Chapter 1311: Wraith Emperor Witch!

Fang Mu had been holding back Fool's Shadow from advancing its rank, not allowing Fool's Shadow to progress.

So, the changes that appeared in Fool's Shadow must be a sign of a quality enhancement!

Previously, Fang Mu had been uncertain whether continuously allowing Fool's Shadow to absorb Extraterrestrial Embryos was indeed beneficial for Fool's Shadow.

Fang Mu feared that what he was doing was futile.

The changes currently occurring in Fool's Shadow were like a message to Fang Mu that all his previous investments were worthwhile!

Fool's Shadow was slowly undergoing a metamorphosis.

As long as the absorption of Extraterrestrial Embryos continued, Fool's Shadow's quality would eventually ascend to godlike quality!

After Fang Mu returned to his room, he stretched comfortably.

From this trip to the Han Yang Empire, Fang Mu had obtained vast resources, and now he could use them to cultivate the Orchid Curse!

Fang Mu took out the seed pod of the Orchid Curse because previously he had used a significant quantity of Thunder Energy Spiritual Materials to prepare Pure Thunder Energy, which he offered completely for the Orchid Curse's seed pod to absorb.

As a result, the seed pod of the Orchid Curse successfully cracked open, and thousands upon thousands of dark blue seeds, like dandelions, could be carried far away by the merest breeze.

To prevent the dispersion of these Orchid Curse seeds into the environment and to avoid loss, Fang Mu had specifically spent nearly half a day burying these light seeds in Restoration Soil.

He then added a layer of Purple Magnet Crystal with strong electrical storage capabilities on top of that soil.

This was the initial nursery bed that Fang Mu had created for the cultivation of the Orchid Curse seeds.

Fang Mu finally had the resources and time to cultivate these seeds and allow them to grow!

Before using these Thunder Energy infused Spiritual Materials to prepare elixirs, Fang Mu took out two Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds he got from Zhao Xun.

The two gourds, one male and one female, had already been tended to by Fang Mu before he went to the Han Yang Empire, and he had placed them in the Secret Region Space.

Under the nourishment of Pure Spirit Qi, the Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds had already successfully laid a clutch of eggs.

To accelerate the hatching of these eggs, Fang Mu specifically used Spirit Qi with a purity of over ninety percent and Pure Thunder Energy to stimulate this clutch of eggs from the Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds.

The eggs from the Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds had hatched successfully.

The newborn Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds were smaller than Fang Mu's fingernails, but fortunately, they were a kind of Insect Beast with an extremely short growth cycle.

They needed only a month or so to grow from larvae to adults!

If the world that Fang Mu reached through the Fool's Shadow's Exclusive Trait [Order Realm Peeking] had something like the Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds,

As a symbiotic creature to the Orchid Curse, the Orchid Curse would inevitably become extremely strong, and its upper limit would experience a qualitative leap!

In the natural world, whether two forms of life can promote each other's growth is only inducible by human efforts; the actual outcome still depends on the actual interaction between the two forms of life.

Fang Mu placed the two Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds on the petri dish where he planted the Orchid Curse seeds.

The Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds moved slowly on the Purple Magnet Crystal laid over the petri dish, quickly finding the Thunder Energy Spiritual Materials Fang Mu left on the crystal and began to gnaw on them.

The Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds filtered these materials through their bodies, and their secretions fell onto and slid off the Purple Magnet Crystal.

As soon as these secretions from the Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds fell onto the Restoration Soil, they were completely absorbed by the seeds of the Orchid Curse.

These seeds of the Orchid Curse showed no aggression towards the two adult Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds.

In fact, these seeds of the Orchid Curse had already developed some offensive capabilities.

Previously, to test the aggressiveness of these Orchid Curse seeds, Fang Mu had placed two White Hair Negative Rats on the Purple Magnet Crystal.

The two White Hair Negative Rats were pierced by tentacles extended from inside the Orchid Curse seeds.

If not for Fang Mu's quick response in disposing of the carcasses, the bodies of the White Hair Negative Rats would have contaminated the Restoration Soil planting the Orchid Curse seeds.

These Orchid Curse seeds currently did not intend to attack the two Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds, but Fang Mu couldn't be completely at ease and needed to wait some time.

If these two Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds were suddenly attacked by the Orchid Curse seeds, Fang Mu would also be prepared to rescue them.

Besides the secretions produced by the Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds feeding on these Thunder Energy Spiritual Materials, Fang Mu was also using elixirs of Pure Thunder Energy prepared by Xi Xi to water these Orchid Curse seeds.

Fang Mu couldn't possibly dedicate most of Xi Xi's energy to preparing Pure Thunder Energy just for the cultivation of the Orchid Curse.

Xi Xi's focus was still on the preparation of Life Energy and Spiritual Energy.

Once these juvenile Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds grew into adults, they could consume Thunder Energy Spiritual Materials to produce large amounts of secretions for the Orchid Curse to absorb.

Then Fang Mu would no longer need to provide resources for the Orchid Curse!

Suddenly, Fang Mu recalled that when using Spiritual Energy previously, the seeds of the Orchid Curse seemed to have a certain affinity for it.

Fang Mu then took out a bottle of Spiritual Energy and poured some onto one side of the Restoration Soil.

Fang Mu discovered that the Orchid Curse seeds' desire for Spiritual Energy was no less intense than their thirst for Thunder Energy.

Every seed of the Orchid Curse secreted blue filaments, which eagerly stretched towards the part of the Restoration Soil that had been poured with the Spiritual Elixir.

Chapter 1312: Wraith Emperor Witch!_2

He absorbed the pure Spiritual Energy within the Restoration Soil as if in a frenzy.

Before this, the seeds of the Orchid Curse had not shown such a high craving for Spiritual Energy.

Fang Mu thought to himself that this might be because he now had a large amount of Thunder Energy to provide to the Orchid Curse, and the desire for Spiritual Energy and Thunder Energy were complementary to each other.

Fang Mu carefully observed the changes in the Orchid Curse while carefully nurturing the two Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds.

Even as the tendrils of the Orchid Curse moved rapidly, they did not harm the Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds themselves.

After draining the Spiritual Elixirs, the threads extending from the Orchid Curse seeds didn't retract but kept writhing and flipping unsatisfied.

Fang Mu simply took out several more bottles of Spiritual Elixir and continued to pour them into the culture dish.

Each time he poured, the seeds of the Orchid Curse crazily sucked on the elixirs.

After some thought, Fang Mu contacted Liu Xi and had her assign Liu Er to come to Fang Mu's room.

Fang Mu couldn't be bothered with the repetitive task of pouring the Spiritual Elixirs here.

Liu Er was controlled by Liu Xi, and as a Heavenly Evil Spirit, Liu Xi could perfectly fulfill the role of Fang Mu's assistant.

Cultivating the seeds of the Orchid Curse was not a task that could be finished in a short time, and the growth of the Purple Electricity Crystal Gourd also needed time.

Fang Mu planned to wait until the seeds of the Orchid Curse had fully sprouted, then thoroughly research this creature.

The King-level Exotic Body had not yet reached Fang Mu's hands because Fang Mu had to wait two more days before he could condense new Covenant Blood Essence.

Fang Mu did not examine the S-Class Alien Embryo he had obtained.

Fang Mu's Contracting Blood was precious, and now that he had a King-level Exotic Body to contract, he was no longer planning to contract the S-Class Alien Embryo he held.

If, later on, the Ten-thousand Nations Federation genuinely sought his help, he might even trade these S-Class Alien Embryos to them.

Fang Mu held a neutral stance toward the current industries the Ten-thousand Nations Federation was engaged in.

If one were to think about it carefully, if the Federation could manage this business well, it would indeed be more beneficial than detrimental to humans!

Fang Mu was very open to new things, which was why he was willing to explore higher dimensions for mysterious creatures like the Orchid Curse using the exclusive trait [Order Realm Peeking] of Fool's Shadow, even knowing it was dangerous!

Actually, [Order Realm Peeking] had already cooled down, and the reason Fang Mu did not continue to explore higher dimensions to acquire creatures like the Orchid Curse through it was that he did not want to delay the advancement of the Fool's Shadow's rank!

