

Crazy! Are You Really A Beast Tamer?

#Chapter 21 - 21: 21: The Evolution of Red Jade Mountain Tea!_1 - Read Crazy! Are You Really A Beast Tamer? Chapter 21 - 21: 21: The Evolution of Red Jade Mountain Tea!_1

Chapter 21 - 21: 21: The Evolution of Red Jade Mountain Tea!_1

As a bronze-ranked Guardian Beast, the intelligence of the Aromatherapy Rabbit was at least higher than that of the Border Collie that Fang Mu had raised in his previous life.

Plus, being raised by humans since it was little, the Aromatherapy Rabbit could understand the simple instructions of humans.

Fang Mu brought a Camellia flower the size of half a bowl's mouth to the Aromatherapy Rabbit's mouth and whispered softly.

"Rouge, they never understood what you wanted to eat, you must be starving!"

"Once you eat this camellia flower, your digestive tract will soon recover."

"When your stomach is better, I'll help give you a bath!"

Naming a Guardian Beast with a lower intelligence is the best way to form bonds with it, besides forming a contract.

The Aromatherapy Rabbit faintly understood what Fang Mu was trying to say.

Adding to the fact that Fang Mu just fed it some water and then kindly offered it food that was clearly beneficial, the Aromatherapy Rabbit gradually let down its guard against Fang Mu and began gnawing at the Red Jade Camellia with its small, triple-petaled mouth.

As a variant of the Flower Eating Rabbit species, the speed at which the Aromatherapy Rabbit ate was inherently slow.

Even with its damaged stomach, it could be estimated that finishing the Red Jade Camellia would still take at least an hour.

Fang Mu prepared to let the Aromatherapy Rabbit eat while he gathered Heartblood with the Needle Mosquitoes.

Fang Mu immediately summoned his Destiny Guardian, the Blood of Abundance.

An eerie blood-colored ancient well appeared in front of Fang Mu.

The ancient well was still squirming, brewing Blood Aged Wine.

Fang Mu keenly sensed that the aura of the Blood of Abundance had increased slightly from the last time he summoned it.

However, this increase was infinitesimal.

The way a Destiny Guardian beast levels up and the resources it needs are different from regular Guardian Beasts.

Apart from needing to use spiritual power to increase the maximum ranking of the Destiny Guardian beast, Beast Masters also have to find ways to promote their Destiny Guardian beast's ranking.

The only difference between the current Blood of Abundance and the last time was the addition of 1800 milliliters of Fang Mu's blood.

Could it be that the increase in the Blood of Abundance's strength is related to the digestion of the blood he provided and the brewing of Blood Aged Wine!?

With that thought, Fang Mu didn't know what to say for a moment.

While other people's Guardian Beasts needed money to improve, his needed blood.

Fang Mu really didn't know if this was his luck or his misfortune.

Fang Mu's blood was poured directly into the well.

Now, there was some dark red blood accumulating in the stone trough on the well wall.

This dark red blood gave off a faint golden hue and didn't look horrifying at all.

On the contrary, it carried a mysterious and grand ambiance.

It was like a key that could open the door to evolution.

Fang Mu knew that the dark red blood laced with gold in this stone trough was the Blood Aged Wine brewed by the Blood of Abundance.

Fang Mu extracted the Blood Aged Wine into a crystal bottle.

According to the scale on the crystal bottle, Fang Mu knew he currently had 462 milliliters of Blood Aged Wine.

Fang Mu had infused his blood into the Blood of Abundance at one in the afternoon.

It was now a quarter past ten at night.

On average, the Blood of Abundance could brew fifty milliliters of Blood Aged Wine in an hour.

Fang Mu had long decided to use the Blood of Abundance to first cultivate the Red Jade Camellia.

Now that he had over four hundred milliliters of Blood Aged Wine, Fang Mu didn't hesitate to pour the Blood Aged Wine into the pot of the Red Jade Camellia.

Raising the Red Jade Camellia not only would accelerate Fang Mu's blood production, but also allow the Red Jade Camellia to bloom more flowers to feed the Aromatherapy Rabbit.

After the Aromatherapy Rabbit consumed the Red Jade Camellia flowers, its Skill [Fragrance] could bring Fang Mu double the effectiveness of the Red Jade Camellia.

This was a matter that was profitable no matter how you looked at it.

Even if Fang Mu hasn't produced a drop of Contracting Blood yet.

The Blood Aged Wine seemed to have some sort of magic.

As the roots of the Red Jade Camellia came into contact with the Blood Aged Wine, they absorbed the Blood Aged Wine at a speed visible to the naked eye.

The absorption rate was so fast that even as Fang Mu poured the Blood Aged Wine, the soil remained dry.

The changes in the Red Jade Mountain Tea plant were even more dramatic than the rate at which the roots were absorbing the Blood Aged Wine.

