

Beast Tamer 78

Chapter 78: The Enhancement Brought by Blood Red Fog!_I

The full moon hung high over JA City, its glow cascading down like a waterfall.

Because it was the fifteenth of the month, the moon seemed to be even rounder than usual that night.

Feng Chenhao lounged contentedly and excitedly on the large water bed in the Sea Banquet Palace, savoring his previous conversation with Fang Mu.

He asked Fang Mu to provide him with three hundred grams of fragrant peony pollen, five hundred drops of condensed jade dew, and ten kilograms of age fix palm oil.

Not only did Fang Mu agree without hesitation, but he also promised to double the supply.

Everything had been agreed upon. All that was left was to sign the agreement the next day!

Once he returned to Qing Cang Province, he could immediately use his connections and resources to establish the Peach Blossom Brand.

Damn the family infighting!

He didn't need to wrestle with them in Langya Biology anymore!

Feng Chenhao had never felt this comfortable and relaxed since he came of age.

He felt no discomfort at all about Fang Mu leaving early.

Joking aside, it was a great honor just to have the disciple of a high star creator agree to dine with him, let alone be invited by Fang Mu himself.

After Fang Mu returned to the old factory, he immediately summoned his Destiny Guidebook.

Then, from the first page of the Destiny Guidebook, he let out a deep breath.

The gourmand mode was immediately activated.

The extension of metal filaments and the increase of metal nodes speeded up his eating speed.

At the same time, it reduced the noise of feeding.

This improved the quality of his ASMR eating broadcast sleep aid.

With such sound helping him sleep, Fang Mu had a good night's rest!

After a busy day, instead of rushing to rest, Fang Mu took out his cell phone and called Lu Xiaoyin.

Lu Xiaoyin was competent and detail-oriented.

She was well-suited to replace him in negotiating the agreement with Feng Chenhao.

As soon as Fang Mu dialed the phone, Lu Xiaoyin answered it quickly.

Just two hours ago, Lu Xiaoyin had formally resigned from the Creator's Guild.

And with her savings, she made up for the resources the Creator's Guild had invested in her.

Now, Lu Xiaoyin became a free person, contracting a Flame-winged Lion Scorpion.

Seeing Fang Mu calling her, Lu Xiaoyin was incredibly excited.

Answering the phone, all she heard was Fang Mu say on the other end.

“Go to room 316 of the Sea Banquet Palace early tomorrow and negotiate an agreement for a cosmetic brand with a man named Feng Chenhao.”

As Fang Mu detailed the situation to Lu Xiaoyin, the more she heard, the more excited she became.

The task assigned to her now was within the realm of a personal assistant.

Fang Mu had assigned her this task before acknowledging her.

It was clear that this was the final test.

Lu Xiaoyin listened carefully as Fang Mu explained the situation and thought about the agreement she should sign with Feng Chenhao tomorrow morning.

Since Fang Mu had already agreed with this man named Feng Chenhao.

There was no need for her to show off and take advantage of the already agreed upon contract.

As Fang Mu's representative, pressuring for lower prices would suggest that Fang Mu is an unreliable person to this potential partner, Feng Chenhao.

Lu Xiaoyin would definitely not do such a foolish thing.

After listening to the circumstances, Lu Xiaoyin made sure she had noted all the information before promising.

"Rest assured, Sir Jianmu! I will definitely handle this matter well!"

Fang Mu had great confidence in Lu Xiaoyin.

Furthermore, he himself had to sign the final agreement. It was up to him to make the final check.

If there were any mistakes, Fang Mu could modify them again.

After hanging up the phone, Fang Mu directly summoned the Guardian Beasts that Feng Chenhao had given him before leaving.

For many Guardian Beasts that were not considered precious or rare, Fang Mu only needed to water them daily with a Life Energy Elixir, aiding them in producing resources.

As long as the purity of the Life Energy provided daily reached 60 percent.

These Guardian Beasts would slowly upgrade their ranks and qualities while producing resources.

There's no need to waste the Blood Aged Wine.

Eden Greenfield and Descendant Star Messenger were still in Fang Mu's hands, not yet contracted.

Condensing the Covenant Blood Essence was still Fang Mu's top priority!

However, for a Guardian Beast with a level of rarity surpassing the Red Jade Mountain Tea, such as Fragrant Peony or Age Fix Palm.

Fang Mu had to use Blood Aged Wine.

The standard quality Fragrant Peony, a copper class, was planted in a terracotta pot thirty centimeters in diameter.

Five to six large peach-shaped leaves were covered in light pink spots.

These spots could be penetrated by light, creating mottled light and shadow on the ground.

The flower buds growing between the leaves swayed gently, showing no signs of blooming.

Looking at the two buds of the Fragrant Peony, Fang Mu raised an eyebrow.

Normally, each Fragrant Peony could only produce one flower.

This situation of twin flowers was quite rare for the Fragrant Peony, adding many possibilities in its evolution.

The standard quality Age Fix Palm, also a copper class, was about the same height as Fang Mu.

The Age Fix Palm wouldn't grow much taller after its rank and quality were upgraded, but its trunk would become much thicker.

The thick trunk guaranteed the secretion of palm oil.

This Age Fix Palm had a rough surface full of scars from fallen leaves.

Many chaotic thorns had grown near the leaves at the top of the trunk.

The large leaves that resembled palm fans were a bit wilted, indicating the poor condition of this Age Fix Palm.

The Age Fix Palm had a high demand for Wood Element Energy.

Once there was a slight shortage of Wood Element Energy, the leaves of the Age Fix Palm would continuously wither, even becoming rotten and falling off.

This demand made the Age Fix Palm even more delicate than the Red Jade Mountain Tea!

But for Fang Mu, this was a minor issue.

Fang Mu once again materialized his Destiny Guidebook.

Then a blood-colored Dry Well appeared in front of Fang Mu.

Because just yesterday. Fang Mu had contributed 1500 milliliters of blood to the Blood of Abundance.

The inner walls of the Blood of Abundance, as if a digestive tract, were now writhing intensely.

A blood-red fog spilled from the well, covering an area of five meters around Fang Mu.

Fang Mu was not sure if it was just his imagination.

But he had the feeling his strength was greatly amplified after being enveloped in the blood-colored fog.

Fang Mu had tested this, not only his strength but also his speed and explosive power.

Ultimately, Fang Mu concluded that all his strength, speed, and explosive power had significantly increased under the cover of the blood-red fog.

Upon mulling this over, Fang Mu remembered that this change seemed to have occurred only after feeding the Blood of Abundance with the Blood Crystal, extracted from the corpse of a Bloodline Newborn

Still, to confirm whether this was the actual cause, Fang Mu would need more Blood Crystals.

Fang Mu bent down and extracted a crystal bottle from the Blood of Abundance, which held exactly one thousand milliliters of Blood Aged Wine.

Fang Mu went to the Fragrant Peony and slowly poured the Blood Aged Wine at its roots.

The moment the Blood Aged Wine was poured, the root of the Fragrant Peony began to vibrate violently.

The massive force in the roots destroyed the terracotta pot in an instant!