These days were the most critical for the sprouting and changing of the Orchid Curse seeds, and Fang Mu needed to stay here just in case.

Liu Er could serve as Fang Mu's assistant and handle some tedious tasks, but couldn't make decisions for Fang Mu.

Just as Fang Mu was preparing to review the ancient texts traded from the Han Yang Empire, the voice of Yan Yubanruo echoed in his mind.

"Master, I have completely cultivated those remaining undead creatures that were controlled by Control of Paper Puppets."

"The growth of these undead creatures has met my expectations, and I have decided not to replace them!"

"However, constantly cultivating undead creatures without using them in battle makes it difficult for me to enhance my own Combat Capability!"

When Fang Mu heard Yan Yubanruo's words, he knew Yan Yubanruo wanted to fight, and Fang Mu had the same intention.

But before entering the Second World for battle, Fang Mu wanted to wait here for the seeds of the Orchid Curse to sprout, completing the first stage of cultivation.

Fang Mu summoned Yan Yubanruo and said,

"In three days, I will take you through continuous battles to improve your Combat Capability."

"But before that, show me the results of the cultivation of these three remaining undead creatures!"

Upon hearing this, Yan Yubanruo directly summoned the Undead Domain.

The Undead Domain Vassal had previously been the only undead creature under Yan Yubanruo capable of releasing a domain ability, but now, the Corpse Fragrant Teaching Mother had also gained domain-type power.

However, compared to the Undead Domain Vassal, the Corpse Fragrant Teaching Mother's domain abilities were undoubtedly much weaker.

The Corpse Fragrant Teaching Mother's [Corpse Fragrance Poison Region] ability was mainly focused on healing, while the Undead Domain Vassal, in addition to healing and energy recovery, also possessed a terrifyingly lethal power.

Seeing the Undead Domain Vassal again, there had been a significant change in his appearance since the last encounter.

The Undead Domain Vassal's body was also cultivated with Death Ritual Suit Spore, but these spores were all wrapped under the scale armor that the Undead Domain Vassal produced himself.

The Undead Domain Vassal's scale armor was so gorgeously extravagant that the fine black scales looked like they were decorated with black crystal stones.

The protrusion on his cranium resembled a twisted crown, which, in contrast to his disorderly gray hair, exuded a lofty temperament.

Fang Mu thought to himself that the Undead Domain Vassal had most likely undergone Bloodline Transformation into an Undead King from the Nether Realm upon promotion to the Diamond level.

[Beast Species]: Walk Zombie Genus/Nightmare Zombie Species

[Beast Level]: Diamond Level (1/10)

[Beast Element]: Undying

[Beast Potential]: Diamond

[Beast Quality]: Legendary

Skills:

[Land Contamination]: Inject the Corpse Qi from inside his body into the ground beneath his feet, transforming the environment with the Corpse Qi, allowing undead creatures to be healed on the contaminated ground and the living to be affected by the Corpse Qi.

[Death Ground Worm]: Uses the contaminated death ground to produce silkworms, which, when they nibble on the living, can paralyze the bodies and intensify the pain.

[Worm Death Mark]: When the worms come into contact with the living, without attacking, they can directly merge into the target's body, creating a death mark, which will spontaneously condense the Dead Qi into the living's body, eroding the Life Energy within.

[Body Poison Covering Ground]: Activate Corpse Qi to transform into a special poison, which when used on undead creatures makes their attacks also carry the poison effect, without harming the undead. When used on living beings, it will cause their bodies to deteriorate greatly and nourish the Dead Qi.

[Wither Deadland]: Causes the death ground emanating from oneself to have withering properties, increasing the speed at which Dead Qi infects the living, accelerating the decay of flesh under the influence of Dead Qi. Once the living enter a withering state, the effectiveness of healing is greatly reduced.

Exclusive Traits:

[Death Ground Nightmare]: Nightmare Qi overlays the land corrupted by his own Corpse Qi, using the qi to obscure the vision of the living, and when the living probe the environment with spiritual power, the Nightmare Qi will contaminate the living's spiritual power.

[Split Body Expanding Territory]: When the area of transformed death ground reaches its current limit, he can split his body to let the separated body move and contaminate more land, increasing the area of the death ground.

[Death Ground Shaping Armor]: The energy of the death ground can be used to shape armor on selected undead creatures, significantly enhancing the defense of the dead and can shed the armor to remove certain types of control.

Evolutionary Path:

① Wraith Emperor Witch, ② Giant Bone Zombie King, ③ Nine-Armed Poisonous Zombie.

Upon investigation, what first caught Fang Mu's attention was not the new skills the Undead King from the Nether Realm acquired upon advancing to Diamond rank, but his three new Evolutionary Paths.

The Wraith Emperor Witch path indicated that the Undead King from the Nether Realm could possibly awaken one of the five supreme Bloodlines of Dead Creatures.

To become one of the five supreme Bloodlines of the Dead Creatures, the Emperor Witch!

The bloodline nobility of the Emperor Witch among Dead Creatures is like the revered status of the Barrier Sparrow among Bird Beast Species.

The Emperor Witch itself is proficient in attacking enemies with the energy of the Dead Qi.

Once the Undead King from the Nether Realm evolves into a Wraith Emperor Witch, all of his skills and exclusive traits will be greatly enhanced due to the bloodline's blessing.

Chapter 1313: Secret Void Spirit!

Compared to the evolutionary path of the Wraith Emperor Witch, the other two evolutionary paths seemed insignificant.

The paths of the Giant Bone Zombie King and the Nine-Armed Poisonous Zombie weren't even considered by Fang Mu.

From the perspective of bloodline, the Wraith Emperor Witch had become the top-tier existence among all of Fang Mu's dead creatures, but if it really came to preference, Fang Mu still favored the Ritual Cemetery Three Treasures more.

The bloodline advancement of the Ritual Cemetery Three Treasures could easily achieve an effect where one plus one plus one was greater than four, bearing infinite possibilities.

However, this was merely Fang Mu's own preference. Yan Yubanruo clearly favored the Wraith Emperor Witch, who had the potential to ascend to a Witch King.

This preference was evident from how Yan Yubanruo treated the Wraith Emperor Witch.

Among the dead creatures controlled by the Control of Paper Puppets, the Wraith Emperor Witch was the only one who roared upon summoning and wasn't whipped by Yan Yubanruo.

Having investigated the evolutionary path of the Wraith Emperor Witch, Fang Mu then focused on the abilities of the Wraith Emperor Witch.

The Wraith Emperor Witch, upon ascending to the Diamond Rank, acquired a new skill called [Wither Deadland], which allowed the deadlands it created to bear a withering attribute.

This attribute would significantly increase the rate at which the dead Qi eroded living beings, hastening the decay of their flesh.

What was more important was that [Wither Deadland] also had a Forbidden Treatment effect.

There could be interactions between the domain of the Wraith Emperor Witch and the domain of the Corpse Fragrant Teaching Mother, enabling living beings who could receive treatment from Healing Beast Tamers and support from Supportive Beast Controllers to withstand long durations within this domain.

At the Diamond Rank, both Healing and Supportive Beast Tamers possessed powerful inherent skills.

However, the Forbidden Treatment effect of [Wither Deadland] completely severed the possibility of Healing Beast Tamers replenishing life energy and healing injuries for the living.

The domain of the Wraith Emperor Witch was already powerful, and the new skill even enhanced its domain.

A Diamond Rank skill that matched its own capabilities was a significant plus for any Guardian Beast.

In fact, Fang Mu was more curious about the ascensions of the Grey Fog Hermit and the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness.

However, no matter how other Guardian Beasts grew stronger, the Grey Fog Hermit remained the pinnacle of single-target attacks under Yan Yubanruo's command.

And the strength of Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness lay in its control over both Light and Dark Elements.

Especially, the exclusive trait [Sophistry Evil Mouth] enabled the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness to grow stronger in battle, continuously raising its own limits.

Surpassing the limits of its body through successive mutations.

Before Fang Mu could speak, Yan Yubanruo summoned the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness and expressed disdainfully.