Tender branches continuously sprouted from the main stem.

As these branches grew, they quickly sprouted tender green leaves.

Upon reaching a certain size, the branches rapidly lignified.

Meanwhile, the once tender green leaves gradually transitioned to a deep green color.

Wherever three leaves intersected, a small flower bud quickly formed.

The bud, initially the size of a soybean, continuously swelled until it achieved the size of an egg.

Just the size of these buds was now comparable to the flowers the Red Jade Mountain Tea previously bloomed.

Fang Mu rapidly counted and found that there were twenty-five of these flower buds on the Red Jade Mountain Tea plant at that moment.

The first bud that grew had silently blossomed in a short time.

This gave off a faintly refreshing floral scent.

The fully bloomed flower was even larger than the mouth of a bowl.

The vibrant red color of the blossoms came into full view, blanketing the tree in bright red.

Suddenly, Fang Mu noticed that the roots of the Red Jade Mountain Tea were no longer absorbing the Blood Aged Wine he had been pouring.

Quickly, Fang Mu stopped pouring the Blood Aged Wine.

At this moment, elegant milky-white patterns were climbing up the vibrant red petals of the Red Jade Mountain Tea.

Upon seeing these milky-white patterns, Fang Mu's heart jolted.

Could it be that the Red Jade Mountain Tea had evolved under the cultivation of his Blood Aged Wine?!

While searching for information on the Red Jade Mountain Tea in the school library,

Fang Mu learned that the Red Jade Mountain Tea didn't require Spirit Material Guidance.

It was capable of evolving into a type of Floral Beast known as Coagulated Jade Camellia on its own.

The Coagulated Jade Camellia has more potent properties than the Red Jade Mountain Tea.

Apart from blood formation, it could also supplement depleted spiritual power and alleviate negative states of spirit.

The Coagulated Jade Camellia was considered to be the best evolutionary direction for the Red Jade Mountain Tea, it was a legendary Guardian Beast.

While the library resources had illustrations of Red Jade Mountain Tea, it didn't record the images of the Coagulated Jade Camellia.

That indicated that the records on Coagulated Jade Camellia were somewhat incomplete.

Before his eyes, the unhealthy plant, originally smaller than two palms, had grown into a lush state of half a meter high.

This filled Fang Mu's heart with a sense of awe.

It let Fang Mu vividly feel the splendor of life and the marvel of the World of Beast Masters.

Suddenly, as Fang Mu was immersed in this wonderful state, he felt a surge of spiritual power.

A green pattern started to form within it.

This pattern was faintly imbued with the Qi of the Wood Element.

Using his knowledge as a Beast Master, Fang Mu immediately realized he had formed a mysterious rune in a stroke of serendipity.

Fang Mu was stunned for a moment.

Had he really formed a mysterious rune?!

Since when could he grasp mysterious runes so easily?!

Didn't understanding mysterious runes require spending a fortune and repeated visits to the Contemplation Hall to have a chance of comprehension?!

The mysterious rune in Fang Mu's spiritual power carried the Qi of the Wood Element, which suggested that this rune could only be used on Wood property Guardian Beasts.

Fang Mu had not formed a contract with any Wood property beasts yet.

But forming a single mysterious rune meant he already had a significant lead over his peers on the path of the Beast Masters.

Even Hu Tao, who was the top-ranked student in the second year of Jinghai High School for Beast Masters in practical exams, had only comprehended a single Earth Attribute mysterious rune.

On the matter of mysterious runes, Fang Mu was now on par with his top-ranked genius peers!

Fang Mu remembered Hu Tao once complained to him.

To comprehend the Earth Attribute rune at the Contemplation Hall, Hu Tao's family spent nearly four hundred thousand Dragon Rising Coins.

This was achieved when Hu Tao had only contracted with her Destiny Guardian Beast and an Iron-winged Sparrow, and her spiritual power was far above average.

No matter whether comprehending the Wood Attribute mysterious rune was a coincidence, or because he possessed an intuition far above the norm,

Fang Mu had struck it rich!

Crazy! Are You Really A Beast Tamer? #Chapter 22 - 22: 22: Mysterious Pattern – Wood System: Eruption!_1 - Read Crazy! Are You Really A Beast Tamer? Chapter 22 - 22: 22: Mysterious Pattern – Wood System: Eruption!_1

Chapter 22 - 22: 22: Mysterious Pattern – Wood System: Eruption!_1

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

The types of mysterious patterns are numerous.

According to incomplete statistics, each attribute of elemental mysterious patterns has at least five to six hundred types.

However, these numerous types of mysterious patterns are collectively divided into two main categories.

Regeneration Category and Amplification Category.

As the name suggests, the Regeneration Category can enhance the endurance of the Beast Masters and their beasts during battle.

This type of pattern is considered standard, without too high or too low limits.

