

Crazy! Are You Really A Beast Tamer?

Chapter 26 - 26: 26 Organization: Scavenger! 1

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Under the Eye of Omniscience, Xixi, at this moment, is a being created by Fang

Mu with his own Covenant Blood Essence.

There has never been such a creature before in this world.

Therefore, he has the naming rights to Xixi.

This makes Xixi fundamentally different from other Guardian Beasts.

The Eye of Omniscience can't see through Xixi's evolutionary path.

That is to say, for Xixi to evolve, it needs him as the creator to gradually explore.

Xixi's skill [Waste Recycling], which seems ordinary, is actually capable of purifying matter.

Purifying ordinary matter is easy.

But purifying various types of elemental energy and life energy brings it into the realm of a Creator.

Feeling thrilled, Fang Mu went to the goose feather cushion where the Aromatherapy Rabbit was put.

After eating a condensing jade camellia, Aromatherapy Rabbit, with the energy contained in the camellia, can go a long time without feeding.

Fang Mu always relies on the Aromatherapy Rabbit to assist him in drawing normal blood or heartblood.

He couldn't bear to let the Aromatherapy Rabbit eat coagulated jade camellias all the time.

Fang Mu purposefully bought some Sediment Clearing Chrysanthemums, which also have the function of replenishing Qi and Blood.

The Bronze Tier Beast, Sediment Clearing Chrysanthemum, blooms abundantly, and the flowers are easy to preserve.

Each flower costs only thirty Dragon Rising Coins.

The Aromatherapy Rabbit has essentially achieved Sediment Clearing Chrysanthemum freedom.

In two months, it ate close to a hundred Sediment Clearing Chrysanthemums.

The Aromatherapy Rabbit has fully regained its health and has taken Fang Mu as its keeper.

The rabbit is naturally timid.

But now when Fang Mu reaches out, the Aromatherapy Rabbit will jump straight onto Fang Mu's shoulder.

Its little paws cling to Fang Mu's cheek, nestling against him.

Because the Aromatherapy Rabbit eats flowers, its excrement does not stink at all, instead exuding a slight pleasant aroma.

The Aromatherapy Rabbit's tiny, Six Flavor Rehmannia Pill-sized droppings could likely be worn as potpourri pills by ordinary people if sold to them.

So Fang Mu did not clean up the Aromatherapy Rabbit's droppings when he was particularly busy before.

Luckily, the Aromatherapy Rabbit heeds Fang Mu's words and knows to defecate in the wooden box next to the goose feather cushion.

Fang Mu took the wooden box full of Aromatherapy Rabbit droppings and squatted down, placing it in front of Xixi.

Fang Mu wanted to see what would happen if Xixi, through its skill [Waste Recycling], swallowed the Aromatherapy Rabbit's droppings.

He wondered if Xixi would, as he imagined, purify and extract out some special elements.

Even though the data from the Eye of Omniscience was very clear.

However, to confirm what the skill effect was truly like, he needed to test it in practice.

It's like before he used Blood Aged Wine to water the Red Jade Mountain Tea.

By only reading the skill description of the Blood Aged Wine, Fang Mu could not determine the exact effect of the Blood Aged Wine.

After evolving into a Guardian Beast, Xixi was in much need of replenishing its energy, having had a leap in its life level.

This made Xixi extremely hungry.

Since Xixi originally survives by eating waste, it is not picky about food.

Xixi extended its metal fiber-filled trunk into the wooden box.

With the sound of gears, a great suction force was emitted from the trunk.

Just like a kid eating snacks, Xixi sucked in all of the Aromatherapy Rabbit's hundreds of droppings.

To aid in digestion, the metallic fibers intertwined and ground.

It crushed these small droppings into fragments.

The air was instantly filled with a faint floral fragrance.

Fang Mu was fascinated by this scent, but the Aromatherapy Rabbit showed a disgusted expression.

Its increasingly rosy ears drooped, covering its nose.

Then it burrowed its entire head into the goose feather cushion.

After eating up all the Aromatherapy Rabbit's droppings, Xixi's hunger not only did not subside.

Instead, it felt even hungrier.

Fang Mu cooks for himself in the morning and evening, only solving his lunch in the school's cafeteria.

Over these two months Fang Mu has not been home at all.

Even if the vegetables are kept in the four-door refrigerator in the basement, they should have gone bad by now.

The frozen meat and fish in the refrigerator were originally fresh.

Now, after two months of freezing, although they're still edible, they aren't as fresh as they once were.

Since the vacuum cleaner, "Susu", is so hungry now, it might as well be fed!

Upon thinking this, Fang Mu habitually put his hand on Susu's handle.

The handle of Susu originally had some protrusions, which didn't feel nice to touch.