“When ascending the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness to the Diamond Rank, I specifically used the Blood Aged Wine, but I was unable to make its bloodline undergo transformation as I wished.”

While speaking, Yan Yubanruo showed a look of regret.

Fang Mu glanced at the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness, which was bizarrely distorting its body composed of black and white, and merely standing there evoked a profoundly contradictory sensation.

A dead creature embodying both Light and Dark attributes internally was truly unbelievable if spoken of.

Previously, Fang Mu had helped Yan Yubanruo strengthen the Worshipper of Light, evolving it into the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness.

That evolution had somewhat depleted the evolutionary potential of the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness, and further ascension of its bloodline would likely be possible only after stepping into a higher sequence!

Because the bloodline hadn’t transformed, the physical changes in the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness ascending to the Diamond Rank weren’t obvious, except that the evil mouth at the back of its head had grown slightly larger.

This mouth faintly sprouted sharp teeth, looking ferociously sinister from behind.

Fang Mu used his Innate Divine Ability, the [Eye of Omniscience], to scrutinize the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness that had ascended to the Diamond Rank.

[Beast Name]: Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness

[Beast Species]: Main Corpse Sect / Corpse Sect

[Beast Level]: Diamond (1/10)

[Beast Element]: Undying

[Beast Potential]: Diamond

[Beast Quality]: Legendary

Skills:

[Prayers of Light]: Absorb the surrounding light and convert this light into its own strength, enhancing itself with the light as much as its body can endure.

[Amulet Light Shock]: Upon hitting the target, burst forth the light-augmented power instantaneously, dealing an excessive blow to the target (the power enhanced by the light element will diminish, but it will not enter a weakened state).

[Blessing of Darkness]: When surrounded by Dark Element Energy, it will protect itself, enhancing its defense. If necessary, it can absorb the pervasive dark elements around to heal its injuries, and its Soul Flame will not extinguish as long as the dark elements persist.

[Dark Flame Devours]: Convert dark elements into flames, scorching the targeted area. As long as the dark elements persist, the scorching of the Dark Flame will not cease, and the energy lost by the target will replenish the energy consumed by itself.

[Light and Dark Brilliance]: When one type of elemental energy within it is enhanced, it will spur an excessive accommodation of the other type, balancing the elements so that even if the energy surpasses its bodily limits, it can still smoothly accommodate it within and utilize this elemental energy in battle.

Exclusive Traits:

[Cruel Nature]: Upon contact with the blood of the living, its ferocity will be greatly aroused, entering a hunting state, enhancing the damage inflicted on the injured and absorbing the life energy of specified injured individuals, transforming it into Dead Qi that it can manipulate.

Chapter 1314: Secret Void Spirit! _2

[Super Sensitive Body]: The joints of the body are extremely responsive, allowing for unexpected postures to be used in combat that effectively strike the target.

[Evasive Wicked Mouth]: Absorbing light and dark dual-element energy through an evil mouth grown at the back of the brain, using this dual-element energy to strengthen oneself, and thus inducing a bizarre mutation. (Each mutation takes place in an unpredictable direction. Until the energy is fully released, it will not attack its own, but cannot control its slaughter of surrounding life.)

Evolutionary Path:

When Fang Mu saw the Diamond Level Skills [Light and Dark Brilliance] of the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness, he hesitated, subconsciously feeling that the Diamond Level Skills [Light and Dark Brilliance] were not powerful.

However, when Fang Mu rethought the other skills and exclusive traits of Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness, he no longer thought so.

The skills [Light's Shock Strike] [Dark Flame Devours] and the exclusive trait [Evasive Wicked Mouth] of the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness would all enhance the surge of light and dark dual-element energy inside it.

Especially [Light's Shock Strike] and [Dark Flame Devours], both could alternately replenish light and dark energy inside the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness.

Under this alternating replenishment, the amount of light and dark energy that the body of Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness could excessively accommodate would greatly increase.

The Diamond Level Skill [Light and Dark Brilliance] could also accelerate the mutation brought by the exclusive trait [Evasive Wicked Mouth] to the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness.

With the transformation by Blood of Abundance, Fang Mu was already able to topple a Sub-Dragon of Diamond Rank with a single punch long ago.

As the Blood of Abundance continuously brewed Fang Mu's blood, the strength enhancement brought to Fang Mu by the Blood red fog from the Blood of Abundance grew stronger and stronger.

Fang Mu stepped forward, shrouding himself in the Blood red fog.

Fang Mu's red hair had already fallen to his waist, and he extended his left hand towards the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness, making a wrist-twisting gesture.

Yan Yubanruo knew that Fang Mu wanted to test the strength of the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness and issued an order to it.

The Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness then placed its hand on Fang Mu's.

Fang Mu nodded at Yan Yubanruo, signaling that the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness could use its skills and exclusive traits to enhance itself.

The Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness was very fearful of Fang Mu, but its fierceness kept increasing during the arm-wrestling process with Fang Mu.

The Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness activated [Prayers of Light], [Blessing of Darkness], and [Evasive Wicked Mouth].

Fang Mu watched as the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness underwent four changes under the mutation triggered by the exclusive trait [Evasive Wicked Mouth].

Fang Mu and the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness were at a stalemate for a full half-hour, and Fang Mu still hadn't used his full strength.

Fang Mu pushed forward forcefully, causing the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness to stagger back, signaling that it could stop.

Despite being in its most ferocious state, the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness still posed ready for more.

Under Yan Yubanruo's cold gaze, the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness quickly entered a docile state.

It obediently crouched in front of Yan Yubanruo, like a loyal dog disliked by its master.

"The master knows although the bloodline of the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness hasn't successfully transformed, its combat capability is still not bad."

"However, even when it has reached the third form, it's still incomparable to the Secret Walker."

"The strength of the Light Worshipper Devouring Darkness indeed greatly increases when it enters the fourth form, but there are very few chances in combat to allow it to reach the fourth form."

When Fang Mu heard Yan Yubanruo mentioning Secret Walker instead of Grey Fog Hermit, he knew that Grey Fog Hermit's bloodline had transformed during the promotion.

As Yan Yubanruo summoned the Secret Walker, Fang Mu felt a very faint grey-white mist appear beside him.

With Fool's Shadow, Fang Mu could sense something by his side, but couldn't discern its form through his eyes.

Previously, Fang Mu had been uncertain about whether to implant the Death Ritual Suit Spore in the Grey Fog Hermit.

This high-explosive assassin-type Dead Creature, the Grey Fog Hermit, had all its abilities focused on offense, possessing exceptionally weak defense capabilities.

The Death Ritual Suit Spore normally formed by the common Death Ritual Suit could enhance the defensive capabilities of the Grey Fog Hermit, but the cost of enhancing the Grey Fog Hermit's defense made it difficult to conceal the scent of the Death Ritual Suit Spore, leaving vulnerabilities during combat.

Now, having advanced to the Diamond Rank, the Secret Walker had undergone a transformation of the bloodline and could now effectively hide the scent associated with the Death Ritual Suit Spore.

Even Guardian Beasts adept at reconnaissance would find it challenging to detect the Secret Walker on the battlefield now.

Fang Mu was curious about what the Secret Walker hidden beneath this mist looked like.

Although Fang Mu could not control these dead creatures as adeptly as Yan Yubanruo, they all obeyed Fang Mu's commands.

The body cloaked in grey-white spores of Death Ritual Suit resembled a large robe draped over the Secret Walker.

This made the Secret Walker seem mysterious, yet somewhat ordinary among other dead creatures.

Fang Mu keenly noticed that besides the aura of the dead, there was also a fluctuation of spatial energy around the body of the Secret Walker!

Could it be that the Grey Fog Hermit awakened a spatial element during its transformation into the Secret Walker?

Only this possibility could explain why there were fluctuations of spatial energy around the Secret Walker.

[Beast Name]: Secret Walker

[Beast Species]: Spirit Class/Killer Spirit

[Beast Level]: Diamond Level (1/10)

[Beast Element]: Undying/Space

[Beast Potential]: Diamond

[Beast Quality]: Legendary

Skills:

[Stealth Stab]: Conceals one's own aura, releasing ferocious energy into the surroundings to hide his form and prepare for a powerful strike. The effect of concealment will be enhanced when other Guardian Beasts release their aura.

