

Beast Tamer 40

Chapter 40 Flame-winged Lion Scorpion

Fang Mu had always liked to think thoroughly before undertaking anything.

He continuously built on his identity as a disciple of the Grandmaster Creator.

This identity served as his protective shell.

If he were to attract the attention of the “Scavengers”, he might be able to leverage his identity as a disciple of the Grandmaster Creator to engage in resource trading with the “Scavengers”.

In this way, he would subtly become a collaborator with the “Scavengers”, an official organization.

It would also give him greater say within this organization.

Even if there were many good things on the Beastmaster Web.

There wouldn’t likely be anything of the Ghost System Beast’s level.

Each time a Destruction-level Dimensional Rift opened, billions of strange creatures would pour out.

It was not something a single person or power could deal with.

Therefore, the vast majority of Ghost System Beasts were in the hands of official organizations.

To obtain a Ghost System Beast, it was best to transact with such an official organization.

His identity as a disciple of the Grandmaster Creator served as a layer of protection.

It allowed him to use this identity to easily interact with various major powers and conglomerates.

If the “Scavengers” , an official organization, were to add another layer of protection for him.

Then he would basically not have to worry about safety issues anymore.

Time waits for no one, after thanking He Qing, Fang Mu immediately hailed a ride to the Creator’s Guild.

He Qing had no idea that his subconscious sigh and information sharing would be the inception of a change in the “Scavengers” history.

On the way to the Creator’s Guild, Fang Mu began to tally up his gains.

The second time around, he gained four more Blood Clan Newborn Corpses than the first time.

Making Fang Mu’s combined haul from both times.

A total of one hundred and one Life Crystals and three Blood Crystals.

As well as thirty-six various kinds of Poison Crystals.

This evening, he would be able to complete his trade with Fang Yuan.

Fang Mu could guess that even after signing the agreement, Fang Yuan’s heart would still be hanging in suspense.

After all, if he were to breach the contract, the money would be paid to the Ten Thousand Treasures Commerce.

It would have nothing to do with Fang Yuan.

After supplying the goods tonight, Fang Yuan would definitely be delighted.

As the Creator's Guild is an organization aimed at Creators, its construction is extremely elegant.

At the entrance, there are six impeccably dressed attendants.

Next to each of these attendants crouches a large male lion with flames burning on its body and two pairs of golden wings.

A giant scorpion tail, longer than the body, coiled under the lion's buttocks.

The Flame-winged Lion Scorpion is the standard Guardian Beast of the Creator's Guild.

The level of the Flame-winged Lion Scorpion contracted by the attendants varies greatly depending on the level of the Creator's Guild at each door.

For instance, JA City, being the provincial capital of Jing Hai province, has a second-level Creator's Guild. Hence, all Flame-winged Lion Scorpions are of platinum level.

If it were the Creator's Guild headquarters in the Imperial City, the six attendants at the door would all have contracted with a platinum-level Flame-winged Lion Scorpion with three pairs of wings.

These attendants are strong fighters nurtured by the Creator's Guild itself.

They are responsible for handling all miscellaneous matters of the Creator's Guild and ensuring the safety of the Creators.

They can also be hired by Creators.

To hire an attendant like this, one would first undergo Creator level certification at the Creator's Guild.

Then, a sizeable amount of money would also need to be spent.

Hiring an attendant from the Creator's Guild to stand by one's side could best flaunt a Creator's status.

The Flame-winged Lion Scorpion is one of the few Guardian Beasts that can fly over the city during non-war periods, making it very conspicuous.

However, under normal circumstances, only the mid and low-level creators would choose to hire attendants who have contracted with the Flame-winged Lion Scorpions.

Any Creator whose power reaches the senior level will have his own trustworthy subordinates.

As the producer of resources, the strength of the subordinates of a senior Creator will undoubtedly be extraordinary.

In the world of Beast Masters, the number of Creators is just too scarce.

Demand determines position, this is an everlasting truth in the world of Beast Masters.

Being an assistant to a junior Creator is considered a lifetime honour and an objective for many people.

This reflects the powerful people who are desperately searching for resources and seeking to enhance their strength.

They wish to have a Creator to rely on, even if they have to pay the price of freedom.

Within a radius of five thousand meters of the entrance to the Creator's Guild, only vehicles and Guardian Beasts owned by Creators are allowed.

So, Fang Mu, who got off his Six-Hoof Dish Sheep car, has to walk five thousand meters to reach the entrance of the Creator's Guild.

From a distance, Fang Mu saw those six Flame-Winged Lion Scorpions. Fang Mu subconsciously used the Eye of Omniscience for detection.

[Beast Name]: Flame-Winged Lion Scorpion [Beast Species]: Insect/Scorpion Lion Genus

[Beast Level]: Platinum (10/10) [Beast Element]: Fire Series [Beast Potential]: Platinum [Beast Quality]: Perfect Quality

Skill:

[Fire Tail Chain]: The scorpion's tail condenses into a flexible flame chain that can elongate indefinitely and bind the target. Every time the chains overlap, an explosion will occur at the overlap.

[Fire Feather Scorcher]: The wings turn into blade, enveloping the flowing magma to perform accurate continuous piercing attacks on the target.

[Flame Lion Roar]: Enhance the activity of fire element through roaring, strengthen self's fire elemental attack, and to a certain extent suppress the activity of other types of elements.

[Broken Tail Ash]: All own fire elemental energy gathered at the scorpion's tail, released by the method of tail detachment, the target bound by the Fire Tail Chain is burned to ashes.

Exclusive trait:

[Scorpion Heart]: Fearless of pain, every time they get hurt, their ferocity will increase.

Evolutionary Path:

O: Glory Lion Scorpion, @: Kite Wing Scorpion Lion, O: Giant Lion Scorpion.

In the library, Fang Mu had observed a Sequential Type Beast called Sleepy Night Cloud, but couldn't see its specific data.

Speaking of which, Platinum rank level ten, perfect quality Flame-Winged Lion Scorpion, could be said the highest rank Beast that Fang Mu has observed using the Eye of Omniscience.

Just looking at the skills, Fang Mu could imagine how spectacular and magnificent the Flame-Winged Lion Scorpion would be in battle.

In terms of the evolution path, to evolve into a Glory Lion Scorpion, it required the induction of fire elemental energy with a purity exceeding 80%.

Fire elemental energy with a purity exceeding 80%, was within the ability range of a veteran Master Creator.

Such level of resources will not be spent on attendants.

Therefore, even at headquarters, there are not many attendants who have contracted Glory Lion Scorpions.

As for Kite Wing Scorpion Lion, it reversed the order of bloodline, introducing the Toxic System into the Fire System. This lowered the explosiveness of fire elements, resulting in a very bad way of evolution.

Similarly, Giant Lion Scorpion weakened their ability to use flames, choosing to use potential to multiply their body size.

It was said that Giant Lion Scorpion could reach a body length of nearly thirty meters and a height of eight meters.

The wings on their back, when spread out, could directly encircle a building.

However, the increased body size meant that every battle the Giant Lion Scorpion fought would inevitably cause great damage to the surrounding environment.

Therefore, the attendants of the Creator's Guild stayed in the Flame-Winged Lion Scorpion stage and chose not to evolve further.

While observing the Flame-winged Lion Scorpion, Fang Mu had already reached the entrance of the Creator's Guild.

No sooner had Fang Mu reached the entrance, he was stopped by an attendant..