Now, Susu's handle is covered with a layer of extremely fine metallic fur.

The metallic fur gives Fang Mu a very comfortable touch, decidedly not worse than the fur of any animal.

Fang Mu immediately realized that during the evolution process, this little guy Susu had even been considering himself.

"Let's go, Susu. I'll take you to clean the basement and have a hearty meal."
Fang Mu took Susu to the underground storage room.

The underground storage room, which had not been taken care of for two months, was filled with a foul smell.

The damp musty smell made Fang Mu furrow his brows.

But Susu was reveling in this smell.

“Fang Mu, Susu will eat all the dirty things!”

As Susu spoke, it actively activated the skill [Garbage Recycling].

Instantly, with Susu as the origin, a layer of air membrane appeared within a radius of one meter.

This air membrane blocked the outside air and continuously absorbed the impurities in the air.

Fang Mu, standing within the air membrane, no longer smelled any unpleasant odors.

Meanwhile, upon Fang Mu’s command,

Susu used its metallic fur to open the refrigerator door.

Many food items inside had grown greyish-brown and white mold.

Susu's metallic fur transformed into a shredder,

And it swallowed all these moldy food items.

It used the metallic fur to clean every corner of the refrigerator, making it look as good as new.

While Susu was scrupulously cleaning the refrigerator,

Fang Mu noticed that compared to some fruits and vegetables, Susu was much more interested in the meat.

When eating meat, Susu obviously had a much greater sense of happiness than when it was consuming vegetables.

Soon, all the garbage in the basement was cleaned up by Susu. Although Susu was no longer as hungry as before,

It was clear that its energy gap was not completely replenished.

If it weren't for the safety of ordinary people and the fact that security cameras were installed in every corner of the residential area,

Fang Mu would want to take Susu out at night and clean up all the trash cans one by one.

Garbage, these worthless things, are not easy to amass in large quantities in a short period of time.

Suddenly, Fang Mu thought about what Fang Qin had mentioned.

The Jinghai Army will no longer interfere with the environmental protection of Jinghai Province.

The environmental protection of Jinghai Province will be taken over by the Scavenger, an organization dedicated to protecting and maintaining the environment, sponsored by the Dragon Rising Federation. Two years ago, the Scavenger set up a branch in JA City.

And built a towering exotic beast incinerator.

The environmental protection issue in the world where Fang Mu currently lives is much more severe than in his past life.

In the past, environmental protection was about the restrictions humans placed on their own actions.

In this life, environmental protection has nothing to do with humans, but is caused by exotic beasts.

Instability in space leads to frequent opening of dimensional rifts.

Every time a dimensional rift opens, various exotic beasts break out.

These exotic beasts start an endless massacre as soon as they crawl out of the rift.

Lower-tier beasts only have an instinct to kill, and have no intelligence to speak of.

Higher-ranked beasts are much more cunning than humans and play a leading role in the beast hordes.

Every time, whether it's the Jinghai Army, the Beastmaster Alliance, various clubs, or major commercial groups,

After killing all the exotic beasts, they can't let the corpses rot in the environment.

The toxins contained in the bodies of these beasts will pollute the land, and the resulting impact is far more severe than the destruction caused by the beasts on the land..

Crazy! Are You Really A Beast Tamer? #Chapter 27 - 27: 27: A Complete Grandmaster Creator! 1 - Read Crazy! Are You Really A Beast Tamer? Chapter 27 - 27: 27: A Complete Grandmaster Creator! 1 Online - All Page - Novel Bin

Chapter 27 - 27: 27: A Complete Grandmaster Creator! 1

Four years ago, Yunze Province was laid siege by a large number of alien beasts.

After dealing with the alien beast wave, Yunze Province first chose to treat the wounded and settle the civilians.

They did not choose to deal with the corpses of the alien beasts immediately.

As a result, the land in Yunze Province was heavily polluted and could no longer grow any crops.

Except for a few toxic plant-type beasts, all other plant-type beasts, planted on the land polluted by the blood of alien beasts, can only wither.

The only way to remediate the land polluted by alien beasts is to bring in healthy soil from nearby areas.

Then use the beasts that can create soil to make the soil fertile again.

The establishment of the “Scavengers” organization was intended to deal with the carcasses of dead alien beasts.

The bodies of the alien beasts cannot be naturally decomposed in the wild.

It is also time-consuming and laborious to handle them in human hands.

After extensive research by several scholars, it was finally determined that high-temperature incineration is the best way to deal with dead alien beasts.

However, during the incineration process, the smoke also contains toxins that are harmful to humans.

This made the profession of “Scavenger” a high-risk occupation.

Even if one only works for two hours a day and one week at a time by the incinerator of the alien beasts.

