

Be Yours 981

Chapter 981 He's Changed a Lot

Jenny's answer was as ambiguous as it could get, and Jade didn't interrogate her further. At the end of the day, it was Jenny and Alec's business; as an outsider, it wasn't appropriate for Jade to be too nosy.

"Come on. Let's go for a meal together." Max walked over to them. He'd really pull out all the stops for his confession to Jade that day.

Jenny quickly waved her hands back and forth, declining the offer, and said, "I don't think that's a good idea. We shouldn't interfere with your first date."

Max and Jade had just started dating. Jenny felt it wasn't good for her and Alec to tag along and intrude on the new couple's precious first moments together after their love had just blossomed and bore fruit.

"What are you all concerned about? We're just going to eat." Max glanced at her. He didn't make plans for another round of romantic gestures for Jade at the restaurant. Instead, he merely intended to treat Jenny and Alec to a meal and thank them for coming over.

Jenny was still hesitant, but Jade said, "Come on, Jenny. It's the best time to have fondue with this heavy snowfall."

tempted by her suggestion. She looked in confirmation. He knew that was going, Jenny had no reason to refuse. Everyone followed Max and left the earlier attracted the park visitors, and they soon crowded the place to take pictures. It became a to the fondue restaurant. Max and Jade's car drove ahead, with Alec's car following from behind. Jenny the car, and couldn't help but say, "It seems like your relationship with Max now is of Mortimer." Alec didn't the Fausts; he hated Mortimer and and Mortimer was lying in a vegetative state in a hospital bed. If he still refused to let go of his hatred and sought vengeance on the Fausts, the hatred would consume him, and he would never be able to confess to Jade, he'd already decided to let go of in a coma?" Jenny hadn't paid much attention to Mortimer. Alfred hardly mentioned him in front and didn't show any emotions. It was as if Mortimer was just a stranger to him. With that, they fell silent, and neither spoke Chapter 982 Listen to What You're Saying!

Soon, Alec had a plate of dipping sauce in front of him, but he smelled the strong acidic vinegar and was momentarily at a loss for words. "Is this the dipping sauce you brought me?"

"Don't you like vinegar, just like how you like sour grapes?" Jenny asked with an innocent look on her face, seemingly puzzled about what the problem was.

Alec was speechless. Of course, he was well aware that Jenny was implying his jealousy was unwarranted. He could only force a smile and reply, "Yes, you're right. I do like sour stuff."

Max and Jade, sitting across from them, couldn't hear their conversation, but they could see the way they spoke softly to each other, like they were in their own little world. Their interactions went beyond that of a normal friendship.

"Have they gotten back together?" Max asked, looking at them quizzically. They looked more like a couple than he and Jade did.

Jade chuckled and didn't know what to say. "I don't think so."

"Hmm..." Max snorted humorlessly, wondering how much longer they planned to keep up that "more than friends but not quite lovers" act.

None of them were particularly fond of fruits, but they thought they should still eat some because only eating bread and meat with some apples." Jenny proceeded to put plate and couldn't some fruit since he didn't eat them much on normal days. What could she imply? Did care," she said, thinking it was his problem was obviously teasing Jenny. "Well, I can't refuse the food you've served snorted coldly, looking

Jade looked at them

he couldn't help but add, "Which of us is the moved toward the edge of her seat to put some distance between herself

just purposely proving a point and being a matter of time before he

of them shared laughs and good humor as they dined, but at the study on Chapter 983 Am I That Horrible?

Seeing how insistent Zack was, Gilbert didn't know what to say. "Since you insist, then do as you please. I've done my part and said what needs to be said. If you get hurt in the future, that's on you. However, there's one thing I can tell you clearly—I won't accept her. Of course, you probably don't care. So, please don't bring her to my house in the future. If you two are inseparable, then you don't need to drop by from now on either."

Gilbert's stance was clear as day, and Zack's face became increasingly grim as he took in his brother's words.

"Do you really not want to give her a chance?" Zack asked. He didn't understand why Gilbert, who'd always been nice and friendly to everyone, was so skeptical of Janet.

Looking at Zack with a serious expression, Gilbert said, "She doesn't need me to give her a chance. No matter what she's done in the past, I can ignore it, but I won't accept that kind of woman marrying you. Do you understand?"