Despite being a major category, it only makes up about one-tenth of the total types of mysterious patterns.

The Amplification Category of patterns has been broken down into many sub-categories by the Beastmaster Alliance.

In essence, most amplification mysterious patterns amplify elemental attributes.

The amplification effects of these patterns are more inclined towards attack or defense.

Fang Mu, with his excited heart, summoned the dark-green wood attribute mysterious pattern from his spiritual power.

The wood attribute mysterious pattern enveloped Fang Mu's fingertips.

Fang Mu looked at the mysterious pattern on his fingertip.

[Wood SystemEruption]: Activates the activity of wood element energy, causing it to spurt out in a short duration.

With the knowledge all at the ready in Fang Mu's brain, just a glimpse was enough to confirm that his acquired mysterious pattern [Wood System. Eruption] was a multi-functional pattern.

It was even more versatile than Hu Tao's interpreted pattern [Earth SystemSolid].

Hu Tao's interpreted pattern [Earth SystemSolid] when combined with the guardian beast, could enhance the beast's defense.

That was exactly what Hu Tao needed.

Meanwhile, if the [Wood SystemEruption] the Fang Mu interpreted was equipped to a Wood System Healing Beast, the healing effect could be improved in a short duration.

If it was equipped to a Wood System Aggressive Beast, the burst damage in a short period could be enhanced.

Fang Mu had observed the evolutionary process of the Red Jade Camellia.

This process was like a great eruption of life.

Fang Mu was very satisfied with his interpreted mysterious pattern [Wood SystemEruption].

It made Fang Mu decide that in the future, the least he had to do was contract a Wood System beast.

Interpreting mysterious patterns was not an easy task.

Otherwise, Hu Tao would not have needed to spend four hundred thousand Dragon Soaring Coins to visit the Contemplation Hall.

To interpret the mysterious patterns, Hu Tao's expenditure of four hundred thousand Dragon Soaring Coins was in fact rather modest.

There were numerous examples of families that spent several million Dragon Soaring Coins to send their children to the Contemplation Hall, yet they still ended up failing to interpret the patterns successfully.

Fang Mu was not sure if he would be as fortunate to interpret mysterious patterns again in the future.

Regardless, Fang Mu now had the qualifications to compete in the National Beastmaster League of High School Graduates.

It was rare for a high school student to have the opportunity to interpret two mysterious patterns.

After Fang Mu settled his turbulent emotions, he used the Eye of Omniscience to examine the evolved Red Jade Camellia.

[Beast Name]: Coagulated Jade Camellia

[Beast Species]: Camellia Species/Ancient Tea Category

[Beast Level]: Bronze (3/10) [Beast Element]: Wood [Beast Potential]: Gold [Beast Quality]: Ordinary

Skill:

[Weeping Dew]: Under the condition of abundant nutrients, after five hours of light exposure each day, every flower bud will produce a drop of Condensed Jade Dew. The Condensed Jade Dew nourishes Qi and Blood, heals the spirit, and has a certain effect on clearing pigment deposits and smoothing scars.

Evolution Path:

O: Falling Jade Camellia, @: Red Elixir Cup Tea, O: Knife Leaf Thorn Tea.

As Fang Mu had thought, the Red Jade Camellia did indeed evolve into Coagulated Jade Camellia.

When the beasts evolve, the original skills will also be slightly enhanced.

Fang Mu had previously observed the effectiveness of Red Jade Camellia's skill [Weeping Dew].

However, while Fang Mu could provide the Red Jade Mountain Tea with Wood Element Energy, he didn't have enough resources to provide it with Life Energy.

So, even if the Red Jade Mountain Tea received sunlight for ten hours a day, it couldn't condense a single dewdrop.

Now, Fang Mu is hesitant about whether he should invest heavily in life elixirs made by Junior Creators, in order to nurture the Coagulated Jade Camellia.

Firstly, Fang Mu needs to recover Qi and Blood using Condensed Jade Dew formed by the skill [Weeping Dew] of Coagulated Jade Camellia.

After every blood extraction, the weakened state could be nourished with the Condensed Jade Dew.

With the spiritual healing effect of Condensed Jade Dew, Fang Mu could feel much better.

Secondly, what hasn't changed about Fang Mu in this life compared to his previous one is the love for beauty in women.

In families with means, women would buy various skincare products made from spiritual materials.

With the help of a healing beast, an injury would often heal without leaving a scar.

However, once an injury has been left untreated for a long time and becomes infected,

Even if treated by a healing beast, the scar can't be removed.

As a result, many beautiful female beastmasters have various scars on their bodies.

Some even have scars on their face.

Senior Creators are able to concoct elixirs that lighten scars.

But they can't clear skin pigmentation.

In other words, in addition to smoothing out scars, Condensed Jade Dew also has the ability to eliminate spots and has a certain whitening effect.

