

Be Yours 901

Chapter 901 If I've Done Something Wrong Before

He hugged her tightly. "Why are you so good to me, Janet?"

"Am I really that good?" Janet wasn't so sure. No one had ever called her good before.

"Of course. You're the best girl I've ever met." Zack nodded vigorously. Why else would he love her so much?

Janet opened her mouth, wanting to say something. However, she lacked the courage to do so. "Well, what if one day you find out that I've done something wrong before? Would you forgive me?"

"What could you possibly do wrong? They're just small matters. I wouldn't care." He loved Janet for who she was now. It had nothing to do with her past.

It didn't matter if Zack had lied. His words calmed Janet considerably.

At least, this was a man who truly loved her.

tilted her head and kissed him, wishing she could the ward and found that both the girl and the woman to the head nurse and learned they had left the hospital yesterday afternoon. She grew weak in the knees. 'Why were they discharged? Didn't to the director, and he handled it for them," panicking. "Is there any hope. Jenny didn't want her husband's number, but I've dialed it before. No one picked left, taking the

This time, the phone was and went comfort herself, saying that was how life was. But then, fate had brought her to them. Wasn't that

She made her decision.

to find the woman for her. Melissa's contacts were growing. It wasn't hard for for Melissa to do it.

Chapter 902 Feeling Sorry for Him?

The blush deepened on Melissa's cheeks as she stammered, "B-boss, that's nonsense. I..." "Have you looked into what I asked?" Standing beside Melissa, Jenny suddenly changed the topic and asked about the young girl and her mother.

Melissa was taken aback by the quick shift. 'Huh? Oh, yeah, I got what you wanted. Let's check out the apartment now. After that, I'd bring you to meet with the mother and daughter.'

Tracking them down was a piece of cake, but Melissa wondered if she needed to inform Jenny about their pitiful fates to mentally prepare her for the visit.

Jenny didn't ask more questions and followed Melissa to the neighborhood entrance. It took them ten minutes on foot to reach the place, which matched her requirements. She was satisfied with the environment as well. When she saw the apartment, she could not hold back from saying, "I can really trust Alfred to get it right." Finding an apartment that satisfied her conditions right away was no easy feat.

"Of course! Alfred always gets it right." Melissa nodded, pleased, as though she was the one being complimented, not Alfred.

Jenny glanced at her but said nothing. She thought, ' Ah, another woman in love.'

to handle these tasks. I promise you'll be joked, "Why? Are you delegate the minor tasks to me," Melissa agreed, "Sure, I'll hit you sheepishly after hearing satisfied and signed the purchase agreement on the spot. She reminded Melissa to sort out the apartment situation as soon as possible because she would move in within a few days. Melissa agreed to it. Later, they left the apartment, and Jenny went to visit the mother and away from the city center. She could tell that the mother and daughter were not doing asked me to. The woman is Helga Stromberg, and her daughter is called Amy Hansel. They left the hospital yesterday and went home, but her husband kicked her out. They even signed the divorce papers with worry. "Where are they It's quite far, though- half an hour away by car," Melissa answered. Residences in the center of Bardoff City were expensive. Most people could barely afford to rent them, let

Chapter 903 Worried That I'd Trouble You

Melissa dealt with some complicated feelings as she asked Jenny, "Do I look fierce?" Why was Helga's sister willing to talk to Jenny but not her? She wondered if she wasn't friendly enough when she introduced herself.

"You're alright." Jenny struggled to answer. Melissa always had a no-nonsense air around her, perhaps from her regular martial arts practice, which could make her appear unfriendly. Jenny was a martial arts practitioner too, but she was different from Melissa in that she wasn't only focused on the practice. That could explain why she looked gentler than Melissa.

Melissa looked upset but didn't say a word. The door opened again, and the woman from just now poked her head out and said, "Come in."

Jenny and Melissa followed her into the place, where they could see items scattered all around. They went into the only bedroom, where they found Helga lying on the bed, looking worse than before.

her that a Jenny Walter was at the

up to her,

she went to play with the other kids downstairs," a seat by the bed and explained, "I'm here to tell you that we figured out a kind soul, but I can't trouble you.' Before this, Jenny had wanted to pay for her surgery. She rejected Jenny because she thought that Jenny had come to her sister's to bring up the

"No, I'm not the one paying-there's a smiled instead. "Is that true? That sounds too good to be true.' The last thing she wanted morning, but she left the hospital yesterday." Jenny pretended to look angry, making Helga feel bad about her head and whispered, "I'm just worried I'd trouble you." It didn't matter what time she left

Chapter 904 I Trust You

Even when Helga was at death's door, the jerk didn't bother to care for her. Not only that, he kicked her out of the house along with their daughter to not affect his chances of remarriage. More damningly, he was not officially divorced—the couple was in the cooling-off period mandated by the law- but he was already looking to get a new wife. One didn't have to guess the fate of Amy living with a father like him.

