

Crazy! Are You Really A Beast Tamer?

#Chapter 6 - 6: 6 Red Jade Mountain Tea_1 - Read Crazy! Are You Really A Beast Tamer? Chapter 6 - 6: 6 Red Jade Mountain Tea_1

Chapter 6 - 6: 6 Red Jade Mountain Tea_1

A dilapidated dry well with a diameter of about one meter appeared in front of Fang Mu.

At this moment, there seemed to be nothing special about this well.

Fang Mu reached out and touched the rim of the well, on which laid the tic-tac-toe chessboard of his childhood in his last life.

His eyes reflected a nostalgic expression.

This brief moment gave Fang Mu a sense of being transcended in time.

Fang Mu did not immediately infuse his blood into this well known as the Blood of Abundance.

Instead, he went to his bedroom and picked up a potted plant with lush green leaves, and three or four small flowers on top.

This potted plant was brought back by his second brother, Fang Yuan, a year ago when he had just become a Golden Glove of the Ten Thousand Treasures Commerce.

He brought it back when he returned home for the New Year.

At that time, his second brother only mentioned that this potted plant was called the Red Jade Mountain Tea.

He advised them to keep it at home and use its leaves for treatment whenever someone gets hurt.

Fang Mu wrote 'Red Jade Mountain Tea' here. Never had he had a chance to actually use it.

However, his Third Sister Fang Yan, often had to take practical combat classes during her college years, and so she often got injured.

This Red Jade Mountain Tea plant has its leaves plucked by Fang Yan almost every day.

Although the health of the Red Jade Mountain Tea plant is not good, it has little to do with Fang Yan's frequent plucking.

Fang Mu intentionally checked up on this floral beast known as Red Jade Mountain Tea at the school library.

The reason why Fang Mu went to the library to gather information about the Red Jade Mountain Tea was because they have tried everything they knew and used a large amount of special plant beast fertilizer.

However, they still could not stop the worsening condition of the Red Jade Mountain Tea plant.

Through exploration at the library,

Fang Mu found out that Red Jade Mountain Tea is a type of floral beast that craves wood element energy.

Besides the Wood Element Energy, it also needs to absorb life energy regularly.

In order to sprout more flower buds and become stronger and healthier.

The life energy is the cornerstone of all Spiritual Beast Evolution.

Only a creator can concoct life energy.

The more powerful a creator is, the purer the life energy they can concoct.

To raise Red Jade Mountain Tea, one could say that it requires a considerable amount of resources and energy.

Fang Mu and Fang Yan could provide the Red Jade Mountain Tea with less pristine wood element energy.

But they were reluctant to provide any life energy to the Red Jade Mountain Tea.

Even the life energy elixirs concocted by a junior creator, which consist of 90% of impurities, could be sold at the high price of eight hundred Dragon Rising Coins.

To satisfy the demand of Red Jade Mountain Tea for life energy, it has to be irrigated with a bottle every five days or so.

The cost of this expenditure is not commensurate with the value that Red Jade Mountain Tea can bring.

But despite this, for preserving the livelihood of Red Jade Mountain Tea,

Fang Yan would not pluck the leaves anymore even when she got injured.

Because the Red Jade Mountain Tea is a floral beast that can give birth to a flower spirit through evolution.

Once the Red Jade Mountain Tea nurtures a flower spirit and produces the flower jade,

The value of Red Jade Mountain Tea would become immeasurable.

Under Fang Mu's careful care, the Red Jade Mountain Tea, which has been recuperating for a few months,

Can now have a few of its leaves plucked off once again.

The reason why Fang Mu decided to consume the leaves of the Red Jade Mountain Tea was because he planned to let himself bleed a lot this time.

He aimed to infuse as much blood as possible into his Destiny Guardian Beast, the Blood of Abundance, without harming his own body.

To brew more Blood Aged Wine.