Various problems would still appear in their body after a year of work.

A “Scavenger” makes a lot of money in the short term.

But in the long run, the money earned is only enough to cover their medical expenses.

This has given “Scavengers”, who fight for human survival and environmental protection, a very high social status.

Many well-known Battle Network anchors and disgraced celebrities often elect to spend some time being a “Scavenger” to clear their name.

Xixi evolves by devouring waste.

Aren't the corpses of those alien beasts the perfect waste for Xixi!

And they are all the meat that Xixi loves to eat.

When Xixi actively activates the skill [Trash Recycling], it can isolate the poisonous smoke generated by the incineration of the corpses of alien beasts.

This can effectively protect itself.

If Feng Mu chooses to work as a “Scavenger”, Xixi can secretly eat part of the alien beast's body every time.

This solves Xixi's upgrade problem, and also allows Feng Mu to gain something.

During Fang Mu's contemplation, Xixi's gear turned and made a noise.

"Fang Mu, Xixi has finished digesting!"

While talking, the gears around Xixi's Mechanical Heart quickly rotated and opened up a large groove.

This groove somewhat resembles a small safe.

Within this groove, there are three crystals the size of a small fingernail.

The Fool's Shadow's Innate Divine Ability – the Eye of Omniscience, not only allows Fang Mu to see through the data of the beastmaster.

It also allows Fang Mu to effectively investigate the spiritual materials.

Fang Mu holds these three tender green, grayish yellow, and crystal clear crystals in his hand.

He uses the Eye of Omniscience to investigate.

[Poison Crystal (Mold Poison)]: Mold poison infects the target and causes mold to grow on the body surface of the target. It destroys the normal tissues of the organism through the mold.

[Wood Crystal]: It contains 60% pure wood element energy.

[Life Crystal]: It contains 60% pure life energy.

Looking at the three gemstone-like crystals, Fang Mu knew his guess had come true.

Whether it is elemental crystal or life crystal, blending them into 60% purity falls within the terminality of advanced creators.

If low-level and intermediate creators can ensure that the elixirs they make contain 50% or more of elemental energy and life energy, they are already excellent.

With Xixi, who has evolved into a beastmaster, Fang Mu has the means of creators, even if he doesn't want to learn anymore.

The creator's assessment focuses mainly on practical operation.

Xixi, as Fang Mu's Guardian Beast, can now be added to his Destiny Guidebook.

The Creator's examination allows the use of their contractual Guardian Beasts to assist them.

Each Guardian beast that can assist a Creator is priced beyond ordinary people's imagination.

Just as Fang Mu was ecstatic, Xixi spoke.

"However, if Fang Mu prefers, Xixi can eat slower."

"Strive to achieve one hundred percent purity!"

Xixi's words left Fang Mu dumbfounded, then he looked at Xixi incredulously this copper-ranked guardian beast he had created.

What!

Xixi can purify and extract life energy and elemental energy purity from the rubbish to one hundred percent!

Fang Mu remembered reading that the elixirs formulated by the Grandmaster Creator contained elemental energy and life energy purity of only about ninety percent.

Xixi's ability to refine and extract elemental energy and life energy has surpassed that of the Grandmaster Creator.

Know that elemental energy and life energy are the basis for all Guardian Beasts' advancement.

Fang Mu tentatively tossed a wood crystal into the teacup in his hand, and then poured in boiling water.

The wood crystal immediately melted into the water.

Making the entire cup of water glow green, full of spring vibes.

Fang Mu did this because he wanted to play the role of a Master Creator or even a Grandmaster Creator on the Beastmaster Web.

He couldn't possibly directly mail elemental crystals and life crystals to people. He must sell them as Spiritual Liquid to prevent anyone from suspecting anything.

It's very easy for Xixi to refine elemental crystals and life crystals.

Hence, Fang Mu also threw the Life Crystal into the teacup.

After the Life Crystal melted, Fang Mu poured the water in the teacup directly into the pot of Coagulated Jade Camellia.

After having wronged the Coagulated Jade Camellia for such a long time, it was time to enhance the quality of the Coagulated Jade Camellia.

From then on, the Coagulated Jade Camellia will have life energy and Wood Element Energy supplement every day.

This way, the Coagulated Jade Camellia can also produce Condensed Jade Dew for him daily.

Fang Mu had hardly finished watering the Coagulated Jade Camellia.

In no time at all, several tender flower buds sprouted on the Coagulated Jade Camellia.

Fang Mu knew that he could not only feed the Aromatherapy Rabbit with the Condensing Jade Camellia in the future.

Even when he drew blood and wanted to recover Qi and Blood.

He can also use the petals of the Coagulated Jade Camellia to brew tea, without having to be as frugal as before.