[Doom Scythe]: Pulls back the ferocious energy to reveal its trace, slashes with the bone scythe behind him to cause massive damage to the target, and applies a bone effect to the target. If the target is killed in one strike, it can absorb the ferocious energy on the target. If the target is not killed in one strike, the ferocious energy will disperse, and he will immediately enter a hidden state.

[Instant Shadow Slash]: Consumes double the energy inside the body to continuously launch three strikes at the target, each strike being stronger than the last. On the third strike, he can decide the outcome of the Curse Bone Coin's flip.

[Bone Double]: When attacking other targets, if the target is affected by the bone effect and enters a bone state, he can swap places with the unit in the bone state to sustain damage in his place when under intense attack.

[Escaping Void Splitting Slash]: Attacks with extreme speed. After causing damage to the target, he can vanish into the void to prevent counterattacks from the target, and the attack before entering the void has a defense-breaking effect.

Exclusive characteristics:

[Evil Spirit Mark]: By infusing ferocious energy, marks are placed on the living, and after each attack, he can choose a mark for teleportation.

[Barrier Breaking Sense]: Can effectively judge the weak points of the target's defenses during an attack and then prioritize attacking these weak spots.

[Curse Bone Coin]: Each time an attack is made on the opponent, the Curse Bone Coin will flip randomly.

① Heads: Enhances his own charging abilities.

② Tails: Has a chance to apply a bone effect to the target. If the target already has a bone effect, it will expand the bone effect's impact on the target.

Evolutionary Path:

① Secret Void Spirit, ② Bone Wing Evil Spirit, ③ Dream Slicing Evil Spirit.

Chapter 1315: The Mutation of the Blue Curse Orchid!

Upon investigation, Fang Mu discovered that the Secret Walker had indeed become a dual-attribute Guardian Beast of the Undead and Space Series!

For an Undead Guardian Beast, the chance to transform into a Space Series was a fantastic occurrence, especially for a Secret Walker, which fought against enemies like an assassin.

The Space attribute was exceptionally compatible with the Secret Walker's combat style.

With the skill "Escaping Void Splitting Slash," it was evident that the Space attribute had a significant influence on the Secret Walker, who could now skillfully employ the Space attribute to attack enemies.

"Escaping Void Splitting Slash" attacked the target with immense speed, and as long as it could inflict damage, the Secret Walker could vanish into the void.

Once in the void, all enemy attacks were unable to affect the Secret Walker again.

Unless the enemy's attack could tear through the void to strike at the Secret Walker, it could perfectly ensure its safety after a single blow.

"Escaping Void Splitting Slash" could be considered both an offensive ability and a self-protection ability.

"Escaping Void Splitting Slash" made the Secret Walker's attacks capable of breaking defenses, and the defense-breaking effect could work in conjunction with all of the Secret Walker's offensive skills to maximize their impact.

Regardless of how strong the other Guardian Beasts became, with this defense-breaking effect, the Secret Walker remained the undisputed top combatant among the Yan Yubanruo's forces.

In terms of the Evolutionary Path, Fang Mu was certain to guide the Secret Walker towards becoming a Secret Void Spirit, compared to the Bone Wing Evil Spirit and Dream Slicing Evil Spirit.

He wanted the Secret Walker to continue to explore and develop its Space attribute.

After observing the Secret Walker, Fang Mu had a precise understanding of the strengths of all the Dead Creatures under his identity as Yan Luo.

Only when a Beast Master understood their Guardian Beasts could they ensure that in combat, the beasts would exert their strongest capabilities.

After examining his Guardian Beasts, Fang Mu turned his attention back to cultivating the Blue Curse Orchid.

A week passed by swiftly, and while the outside world was tumultuous, Fang Mu's heart remained unusually calm.

Fang Mu had acquired a drop of Covenant Blood Essence and had originally intended to use it to form a contract with the Special-grade Pollutant, Imprint Purple Crystal, that could enable him to create a duplicate of himself.

However, during these seven days of cultivating the Blue Curse Orchid, Fang Mu noticed something: all of the Blue Curse Orchid Seeds were being cultivated in the same environment.

They extended tendrils to absorb nutrients, receiving virtually the same amount of energy.

Under these conditions, all of the Blue Curse Orchid Seeds should have developed synchronously, but that was not the case.

One of the Blue Curse Orchid Seeds had tendrils that were more than three times longer than those of the other seeds.

Not only that, but this tendril was also unusually thick and had markings none of the other tendrils possessed.

Fang Mu feared that a sudden mutation in one seed might affect the cultivation of the others.

He deliberately dug up the Restoration Soil, intending to single out this unusual seed.

Yet as he dug open the soil, Fang Mu was surprised to discover that all the Blue Curse Orchid Seeds beneath were interlaced with delicate blue-purple threads.

Carefully clearing away the soil, he noticed that the seed, initially barely visible to the naked eye, had grown to the size of a peanut.

It was more than ten times the size of the other Blue Curse Orchid Seeds!

Using the Eye of Omniscience for a closer examination, Fang Mu was shocked to find that this enormous Blue Curse Orchid Seed, like a Dominator, had taken control of all the other Blue Curse Orchid Seeds around it!

This form of control was very similar to the contract between Human Beast Tamers and their Guardian Beasts.

A look of surprise appeared on Fang Mu's face.

When Fang Mu first encountered the Blue Curse Orchid in a higher-dimensional world, he was sure there had been only one plant, not like now, with countless smaller saplings surrounding and protecting one.

Having never encountered the Blue Curse Orchid before, Fang Mu could only attempt to make rational speculations based on its changes.

Perhaps in the higher-dimensional world, the seed pod of a Blue Curse Orchid unfolded in a similar manner.

But as these Blue Curse Orchid Seeds continued to grow, the strongest among them might have devoured the energy and the seeds of the others!

Such a situation was probably due to a lack of resources.

The Blue Curse Orchid was not adept at moving and could only expose a small part of itself above the ground to attract herbivorous creatures.

When these herbivores mistook them for food and tried to eat them, the Blue Curse Orchid would burst from the ground to attack its target.

The roles of hunter and hunted were reversed.

Whether the Blue Curse Orchid could catch prey was left to fate, and this method of lying in wait meant that it could go a long time without reaping any rewards.

In this context, it made sense for the strongest seed within the seed pod to nourish itself by consuming the other seeds!

If it was as Fang Mu had speculated, once the resources started running low in the future, the strongest Blue Curse Orchid Seed would begin absorbing the others.

Fang Mu had three ways to preserve these seeds.

The first was to forcibly separate the entwined Blue Curse Orchid Seeds and cultivate them in different containers.

But given the sheer number of Blue Curse Orchid Seeds, and considering they were already interconnected, forcibly separating them would be a massive undertaking.

Chapter 1316: The Mutation of the Blue Curse Orchid! _2

However, since Fang Mu did not sufficiently understand the Blue Curse Orchid, taking this approach might greatly impact the growth of the Blue Curse Orchid itself.

The second method was for Fang Mu to provide an excessive amount of Thunder Energy and Pure Spirit Qi for the Blue Curse Orchid to absorb.

However, doing this required someone to keep an eye on the incubator around the clock, constantly replenishing resources.

As a plant, the Blue Curse Orchid grew fastest during its sprouting phase, so the rate of resource supply had to be adjusted timely.

Even Fang Mu himself could not guarantee that there would be no mistakes.

If there was any negligence, some Blue Curse Orchid seeds would be absorbed.

The third method was for Fang Mu to use his newly condensed Covenant Blood Essence to form a Bond with the Blue Curse Orchid.

Before cultivating the Blue Curse Orchid, upon discovering that there were many Blue Curse Orchid seeds, Fang Mu had never considered bonding with it.

But now that the largest Blue Curse Orchid seed had bonded with the other seeds, by bonding with this Blue Curse Orchid, Fang Mu would have control over the entire cluster of Blue Curse.

Through the Bond, Fang Mu could command this Blue Curse Orchid to obediently follow his arrangements.