Initially, Helga was doubtful about the existence of the charity that Jenny mentioned. However, she came to a realization after hearing Melissa's words. Regardless of whether the charity existed, she needed to undergo surgery and survive, as that was the only way to take care of her daughter and watch her grow up happily and healthily.

Half an hour later, she followed Jenny and Melissa into their car. This time, she left Amy under the care of her sister instead of bringing the kid along. If her surgery was a success, she'd return to pick Amy up. However, if the opposite was true, she had also worked out an arrangement for her daughter.

heavy when she traveled to the hospital. At first, she felt oddly relieved when she decided to give up, but now she had chance of success. It's worth taking the risk. If the leading surgeon is your concern, I could request the department her skills, she knew that having the department head in the about the suggestion. She shook her head and announced, No. I trust you, Dr. Walter." She had complete trust in Jenny's integrity after witnessing the trust she earned from patients was the main motivation in at the hospital. She was surprised to find Melissa waiting at the hospital entrance. "Why didn't you when my boss is busy at work?" Melissa chuckled and opened the car door for Jenny. "Boss, do you think

Chapter 905 Laying Up Trouble for Yourself

"Things are fine on my end, but Jade seems to be struggling with some issues. If you're free, you should help her out." Jade was responsible for the fashion design work, which was out of his scope, and he decided to rope Jenny into the issue.

She asked, "What's wrong?"

"It's probably some issue involving her ex-husband. Anyway, her projects aren't going too smoothly at the moment.' Alfred had no clue about Jade's work struggles. Since they were custodians of the company who worked independently, he would not offer his help if Jade didn't ask.

Jenny harbored a guess after listening to him, and she answered, "Sure. I got it."

Alfred dropped the topic of Jade and asked, ' Do you like the apartment?"

"It's pretty decent." She nodded.

two engaged in their conversation and ignored Melissa's presence. Melissa wanted to chat but couldn't find a chance to interrupt that the company's still in the growth stage, but you shouldn't bury yourself in work. You when

I do. You're my ace. I have to be concerned about your marital prospects." Jenny sounded serious. She would have shoved Melissa into his arms if only Alfred wasn't scoffed in an ambiguous response, "Save it. You when she noticed that Melissa was still staring at the ground. She slid her hand underneath the table and squeezed Melissa's hand while sending signals via her confused and naive Melissa asked

"You blockhead!" Jenny thought.

turned to Alfred with reddened cheeks. "Alfred, do you have anyone important question shot her a look and glanced at Jenny. His gaze traveled between the before nodding and answering in

Chapter 906 When You Turned Me Down in the Past

"Yeah, you should at least give me a chance to get to know you better." Melissa nodded and looked at Alfred with anticipation.

He ignored her and turned to Jenny. "Why didn't you think of giving me a chance when you turned me down in the past?"

The two women fell into silence. The atmosphere was frigid for a moment, but Jenny was quick. "That's because I know you didn't pursue me out of interest-you just wanted to compete against Alec."

Alfred had nothing to say against her claim, and Melissa let out a relieved sigh. She'd be at a loss if Alfred was truly in love with Jenny. Jenny was better in all aspects, and more importantly, she was her boss. Thankfully, Alfred wasn't truly into Jenny.

"If you have nothing else to discuss, I'll leave." He stood up without any intent to continue the chat.

better leave

didn't want him to leave, but she knew Alfred wouldn't listen restaurant, leaving Jenny and Melissa to there's no misunderstanding. His feelings for me are not what you think. You might not know his Jenny. "I've looked up Alec." More importantly, even if to say to Melissa. She went ahead and offered words of comfort, "Straight guys like Alfred know nothing about romance. As long as you don't give up, you to give up on him." After all, Alfred was

They dropped the topic of Alfred

Chapter 907 She Had No Choice

Much to Jenny's surprise, before she had the chance to pressure the Britts with the Walters' authority, she ran into Yvonne at the hospital ward.