Fang Mu hadn't paid much attention to this market before.

Fang Qin and Yan Wood had both focused on their power improvement.

So, Fang Mu couldn't draw any conclusions from them.

But one thing Fang Mu was certain of was that the appearance of Condensed Jade Dew on the Beastmaster Web would definitely earn him a fortune.

The Red Jade Mountain Tea had just evolved into Coagulated Jade Camellia and is in its healthiest state.

In addition to its evolution, his Blood Aged Wine also improved the potential of the Coagulated Jade Camellia.

It had upgraded its potential from Silver Stage to Gold Stage.

Even if he didn't provide Wood Element Energy and Life Energy to the Coagulated Jade Camellia, it could still produce Condensed Jade Dew for at least two to three days.

Fang Mu plans to explore the Beastmaster Web after collecting the Condensed Jade Dew tomorrow.

Although a production beast like the Coagulated Jade Camellia cannot be used for battle, its value is far higher than most combat beasts.

Among the various evolutionary paths of the Coagulated Jade Camellia, the Falling Jade Camellia is a path of evolution.

For this evolution, the Coagulated Jade Camellia still doesn't need any spiritual material induction or assistance, it could rely on its own bloodline.

When it evolves into the Falling Jade Camellia, a large amount of pure Life Energy and Wood Element Energy could help nourish the Coagulated Jade Camellia and awaken the flower spirit.

The second evolutionary path, the Red Elixir Cup Tea, achieves evolution through fire-element spiritual material induction.

The Red Elixir Cup Tea uses petals as the elixir furnace and stamens as the elixir ingredient.

Once each flower withers, it will become a potent elixir pill.

However, among the floral beasts, those that can awaken the flower spirit and condense flower jade are the most revered.

The elixir pills condensed by the Red Elixir Cup Tea can't compare with the flower jade condensed by the Falling Jade Camellia.

Who would argue when the Flower Jade is a material that senior creators widely need?

The third evolution path is Knife Leaf Thorn Tea, which requires high-level metal induction.

It transforms the Coagulated Jade Camellia from a production beast into a powerful assault beast.

No matter how aggressive the Knife Leaf Thorn Tea is, or how sharp its leaves are, it's ultimately a case of ignoring the substance for the shadow.

It's not within Fang Mu's considerations at all.

Fang Mu plans to let the Coagulated Jade Camellia continue its evolution towards the Falling Jade Camellia relying on its own bloodline..

Chapter 23 - 23: 23 Two Drops of Covenant Blood Essence! 1

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

After enhancing the Coagulated Jade Camellia, Fang Mu glanced at the scale bottle in his hand, filled with Blood Aged Wine.

Fang Mu found that there was approximately one hundred sixty milliliters of Blood Aged Wine left in the scale bottle.

That is to say, the evolution of Red Jade Mountain Tea into Coagulated Jade Camellia cost three hundred milliliters of Blood Aged Wine.

Fang Mu stored the remaining Blood Aged Wine in the Mirror Turtle Pendant.

Just as he lifted his head, he saw that the Aromatherapy Rabbit, who had already finished eating the Red Jade tea flowers, was watching him eagerly.

The rabbit's eyes were moving back and forth between him and the flowers of the Coagulated Jade Camellia.

The flowers of the Coagulated Jade Camellia could condense flower dew within two or three days.

In theory, Fang Mu should not feed the Aromatherapy Rabbit any more Coagulated Jade Camellia.

However, he was at a critical stage in establishing a bond with the Aromatherapy Rabbit.

Fang Mu generously picked a Coagulated Jade Camellia flower and gently handed it to the Aromatherapy Rabbit.

The Red Jade tea flower filled the Aromatherapy Rabbit's stomach halfway and healed its stomach injuries.

The Aromatherapy Rabbit had now become very energetic.

Upon seeing the Coagulated Jade Camellia that Fang Mu handed it, the Aromatherapy Rabbit, before eating it, first nuzzled against Fang Mu's palm.

Only after Fang Mu's hand half-wrapped around it did the Aromatherapy Rabbit feel safe enough to accept the Coagulated Jade Camellia flower and happily started eating it.

Since its birth, the Aromatherapy Rabbit has never eaten anything this good before!

Seeing the action of the Aromatherapy Rabbit, Fang Mu couldn't help but smile.

The little fellow, Rouge, was already starting to seek a sense of safety from him.

The establishment of the bond seemed very successful!

With the Aromatherapy Rabbit consuming food constantly, its skill [Fragrance] took effect.

The floral scent released from the Aromatherapy Rabbit's body was stronger than the one released by the Coagulated Jade Camellia.

Inhaling the heady floral aroma, Fang Mu began to collect his Heartblood using the Needle Mosquito.

The extraction process went smoothly.

The Needle Mosquito's mouthparts had a certain paralyzing effect.