He couldn't care less about such matters, but Zack was his brother. Unfortunately, Zack didn't understand Gilbert's reasoning.

"Why do you always do this? You break couples up just because you can't bear to see them get together," Zack said.

"What did you say?" Gilbert couldn't believe it. He thought his ears were deceiving him.

"Was I wrong?"

to break Jenny and Alec up before, and now you want me to break up with Janet.

seemed alien and unfamiliar. He couldn't believe that those words think I understand why Jenny doesn't like you.

slapped Zack just as he was done

Get out right now!" Gilbert

I'll leave!" Zack shouted back angrily. He wasn't exactly out of the study, frozen in place in the study. He'd exerted all his strength when he damage caused by what Zack had just said to him. The words reverberated in his mind, haunting he doesn't like me. Am I really that horrible?" Gilbert started big brother who took care of his younger siblings. But look no one would listen to him anymore. First, it was Jenny, and now, Zack. Gilbert laughed bitterly. It seemed to him that

Chapter 984 Worry for Zack's Future

From the window of his study, Gilbert watched as Zack and Janet left. He then picked up his phone to call Jenny.

"Jenny, I won't meddle in Zack's affairs anymore, and you'd better not either. Some people just don't learn their lessons until they pay a price for it."

Zack hadn't encountered any major difficulties in life so far and had quite a smooth journey. Although people like him were blessed and lived a happy life, they weren't exposed to the dangers of the world. Gilbert thought it was time for him to suffer and learn from his mistakes.

Before Jenny could ask what was going on, Gilbert hung up the phone. Taken aback by the situation, Jenny continued to stare at her phone in confusion.

"What's wrong?" Alec was next to her and naturally heard Gilbert's words.

Jenny shook her head and didn't say anything to him. Instead, she got up, walked out of the private room, and dialed Zack's number.

"Zack, where are you?" Jenny asked.

place to eat. Have you eaten yet? Why don't you join fathom what was me after? Alone. I'll send you the address." Jenny felt she should talk to Zack even though Gilbert told her not to interfere. After all, he was her brother. How sitting beside him and thought of Jenny's request to meet him alone. He could already guess what was going on. "Alright, I'll meet up with you later after I to meet, Jenny didn't say anything else. She ended their call and returned to with their meal. Max and Jade wanted to see a movie. As Jenny had asked Zack to meet up with her, she decided not to join them and asked didn't question her choice and it because of Zack and Janet's with slightly widened eyes, seemingly surprised that he knew

He could tell that Jenny was worried for Zack since the woman the snowy landscape outside the window and feeling glum. "I think he probably had could tell it was quite a big one, or Gilbert cling to the idea of making him give up,"

Chapter 985 The Talk

"Have you seen many people who can make it to the end with their first love?"

When Alec asked that question, he lamented the fact that, despite his undying love for Jenny, they had yet to begin dating. Sometimes, being together for a long time didn't necessarily lead to marriage; instead, it gave rise to a lot of conflicts between a couple. Jenny thought Alec had a point.

"Hmm...you're right. It seems Gilbert and I were a little too anxious."

"Although you consider Zack your older brother, he's actually not as mature as you are. This is typical rebellious behavior-the more you try to stop him, the more he wants to be with that woman. So, when you see him later, it's best to just ask what happened between him and Gilbert and not say much about wanting him to give up on her," Alec advised.

Jenny nodded. "Okay, I understand."

As they spoke, the car had already entered the parking lot of the residential complex. They walked into the elevator, and Jenny was still thinking about what to say to Zack when she saw him later. Initially, she had the same idea of trying to get Zack to give up on Janet, just like Gilbert. However, after hearing Alec's opinion on the situation and taking into account Gilbert's moody tone when he called her, Jenny wasn't sure if objecting to Zack's relationship with Janet was the right thing to do.

she might end up arguing with Zack. Although they were siblings and had a close relationship, arguing with each other could put a strain on their relationship. If said, bringing her back to the elevator and opened the door to her anything. I'll be around to help." Alec smiled at her, trying to ease her nervousness. He knew Jenny valued Zack and didn't want to damage their relationship. That was why he went out of his way to give and waited for Zack's arrival. Half an hour later, Zack knocked on her the door and saw that he had a sigh of relief, glad he listened to her and didn't bring Janet along. Although she'd asked him come to Jenny's place, and he was surprised. "This place is so small.

doesn't matter where I live. This place is close to the hospital; it's more convenient for work," Jenny poured him a glass of water. "I heard from Gilbert that you've moved out. Where are you my company. It's more convenient for

Chapter 986 See With Your Own Eyes

Hearing what he said, Jenny felt a headache coming. It seemed that Zack didn't even put the things that Janet had done before into consideration; he even thought they were trivial matters.