Yvonne was wearing casts on her limbs and was immobile on the bed. Only her eyes were staring at the ceiling.

"Is this karma?" Jenny stood by Yvonne's bed. She was randomly checking the names of the warded patients when she came across Yvonne's name. Of course, she had to check for herself. When she arrived at the room, she found out that the patient was indeed Yvonne Dickman.

Jenny thought the situation was ridiculous and laughed out loud without considering Yvonne's feelings. Upon hearing Jenny's voice, Yvonne trembled in anger even when she couldn't move a finger. "Jenny Walter!"

away." Jenny bent over, her face in front of Yvonne's, checking on her injuries.

it hurts," Jenny lamented, fake!

because she

that Jenny was behind everything when Jenny showed up in her room. After all, she only misunderstanding there. It wasn't me."

Yvonne's crime and send her to jail or ignore Yvonne altogether. It had never crossed her mind to get believe in Jenny's innocence, which wasn't an issue for Jenny at all. She asked, "Why didn't Brandon Britt

Chapter 908 Getting Help Was Easy, but Sending Away the Helper Was Tough

Jenny didn't overstay her welcome in Yvonne's room. Neither did she care about the identity of Yvonne's attacker. It was none of her business; she wanted nothing to do with it.

When Alec met up with her, she deliberately told him about Yvonne to observe his reaction. There was no change in his expression, as though Yvonne was a stranger to him. She was bored by his reaction and grumbled, 'You were close with her. Why don't you look like you care?'

"Jenny, you're impossible sometimes.' He sighed and smiled at her in defeat. She was puzzled by his remark, and he explained, "Were you hoping for any reaction when you brought up Yvonne? Did you think I'd care about her?"

you hate the

for you." He never had feelings for Yvonne and loss for words as she recalled how Alec had frequently referred to Yvonne as his 'savior' in the past. She wouldn't have cared enough to tell him about Yvonne if

Plus, after everything that had

She tilted her head, feeling interested in the he

Who were you interested in apart from me?

Chapter 909 You're Best Friends With Him?

He chuckled at her question and asked her instead, 'Are you worried?' "Of course! Who isn't worried about their safety?" Given how influential the Faustus were, she figured she couldn't take them down even as the head of the Walters.

Zeke Faust was a merciless man from the way he silently agreed to Xavier's attack on Alec. He was definitely not easy to deal with.

"Why would you agree to have dinner with me, then?" he inquired, as he did not see any hint of fear on her face.

She took a bite and said nonchalantly, "I can't possibly give up on my normal life out of fear."

Agreeing to dine with Alec and getting closer to each other was part of her normal life, and she wouldn't change that for anyone, even if that meant risking her safety. She did not believe that keeping a distance from Alec would make her safe from Zeke Faust. If the old man set his eyes on her, he wouldn't go easy on her no matter how far she stayed away from Alec.

nodded in her, given that she was the head of the Walters, even though

A desire arose in him." Jenny, you look really dazzling embarrassed her. "You'd be naive to think I'd agree to date fault for not cherishing her in the past. He was satisfied and grateful for their current the joy in her tone.

her surprise, he sent her to the new apartment unit she bought instead of Walter Castle. When they walked into her neighborhood, she shot Alec a questioning look. "How did you know to protect you,"

odd. Normally, he wouldn't reveal that he'd sent

Chapter 910 What a Great Employee

Alec spent some time cooking up a reply. A while later, Jenny heard him muttering, "Well, we're just acquaintances. You know what happened between me and him. We would never be close."

Even though Mortimer was in a coma at the hospital, and there appeared to be no conflict between Alec and Alfred, they knew that they would never be true friends, considering the bad blood between them.

"Right. So why did he tell you?" Jenny asked, feeling confused.

"He probably...doesn't want to see you dating Evan Clarke.' Alec was surprised too when he received the tip from Alfred, but he thanked the man and didn't prod much.

Alfred doing so. If Alfred was getting along fine with Alec, it made sense that he would rather see hired a cleaner to clean up the unit the day before. The apartment was ready urge him to leave when he followed her to her door. He smiled and opened the door to the unit across from her. Dumbfounded, she finally collected herself after a pause.

and added, "Isn't unit right after learning that she had moved to he invited her to his place, even though to your place next time.' She figured that his place was not much different from hers. After all, both of them recently bought you a cocktail for a good night's sleep.' He opened the door into his place. She was mostly curious about Alec's cocktails because