Seeing the Aromatherapy Rabbit covetously staring at him, and then sniffing the Sediment Clearing Chrysanthemum in his hand with grievance.

Fang Mu softened his heart, picked a Condensing Jade Camellia flower, and handed it to the Aromatherapy Rabbit.

Normally, whether it's Fang Mu or his own siblings used to enhance the Guardian Beasts.

There is no need for too high purity of Elemental Energy and Life Energy. High-purity Life Energy and Elemental Energy are only needed by those Senior Creators.

So, in Xixi's daily eating, the eating speed is prioritized.

Unless he receives special orders, with special needs.

Otherwise, there's no need for Fang Mu to let Xixi refine high purity Elemental Crystals and Life Crystals.

Xixi's evolution is an accident and also a miracle.

Fang Mu took out his second drop of Covenant Blood Essence, ready to contract with Pure Water.

Fang Mu has already experienced the ability of Covenant Blood Essence to make life essence leap.

For Pure Water, which is already a Guardian Beast, the changes are bound to be no smaller than Xixi's..

Crazy! Are You Really A Beast Tamer? #Chapter 28 - 28: 28 Rainy Doll 1 - Read Crazy! Are You Really A Beast Tamer? Chapter 28 - 28: 28 Rainy Doll 1 Online - All Page - Novel Bin

Chapter 28 - 28: 28 Rainy Doll 1

Clean Water, as an Elemental Beast, had been placed in the Mirror Turtle Pendant for two months and appeared to have no changes at all.

On the contrary, it seemed even more transparent and shiny.

If before, Fang Mu might have felt quite a pressure to contract with Clean Water, an Elemental Beast of pure body, now, he, who could perfectly play the role of a Grandmaster Creator, could well afford to support Clean Water.

Isn't it just a high purity water attribute elemental energy?

With Xiaxia there, Fang Mu could have as much as he wanted.

Every expanse of water contained water elemental energy, the only problem was the multitude of impurities within it.

Fang Mu did not need to bring Xiaxia to the edge of a water body to purify it.

Fang Mu just needed to turn on the tap and let Xiaxia suck the tap water into its body.

This way, he could extract high-purity water elemental energy.

Fang Mu gently dripped the second drop of Contract Blood Essence on Clean Water.

Clean Water immediately wrapped around the Contract Blood Essence.

In an instant, the transparent Clean Water turned gold.

A faint radiance was constantly circulating inside.

The water orb, the size of a football, gradually formed a whirlpool.

The gold was constantly converging towards the centre of the whirlpool.

It seemed that a faint consciousness had emerged from the center of the whirlpool.

The water orb kept reconfiguring itself, and at the moment when the gold disappeared,

Clean Water had already transitioned from a floating water orb to two parts.

From the look of it, it's like a girl with a vague outline sitting on a water orb.

Due to the contract, that illusory girl-like water orb was getting ever closer to Fang Mu.

Elemental Spirits!

This only occurs in high-level Elemental Beasts.

It is also the beginning, or the possibility, of elemental beasts evolving into elves.

Elves are legendary guardian beasts.

They can control the environment of their own attribute in nature by themselves.

The description of such beasts in books is only fragmentary.

One would think that only a few major forces could have a glimpse into the cultivation pathway of elves.

Through the Eye of Omniscience, Fang Mu looked at Clean Water, which had made an obvious leap in life level after being contracted by him.

[Beast Name]: Clean Water Spirit [Beast Species]: Elemental Department/Aqua Spirit
Type

[Beast Level]: Bronze Stage (1/10) [Beast Element]: Water System [Beast Potential]:
Silver Stage [Beast Quality]: Standard Quality

Skills:

[Water Absorption Spirit]: Use its own water elemental energy as a carrier to contain another type of elemental energy, make this energy an attachment of its own, and can also mimic a living being of the contained attribute.

Evolutionary Path:

O: Sword Holding Water Servant, @: Water Beast Girl, O: Rainy Doll.

Fang Mu noticed that Clean Water's name had changed to Clean Water Spirit.

Its species had also changed from Water Element to Aqua Spirit Type.

This proved that Clean Water Spirit had indeed taken the first step towards evolving into an elf.

The original skill, Water Reception, had also changed to Water Absorption Spirit.

The previous Water Reception closely combined itself with the elemental energy being absorbed, with no distinction.

Now it treated the absorbed elemental energy as its own attachment.

This made it easier to control this kind of elemental energy.

At the same time, it could choose a living being of the absorbed attribute to mimic, thus enhancing its combat capability.

Originally, under the Eye of Omniscience, Clean Water's evolution path was not shown.

But after the evolution, other elemental energies had become attachments of Clean Water Spirit.