She was a little baffled and tried to be patient as she said, "Zack, you should know that some things can be forgiven, but some matters are related to a person's character..."

"Jenny, are you also advising me to break up with Janet like Gilbert?" Zack's expression became gloomy, no longer showing the affection he had for Jenny as before.

Jenny's heart sank-she knew why Gilbert had argued with him. Zack was too adamant in his decision to remain with Janet, effectively annoying everyone else who could see she was no good for him.

Fortunately, Jenny had mentally prepared herself before he arrived, so she was able to suppress her anger and patiently say, "No, I just wanted to ask you about what happened between you and Gilbert.'

"It's nothing. It'll be fine in a few days." Hearing that Jenny wasn't advising him to break up with Janet, Zack's expression improved slightly. Of course, it was only slightly because, at the mention of Gilbert, he was reminded of their argument.

bit. He felt that he was too impulsive at that time and should not have said the things he said. But since he'd already blurted them in the heat of the moment, he was too proud to go good that there's no problem. I was just worried about you and Gilbert. You should coming between your happiness. But think about it, if he weren't your brother, would he even never liked to meddle in other people's affairs. Zack sighed at Jenny's rhetorical question; of course, he knew Janet.

"Jenny..."

have to be any. She hadn't been in contact with Janet and wouldn't have much contact with her in the future either. Zack would have to must have changed her on intuition. See with know. I

Chapter 987 Sorry for Disturbing Your Sleep

Late at night, there was a knock on Alec's door. Having just finished work and fallen asleep, he was very unhappy with whoever was disturbing his sleep at that hour. Emitting an aura of hostility, Alec opened the door but was stunned upon seeing the person at his doorstep.

"Jenny?"

Jenny leaned against the wall, her body aching all over. She struggled to lift her head and look at Alec. 'I'm sorry for disturbing your sleep.'

"What's the matter?" Alec immediately noticed something was wrong with Jenny and hugged her the next second.

Under the dim light, he saw Jenny's abnormally red cheeks and touched her forehead. He frowned immediately upon feeling her temperature. "You have a fever?"

Jenny replied weakly, "I probably caught a cold during the day."

the snow in the morning and had been exposed to the cold wind for quite placed her on the bed. He immediately brought some hot water

Jenny nodded and said, 'I came over to ask if you have any fever medicine at prepared for these situations. Although Walter Castle had some, Jenny was afraid she would pass some for you,' Alec said. He didn't have any medicine either because he rarely got sick or had a to go downstairs to buy the medicine, Jenny grabbed his hand. "Forget it.

want Alec to catch a fever as discomfort in her condition if she didn't take any to get up and walked toward the bathroom. Alec wasn't wrong; physical cooling was very important for her at that moment. If she fell on her body, she immediately felt much better, and her mind became clearer. It was then that she realized she was in Alec's

She turned off the hot water so she could dry

Chapter 988 Don't Think About Unnecessary Things

After hearing the sound of the bedroom door closing, Jenny blushed and cautiously opened the bathroom door. She then took the towel and clothes. The clothes belonged to Alec and had a masculine woody scent; they didn't quite fit her.

However, that was the least of Jenny's concerns at that moment. She would just wear them for a while and change when she got home. With that in mind, she put on Alec's shirt and came out of the bathroom. Thank goodness for the heating. Otherwise, not only would it be cold outside, but the house would be freezing too.

Jenny walked from the bedroom to the living room. Alec sat on the couch while waiting for her to come out. Hearing her footsteps, he turned to her and asked, "Do you feel better now?"

"Yeah. Much better," she replied gratefully. Although she felt slightly dizzy, the soreness in her body had somewhat subsided.