Therefore, Fang Mu didn't feel any pain when using the Needle Mosquito to collect his Heartblood.

The only effect was a gradual feeling of weakness, and his legs became a bit soft.

Fortunately, the extraction of a hundred milliliters of Heartblood didn't cause Fang Mu to fall over.

Fang Mu directly crushed the head of the Needle Mosquito after it had finished drawing his Heartblood.

He pulled out the Needle Mosquito's long, soft mouthparts and then took off the Blood Pouch.

He directly tossed the Blood Pouch into the wriggling Blood of Abundance in front of him.

Next, Fang Mu didn't plan to spend any more Blood Aged Wine, and wanted to see how long it would take for him to condense a drop of Covenant Blood Essence.

On the second day of school, the Fang family's characteristic dark cuisine is no longer a bane for Fang Mu.

His day quickly filled with activities.

Since he had agreed to research a topic with Cui Ruochen.

Fang Mu spent pretty much all day with Cui Ruochen, aside from when he was at class.

Even the time to go home to collect Condensed Jade Dew is hard-won.

On the third day, the Coagulated Jade Camellia, which had not absorbed any wood element energy and life energy, went on strike.

It stopped producing Condensed Jade Dew.

Fang Mu, wanting to save time, simply lived in the temporary dormitory that Cui Ruochen prepared for him at the school and stopped going home.

He attended school, drew blood, and conducted research.

Fang Mu spent almost two months in a whirlwind of activity.

He had no mind to log on to the beast master web to sell the seventy-two drops of Condensed Jade Dew in his hand.

Finally, looking at the two academic reports about beast potential in his hand.

Fang Mu placed these two academic reports on the table.

Cui Ruochen's appreciative eyes fell on Fang Mu without concealment.

Although Fang Mu wasn't a beastmaster, in Cui Ruochen's view, Fang Mu wasn't inferior to any beastmaster.

This determination, tenacity, and rigorousness in research.

All of them could allow Fang Mu, an ordinary person, to have his foothold in the academic field.

Cui Ruochen will choose to stop teaching in the next semester to make the final sprint.

It's not simply about passing the Junior Creator examination.

But to take advantage of this opportunity and also take the Intermediate Crafting Master examination.

Cui Ruochen has more than once wanted to speak out and take Fang Mu as an assistant.

Although Cui Ruochen is very confident, he has not yet taken the examination.

It's a bit premature to say that now.

“Fang Mu, I will put your name in the front of these two academic reports.”
Hearing this, Fang Mu hurriedly shook his head and said,

“Teacher Cui, I have always been doing the assistant’s work for these two academic reports.”

“You...”

Before Fang Mu could finish his sentence, Cui Ruochen interrupted decisively.

“Because you were too young before, I topped your name for two academic reports. ”

“These two are what I’m going to make up for you.”

“Without you, these two academic reports wouldn’t be so brilliant!”

Fang Mu, hearing Cui Ruochen’s words, didn’t say anything more and directly bowed to Cui Ruochen.

Fang Mu, who had obtained the Destiny Guardian Beast Fool’s Shadow and the Blood of Abundance, possessed some abilities of the Master Creator and the Grandmaster Creator.

This could allow Fang Mu to exchange for a continuous flow of resources.

The starting point of Fang Mu in the future will be very high.

In this world, Beast Masters highly respect heritage.

The strong will often choose to take disciples and pass on the torch.

Fang Mu felt that in the future, very few people would make him want to become a disciple again.

Fang Mu didn't take Cui Ruochen as his master, Cui Ruochen was just Fang Mu's teacher at school.

But what Cui Ruochen has done is not much different from a master.

Seeing Fang Mu bowing to him, Cui Ruochen couldn't help reaching out his thick hand.

He tousled Fang Mu's hair, which he hadn't cut in nearly two months, and which had already grown past his ears.

“The school has been on vacation for more than twenty days, go home and get some rest!”

“The curriculum for Senior three next year will be tighter than Senior two.”

“Of course for you, with the knowledge reserves you have now.”

“You can treat the classes in Senior three as self-study!”

“I also need to focus on preparing for the Creator’s examination.”

Upon hearing this, Fang Mu cheered Cui Ruochen and then hurriedly left his office.

Hearing Fang Mu said “Cheer up”, Cui Ruochen suddenly felt.

In every lonely late night absorbing knowledge, did Fang Mu also cheer for himself like this?

What a wild growth, and self-flowering young man in the cold!

After leaving Cui Ruochen's office, Fang Mu immediately hailed a six-hoofed yak car.

He planned to take the car home.

The place where Fang Mu lived was not far from Jinghai High School for Beast Masters.

Fang Mu used to walk back.

He chose to take a car this time because in the past two months, Fang Mu has condensed two drops of Covenant Blood Essence.

The second drop of Covenant Blood Essence was only condensed late last night.