Even in stages of energy deficiency, it would not need to absorb from other Blue Curse Orchid seeds.

After some deliberation, it was clear that bonding with the Blue Curse Orchid was the best approach now.

As a creature from a High Dimension World, the Life Level of the Blue Curse Orchid should be higher than most creatures from Fang Mu's world!

In addition to making the Blue Curse Orchid his Guardian Beast through the Bond, it would also allow the Life Level of the Blue Curse Orchid to leap.

For a plant, having its Life Level leap right after sprouting was a rare occurrence.

Perhaps after the Life Level leap, the Blue Curse Orchid could bring new surprises to Fang Mu!

After completely clearing all the Restoration Soil, Fang Mu took out his drop of Covenant Blood Essence and carefully dripped it onto the largest seed of the Blue Curse Orchid.

The seed of the Blue Curse Orchid greedily sucked up the Covenant Blood Essence that Fang Mu had dropped like it was a precious treasure.

Fang Mu keenly noticed that the connection between himself and the Blue Curse Orchid was deepening.

The deeper Fang Mu's connection with the Blue Curse Orchid became, the more surprised his expression grew.

Fang Mu had originally thought that, even if a plant-like creature like the Blue Curse Orchid came from a higher Dimensional World, its Spiritual Intelligence would still be extremely low.

However, the current situation revealed to Fang Mu that the Spiritual Intelligence of the Blue Curse Orchid was far higher than he had anticipated!

Comparing to humans, the Spiritual Intelligence of the newly hatched Blue Curse Orchid was already on par with a 15- or 16-year-old teenager.

Due to the closeness in their Bloodline, the Blue Curse Orchid actively called out to Fang Mu.

“Dad, please give me a name!”

Fang Mu was startled by the Blue Curse Orchid’s address—it clearly showed that the Blue Curse Orchid did not regard him as a master, but as a dear one!

Fang Mu could sense the anticipation in the Blue Curse Orchid’s emotions.

For the Blue Curse Orchid species, receiving a name was a very important event.

And the names of Blue Curse Orchids were often given by their dearest ones.

Seeing how the threads extended by the Blue Curse Orchids intertwined like ribbons on a gift, Fang Mu couldn’t help but say,

“Since you’re asking me to name you, why don’t you go by ‘Orchid Gift’?”

“‘Orchid Gift’ should be a nice name!”

The Blue Curse Orchid took note of the name Fang Mu had given it very seriously and softly spoke,

“Dad, I really like the name you’ve given me!”

Given that the Spiritual Intelligence of the Blue Curse Orchid was so high, Fang Mu often didn’t need to make decisions on his own in its cultivation—instead, he could ask for the Blue Curse Orchid’s own opinion.

Although Fang Mu had already named the Blue Curse Orchid, it had not yet finished absorbing the Covenant Blood Essence.

In the situation where the Blue Curse Orchid regarded Fang Mu as a loved one, the bond between Fang Mu and the Blue Curse Orchid was still being strengthened!

The intertwining blue threads of the Blue Curse Orchid were quickly weaving and wrapping around each other.

Just as Fang Mu thought that the Blue Curse Orchid was about to finish absorbing the Covenant Blood Essence, the markings on the extended tentacles suddenly lit up.

The extended markings even had a tendency to gradually dye the entire tentacle golden!

However, no matter how the markings were applied, the color of the tentacles did not change.

Lan Li urgently said to Fang Mu,

“Papa, from the moment I broke out of the seed pod, it has been you who has been providing me with energy.”

“Now is when I need energy the most, I wonder if Papa could provide me with some more energy to help me advance further!”

Fang Mu had just told the Blue Curse Orchid not to absorb other seeds, as Fang Mu wanted to try cultivating the other seeds.

Aside from absorbing other seeds, the Blue Curse Orchid had no other source of energy.

Clearly, the Blue Curse Orchid did not want to give up this opportunity and decisively sought help from Fang Mu.

Upon hearing this, Fang Mu's face showed a look of delight.

Fang Mu didn't fear wasting resources, what he feared was that his Guardian Beast wouldn't be able to take the crucial step at a critical moment.

The Blue Curse Orchid was currently in a critical period for taking this important step.

Fang Mu immediately took out the stored Thunder Energy and Spiritual Elixir he had accumulated, preparing to pour them into the Blue Curse Orchid.

Lan Li hurriedly said,

"Papa, what I need is that drop of blood from just now, that drop of blood is helping my bloodline undergo transformation."

It took time for Fang Mu to condense the Covenant Blood Essence, and he had no surplus Covenant Blood Essence at hand to use.

Even if Fang Mu wanted to provide Covenant Blood Essence to Lan Li, he had no opportunity.

However, Fang Mu had a large quantity of Blood Aged Wine, though.

Because the production speed of his Heartblood was slow, and because Fang Mu's usage of the Blood Aged Wine had always not been too high,

Fang Mu had about ten liters of Blood Aged Wine in reserve.

Fang Mu took out a Crystal Bottle containing one liter of Blood Aged Wine and let Lan Li use the Blood Aged Wine through its tentacles on its own.

This would effectively ensure that the Blood Aged Wine was not wasted.

Lan Li did not stand on ceremony with Fang Mu, as Lan Li was in a transformation state at the moment, determined to break through the constraints of its bloodline.

The higher the life level of the beings, the stronger the desire for Bloodline Transformation, and soon the one bottle of Blood Aged Wine was consumed by Lan Li.

Fang Mu continued to supply Blood Aged Wine, and after drinking three and a half bottles, which is three-point-five liters of Blood Aged Wine, Lan Li's blue-purple tentacles turned completely golden, entwined with dark purple thunder sparks.

The dark purple thunder sparks made the completely golden tentacles even less conspicuous than before as if the dark purple thunder sparks could hide the existence of the tentacles!

The change in the color of the tentacles marked Lan Li's transformation in bloodline level.

It was just a pity that only Lan Li had undergone changes, while the other Blue Curse Orchid Seeds still maintained their original form.

With its bloodline transformed, Lan Li expressed gratitude to Fang Mu. Fang Mu could feel a profound admiration emanating from Lan Li, an emotion far more precious than the typical bond of a contract.

"Lan Li, your bloodline has now completed its transformation; moving forward, I will arrange for people to look after you, continuously providing you with resources to aid your growth!"

Lan Li hurriedly said,

"Papa, with those creatures that can produce Thunder Energy, you just need to provide me with Spiritual Energy."

“You can place those larvae on those stems, and I will create a paradise suited for their survival using the stems!”

“However, doing so, the cultivation area you’ve prepared for me now is a bit small—I need a larger cultivation area to be able to operate freely, and very thick soil to conceal my body!”

Chapter 1317: The House of the Orchid Curse!

Lan Li directly stated his needs to Fang Mu.

For Lan Li, a Contractor who gave Fang Mu a sense of warmth and comfort, it was preferable to straightforwardly express his needs rather than having Fang Mu guess what Lan Li might require.

Previously, Fang Mu had deliberately used a culture dish to cultivate these Blue Curse Orchid seeds out of fear that the tiny seeds might accidentally fly elsewhere.

He was equally concerned that the Blue Curse Orchids could affect his living environment.

Now that everything was under Lan Li’s control, Fang Mu found it unnecessary to impose any growth restrictions on Lan Li.

When constructing the Mountain Manor, several cultivation chambers were specifically built at the top of the estate.

Many of these cultivation chambers had not been put to use to this day.

Fang Mu planned to activate one of the cultivation chambers and cultivate Lan Li inside it, providing ample space for Lan Li to grow and move freely.

Reflecting on this, Fang Mu notified Lan Li and took him into his Destiny Guidebook, then immediately instructed Liu Er to prepare the materials for him.

Fang Mu was about to begin the transformation of the cultivation chamber; Keystone Construction had arranged for a Grandmaster Craftsman to settle in JA City long-term to better serve Fang Mu.

For any infrastructure needs that Fang Mu had, he could directly contact the Grandmaster Craftsman from Keystone Construction to handle them.

Soon, the Grandmaster Craftsman from Keystone Construction arrived at the Mountain Manor.

