

Be Yours 711

Chapter 711 A Rare Visitor

Jenny quickly forgot about her encounter with Derrick. She hadn't even taken it to heart and hadn't the slightest idea that she was already marked.

After leaving the hospital, she went to the company. Not Walter Inc, though. She went to Jeneration Group, which was being managed by Jade and Alfred. Though technically, it was mostly Alfred doing the managing. Jade was spending most of her efforts on designs.

Jenny didn't think it was a bad thing. Jade was best at fashion, after all. She was working extra hard, probably because of her ex-husband. She wanted to take the brand to greater heights to surpass the company she had once built.

Alfred was in his office when he saw her and said, amused, 'Oh, a rare visitor.'

"Oh, stop it." Jenny rolled her eyes, though she felt guilty. It had indeed been a while since she last came there.

If it weren't for Jeneration Group making it on the news, letting her know that it was growing bigger and stronger, she would have forgotten all about this company of hers.

of him and asked, "Are things going said, putting on a show. He even slid the financial report toward her. "These are the projects that we have recently signed, and these are the monthly financial she saw them. She took one up. The numbers crammed into throat. "The company is now in your hands. You can make the couldn't make heads or to manage Walter Inc. Aren't you afraid that it's going to close its doors?" Alfred could tell worrying about it.

trusting of him.

him. "I wouldn't have hired you if I doubted you.

I have to thank you for your trust?" Alfred was speechless. He was regretting coming to work thought running Faust Group was a great thing. Everyone would call

Chapter 712 Capable People Should be Put to Work

Jenny nodded. She had been considering it for a while. She thought that she was being too passive. If she inherited the Walters one day and had no means of gathering intel, a lot of things would be stuck in passive stages. Hence, she came to talk to Alfred about building a channel through which they could gather information.

After a while, Alfred spoke. "We could do that, but I have no idea how."

He had not done anything like it before. If he ever needed to find something out, he would have hired a private detective or gone to ask someone he knew. He had not wondered about where they got their information.

"Actually, it's easy. Do you know what makes people talk?" Jenny smiled as she popped the question at him. She obviously already had something in mind.

Alfred was stunned. Tentatively, he said, "Alcohol?"

were only willing to talk when they were drunk. On top we open a bar?"

snapped her fingers. "Excellent. Moreover, it can't be just any bar. It has to be a sophisticated winery. That way, we'll attract the people that we want to know that, but he had his concerns. "There are a lot of bars in Bardoff City, and they're all the Walters now. There shouldn't be do it with them. With two families supporting the bar, they would have nothing to fear, even it was best if James wasn't involved different stances and priorities. She didn't want to lose James because of and the general theme of the bar. Alfred would handle the rest, and I have to settle things in Jeneration group. I wouldn't have the time to go to the bar every day." He could

Chapter 713 You Have Already Earned My Respect

The food in the cafeteria was truly amazing. Jenny was satisfied, and she praised Alfred. "You're great at your job. Even the food in the cafeteria tastes good. You're really putting a lot of effort into this."

"Of course. After all, I come here every day." He was all alone. Eating in the cafeteria was the most convenient thing for him to do.

Jenny felt embarrassed. "What if I get you an assistant? Don't tire yourself out."

"It's fine. I don't need one yet. If the workload becomes too much, I'll figure it out." He had the final say in whatever happened in the company. Jenny wouldn't even know if he had hired one, or several, assistants.

"Okay. You'll have to go by your judgment. Take care of yourself because I'm putting this company in your hands. Who else is going to handle it if something happens to you?" She said it sincerely, but in Alfred's ears, they sounded unpleasant.

glared at her in a huff and said, "I'm thought we were friends." Alfred smiled bitterly. He probably overestimated how much Jenny once and said sincerely, "Of

"Uh..."

He didn't believe him with the intention of using him, that was a long time ago. She had already completely trusted him. She would not have entrusted

He felt better at once. 'Well, it seems that my efforts have not been about this.

Alfred's face that you would be on good terms with him." After all, Mortimer had abandoned Alec and his mother for Alfred and his mother. Alfred had experienced the love that Alec had not. They should

it seemed that

Chapter 714 Why Don't You Give Him a Go?

Jenny was happy to see Jade. They hadn't seen each other in a while. "I thought you weren't in.'

Jade was busy with La Vie Jen Rose. Jenny knew this, which was why she hadn't gone to see her. However, Jade appeared to be in a good mood. Things were probably going well. "I take it that things are going well?"

