him out of the house." He was about to leave for Bardoff City, so he couldn't let his grandfather live

Chapter 577 Stay the Hell Away

Outside the mansion, Mortimer quietly followed behind Alec, dispirited.

"Are you happy now?" he asked, no longer having the energy to be angry. There was no point. Alec wouldn't be affected either way.

Alec stopped and looked back at him. "You're blaming me for seeing through your crimes? Even wild beasts look after their young. What does that make you?"

Mortimer's expression stiffened momentarily. n.ovelxo "I never intended for anything to happen to you. I only wanted to set a safe path for your brother's future.'

"Brother? I don't have a brother," Alec sneered. He was his mother's only son. She never had any more children after.

want, Alfred is your brother." Mortimer insisted, the hell away from this family. Do you

"You-

end,n.ovelxo I'll make sure both of you beg for my mercy. Just wouldn't give him stay there any longer, he started plotting his next move. He wasn't about to give up that easily. Alfred was also Faust—why couldn't he have a

looking for continue working. Halfway through, Paul gave him a call, inviting him out for a would execute her rescue plan, which success was surer now that Graham was here to help her. That was why Alec would rather Paul spend as much time as possible with Stephanie. Who

Graham remained displeased with him but was still a big fan

wash the ingredients,

Chapter 578 You're Not Scared, Are You?

Alec understood what she meant, so he didn't refute her. 'You have a good point. It's best that Paul learns how to truly love someone.'

Otherwise, their relationship might not make it through all the challenges that arose once things turned serious.

Frankly, Alec was quite similar to Paul in terms of romance. He just wasn't as overbearing—he'd never dreamt of caging her by his side. Instead, Alec would try and win her over through his actions.

Dinner was soon ready for the three people.

"We're going back to Bardoff City tomorrow, right?" Graham asked, just to make sure.

Jenny nodded. "Right away after getting Stephanie out, yes."

still didn't want to risk dallying around. It was safer to fellow, especially when his territory was limited to Parrington. Things would be different you? When do you plan to leave friend, and he would most likely need to console him after losing Stephanie. Alec was already feeling bad for not helping Paul. It was the least food. Graham, however, huffed, "You're him. How could their plan to take the family over be put I won't take too much time," Alec replied kindly. He wasn't going to lose his temper on Jenny's father, do us good to make sure glumly at her. "This wasn't what you said before, dear daughter," he thought. However, he had lost the right to say things like that when he let the Wilkins them returned to their respective rooms to rest. Tomorrow was a big day, Chapter 579 Really?

Stephanie shuddered just the slightest when she heard Jenny's name." Really? When did she come back? She never told me."

"She's one of the Bardoff City Ten Elites now," Paul scoffed, ecstatic that Stephanie might never see Jenny again. "She might've forgotten all about you."

Stephanie hummed quietly, though she knew deep in her heart that Jenny would never do that.

Paul wrapped his arms around her. "Don't worry. Unlike her, I'd never ever leave you behind.'

"Really?" Stephanie asked.

Paul didn't answer, choosing to respond with his actions instead.

The next morning, sunlight filtered into the room and brought life to the mess of sheets and limbs on the bed. Stephanie opened her eyes. The space on the bed where Paul had been was already cold. He must've left for work.

and showered, put on some makeup, n.ovelxo then started packing her really hadn't known Jenny had come back to Parrington. But the moment she did, she knew her time to leave had the space, reflecting on her time there. It had been so long since she'd been kept in this gilded cage. Her outright resistance from

she had feelings for someone not even while, Paul had never learned to respect or much, nor did she want to take any of the gifts Paul had given her. She only packed some of her clothes and belongings before she sat

when Jenny would come, but she had a commotion from downstairs. She turned to look. "It must be Jenny," she thought as she greeted, not

was thinking we could go on nodded, preparing to leave with her when the villa's guards appeared. "Ms. Walker, n.ovelxowe can't let you leave without Mr. Wagner's reluctance she had felt earlier dissipating in an instant. "Paul told me himself I could spend time with Jenny. You can call him to check for yourself if you

Chapter 580 The Plan is in Motion

After several long seconds, just before Stephanie was about to say something again, Paul said, "I'll have some of my men guard you two. It's not safe for women to be out on the streets.'

"Paul..."

"They'll just be there to protect you, nothing else."

Obviously, Stephanie didn't buy that.n.ovelxo "Protecting her" was just another way to spy on her.

Stephanie was about to refuse when Jenny made a subtle signal to her. Stephanie sighed, "Alright, fine."

After hanging up the call, Jenny and Stephanie left the villa by car with Paul's men tailing them.

In the car, Stephanie asked, "Are my Mom and Dad-" reached Bardoff City. I'm parents' safety. She eyed the cars behind her, guessing a good handful of Paul's men might be watching out for them. "Are you sure we'll be able to leave? I can we will succeed," Jenny assured her. "Well go to the mall first,n.ovelxo then find our chance to

Paul know. That way, Alec wouldn't mall, where Jenny brought Stephanie reported into his earpiece, eye on them," Paul instructed. He knew Stephanie wouldn't dare run away, but...he didn't want to take to the washroom. Stephanie went in You're gonna follow us

for us, Miss Walter,"

out for you guys," Jenny scoffed. "Imagine if Paul knew all men knew just how terrifying Paul could be. Sure