So these absorbed elemental energies would not influence the evolution direction of Clean Water Spirit.

If Clean Water Spirit wanted to evolve towards the Sword Holding Water Servant, it would need to continuously increase the flow speed of the inner water.

The Sword Holding Water Servant could transform the rapidly flowing water into a pair of swords.

This humanoid Elemental Beast predominantly engages in close combat.

Clearly, the evolutionary direction of a Water Beast Girl enhances the spirit-forming effect of the skill [Water Absorption Spirit].

It can manipulate one or more mimic water beasts for combat.

This mode of combat appears to be using numbers to win battles.

The water beasts that separate out are still a part of its own energy.

Therefore, this evolutionary path can only be flexed against those weaker than itself.

Fighting against those of similar strength wouldn't be particularly effective. The evolutionary path of the Rainy Doll is the one that best fits the current form of the pure water spirit.

Mainly by causing rain from high altitudes, it can attack and control opponents.

It can also switch to a close-combat state with the skill [Water Absorption Spirit].

Early on, Fang Mu planned to combine the Pure Water Spirit with a poison element using the Water Absorption skill.

Beastmaster Scholars generally believe that Poison Series Beasts are exceptionally powerful at lower levels.

But by the time they reach higher levels, their power begins to wane.

Adventure teams in the wild generally dislike teaming up with individuals who have contracted Poison Series Beasts.

The weakness of Poison Series Beasts at higher levels is not due to their poison weakening.

It is not particularly effective at inflicting damage on targets.

It's because Poison Series Beasts have weak armor-penetrating abilities and struggle to effectively deliver their poison into the target during combat.

Currently, the Clean Water Spirit can absorb various toxins.

Various toxins working together can inflict unimaginable damage.

For example, the mold toxin contained in the just absorbed Poison Crystal (Mold Poison) can corrode the target's outer scales.

Each toxin has its specific effects.

Acidic toxins, following the erosion of the mold toxin on the scales, can permeate to the inside.

This will accelerate the disintegration of the scales.

Once the tender skin is exposed, it will be destroyed.

Then, the Blood Poison and Neurotoxin can take effect.

With the presence of Absorption, Fang Mu can absorb the toxins contained in the blood and body fluids of beasts.

Training the Clean Water Spirit to become a combination of various toxins.

If Fang Mu continues on this training path, the Rainy Doll is the most suitable evolution target for the Pure Water Spirit.

These three evolutionary paths are often referred to as half-elves.

Those with real resources, confidence, and daring to contract Elemental Beasts, are generally the offspring of big powers.

The Elemental Beasts they contract are usually trained into this state.

Fang Mu threw the Poison Crystal (Mold Poison) towards the Pure Water Spirit.

Fang Mu found that the Pure Water Spirit gathered all of the toxins absorbed from the Poison Crystal into the Water Orb under its body.

It tinged the Water Orb beneath it with a faint grey-yellow color.

Fang Mu picked up a Sediment Clearing Chrysanthemum, allowing the Clean Water Spirit to touch the flower's petals with its water stream.

Fang Mu watched as the Sediment Clearing Chrysanthemum in his hand, tainted by the water stream.

It became full of grey-yellow mold in less than forty seconds.

Fang Mu casually threw the rotting Sediment Clearing Chrysanthemum to Absorption as a little snack.

Then Fang Mu took three planks of different thicknesses from the simple training room set up by Yan Wood at home.

He let the Pure Water Spirit attack the three planks.

Fang Mu discovered that the force of the Clean Water Spirit's water-flow strike was akin to a steel cable swung at full strength by a strong man.

The moment the water flow touched the plank, it made a short, sharp explosive sound.

After smashing the one centimeter thick plank into pieces, it then broke the one and a half centimeter thick plank.

On the two-centimeter plank, it left a whip mark that nearly pierced through the plank.

Seeing this, Fang Mu, facing the clearly smarter Pure Water Spirit, gave a thumbs up.

After expending two drops of Contracting Blood, Fang Mu acquired two beasts connected to his own bloodline.

After all this, it was already eleven o'clock in the evening.

All the food at home had been eaten by Absorption.

So, Fang Mu did not choose to cook for himself, but ordered takeout – a rarity for him.

After eating the takeout, Fang Mu logged into the official website of The Beastmaster Alliance.

He spent ten thousand Dragon Soaring Coins in the Beastmaster Website Area to purchase an anonymous Beastmaster Web Account.

He then used this anonymous account to log in to the Beastmaster Web..

Chapter 29 - 29: 29 Qixing!_I

Ten thousand Dragon Rising Coins were spent just for an anonymous Steward's Network account.

Basically, a Beast Master with decent conditions will have their own Steward's Network Account.