"Of course. What could go wrong with me in charge?" Jade smiled. She was capable, and Jenny was backing her up. Everyone knew that Jenny was the future heir of the Walters. Based on that fact alone, no one dared to trouble Jade.

Jenny gave her a thumbs up. "We know you're good."

Alfred saw that they were beginning to chat, and he finished his food quickly. "You girls can talk. I'm going back to the office to handle some stuff."

"Don't tire yourself out," Jenny said. If Alfred were to break down, she would be unable to replace him.

concerned, Alfred still felt happy." Don't worry. I that, he got up to leave. Only Jade and Alfred because I thought he had bad intentions. But after getting to know him, I think he's alright." Jade watched him

She thought so, too. Suddenly, Jade looked at her. "You're single, too. Why don't you give him a go? I think you might he had good looks. Both of his sons were very handsome. Alfred could not compare to that. "Why don't you worry about yourself instead? I hear Max has moved his their company for their own benefit." Jade placing one hand under her chin. "Oh, really? Are you time since she last saw Max, but that didn't mean she Max was no longer as carefree as he was in him. I'm getting irritated just thinking of him." Jade her eyes at Jade. "Why? Did you

Chapter 715 Being Unfair to Him

Jade sighed. She put down her utensils and said, "I know what you mean, but I just can't let it go. I wouldn't be in the mood to be in a relationship unless I surpassed him."

Whenever she thought of his betrayal, a surge of anger would wash over Jade. She had to succeed. That was the only way she would let things go.

Seeing how determined she was, Jenny couldn't say much else. "But this would be unfair to Max."

"I know. That's why I've never led him on. In fact, I want him to give up." Jade knew that she shouldn't be comparing herself to her ex-husband.

Anyone would think that she couldn't let him go. However, she didn't care about that as much as proving herself.

Jenny sighed. "Love is so complicated."

enough to be saying stuff like that? Aren't you afraid of

"Don't think I'm inexperienced just because

other, Jenny

you mean, divorce? You're still a virgin." Jade thought it was good of herself a boyfriend. That way, she wouldn't be so bored. However, Jenny didn't feel the same. Most things to handle.

the way back to Walter Castle, Jenny walked instead of working in a hospital.

Bardoff Hospital was much more orderly than Parrington Hospital. She wouldn't be the only surgeon in the hospital, either. There were many surgeons walked home with her thoughts

something was off.

Chapter 716 I Think He Was Deceived

"I don't need you to remind me. I know." Although Yvonne was helping her, Alicia felt indifferent toward her. If Yvonne hadn't employed her brother to be her bodyguard, he wouldn't have ended that way.

Yvonne didn't care about her bad attitude. In her eyes, she didn't have to care as long as they could go against Jenny.

Jenny had long forgotten Jonathan Flynn. She'd also forgotten about his sister, much less anticipate her coming to look for her.

At night, Jenny received a call from her senior, who was a psychologist.

"How is the psychologist I recommended before?" He had called to ask specifically about that. If the treatment wasn't going well, he planned to recommend another one to Jenny.

Jenny suddenly remembered the matter and asked, "I never got to know her name. Who is she?"

there was something off about him. She wanted to find out for She's a real beauty." Her senior chuckled on the other

Wasn't she the Alec's psychologist had stayed by his side, and now more she thought about it. Jenny's heart was troubled even she hesitated just as she was about the end,

Bardoff City and was working in Faust Group as usual. Though to be precise, it was Wagner

Faust family with him. Perhaps to find something out for me." Then, Jenny asked him to tell her all

He hadn't planned on telling Jenny this because it was Alec's personal business. But when he heard Jenny also say that Alec was behaving weirdly and was that something was off with Alec. As a confirmation,

Chapter 717 I'm Obviously Going Against You

Blake sat next to Alec in the restaurant, observing his eloquence, gentlemanly mannerisms, and calm and collected temperament as he talked to their client.

This was the man she had fallen in love with. This was who she wanted to be with for the rest of her life.

Thus, she willingly stood by his side when he was at his weakest. She believed that Alec would one day take over the Fausts.

Alec's phone vibrated. He paused and looked at the screen.

"Apologies. I need to take this." He sounded apologetic as he got up with the phone in hand.

Blake watched him leave. Her cheery mood had turned sour.