Lu Jifeng had not dealt with Fang Mu for the first time, and he had been treated well by Fang Mu in previous communications.

However, Lu Jifeng didn't presume that Fang Mu's courtesies were to be taken for granted; it merely reflected the young man's excellent cultivation.

Lu Jifeng was exceptionally polite to Fang Mu.

Before, Keystone Construction had thought Fang Mu was merely a disciple of a Grandmaster Creator, but now it had been confirmed that Fang Mu was in fact a disciple of a Saint Creator!

It wasn't an overstatement to say that Keystone Construction was incredibly lucky to have formed such a favorable relationship with Fang Mu.

Originally, Lu Jifeng addressed Fang Mu as Sir Jianmu, but now, upon calling him again, he switched to addressing him as Lord.

"Lord Jianmu, long time no see. Is your Mountain Manor in need of renovation?"

"If you have any ideas, feel free to tell me. Recently, our Keystone Construction has collected some precious spiritual materials suitable for decoration, which might be used if you wish to remodel the manor."

“In addition, we at Keystone Construction have cultivated an extra two hundred gnomes, among which one hundred are specially prepared for you!”

“These one hundred gnomes will only be used when they work for you, ensuring they have plenty of energy for those large-scale projects.”

Lu Jifeng’s words were filled with flattering intentions, but he managed them with great tact.

The Jianmu Commerce Association had only been established for less than a year and was already qualified to become one of the top ten commerce associations of the Dragon Rising Federation.

The Jianmu Commerce Association had a vast amount of supplies, and if Lu Jifeng offered to provide all the spiritual materials for the renovation, it would come off as insincere.

When it came down to it, the materials provided by Keystone Construction for Fang Mu would certainly be inferior to those prepared by Fang Mu himself.

Yet, what Lu Jifeng mentioned was precious spiritual materials suitable for decoration; as a force with craftsmanship as its main function, Keystone Construction would deliberately accumulate such materials.

The Jianmu Commerce Association would not go out of its way to focus on such spiritual materials, making Lu Jifeng’s offer seem thoughtful.

As for the one hundred gnomes reserved for use by Fang Mu, this was not just an empty promise from Lu Jifeng; it was a precaution taken by Keystone Construction in case they couldn’t handle the large-scale projects from Fang Mu’s end.

Gnomes play a vital role in large-scale engineering projects, and insufficient gnome labor could impact the progress of the work.

Keystone Construction kept pulling in Origin Construction for cooperation with Fang Mu's projects not only due to good relations with Origin Construction but also because Keystone Construction's resources were insufficient to take on all the work.

During this period, through the cooperation with Fang Mu, Keystone Construction not only gained reputation but also a considerable amount of wealth.

The resources accumulated by Keystone Construction over time had been invested in developing the functionalities of the force.

Hearing this, Fang Mu shook his head with a smile.

"Mr. Lu, after all, I am just a junior. My master is my master, and I definitely cannot compare to a Creator!"

"It is really inappropriate for you to call me Lord Jianmu."

"Brother Lv and I have known each other for a long time, and there is no need for you to refer to me as Sir Jianmu, just calling me Little Wood will do!"

"Keystone Construction specifically reserved one hundred gnomes for us, please allow us to accept this favor."

"If we have any projects that require Keystone Construction's assistance, we will notify you in advance."

"It would be a continuous loss to keep these one hundred gnomes idle, and you may as well deploy them to other projects."

"It seems that Keystone Construction has been doing quite well recently."

"As far as I know, many forces, including the Cyan Stone Business Association, are looking to form partnerships with Keystone Construction."

Living to such an age, Lu Jifeng was very seasoned in human relations and understood clearly that Fang Mu asking to be called Little Wood was a sign of closeness.

Chapter 1318: The House of the Orchid Curse!_2

Fang Mu and Lu Yuyu had a good relationship, something everyone at Keystone Construction was aware of.

Otherwise, the Jianmu Contemplation project would never have landed in Keystone Construction's lap.

Lu Jifeng enjoyed using such a friendly title to address Fang Mu, one that obviously bridged the distance between them.

In fact, Keystone Construction had specifically prepared these one hundred gnomes for Fang Mu, to ensure Fang Mu would owe Keystone Construction a favor.

Now, with Fang Mu having accepted the favor from Keystone Construction, the use of these one hundred gnomes was undoubtedly beneficial for Keystone Construction!

"Little Wood asked me to call you this way, and I feel somewhat presumptuous all the time."

"Our current development at Keystone Construction can be said to rely entirely on your cultivation, without your nurturing of Keystone Construction, how could we have reached our current level!?"

"The powers that come to cooperate with Keystone Construction are all because of the face given by the Jianmu Commerce Association, particularly the Cyan Stone Business Association."

The Cyan Stone Business Association and the Jianmu Commerce Association had forged a cooperative relationship long ago, and the former had always intentionally communicated this relationship to the outside world.

Now, forging a relationship with the Jianmu Commerce Association within the Dragon Rising Federation was a matter of great honor.

It wasn't just the Cyan Stone Business Association; overwhelmingly, most powers did not qualify to build a relationship with the Jianmu Commerce Association.

Keystone Construction, after establishing a relationship with the Jianmu Commerce Association, also intended to broadcast this fact, albeit not as blatantly as the Cyan Stone Business Association.

Lu Jifeng said this with clear intention; he wanted to show Fang Mu that the Cyan Stone Business Association would always remember their place and the kindness shown to them.

They wouldn't forget the efforts of the Jianmu Commerce Association when they became more successful.

Fang Mu's expression did not change upon hearing this.

Indeed, Lu Jifeng understood some things very clearly, but he failed to grasp the scale of Fang Mu's ambitions.

Fang Mu really didn't care about what Keystone Construction thought of him.

Fang Mu hadn't focused his attention on the social niceties with Keystone Construction; Fang Yuan had always been in charge of their cooperation.

At this moment, Fang Yuan likely wouldn't pay attention to the dealings with other powers either.

If there came a day when Keystone Construction truly forgot their roots, taking advantage of the Jianmu Commerce Association or causing trouble outside under the guise of the Jianmu Commerce Association's power,

Fang Yuan would sever the ties between them and Keystone Construction!

Fang Mu had now set his mind on conquering higher dimension worlds.

The conquest of higher dimension worlds was the most important task for Fang Mu going forward!

Lu Jifeng didn't engage in much small talk with Fang Mu, as there were no personal ties between them.

Since all Fang Mu needed was a cultivation room, Lu Jifeng could help Fang Mu construct that cultivation room himself.

Lu Jifeng spoke up.

"Little Wood, if you just want to build a cultivation room, why don't you take me to that room to see first."

"Tell me what exactly you have in mind for this cultivation room, and I will do my utmost to construct it to your utmost satisfaction!"

In the midst of speaking, Lu Jifeng felt somewhat nervous. He didn't believe Fang Mu was a Creator.

In Lu Jifeng's mind, Fang Mu was merely an assistant to a Creator.

Given Fang Mu's young age, even if a cultivation room was needed, it likely wouldn't have any special requirements.

Fang Mu's insistence on building a cultivation room was probably meant to hand it over to Saint Creator Qixing for use.

If he somehow didn't arrange it well and incurred Qixing's dissatisfaction, that would be a serious fault!

Fang Mu personally led Lu Jifeng to the cultivation room on the top floor.

“Mr. Lu, please help me redesign this cultivation room. I want to remove all the workbenches inside and lay Restoration Soil throughout the room.”

“Knock down the floor between the two rooms and ensure that the Restoration Soil is at least five meters deep,” Fang Mu instructed.

“Then, cover the surface of the Restoration Soil with a thick layer of Purple Magnet Crystals, about two centimeters above the soil surface!”

“I will supply the Restoration Soil and Purple Magnet Crystals needed,” Fang Mu continued, “I expect you to complete the modifications to this cultivation chamber as soon as possible.”

“You can make the design decisions yourself.”

Fang Mu’s purpose in remodeling this cultivation chamber was to create a suitable environment for the Blue Curse Orchid.

The reason Fang Mu had not moved the Blue Curse Orchid to the Abdominal Space of the Mysterious Bug Cocoon was due to an insufficiency in the concentration of Spiritual Energy there.