This means that Fang Mu can use the Covenant Blood Essence to make a covenant with two Guardian Beasts.

Nothing can excite a novice Beast Master more than contracting a Guardian Beast.

In addition to using the Covenant Blood Essence to replace spiritual power to contract the Guardian Beasts, it can also cause the Guardian Beast to make a positive leap.

Fang Mu is looking forward to the changes in the Elemental Beast Pure Water which he will contract when he returns home..

Chapter 24 - 24: 24: The Real Electronic Butterfly! _1

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

As for the second Guardian Beast that Fang Mu should establish a contract with, he just needs to buy one from the Beastmaster Web using the money he earned from the Condensed Jade Dew!

The types and levels of Guardian Beasts on the Beastmaster Web are much higher than those in the Dinghai Mall.

Of course, there are generally not much good deals to be found on the Beastmaster Web.

Because the sellers who can sell Guardian Beasts and materials on the Beastmaster Web generally have extraordinary knowledge and strength.

To join the Beastmaster Web, there are certain requirements.

You need to pay a fee of five thousand Dragon Rising Coins to purchase a Beastmaster Web account from the Beastmaster Alliance.

This fee of five thousand Dragon Rising Coins discourages the majority of common people from joining the Beastmaster Web.

This ensures a relatively pure and clean trading environment on the Beastmaster Web.

Because many people do not wish to reveal their identities when logging onto the Beastmaster Web.

There have been numerous incidents of identity theft leading to disputes.

Eventually, the Beastmaster Alliance decided to introduce anonymous Beastmaster Web accounts.

However, the price of an anonymous Beastmaster Web account is twice as expensive as the one with registered identity.

That is, ten thousand Dragon Rising Coins.

Fang Mu plans to buy an anonymous Beastmaster Web account.

This will allow Fang Mu to pose as a Master Creator or even a Grandmaster Creator on the Beastmaster Web, or to sell some precious supplies.

Without being traced by some people in reality.

Of course, Fang Mu is doing this as a precaution.

Usually, even with extraordinary courage, no one would dare to mess with a Master Creator or a Grandmaster Creator.

The Six-Hoof Dish Sheep Car parked steadily at Fang Mu's doorstep.

Upon returning home, Fang Mu was greeted warmly by Xixi once again.

Fang Mu hadn't been home often recently, and Xixi missed him a lot.

Xixi previously didn't experience long times apart from Fang Mu.

Even though Fang Mu was in a hurry to contract the Pure Water he had kept in his Mirror Turtle Pendant for nearly two months.

But Fang Mu still decided to play with Xixi for a while.

For Fang Mu, Xixi had already become part of his family.

Just like the Big Orange Cat he adopted in his previous life.

Fang Mu, who had been playing with Xixi for half an hour, calmed himself down.

Fang Mu decided to take a bath first.

He would change into a set of clean pajamas, before he would start on the contract of his first Guardian Beast apart from his Destiny Guardian Beast.

Living in the school dorm all this time, Fang Mu hadn't had the time to take a bath while finalizing his Academic Report the last two days.

After a quick hot shower, he put on a set of white and blue striped pajamas.

Fang Mu walked out of the bathroom.

During this process, Xixi had been guarding the bathroom door all the time.

Seeing Fang Mu come out, Xixi followed closely behind him, just like a shadow.

Not willing to be far from him for a moment.

This feeling was familiar when he returned home after attending an academic forum or an outdoor adventure in his previous life, the way his fat orange cat would act around him.

It was a kind of deep love and attachment from the heart.

Fang Mu had siblings, friends, and a bright future.

But for Xixi, a Domestic Beast that was only used for cleaning, Fang Mu was everything.

While sitting on the sofa, Fang Mu took out a drop of Contracting Blood that he had separated and stored before.

The color of the Contracting Blood was a light golden color, filled with a mysterious hue.

It looked like a drop of liquid glass.

It was hard to believe that this small drop of liquid was refined from nearly fifteen thousand milliliters of Fang Mu's blood and nearly six hundred milliliters of his Heartblood.

Fang Mu held the glass tube containing the Contracting Blood between his fingers.

Then he picked up the Mirror Turtle Pendant around his neck, ready to take out the Pure Water.

Just then, Fang Mu's phone suddenly rang.

Fang Mu had set up different ringtones for the calls coming from his family members.

"gallantly adventure through the nine provinces! "

This ringtone signaled that the call was coming from Yan Wood.

Fang Mu reflexively reached for the pocket of his pajamas.

However, the vial he had been holding bumped into the pocket of his pajamas and dropped to the floor, shattering on impact.

The Covenant Blood Essence did not behave like regular liquid which would splash everywhere upon hitting the floor.

The rolling Covenant Blood Essence on the floor looked just like flowing soft jade, easy to collect.