"I bought some medicine for you. Since you're a doctor, you can decide which ones to take," he said. He'd asked the pharmacist but felt that Jenny would know better.

Alec had bought.

"Thank you,' she said.

take anything else for the time being. She wanted to wait and see how she felt in the morning.

you for your help. I should go now," she said. It was already very late, and Jenny thought it would be rude for her a hint of reproach, 'You're wearing so little, his stern tone. He led her back to the bedroom and said, "You can sleep in my room. I'll sleep in the guest room instead of your room,' Jenny said. Then, she added, "Or could you lend me a down jacket to wear only a short walk, so it wasn't as things," Alec said before leaving the

Chapter 989 As Long as You Like It

When Jenny walked into the living room and saw the hot oatmeal on the dining table, she was a little stunned. She looked at Alec, still busying himself in the kitchen, and a warm feeling washed over her. She took a step toward him and said, "Hey."

She called out softly, and he turned around with a smile. "Oh, you're awake already. Do you feel better?" he asked with concern.

"Yeah. I feel better now." Jenny nodded and walked toward him. She was surprised to see that he was making tortellini. For a moment, she didn't know what to say. Then, she asked, "What time did you get up?"

"I don't remember. It was still dark outside." Alec said with a laugh, not minding that he'd gotten no sleep at all. It was his first time making tortellini, so he wasn't very familiar with the process. Fortunately, he had some talent for cooking, so his attempt didn't end up in failure.

Alec was about to ask Jenny to have breakfast when he suddenly felt Jenny's warm body in his arms.

"Why are you so good to me?" Even though Jenny hadn't accepted Alec and was still hesitant about being in a relationship with him, she couldn't help but feel moved by Alec's kindness at that moment, even if she'd steeled her heart to not be swayed by emotions.

head and looked at the person in his arms. Then, he raised his arms and hugged her back tightly." You're wrong. I haven't been good she was his wife; even when she became his girlfriend, he still didn't cherish her enough. The insignificant amount of kindness now was nothing but futile compensation that came too little and too late. To him, it was practically

Actually, when I think about it, from his embrace. In her heart, she understood that the past wasn't entirely his fault. They had gotten married in a hurry back then, so it was normal for Alec back now, Jenny thought she was just unable to swallow her

"Jenny, are you saying that you forgive me

"Yeah." Jenny nodded.

to suppress the wide, beaming smile

You've done enough," Jenny replied, feeling a little embarrassed as refuse. He brought the steaming hot tortellini to the dining table and said, "Try it and let me know what you think. Give me her eyes lifted up as she said with a slight smile, "It's delicious. There's nothing to was his first time making tortellini, Jenny still thought it

Chapter 990 Feigning Ignorance

Jenny started working at the hospital as usual. Although her condition was better, and she wasn't as uncomfortable as the night before, she hadn't fully recovered yet and still felt a little dizzy. However, it didn't affect her much, and she still insisted on going to work and consulting patients in the outpatient clinic.

"Next," she called out to the waiting area.

Shortly after, someone pushed the door open and entered. Jenny, who was typing on her computer, didn't immediately look up to see who it was.

When she finished and looked up at the patient across from her, she was a little surprised.

"Miss York?" Jenny was puzzled when she saw that the patient was Alexandra.

Alexandra was evidently displeased, and there was a hostile look in her eyes as she stared at Jenny. 'Hello, Dr. Walter,' she greeted.

sensed Alexandra's unfriendliness and stared back at her for a few seconds.

"My heart," Alexandra answered.

chair. She pointed to the door and said, "Walk out and turn left.

Alexandra replied. She didn't seem to have any intention of leaving and continued to sit there, looking at Jenny with the same even if Alexandra wanted to hold someone accountable for her unhappy relationship with her boyfriend, to waste any time with Alexandra. "If you have something to say, please get to the point. Don't keep the other patients

Then, she do you mean?" Jenny furrowed her brow, looking puzzled and not feigning ignorance? After you left that day, Christopher broke up with me. Are you sure it had nothing to do with you?" Alexandra up with her earlier if he didn't like her? Why did he suddenly do it after meeting Jenny? She believed it must have something to quickly calmed down and said, "You're overthinking it. On the day of Harvey's funeral, I didn't say a word to Christopher at all, even when