

Beast Tamer 54

Chapter 54 Exclusive Feature: Above the Green Field! 1

Upon hearing Feng Lin's exclamation, Fang Mu's desire for knowledge was greatly aroused.

However, Fang Mu did not let this emotion show.

He was suppressing it with all his might.

To outsiders, Fang Mu seemed only mildly interested in this.

It was as if Fang Mu had previously learned about similar knowledge.

No wonder all the books and materials about the Fifth and Sixth Epochs are full of fragmented information.

It was like a gap.

So much had happened in between, to the point where the energy system of the mortal world had undergone a transformation.

At this point, Fang Mu just listened as Feng Lin continued to speak.

"Now all Nini can do for me is take care of the vines that are planted in my office's fish tank."

"I dare not let her perform any healing."

"Nini is not like ordinary healing beast tamers, she consumes her own life energy when she heals."

“But she can’t synthesize life energy on her own, she can only replenish it with a life elixir.’

“This probably happened because there is no spiritual energy anymore.”

“If there was spiritual energy, perhaps Nini could synthesize life energy on her own!”

Hearing this, Fang Mu nodded.

Feng Lin’s speculation was quite reasonable.

However, a speculation is just a speculation.

The exclusive trait of Hundred Lilies Flower Child, [Mind Divide], can separate countless individual entities.

This could easily handle Feng Lin’s office, which was a full two thousand square meters.

Because of her beast affinity direction, Feng Lin had never contracted with Nini.

Instead, she treated Nini like her own daughter.

Feng Lin wasn’t really complaining about Nini.

Feng Lin said all this to tell Fang Mu that when selecting a beast tamer, one should consider the aspect of resources.

Soon, Nini peered her head in from the door.

Once she was sure that only Feng Lin and Fang Mu were in the office, Nini gathered her courage and came to Feng Lin’s side.

In her hand, she held a stalk of green grass.

Upon seeing this, Fang Mu thought to himself.

This ordinary-looking grass, which would go unnoticed if planted in the ground, is probably the Wood Domain -Type Control Beast, Eden Greenfield.

Fang Mu immediately used the Eye of Knowledge to investigate it.

[Beast Name]: Eden Greenfield [Beast Species]: Poaceae/Nyctaginaceae

[Beast Level]: Bronze (10/10) [Beast Element]: Wood [Beast Potential]: Silver Stage [Beast Quality]: Perfect

Skill:

[Greenery]: Uses itself as a base point to spread the green field around, bringing about a certain healing effect. The area of the green field changes depending on the energy consumed.

Exclusive Trait:

[Above the Green Field]: With every stage of advancement, a juvenile plant-type beastmaster can be planted on the Green Field, turning it into a part of the Green Field and giving it its exclusive trait. (Once the trait [Above the Green Field] is activated, advancing in ranks will not gain subsequent skills.)

Evolutionary Path:

O Vibrant Green Oasis, @ Scavenging Wilderness, O Eden Dreamland.

After taking a look, Fang Mu finally understood.

He now understood why Feng Lin previously mentioned it would cost resources equivalent to nurturing five equally outstanding beast tamers to cultivate Eden Greenfield to the Diamond Rank.

To get Eden Greenfield to a rank above sequential species might require resources equivalent to cultivating even more outstanding beast tamers of the same rank.

But this doesn't diminish the excellence and strength of Eden Greenfield.

With the exclusive trait [Above the Green Field], all Fang Mu needed to do was cultivate different types of plant-type beastmasters.

And nurture these various plant-type beastmasters.

Doing so would give Eden Greenfield endless possibilities.

Fang Mu had no reason to refuse such a control beast.

Even if, once the exclusive trait [Above the Green Field] is activated, Eden Greenfield will no longer gain skills, it doesn't matter much.

Because once a control beast is cultivated to epic quality, it can acquire two exclusive traits.

If cultivated to legendary quality, it can acquire three traits.

The lack of skills can be well compensated by the Creator's resource input.

Moreover, according to scholars' research, exclusive traits are often stronger than skills.

As for evolution, the first evolutionary path of Eden Greenfield is the Vibrant Green Oasis.

This obviously enhances Eden Greenfield's original healing ability.

The second evolution route turns Eden Greenfield into a wood and earth dual-element control beast, the Scavenging Wilderness.

This transforms its original healing effect into control and attack effects.

Both of these evolution paths are reasonable, but obviously not as good as the third one.

The Eden Dreamland is an upgrade based on Eden Greenfield's original bloodline.

This way of upgrading does not limit Eden Greenfield's capabilities.

It is the most suitable for Fang Mu to flexibly configure.

Since everything was satisfactory, Fang Mu had no reason not to keep it.

"Miss Fang Lin, I've decided to take this Eden Greenfield as my reward!" Feng Lin said nothing more upon hearing this.

She immediately had Nini hand over Eden Greenfield to Fang Mu.

Upon receiving Eden Greenfield, Fang Mu immediately stored it in his Mirror

Turtle Pendant.

He planned to contract Eden Greenfield when the new drop of Covenant Blood Essence formed.

The only control beast Fang Mu could use for combat was the Clean Water Spirit.

Considering Eden Greenfield's exclusive trait [Above the Green Field], the first planted plant-type control beast should best be combined with Clean Water Spirit.

The moment Fang Mu saw the data on Eden Greenfield he had a clear choice in mind.

Once Fang Mu has contracted Eden Greenfield, he can help the Clean Water Spirit absorb the bloodline newborn through the skill [Water Absorption Spirit].

Even if Clean Water Spirit has not been upgraded to Silver Stage, Fang Mu is capable of participating in the ranked games on the Battle Network!

Fang Mu was about to take part in his first battle as a Beast Master!

Feng Lin thought Fang Mu wasn't a reckless, unfathomable person.

But what made Fang Mu so confident that he could choose Eden Greenfield!?

Feng Lin did not immediately test Fang Mu.

She went straight to the point instead.

"Now that you've chosen your control beast, why not tell me what you need from the base-grade silver spiritual instrument!"

It's not that Feng Lin was mean to have Fang Mu choose a base-grade silver instrument.

For a Spirit Forging Master like Feng Lin, crafting a silver instrument was not difficult.

Lower, middle, and upper grades didn't make much of a difference for Feng Lin.

Feng Lin let Fang Mu choose a low-grade silver instrument because, before Fang Mu became a Biprong Star Tamer,

Low-grade silver instruments were the best choice.

Using spiritual instruments also consumes spiritual power.

If the tier of a spiritual instrument is too high, it will exceed the user's load.

There's a chance that the user's spiritual power might get hurt.

Before Fang Mu expressed his requirements, Feng Lin reminded him. "The first thing to ensure in the combat of Beast Masters is their own safety."

"Wanting to win, it's always easier to kill the Beast Master than it is to kill the beast they've contracted."

"So I suggest you choose a defensive type of spiritual instrument."

Fang Mu shook his head again at her words.

Previously, because Fang Mu couldn't become a Beast Master, he had been striving to become a Maker's Assistant.

He also thought that even if he didn't get the chance to be a Maker's Assistant, he could take a step back and choose to become an assistant to a Spirit-smithing Master.

Having been a biologist in his past life, Fang Mu had top-notch sketching skills.

When observing in the wilderness, Fang Mu liked to draw everything he saw. He had drawn a few drafts a long time ago.

Now finally, Fang Mu had the opportunity to have Feng Lin turn his sketches into actual spiritual instruments!