But Fang Mu was not given any time to react.

The Gear Broom, fearing that the glass fragments would puncture Fang Mu's foot, immediately started to clean.

In a short time, it had absorbed the nearby Covenant Blood Essence and glass fragments into its body.

This caused Fang Mu, who was holding his phone, to stiffen.

Attempting to stop the Gear Broom now would be futile.

Fang Mu now faced two choices.

The first choice was to immediately stab the mechanical heart located at the handle of the Gear Broom.

Even though the Gear Broom was not exactly a Guardian Beast, it was nonetheless a mechanical spirit.

If its mechanical heart was destroyed, the Gear Broom would lose its life.

This would allow Fang Mu to disassemble the Gear Broom's body after its death.

He could then recover the Covenant Blood Essence that had not been absorbed, to use for the Pure Water contract.

The second choice was to allow the Gear Broom to fully absorb the Covenant Blood Essence.

Let the Gear Broom become a Gear Broom that has successfully evolved. This would once again shatter a widely-held belief in the Dragon Rising Federation.

Before this, there was never a precedent of a Gear Broom evolving.

Just as no one would bury a resource as precious as gold in the mud.

Of course, that's not to say there aren't Creator's who have tried to go against the grain.

Once, a Master Creator took an interest in the Gear Broom.

However, after carefully selecting and cultivating a few Gear Brooms, not a single one managed to become a Guardian Beast.

The Master Creator became a laughingstock among his peers and the Gear Broom became a spirit not even dreamers would contemplate.

Because there were no previous cases, everything the Gear Broom would face after absorbing the Covenant Blood Essence was unknown.

There was a good chance that Fang Mu would waste around fifteen thousand milliliters of his own blood, nearly six hundred milliliters of heart blood, and the Covenant Blood Essence which had been condensed over a month's time.

Once these two choices appeared in Fang Mu's mind, he did not hesitate to abandon the first option.

In his previous life, Fang Mu had adopted a is a big orange cat that had a certain physical defect, leading to frequent urinary infections.

Fang Mu had taken the obese cat for at least four or five surgeries, which can be described as a grueling process.

Between the surgeries and care, Fang Mu had spent at least thirty thousand.

If it happened to many other people, perhaps abandoning a sick pet would be both a cheaper and smarter choice.

But for Fang Mu, once he accepted it as a member of his family.

As long as it could be saved and he had the means to do so, no matter how much it cost, he thought it was worth it.

The attitude Fang Mu showed to the orange cat in his past life was the same as that to the obedience pony in this one.

Fang Mu recalled when the Gear Broom had asked if a heart made of machinery could dream of electronic butterflies.

At that time, Fang Mu had kindly lied and told it yes.

Now, that kind lie had come true!

A heart made of machinery really could dream of electronic butterflies!

Crazy! Are You Really A Beast Tamer? #Chapter 25 - 25: 25: The Guardian Beast Created by Fang Mu!_1 - Read Crazy! Are You Really A Beast Tamer? Chapter 25 - 25: 25: The Guardian Beast Created by Fang Mu!_1

Chapter 25 - 25: 25: The Guardian Beast Created by Fang Mu!_1

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

The Gear Broom, a species of mechanical spirit, is characterized by the simplicity of its internal structure.

It can only consume matter, not expel it.

Now, a hue similar to the Covenant Blood Essence coated the surface of the Gear Broom.

Fang Mu could sense a bond forged by blood, gradually forming between him and the creature.

This bond allowed him to better understand the creature's current state.

To a certain degree, he could even understand its thoughts.

At this moment, the creature's Mechanical Heart was undergoing a fundamental shift in its essence of life.

The creature was in a mysterious state of evolution.

Fang Mu could feel the creature's energy growing stronger.

Soon enough, he believed the creature would become a Bronze Stage beast, the most basic of Guardian Beasts.

This small step would be a moment in history, producing a wonder that had never existed before.

A wonder created by Fang Mu himself.

He did not notice when the phone call from Third Sister Fang Yan had ended.

Fang Mu grabbed his cellphone and hastily dialed back his sister.

He was well aware of his sister's wild imagination and scattered thoughts. She must have imagined all kinds of deathly scenarios like himself getting murdered or hit by a car just because he didn't answer the phone.

She might even have thought about which outfit to wear to his funeral and how to cry without making their brothers Fang Qin and Fang Yuan upset.

His call was quickly picked up by Fang Yan.

Before she could even speak, Fang Mu hurriedly said.

"Sis, I didn't manage to pick up the call before it ended."

Upon hearing this, Fang Yan sighed in relief.

"Little Wood, I miss you!"

"I am just an exchange student here in the Imperial City, and I won't be finished until the end of next year."

"I probably won't be able to come home for the New Year!" Upon hearing this, Fang Mu tightened his lips.

In this life, he had spent most of his time with Fang Yan.