Once a Beast Master awakens the Destiny Guidebook, they can use their spiritual power to refine their physical bodies.

That's why the physical fitness of a Beast Master is much stronger than ordinary people, and the stronger the Beast Master is, the better their physical conditions become.

With this advantage, all Fang Mu needs to do is to make a small cut on his fingertip.

Fang Mu could, by means of spiritual power, control the blood in his body to congregate at the tips of his fingers.

There was no need for him to make himself look excessively distressed.

Fang Mu used his index finger and forcefully rubbed it against the well wall of the Blood of Abundance.

He only felt a sting at his fingertip, and fresh blood immediately gushed out from the wound.

The dripping blood from the wound fell into the well opening.

At the moment Fang Mu's blood touched the bottom of the Blood of Abundance.

The Blood of Abundance, which was originally like a dry well, started wriggling in an instant.

The stone wall gradually stained crimson.

Dense dark red mist spouted from the well opening and encircled Fang Mu.

As though Fang Mu was conducting an ancient and mysterious ceremony.

Having been a biologist in his previous life and having accumulated so much knowledge in this one, Fang Mu was very clear about the limit his body could endure.

After letting out about eight hundred milliliters of blood, Fang Mu clearly felt his body weakening.

In general, blood loss exceeding two thousand milliliters can lead to blood-loss shock.

Even with the copper rank red jade mountain tea leaf at his side, Fang Mu did not plan to let himself lose more than two thousand milliliters of blood.

When his blood loss reached one thousand five hundred milliliters, and his complexion visibly paler, Fang Mu plucked and chewed a leaf of red jade mountain tea leaf immediately.

And swallowed it swiftly.

After swallowing the red jade mountain tea leaf, Fang Mu felt a slight recovery in his body quickly.

After injecting up to one thousand eight hundred milliliters of blood into the Blood of Abundance.

Fang Mu instantly stopped using the spiritual power to stimulate the blood from flowing out of the wound on his fingertip.

The blood quickly retreated back into other parts of his body.

Fang Mu's arm, pale.

The dark red mist was spinning around Fang Mu.

Fang Mu endured his discomfort, plucked another leaf from the red jade mountain tea, put it in his mouth and chewed carefully.

After half a day of chewing, he slowly gulped down.

It was at this moment that Fang Mu felt alive again.

The feebleness from excessive blood loss was something he never wanted to experience for the second time.

Fang Mu wanted to enhance his power and hoard resources.

But that did not mean he wanted to be a masochist.

Nor did he want to harm himself.

Fang Mu decided not to provide more than one thousand five hundred milliliters of fresh blood to the Blood of Abundance at a time in the future.

If it were the Fang Mu from his past life, losing one thousand eight hundred milliliters of blood at one time, he would struggle to recover.

Even with nourishing food, it would take at least one to two weeks time for him to recover.

But in this world of the guardian beasts, through some spirit materials produced by themselves.

Could easily enable Fang Mu to recover within three days.

Blood replenishing and hematopoietic spirit materials are quite common in this world.

Therefore, they are not expensive.

Fang Mu still has more than seventy thousand Dragon Rising Coins in his petty savings, which are more than enough to bear such consumption.

So Fang Mu decided, every three days, to use the copper rank skill of his Destiny Guardian Beast, Blood of Abundance, to brew one thousand five hundred milliliters of Blood Aged Wine.

Fang Mu wanted to see how long it would take to brew one thousand eight hundred milliliters of Blood Aged Wine this time.

Now, the wriggling well mouth of the Blood of Abundance resembled a ferocious digestive tract.

As if it was constantly incubating and producing something inside.

Fang Mu, feeling weak and a little dizzy, went to find more blood-replenishing spirit materials at home.

After brewing a cup of blood replenishing tea by boiling it with these spirit materials,

Fang Mu slowly drank the entire cup of blood replenishing tea.

He then continued to look at the innate divine ability of his Destiny Guardian Beast, Blood of Abundance.