Walter...

had only one name on it, but Blake rage in her heart sizzled. Alec was her man. She had bet the entire Watkins family on him, so she couldn't bear to lose him suck up to her. Compared to the insignificant Alec, he'd rather win the favor of in embarrassment. Although she was angered by Jenny's call, she didn't show it on her face.

weren't, he would reconsider it. After all, everyone knew Alec's reappearance was to compete with the Faustus for the position of the next heir. If one stood by Alec's side, it would mean they were going against the rest

Alec failed, the client would be Blake's eyes darken, but only for a second. "It's client relaxed. That was pretty much a confirmation of their Watkins by his side. Based on their conversation before, this man had excellent capabilities. At least, in spoke, Alec accepted Jenny's

Chapter 718 This Better Be Serious

Alec was quiet. Jenny knew that he was furious, but she said, "Well? What's it going to be?"

She had already made up her mind to see him even if he refused. No matter what, she just had to talk to him today.

"Fine. You win." Jenny was proved victorious. Alec needed the Walters' help.

They arranged for a place to meet, and he hung up. He turned and walked back into the restaurant.

He sat in his original place and began talking with the client as if nothing had ever happened. Blake snuck glances at him, but nothing unusual could be seen on his face. She secretly sighed in relief.

Alec would probably not fall in love with Jenny. He had lost his memories. When it came to familiarity, Blake was the one most familiar with him.

after, the deal was finalized. They said goodbye to the client. "You're authority didn't compare to the other Faustus, he was actually the most capable out of all of them. This was the man who was worthy of Blake. He wasn't like the useless men who

"It's late.

that Alec hadn't followed her. "What about you?" Her heart thumped in her chest. She had a bad stuff to do. I won't be sending you home," he said. He to do with the phone call that Jenny had made. He was probably going to see her. Hatred brewed in her heart, but she didn't express it. "Alright. Be careful and go home once you're done. Don't tire didn't like women who pestered him. He would feel repulsed if she asked him too many questions, which was why off. Blake hesitated for a moment before deciding to follow him. She wanted to see if Alec was going to meet

looked at the time once

Chapter 719 The Past Doesn't Matter Now

Alec's frustrations were put to rest with a nice cup of coffee sliding down his stomach. "Talk."

Jenny nodded and straightened her back. She stared straight into Alec's eyes when she said, "You've lost your memories, haven't you?"

Alec's eyebrows raised, and anger flashed in his eyes.

"I've called Grandpa and Paul. I've deduced from their words that you have indeed lost your memories," Jenny continued before he could speak. She stared at him, attempting to detect any changes in his expression.

Surprisingly, he remained calm.

There was silence.

broke the silence. "Why

of sarcasm. He leaned forward, placing his weight on came to this conclusion. In fact, I couldn't quite believe it. But then I thought about it and can now confirm that you have lost your memories. That's why you

was avoiding even Jenny was not giving him a chance. "If you haven't lost your memories, you'll be able out something as small as should I prove anything to you? Who do

I just wanted to tell you the truth. You've lost your memories, so you believe everything that Blake tells you. You think that your feelings for me were just a psychological issue. But is that

Chapter 720 You're Behind This, Aren't You?

"You can go ahead being deceived by her if you like. It has nothing to do with me. I just want to tell you to visit your grandfather in Parrington if you can. Don't you know that he's in the hospital right now?" Jenny had given up on whether he liked her or not.

Alec's face darkened. "I don't need you to remind me of it."

"If you don't, you'd have gone back to Parrington. Do you really think he would care if you have amnesia?" Jenny couldn't figure him out. If he honestly lost his memories, Old Mr. Faust would only help him. He wouldn't hurt him.

Jenny grew frustrated seeing Alec like that. She said, 'No one really cares that you've lost your memories. Don't keep thinking that everyone is out to get you. They'd have to be powerful enough for that. You've lost your memories, not your emotions, Alec. I don't want you to do anything you might regret.'

She had given Old Mr. Faust a call before. She could tell that he truly missed Alec. On top of that, he sounded weak. It was obvious that he wasn't getting any better in the hospital.

Jenny got up once she was done speaking. She added, "Blake is a psychologist. I hope that you'll analyze everything that she says. Don't let her misguide you."

she left. She didn't care if Alec took another cup

all of his feelings toward his loved ones. He didn't think much of it because of his amnesia, he couldn't figure out exactly how much. He didn't made him realize that he was wrong. Perhaps he had to find his memories he reserved a seat on a flight back to Parrington. It was shop, Jenny no longer went to see Alec. But when she knew that he had gone to Parrington to visit his grandfather, she heaved a

had not lost his was her first day of work at Bardoff Hospital. Jenny got up early, not wishing to leave a bad first