In its early stage of growth, the Blue Curse Orchid absorbed pure Spiritual Energy, which could greatly promote Bloodline Transformation.

Fang Mu was willing to provide the best possible environment for the growth of the Blue Curse Orchid.

Fang Mu would wait until the Blue Curse Orchid reached maturity before relocating it to the Abdomen Environment, so it would remain in this cultivation chamber for a long period.

As long as the cultivation chamber was comfortable and aesthetically pleasing, an opinionated person like Fang Mu would surely share his own thoughts with Lu Jifeng instead of allowing him to design at will!

While listening to Fang Mu's specifications, Lu Jifeng's face revealed a stunned expression.

As a Grandmaster Craftsman, Lu Jifeng had constructed who-knows-how-many cultivation chambers and had roughly estimated the area of this one upon entering.

The room was around one thousand two hundred square meters, not particularly large among Creator's cultivation chambers, but a fairly medium size.

Fang Mu's request to modify such a cultivation chamber was not enough to surprise Lu Jifeng; what truly amazed him was Fang Mu's desire to cover the chamber with five meters of Restoration Soil and to lay Purple Magnet Crystals on top.

Restoration Soil was an exceedingly rare kind of soil, and ordinary plant-type beastmasters simply didn't qualify to cultivate on it.

The Restoration Soil alone would cost nearly a hundred million Dragon Rising Coins.

Purple Magnet Crystals, valuable electrically charged minerals, mainly came from Subterranean Dimensional Rifts and were only found in crystalline clusters within Terror Level rifts.

Even Keystone Construction could not afford such an abundance of Purple Magnet Crystals by selling off all their assets.

Fang Mu made only two requests, yet the cost to build this cultivation chamber soared to over ten billion Dragon Rising Coins.

Lu Jifeng understood that what Fang Mu needed was a functional cultivation chamber, and for such a chamber, the design merely needed to be proper.

"Little Wood, when exactly I can finish the work depends on when you can deliver these Restoration Soils and Purple Magnet Crystals into my hands."

“If you can give them to me by noon tomorrow, I’ll bring three Gnomes over, and we can finish the work by 10 p.m.!”

Fang Mu was very satisfied with Lu Jifeng’s efficiency, having acquired the Purple Magnet Crystals through trade with the Han Yang Empire.

It encompassed thousands of years of the Empire’s accumulation.

Without the current channels of the Jianmu Commerce Association, it would have been impossible to acquire such a large quantity of Purple Magnet Crystals for Fang Mu.

With ample resources, Fang Mu proceeded more generously.

After all, the Purple Magnet Crystals being used for paving would not be consumed; with these crystals, the Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds would not be affected by their own waste.

Purple Electricity Crystal Gourds were especially averse to their excrement, and if they were in an environment covered with their waste, they would refuse to eat, affecting the production of Thunder Energy.

“Lu Lao, I can give you the Purple Magnet Crystals right now, and the Jianmu Commerce Association will have the Restoration Soil ready for you tonight!”

Lu Jifeng considered for a moment before biting the bullet and saying,

“I’ll go back now and bring those Gnomes over. If the resources can be assembled today, I can complete the cultivation chamber by 8 a.m. tomorrow!”

“In addition to the three Gnomes, I will also bring ten craftsmen. The task of laying the Restoration Soil and the Purple Magnet Crystals will be better handled by these craftsmen rather than by the Gnomes!”

After finalizing the details with Lu Jifeng for the cultivation chamber's layout, Fang Mu proceeded to the cultivation chamber where Hu Tao and Jiang Tuo were.

Hu Tao and Jiang Tuo were currently logging into the second world through their Dream Beasts and did not notice Fang Mu's arrival.

Seeing this, Fang Mu didn't interrupt them and similarly summoned his own Dream Beast, joining them in the second world.

Chapter 1319: Yan Luo's Live Stream!

Fang Mu was not visiting the Second World for the first time, but his mood this time was completely different from the last.

Previously, Fang Mu's visit to the Second World was with the intent to purchase land and shops to ensure the future development of his own power there.

At that time, Fang Mu was extremely purpose-driven, unlike the more carefree approach he had now.

It had been just about ten days since Fang Mu had last logged into the Second World, and he discovered that the situation there had improved significantly from before.

The previously vacant lands and shops were now mostly under construction.

Some were even being managed by people.

In the Second World, there was no need to worry about the sudden opening of the Dimensional Rift. Opening shops in the Second World only required considering management issues, with no need to worry about safety.

This allowed the merchants of the Second World to focus thoroughly on the operation of their shops and on customer service.

As a result, people's enjoyment in the Second World was even more pleasant than in the original world.

Located in the Dragon Rising Federation, Fang Mu used a Dream Beast to enter the Second World, finding himself in a major city representing the Federation.

Looking around, he saw the shops and land parcels, most of which were purchased by large forces of the Dragon Rising Federation.

Fang Yuan had also purchased some shops and lands initially, but in hindsight, buying shops and lands here seemed somewhat shortsighted.

Those forces with real foresight had gone to the four Mega Cities and the Sacred City to make their purchases.

Although the price of land and shops was high in the four Mega Cities and the Sacred City, it was not beyond affordable rates.

In the future, the Second World would undoubtedly become the hottest economic development direction for all major forces.

Objectively speaking, the enjoyment people found in the Second World was no less than that in the external world.

In the external world, one couldn't endlessly indulge in gourmet food, not to mention whether it was possible to eat so much, as eating too much could affect safety and health.

Yet in the Second World, as long as one could afford the cost, one could endlessly enjoy gourmet food.

However, it was not possible to construct Contemplation Halls in the Second World, as Dream Beasts could not simulate and manifest the imageries exhibited by other Guardian Beasts through their own attributes.

Even if it was forcibly simulated, it would not only consume the Dream Beast excessively, but it would also lose its essence.

Otherwise, once the contemplation industry developed in the Second World, it would definitely cause a huge impact on the real-world contemplation industry!

Fang Mu comfortably observed the development of the Dragon Rising Federation in a major city of the Second World.

Fang Mu noticed that many non-Dragon Rising Federation local residents had teleported to this major city, sampling various delicacies of the Dragon Rising Federation in various shops.

Fang Mu couldn't help but sigh. The Second World truly promoted the integration between different federations and continents!

Otherwise, there wouldn't have been such opportunities for mutual exchange between different federations and continents.

Only the truly strong would have the chance to witness the customs and traditions of different places around the world.

Fang Mu arrived at the service center of this major city and was directly teleported to a Mega City representing the East Competition District.

The Mega City representing the East Competition District was much more bustling and lively than a city representing just one Federation.

There were no original inhabitants in this Mega City. No one would directly arrive in this city through a Dream Beast.

Currently, the bustling crowds in the city were clearly all teleported like Fang Mu.

Fang Mu had intended to go to the Duel Area, but on his way, he discovered a merchant association that had already begun operations.

The sign indicated that it was the Juyun Merchant Association, and beneath the sign, there was an imprint of the Federation, allowing Fang Mu to clearly see that it was a merchant power of the Yuze Federation.

Given that over seventy percent of Yuze Federation's terrain consisted of constantly rain-fed swamps, the Juyun Merchant Association surely had a rich production of Spiritual Materials that thrived in swamp environments.

Curious about how merchant associations operated in the Second World, Fang Mu entered the Juyun Merchant Association's store.

This store of the Juyun Merchant Association bore similarities with the Dinghai Mall Fang Mu had previously visited.

However, the scale of this store was much larger than that of the Dinghai Mall.

As soon as Fang Mu entered, he received a warm reception.

The scale of the Yuze Federation in the Second World was much smaller than that of the Dragon Rising Federation. If the Dragon Rising Federation could rank in the top five by size, the Yuze Federation would be outside the top twenty.

Given that the Juyun Merchant Association had the capability to purchase a store and operate a merchant association in the Mega City representing the East Competition District, it must be a powerful force within Yuze Federation's homeland!

This allowed the Juyun Merchant Association to not display such enthusiasm and thoroughness with ordinary customers within the Yuze Federation.