Those struggling Beast Masters with less favourable conditions wouldn't hesitate to spend five thousand Dragon Rising Coins on a Steward's Network login qualification once their strength has been elevated to Two Mang Star. Some things can't be obtained without logging into the Steward's Network.

Unless they have plenty of social connections.

But the favour spent on obtaining Guardian Beasts and spiritual materials through social connections is much more precious than money.

Just as Fang Mu was thinking about what name he should use for his anonymous Steward's Network account, his cell phone rang.

"Loving you walking alone down the dark alley, loving your unbowed figure, loving your fight against despair, refusing to shed a tear."

Hearing this ringtone, Fang Mu quickly answered the phone.

Fang Yuan had gone on a special mission for the Ten Thousand Treasures

Commerce and hadn't been in touch with Fang Mu in the past two months.

Fang Mu knew very well that after their parents passed away, both Fang Yuan and Fang Qin took charge of the family.

Fang Yuan's mind was more flexible than Fang Qin's, and he contributed more to their family.

To Fang Mu's family, Fang Yuan was a hero, quietly making sacrifices in the dark.

Fang Yuan's special tasks up to now had lasted at most one month each.

This time the duration had nearly doubled.

When Fang Qin and Xiao Yan called Fang Mu, although they never brought it up,

Fang Mu could tell how worried Fang Qin and Xiao Yan were about Fang Yuan.

As soon as he picked up, Fang Mu could hear the exhausted voice of Fang Yuan, trying to sound energetic, on the other end of the line.

"Little Wood, this mission took longer than usual, but everything went smoothly."

"From today on, I can call you as usual."

As a biologist in his past life, Fang Mu had a lot of medical knowledge.

Fang Yuan's hoarse voice indicated that he hadn't used it for a long time.

As an operative of Ten Thousand Treasures Commerce, it was impossible for Fang Yuan not to communicate with his companions during missions.

So, something must have happened to Fang Yuan.

However, Fang Mu didn't expose Fang Yuan. He had to respect his brother's stubbornness and responsibility towards their family.

Fang Mu took a dozen seconds to calm his feelings, then softly said,

"As long as everything's going smoothly!"

"Third Sister and eldest sister are very worried about you, you should call them to let them know you're safe."

Fang Yuan had always been aware that his little brother is very considerate since childhood, always considering other members of the house. Compared to Xiao Yan, Little Wood gave him fewer worries.

"I'll call eldest sister and Xiao Yan once I'm finished."

“I have good news for you. I was promoted during this mission, and have become the team leader of the Golden Gloves procurement division.”

“I won’t need to undertake secret missions anymore, and can just purchase supplies on weekdays!”

Fang Mu didn’t understand the promotion conditions among different levels of the Ten Thousand Treasures Commerce.

But the fact that Fang Yuan was directly promoted to the leader after a secret mission, showed just how much danger Fang Yuan was facing.

In the future, Fang Mu, as a Creator, would sell supplies on the Beastmaster

Web.

If he had to sell anyway, he might as well boost his performance.

To maintain the long-term relationship with a high-level Creator, Ten Thousand Treasures Commerce would definitely not let him suffer any loss.

Because in the world of Beast Masters, the resources of a high-level Creator are priceless!

The resources of a high-level Creator are far more valuable than money itself.

“Bro, as a leader of the Golden Gloves procurement division, do you mainly connect with major powers in real life or connect through the Beastmaster

Web?”

Fang Mu’s question puzzled Fang Yuan somewhat.

In Fang Yuan’s memory, Fang Mu was not a curious person.

Moreover, Fang Mu shied away from discussing matters concerning the Beast Master realm.

However, Fang Yuan interpreted this as Fang Mu’s concern for him and thought nothing more of it.

“But the Beastmaster Web isn’t exactly the ideal place for scavenging.”

“Even if one constantly keeps an eye on it, there are hardly any opportunities for good finds.”

Fang Mu nodded subtly, acknowledging Fang Yuan’s words.

Indeed, with nearly all Beast Masters choosing to use the Beastmaster Web, it attracted an enormous volume of users.

Which was much higher than the daily amount of resources listed for sale.

Consequently, as long as the listed resources are reasonably priced, they sell out quickly.

Some creators, despite having a Beastmaster Web account, do not personally sell their resources on it.

These transactions are typically carried out by the Creator’s Assistant.

If one tried contacting the Beastmaster Web account selling the supplies, they likely wouldn’t reach the Creator themselves.

Add to this, the lofty social status of the Creators.

Even if one managed to reach a Creator's Beastmaster Web account, there's no guarantee the Creator would respond.

Fang Mu, aware of Fang Yuan's Beastmaster Web account name and ID, knew how to contact him privately.

When the time came, Fang Mu would merely need a few simple operations to avoid raising Fang Yuan's suspicions.

