Chapter 37 The Thirst for Blood of Abundance! 1

The Blood Clan's newborns belong to the vanguard-level alien beasts, with only a few capable of battling against the Guardian Beasts at the Silver Peak.

They are produced from the Blood Fort Dimensional Rift.

The Blood Fort Dimensional Rift is not among the commonly opened five major dimensional rifts, it is extraordinarily rare.

Even the lowest level of Blood Clan newborn from within the Blood Fort Dimensional Rift has intelligence that matches humans.

The hair of this Blood Clan newborn is already showing a trend of turning golden.

The dead yet unseeing eyes, their pupils are dark red.

There isn't much difference from the color of blood.

This indicates that this Blood Clan newborn was only a short distance away from becoming a Blood Noble.

A Blood Noble can hard fight against Gold Level Guardian Beasts purely based on their physical strength.

Under the display of their blood energy, many Gold Level Guardian Beasts also have to avoid their sharp edge.

Usually, it takes two to three Gold Peak Guardian Beasts to take down a Blood Noble produced from within the Blood Fort Dimensional Rift.

The blood of the Blood Clan contains terrifying toxins.

This toxin can cause confusion of the mind.

High-ranking Blood Clan members can turn humans and animal-type Guardian Beasts into their Blood Servants through their own venom.

This is enough to show how strong the effect of the Blood Clan's toxin is.

The usual "Scavenger" members would avoid dealing with the corpses of the Blood Clan.

But Fang Mu became even more excited when he saw the corpse of a Blood

Clan newborn.

Fang Mu needs to extract various poison crystals from alien beasts to cultivate the Clean Water Spirit.

The Blood Clan can be determined as a toxic creature.

The Clean Water Spirit can mimic the Blood Clan through Skill [Water Spirit Conversion].

The best part about the Clean Water Spirit's Skill [Water Spirit Conversion] is that it can freely change its own absorbed creatures.

With the current strength of the Clean Water Spirit at the Copper Level, it should be barely able to mimic a Blood Clan newborn.

However, to mimic through Skill [Water Spirit Conversion], it is necessary to act on a living life.

A Blood Clan Newborn has always been one of the targets Fang Mu has favored.

The deceased Blood Clan newborn in front of him is the first time Fang Mu has seen the true face of the Blood Clan in reality.

Before becoming a Guardian Beast, Absorption can fill its stomach with just dust.

After becoming a Copper Level Guardian Beast, Absorption's appetite greatly increased.

Fang Mu, who is not good at producing garbage, hasn't let Absorption have a good meal.

When Absorption, which had been hungry all the time, saw so much meat to eat, the metal tendrils unconsciously slid along the ground.

It's like a human drooling.

Absorption turned the gears and said in a pitiful tone.

"Fang Mu, Absorption is hungry! Want to eat!"

In an incineration room without surveillance, outsiders have no way of knowing how Fang Mu deals with alien beast corpses.

Fang Mu and the Clean Water Spirit stood inside the air thin film propped up by Absorption, going to the alien beast corpse display area.

Fang Mu tentatively placed Absorption's garbage cleaning part on an alien bug corpse.

Absorption happily wriggled its metal tendrils.

These metal tendrils quickly probe into the body of this Vanguard Level alien bug named Edge Worm.

The insect armor of the Edge worm is hard and can easily cut through the defenses of most Copper Level Guardian Beasts.

But under the constant collisions of the nodes of Absorption's metal tendrils, the insect armor of the Edge Worm was directly crushed into crumbs.

It's like human chewing crunchy bones.

If you had to make Fang Mu describe what Absorption's eating process is like at this time.

Fang Mu thinks Absorption is a bit like a hydraulic machine.

In no time, this Edge Worm completely disappeared into Absorption's stomach.

Having a steady intake of food allows the purity of the condensed Life Crystals to reach sixty percent.

This aligned perfectly with Fang Mu's needs.

After eating, the energy supply allows Adsorption to better maintain the use of the skill [Garbage Recycling].

Adsorption is a good child that is not picky about food.

That's why whichever Alien Beast Corpse Fang Mu holds in front of Adsorption, Adsorption will eat it till there's not a shred of it left.

About six hours later, only the corpse of the Bloodline Newborn was left in the Alien Beast Corpse display area.

During this time, the space for Adsorption's extracted cargo was filled up three times.

Fang Mu had harvested a total of forty-five intact Life Crystals.

And seventeen various types of Poison Crystals.

This harvest satisfied Fang Mu very much.

When Adsorption ate the garbage in the refrigerator and freezer at home, it only condensed a life crystal the size of a thumb nail.

It is obvious that this Life Crystal is incomplete.

Fang Mu was worried that it might take a long time to condense a complete Life Crystal.

Now, Fang Mu could finally rest assured.

Upon inspection, the seventeen harvested Poison Crystals divided into four categories.

[Acid Poison] [Erosion Poison] [Mold Poison] and [Blood Poison].

All these are common types of toxins, all of which harm the physical body.

The spiritual toxin possessed by Blood Clan Newborns can only be obtained from a few types of Alien Beasts.

Fang Mu placed Adsorption on the corpse of the Blood Clan Newborn.

The bones of the Blood Clan Newborn are much tougher than those of Alien Bugs and low-ranked demons.

To devour the Blood Clan Newborn, Adsorption had to put in extra effort, spending a full half hour.

At Adsorption's rate of consumption, it could typically handle ten other Vanguard Beast Corpses in this amount of time.

When Fang Mu was investigating the gains from the Blood Clan newborn's corpse, he suddenly found that in addition to the extra half of a Life Crystal—

In the space to load Adsorption's extracted substances, there was an additional half of a dark red crystal and a whole milky white crystal.

Fang Mu used the Eye of Omniscience to examine the half piece of the crystal he hadn't seen before.

[Bloodline Crystal]: It contains sixty percent purity of blood energy.

[Toxic Crystal (Spiritual Toxin)]: The spiritual toxin erodes the target's spiritual power, causing the target's spirit to gradually descend into a state of chaos and disorder.

The formation of a [Toxic Crystal (Spiritual Toxin)] was within Fang Mu's expectations.

However, Fang Mu did not expect that a crystal of blood energy could also be condensed.

Blood energy is not one of the elemental energies found in nature.

It's also clearly not something that can be extracted from the flesh and blood of normal Alien Beasts.

Because the previous ninety-nine Vanguard Beast Corpses devoured by Adsorption had not allowed Adsorption to condense even a tiny bit of Bloodline Crystal.

It seems that the Bloodline Crystal contains an energy unique to the Blood Clan.

It was at this moment that Fang Mu's soul trembled.

Fang Mu felt his dormant Destiny Guardian Beast, the Abundance of Blood, had a strong desire for the Bloodline Crystal that Adsorption had just condensed.

Fang Mu did not immediately respond to the Abundance of Blood's request.

Even if he was certain the incineration room was very safe, to be on the safe side—

Fang Mu still decided to wait until he got home to summon the Abundance of Blood.

Fang Mu wanted to see what kind of improvements there would be after the Abundance of Blood devoured this half of a Blood Crystal.

As his Destiny Guardian Beast, the level of the Abundance of Blood is related to his own spiritual power.

But the way to improve the Guardian Beast's quality had to be found by himself.

It seems that this Bloodline Crystal can probably be used to improve the quality of the Abundance of Blood!