The reason for the improved service quality in the Second World was because the staff of the Juyun Merchant Association had already discerned the essential conditions needed for development in the Second World.

It was not just the Juyun Merchant Association, other forces developing in the Mega City also provided similarly exceptional service.

Besides the service, the Juyun Merchant Association also thoughtfully introduced a stored-value card.

Just by adding funds to the card, depending on the amount stored, one could enjoy corresponding discounts on purchases of supplies.

These features, which were trivial in Fang Mu's previous life, could now be considered innovative in the operation and development of merchant associations in the Beastmaster world.

Chapter 1320: Yan Luo's Live Stream!_2

The major merchant associations of the Dragon Rising Federation did not handle public-facing storage services, and the Juyun Merchant Association had indeed devoted much thought to this.

This model allowed the Juyun Merchant Association to take a leading position in a short period of time.

However, it was not long before the tricks of the Juyun Merchant Association were learned by other associations, and the Juyun Merchant Association subsequently lost its developmental advantage.

Initially, the major associations would definitely use various tricks to compete, but as time went by and all tricks were exhausted, what it ultimately came down to was the reserve of resources.

An employee from the Juyun Merchant Association responsible for receiving Fang Mu continuously recommended the association's VIP card to him.

Fang Mu took this opportunity to seriously learn about the VIP card services launched by the Juyun Merchant Association.

From Fang Mu's perspective, the VIP card services launched by the Juyun Merchant Association were very immature and, for those unfamiliar with the Juyun Merchant Association, such a large deposit was simply unrealistic.

Moreover, from the perspective of prices, in order for its VIP card service not to run at a loss, the Juyun Merchant Association had deliberately increased the prices of basic spiritual materials.

Only when a deposit in the Juyun Merchant Association reached two hundred thousand World Coins to enjoy a ten percent discount, would the prices of these spiritual materials be comparable to market prices.

After understanding this, Fang Mu decisively refused the warm recommendation of the sales guide.

Fang Mu acknowledged that the Juyun Merchant Association had some cleverness, but this cleverness was merely petty.

The VIP card model was indeed very advantageous for major buyers, but essentially every buyer was very demanding in terms of cost-effectiveness when selecting spiritual materials.

The price increase of supplies by the Juyun Merchant Association would bring a poor impression to a large number of basic users.

When Fang Mu was developing the Peach Beguile cosmetics brand, he had transplanted the relevant modes of cosmetics sales from his previous life to the Beastmaster world, achieving great success!

Now, Fang Mu prepared to bring over the VIP sales tactics from major brands of his previous life for the Jianmu Commerce Association to implement.

With the help of Peach Beguile, the Jianmu Commerce Association would definitely be able to make a name for itself in the Second World in a very short time, allowing Peach Beguile to conveniently stock supplies for Fang Mu.

Currently, Fang Yuan was still practically managing the development of the Jianmu Commerce Association.

Fang Mu shared his plans with Fang Yuan, who was responsible for implementing them.

Fang Mu believed Fang Yuan would certainly implement his plans perfectly!

From a business perspective, Fang Mu had always felt that Fang Yuan's management skills were stronger than his own.

Since the Second World started livestreaming, the streaming industry suddenly reached its peak.

In the Second World, streaming was profitable, as the audience could directly reward the streamers with Federal Coins.

Those powerful Beast Masters from various forces streamed not for the rewards, but because streaming could bring them a great deal of popularity.

Hu Tao was not suited for solo battles, and during the ranking matches, she encountered two strong opponents and, after a prolonged fierce battle, eventually lost the duel.

It could be said that Hu Tao's losing two matches out of ten was directly related to luck.

The two opponents Hu Tao encountered both had extremely strong mental defense capabilities, actually blocking Hu Tao's mental counterattack with the Backtracking Bell Sparrow.

However, Hu Tao made swift progress in the dozen matches after the ranking matches, advancing into the Silver Ranking.

Since reaching Silver III, Hu Tao's matches began to end in both wins and losses.

Hu Tao was well aware that her Beast Master positioning was not suitable for streaming, so she started managing a streaming channel for Jiang Tuo.

[Cold Face Ghost King] had already garnered significant fame in the under-twenty age group within just a few days.

Every time Hu Tao managed Jiang Tuo's streaming room, it attracted over ten million viewers.

It is important to note that in the Second World, only Beast Masters of the same age group would be interested in streams of that age group.

Fang Mu was still unaware of the achievements Hu Tao and Jiang Tuo had made in the Second World. Before a duel, Fang Mu pondered for a moment and set his ID name to Yan Luo.

Fang Mu planned to compete in the Second World as Yan Luo, fully aware of the importance of making a name in the Second World.

Even though Fang Mu had such a personality, he still started live streaming.

Live streaming in the second world was much easier than on the Battle Network; he only needed to complete authentication.

Fang Mu easily opened his own streaming channel.

Although the second world had a large audience, the number of streaming channels was also incredibly huge.

Fang Mu's ranking match had already gone through five battles, but there weren't many viewers in Fang Mu's streaming room.

Instead, Fang Mu's five opponents doubted their life choices as they were almost unable to counter before being slain by Fang Mu's Ghost System Guardian Beast.

Because contracting a Ghost System Guardian Beast often requires the use of Dead Qi energy to cleanse one's body, eliminating Dead Qi.

The stronger the Ghost System Guardian Beast, the higher the purity of Life Energy required.

In the entire Beastmaster world, there were not many Beast Masters who battled using Ghost System Guardian Beasts.

Every Ghost System Guardian Beast looked incredibly horrifying and unique, which made battles involving them extremely thrilling to watch.

Even though very few viewers entered Fang Mu's streaming room, it was like a spider's web—once someone entered, it was nearly impossible to leave.

Fang Mu continued to battle for five matches before he remembered he was live streaming and hurriedly checked the comments in his stream.

[Forehead and Southern Dynasty]: Damn, the streamer's few Undead Species Guardian Beasts look really cool! The ID is also imposing! But isn't the cost of contracting Undead Species Guardian Beasts a bit too high? A few of my classmates who contracted them now regret it.

[Self-proclaimed Mediocre]: The streamer probably hasn't contracted just this one Guardian Beast, right? I suggest you summon a few more for us to see something fresh; then I'd be more inclined to tip you! Summon another Undead Species Guardian Beast and I'll instantly tip you ten World Coins!

[Curtain Bamboo Virtual Shadow]: This battle looks so smooth. It's clear the streamer hasn't been slacking in battles; I have a feeling the streamer could become popular, so I'm joining the fan club as a show of respect!

Everyone applying to become a streamer in the second world gets help from the officials to form a fan club.

Viewers who like the streamer can join their fan club, and it only costs 0.1 World Coins to become an official member.

The streamer's star level is assessed by the number of fans in the fan club.

To prevent Battle Network streamers from inflating their star levels, each viewer can join up to five fan clubs.

If they want to join another fan club, they need to leave one they previously joined.

Due to the low number of viewers in the streaming room, there weren't many comments in Fang Mu's stream.

Although Fang Mu hadn't eaten pork, he had seen pigs run; he roughly knew the pattern of interacting with fans during live streams.

Fang Mu didn't care whether the people commenting were still in his stream or not, he responded to each comment.

"The cost of contracting Undead Species Guardian Beasts is reasonable; I can accept it."

"My current opponents are too weak. When I encounter stronger opponents, I will summon more Guardian Beasts."

"As for tipping, no need to go to the expense!"

"Thanks for joining my fan club; if I have a chance, I will hold a raffle in the fan club."

Compared to other streamers, Fang Mu's responses could be described as perfunctory.

Especially since Fang Mu had only thought to reply to his few fans after continuing the battles through five matches.

However, to Fang Mu, every word he said was genuinely heartfelt.

The mere two members currently in Fang Mu's fan club still didn't know what he meant by mentioning a raffle on the spur of the moment.

Seeing Fang Mu reply to the stream comments, the few viewers who hadn't spoken yet started interacting.

[Foggy Spring Morning]: At first, I thought the streamer was cool and aloof, but now, why does he seem a bit dorky cute? Is this the legendary contrast!?