Fang Yuan didn't chat for as long with Fang Mu as he typically does.

Both Fang Qin and Yan Wood were worriedly waiting for his call.

Before hanging up, Fang Yuan spoke.

"Little Wood, if your goal is to become a Maker's Assistant and you're working towards this, "

"I suggest you attend the public lectures of the creators during your vacation."

"I earned a good bonus from this mission, so I'll transfer 100,000 Dragon Rising Coins to you!"

With that, Fang Yuan ended the call.

This was the first time Fang Yuan had intervened in Fang Mu's development and life plans.

Upon learning Fang Mu lacked the talent to become a Beast Master, Fang Yuan hoped that Fang Mu, as an ordinary person, could lead a safe and happy life.

Fang Yuan, Fang Qin, and Yan Wood cared deeply for Fang Mu.

Knowing Fang Mu was working hard on this path and had achieved interim success,

Fang Yuan was willing to offer the money he had set aside for his own advancement to assist Fang Mu in his progress.

For anyone aspiring to become a Maker's Assistant, attending creators' public lectures would be the best choice,

However, at the cost of twenty thousand Dragon Rising Coins per class given by a low-level creator.

It's a luxury few can afford.

On the other side of the call, Fang Mu listened to the busy tone of the phone. After a moment of contemplation, he knitted his brows.

Ever since Fang Yuan offered him money a year ago, which he rejected,

Fang Yuan would always inform him about a fund transfer at the end of each call and then promptly hang up.

Fang Mu's goal hasn't been to become a Maker's Assistant for over two months now.

Given the option, Fang Mu could even masquerade as a Grandmaster Creator.

As much as Fang Mu remained committed to learning and absorbing knowledge,

He refused to pay such a hefty price for courses delivered by low-level creators.

Once a Creator crosses the advanced level to become Master Creator,

They earn their own distinctive title.

Titles for Beast Masters were mostly recognized by others,

But out of respect, creators often chose their own titles.

After a bit of hesitation, Fang Mu decided on the name “Qixing” for his Beastmaster Web account.

The moon waxes and wanes, yet the stars persist.

Each life is a unique star, asserting its solitary splendor.

Fang Mu aspired to be the light that perpetually illuminates these stars.

This was his intent as a biologist in a previous life, and it remains as the intent of the Creator in this life.

In the still of the night, the name Qixing ignites like starfire on the Beastmaster Web..

Chapter 30 - 30: 30 Has the skin been exfoliated? 1

Fang Mu had never logged onto the Beastmaster Web before.

Upon logging in, Fang Mu discovered that the Beastmaster Web basically resembled a second world built by networking.

There were countless forums and communities on it, posting a variety of news and gossip.

Enriching the lives of Beast Masters.

Before each rare resource is put up for sale in the trade area, one can see the price of that resource from its last transaction on the Beastmaster Web.

This ensures that adventurers who are not very familiar with the value of such resources, do not end up selling their loot too cheaply.

The purpose of this is to provide the maximum protection to the seller's rights.

It also encourages Beast Masters and Creators to sell supplies on the Beastmaster Web.

Of course, enjoying preferential treatment also requires fulfilling corresponding responsibilities.

The Beast Masters and Creators who sell resources on the Beastmaster Web must ensure the accuracy of the information they provide.

The Beastmaster Web officials responsible for the logistics will verify the goods before shipping.

If they find any discrepancies, the seller will face severe penalties.

And compensation must be paid to the buyer.

Fang Mu first took a look at the rules and regulations on the Beastmaster Web.

Only after understanding the rules and regulations did Fang Mu start searching for Condensed Jade Dew in the trade area.

The Red Jade Mountain Tea had evolved into Coagulated Jade Camellia after absorbing Blood Aged Wine.

Indeed, Coagulated Jade Camellia was rare, and there was no exact illustration of it in the related materials.

However, that didn't prove that others didn't possess Coagulated Jade Camellia.

After Fang Mu's search, he found flowers from Coagulated Jade Camellia being sold in the trade area, but there was no Condensed Jade Dew.

Only after a thorough search did he find a few skincare products containing Condensed Jade Dew.

All these skincare products had one thing in common – their extreme high prices.

The cheapest product, a face cream with only one-fifth of a drop of Condensed Jade Dew, was priced around six thousand Dragon Rising Coins.

Face cream that included a whole drop of Condensed Jade Dew was even more expensive than a public class given by a low-level Creator.

The Dragon Rising Federation had very clear regulations regarding the processed goods of rare resources.

Unless it is an elixir concocted by a Creator, all products must clearly state the ingredients and the quantities therein.

With Fang Mu's level of knowledge, he could easily estimate the prices of the rare resources added into these face creams.