Before she left for her exchange program, they lived together all day long. "Sis, don't you want to join the Beastmaster Alliance after graduation?"

"Joining a club in the Imperial City and getting recommended by them is a good choice."

Upon hearing this, Fang Yan responded without thinking, continuing the topic.

"I've just arrived in the Imperial City, and several clubs have already approached me."

"But these clubs are all Grade B."

“Grade B clubs only have one spot to recommend to the Beastmaster Alliance every year, which usually goes to someone from within the club.” “If a Grade A club contacts me later, I will not hesitate to join.” “Then I will compete internally for the recommendation.” Upon finishing her sentence, Fang Yan realized.

Who exactly is the elder sibling between her and Fang Mu?

Why did she always feel cared for when facing Fang Mu since they were young?

And as Fang Mu grew older, this feeling in her heart became stronger.

This sense of being cared for was even more reassuring than her actual older brother, Fang Yuan.

While Fang Yan was confused, Fang Mu sighed silently.

The world of Beast Masters was just this cruel, and resources would always be scarce.

Fang Yan’s words were straightforward.

But in reality, plunging into the competition within a Grade A club was an exhausting endeavor with no room to breathe.

Those invited by Grade A clubs were young talents without exception.

In the world of Beast Masters, resources and talents were equally important.

Currently, Fang Yan’s resources, apart from scholarships, all came from the support of Fang Yuan.

Fang Mu felt helpless when he heard about Fang Yan’s situation previously. However, it wouldn’t be long before Fang Mu could help Fang Yan and even Fang Qin and Fang Yuan.

Suddenly, Fang Yan on the other end of the phone perked up her ears and asked in confusion.

“Little Wood, why is there such a dense sound of gears turning on your end? Is that Xixi?”

“The gears on Xixi are turning so fast, make sure not to cause any problems!”

The dense sound of gear rotation that Fang Yan heard from the other end was indeed coming from Xixi.

However, these gear rotation noises were not actively made by Xixi.

Instead, Xixi's body was continuously reassembling under a faint golden glow.

And new gears of various sizes were constantly being created from within the Mechanical Heart.

The structure of Xixi's body was becoming more and more precise.

Fang Mu quickly went to the bedroom on the second floor, so as to completely isolate the noise of Xixi's evolution.

Fang Yan didn't really take these gear noises seriously.

From her understanding of Fang Mu, if Xixi really had any problems, Fang Mu would be more worried than her.

He would have taken Xixi to see a doctor long ago.

Before hanging up, Fang Mu told Fang Yan.

"Sis, do you want me to pack some hotpot base and regularly consumed snacks for you?"

Fang Yan on the other end of the phone quickly said as soon as she heard this.

"The hotpot base should be from Granny Wang's store at the corner of the street, also add two cans of pickled peppers. No need for snacks!"

Fang Yan has a palate that appreciates spicy food, she likes Red Oil Hotpot the most.

In the Imperial City, she could taste food from all over the country.

But Fang Yan always felt that the food back home had more flavor.

Fang Mu returned to the first floor lobby after chatting with Fang Yan, and saw a brand-new mechanical beast.

It was still in the steampunk style.

Only this time, Xixi had transformed from a broom-like mechanical spirit into a new form.

If Fang Mu had to compare it to something, he felt it looked 70-80% like a vacuum cleaner.

The entrance at the front was still composed of metal fibers just like before. However, these metal fibers had become much thicker.

They had gone from the thickness of hair strands to the thickness of cold noodles.

Moreover, every two or three centimeters along these metal fibers, there was a metal structure like a tooth.

It looked powerful enough to easily crush bones and flesh.

To communicate with the evolved Xixi, Fang Mu still needed to rotate gears.

However, the sound simulated by the rotating gears had become more lifelike.

Fang Mu could feel that Xixi was imitating his own voice.

The voice Xixi simulated was at least fifty percent similar to Fang Mu's own voice.

Normally, when facing the successfully evolved Xixi, Fang Mu should have given it a hug.

However, after observing the data of Xixi's via the Eye of Omniscience, Fang

Mu was truly surprised!

[Beast Name]: Xixi (A spirit created by the contractor, the contractor can name it themselves.)

[Beast Species] : Weapon Holder / Broom Holder Species

[Beast Level]: Bronze (1/10)

[Beast Element]: Mechanical [Beast Potential]: Silver

[Beast Quality]: Standard Quality

Skill:

[Garbage Recycling]: Refine and extract the garbage absorbed into the body, digest the useless part, purify the useful part, and store it in the storage space outside the Mechanical Heart.

Evolutionary Path: ???

After standing dazed for a good while, Fang Mu suddenly came up with a thought.

Maybe Xixi, the beast who he contracted by chance through the Covenant Blood Essence and then evolved, was the greatest advantage he had as a transmigrator..