Fluorescent Coral Branch Powder, Moist Pearl Powder, Skin Beautifying Flower Juice...

Take for example a moderately priced face cream that cost eight thousand five hundred Dragon Rising Coins.

Excluding these commonly used resources beneficial for skin hydration and nourishment, the price of each one-fifth drop of Condensed Jade Dew was four thousand two hundred Dragon Rising Coins.

The effort and time taken to mix these resources could be disregarded.

The truly effective ingredient in these face creams was Condensed Jade Dew.

All that had to be done was to properly proportion and mix each resource, then package them accordingly.

After seeing these face cream brands and their products, Fang Mu decided to set the price of Condensed Jade Dew at twenty-one thousand Dragon Rising Coins.

This price was on par with a decent bronze-rank Guardian Beast.

On one hand, this was related to the rarity of the Coagulated Jade Camellia, a plant-type beastmaster.

On the other hand, obtaining Condensed Jade Dew requires consumption of Life Energy and Wood Element Energy.

Therefore, the cost of producing a drop of Condensed Jade Dew is not cheap.

But as he had access to Blood Aged Wine and the Flower Spirit, selling Condensed Jade Dew amounted to a no-cost business for Fang Mu.

As Fang Mu continued to nourish the Coagulated Jade Camellia with Life Energy and Wood Element Energy of over sixty percent purity, the plant would produce more flowers, thus generating more Condensed Jade Dew.

In the future, by selling Condensed Jade Dew, Fang Mu could earn over five hundred thousand Dragon Rising Coins daily.

By using the Blood Aged Wine and the Flower Spirit, Fang Mu could impersonate a Grandmaster Creator on the Beastmaster Web.

Five hundred thousand Dragon Rising Coins for Fang Mu was just a spoonful of water taken from the sea.

However, this was enough to make Fang Mu happy at this moment.

This is the first money Fang Mu earned in the Beast Master field.

Now Fang Mu can also earn money to support his family!

While exploring skincare products with the ingredient of Coagulated Jade Dew, Fang Mu found that luxury goods in the Beastmaster field were numerous.

In some skincare products, a large amount of Flower Jade ingredients were added.

The difficulty of cultivating a Guardian Beast that can sprout a Flower Spirit is challenging.

This makes Flower Jade's price put off many low-level creators.

Fang Mu has thought about creating a skincare brand through the increasingly large amount of Coagulated Jade Dew he holds.

This way, his profit could be maximized.

However, with a little thought, Fang Mu gave up this idea.

Because it's complicated and requires many procedures to create a brand and make a record in the Dragon Rising Federation.

It's not something someone without the proper channels could achieve in a short time.

Instead of spending such energy and time, it is better to let the enhancements eat more rubbish.

This way, Fang Mu could find more ways to make money.

But what kind of monsters are those advertised in high-end skincare products!?

“Has the skin been exfoliated?”

Is this something to tell customers, to ask them?

After determining the price, Fang Mu decisively put all seventy-two drops of Coagulated Jade Dew up for sale in the trade area.

He sold it at a price of twenty-two thousand Dragon Rising Coins per drop.

Since it is rare, the rarity makes it precious.

Fang Mu increasing the price by a thousand Dragon Rising Coins is quite reasonable.

“Langya Biology” is a large biological group in Qing Cang Province, mainly breeding wolf-type creatures.

The Beast Taming Base run by Fang Mu’s parents needs to source their goods from upstream.

Biological groups like “Langya Biology” are suppliers to all small and medium-sized beast taming bases.

Although “Langya Biology’s” business scope has not exceeded Qing Cang Province,

In various cities of Qing Cang Province, it is definitely a well-known existence.

Only a few large biological groups that also mainly breed wolf-type creatures

Can compete with “Langya Biology”.

Feng Chenhao is a direct line member of the “Langya Biology” group.

But family-style large groups like “Langya Biology” often have numerous direct descendants due to their thriving population.

It is really difficult for the younger generation to stand out.

Feng Chenhao has lived in a competitive environment since childhood.

From the moment of birth, everyone, apart from enhancing their power, must also find ways to please the authorities within the family.

In another half a month, it will be the centenary birthday banquet of his own grandmother.

As a way of expressing filial piety, the young direct descendants of the family started preparing gifts early.

Feng Chenhao was no exception.

However, not only does the family host a banquet for grandmother's centenary, but also every year prior.

Feng Chenhao and his nearly thirty-plus brothers and sisters have tried various innovative gifts over twenty years.

It's hard to find a gift that is both thoughtful and practical.

Therefore, Feng Chenhao has specially sorted out his own treasure trove, and even got a lot of funds from his parents.

He spent almost all day and night on the Beastmaster Web looking..