

Chosen Mate Of The Beastmen Empire

Of The Beastmen 221

Chapter 221

47%

In a panic, a bright flash of light streaked across Chubby's mind-suddenly, the little python vanished, Theon, who had been keeping watch, reacted quickly, catching the two eggs before they could hit the ground. As he looked down, he was stunned to see two chubby little hands reaching out from under the table.

"Chubby?" Nyx had witnessed the entire transformation with her own eyes. She immediately jumped up and caught him before he could plop onto the floor.

A newly transformed baby hadn't learned how to control his limbs yet. Wobbling unsteadily, he lost his balance and fell into Nyx's arms.

"Mama," Chubby whimpered, terrified. "Little brothers..."

"He's fine." Theon crouched down and placed the two perfectly intact eggs before him to reassure him.

Chubby let out a relieved sigh, reaching out to pat them. Then, in a serious tone, he scolded them, "You can't do that again. That was very naughty!"

He looked about a year old, all chubby and round, his cheeks like puffy little sandwiches.

He could barely stand on his own, yet here he was, lecturing his younger siblings with a straight face-it was unbearably cute in Nyx's eyes.

Nyx couldn't resist kissing his chubby little cheeks over and over until Chubby lost all his dignity, whining and calling out for his mom.

This was such a huge event that the whole family gathered in the living room, completely surrounding Chubby.

Even though he had hatched late, he took on human form well ahead of time.

Other male cubs typically transformed between the ages of two and eight, but he had jumped ahead, catching his parents completely off guard.

Luckily, Nyx had some baby supplies stored away, gifts from Archie and his friends from a mother-and-baby store, which were finally coming in handy.

She pulled out a set of clothes that would fit Chubby.

"Let me dress him." Jaws offered, taking Chubby from her.

It was his first time handling a baby in human form, so his movements were a bit stiff. But the well-behaved little one cooperated, making things much easier for him.

In no time, Chubby was dressed and standing before the mirror, turning this way and that. He curiously played with his own hands, patted his soft fluffy hair, and then poked at his round belly, his eyes filled with wonder.

"So soft." Xivar leaned in, carefully pinching his little arm in amazement.

A male cub transforming this early—no one had ever seen such a thing before. Despite how well he spoke, Chubby still looked so tiny. Nyx could clearly see that Chubby was just a baby.

"Come here and let me hold you." She simply couldn't get enough of cuddling him.

Chubby spread his little arms wide and hugged her back, puckering up to kiss her cheek. He had already learned how to do this. After all, Nyx kissed him every day, and Jaws always kissed Nyx in front of him.

1/3

19:13 Fri, 28 Feb

Chapter 221

On the side, Xivar watched the little Chubby who looked like a soft, milky-sweet pastry—her mouth practically watering.

She picked up the little bear, who was still sitting on the ground engrossed in gnawing on an apple, and urged, "Hurry up. Hurry and transform."

The little bear looked utterly confused and innocent, not understanding what kind of craziness his mom was up to this time.

butt, and ignored his mom's words, continuing to chew on his apple seriously.

He turned his head away, stuck out his little!!

Xivar sighed helplessly and patted his little butt twice.

Her baby had hatched a long time ago, had gained plenty of weight, but still couldn't talk. She doubted that he'd be able to transform into human form soon.

She thought, 'Could it be that he won't transform until he's eight? Wouldn't that mean I miss out on playing with an adorable human-form baby? Hurry up and transform. Better transform at two years old!

Xivar closed her eyes and prayed silently.

Chubby was an exceptionally fast learner.

He first learned to crawl on all fours, and then learned to stand and walk, mastering control over his legs so quickly that even Seafarion felt ashamed.

With agile hands and legs, Chubby became incredibly busy, toddling all around the house—bringing water to Nyx, delivering fruit, and even holding his little siblings while chatting with them. He seemed to have endless concerns and couldn't sit still for a moment.

Nyx found it both amusing and exasperating, feeling like she was exploiting child labor.

In beast form, the little python's age wasn't very obvious. But now, in human form, the contrast was striking—a tiny, soft three-headed-body-proportioned baby bustling around nonstop.

"Chubby, take a break," Nyx said, worried he'd tire himself out.

But the little worker insisted on staying busy—no one could stop him.

He kept going until nightfall, when his excitement finally faded, and his energy was completely drained. The little one climbed into his small bed and reverted to beast form.

After he fell asleep, Zayne gently picked him up to check his condition. He thought, 'Fortunately, everything is normal—no issues at all.'

But the next morning, when Chubby woke up in his little bed, he realized his hands and feet were gone. Everything from the previous day felt like a dream, and he burst into tears. "I..... I can't turn back."

After all, he had only transformed into human form in a moment of urgency—he hadn't fully mastered the skill yet.

His cries drew his father over. Jaws quickly shifted into beast form and gently comforted him. "Don't worry; take your time."

Male cubs who had just learned to shapeshift were never stable at first—it was nothing to worry about. He guided Chubby to sense that power, patiently practicing with him.

After several attempts, the little python finally managed to transform again. His face was flushed red from exertion, as he used every ounce of strength in his tiny body.

"Chubby, you're amazing!" Nyx clapped her hands in encouragement.

2/3

19:13 Fri, 28 Feb

Chapter 221

林会 47% 日

She recorded Chubby's efforts to transform into human form and saved it as a keepsake. Witnessing a baby grow was an incredibly joyful and fulfilling experience for her.

Chubby was over the moon with all the praise from his mom and dad. He transformed back and forth several times, his little tail practically wagging nonstop.

5

Once he fully mastered the skill, his excitement gradually waned. During the day, he stayed in human form, but at night, he reverted to his little python shape to sleep.

After a few days, he even became too lazy to change during the day, finding his beast form far more comfortable and natural.

It was noon, and the sun was shining brightly.

Nyx lay in a rocking chair, cuddling the cool little python for an afternoon nap.

Half-asleep, she vaguely heard the sound of chatter outside the window but was too drowsy to pay much attention until a trembling scream startled her awake.

"There's a snake. Dear sister!" shouted Archie.

Nyx opened her eyes in confusion, meeting Archie's terrified gaze.

As her awareness returned, she remembered-Earthlings were scheduled to send representatives to visit the Empire soon.

"When did you guys arrive?" asked Nyx.

"Just now," Archie swallowed hard and answered with difficulty.

Bruce, Layla, and Archie's friends were there, along with Nyx's boss, her close colleagues, and even Dollar.

They had just arrived at Central Planet with the official delegation.

The official representatives headed to Regal Estate for diplomatic affairs.

Meanwhile, they had come to find Nyx to catch up and maintain their relationship.

Nyx was delighted to see familiar faces from Earth and walked toward them, holding her little python in her arms.

As she stepped forward, Archie instinctively took a step back, beads of nervous sweat forming on his forehead.

"S-Snake-" He was terrified of these creatures.

Even if it was a pet raised by Nyx, he couldn't help but be afraid.

Chubby's round eyes flickered with a sly glint of mischief. With a flick of his tail, he suddenly coiled around Archie's calf.

Of The Beastmen 222

Chapter 222

Archie let out a high-pitched scream, as if he had been electrocuted, and fell flat onto the ground.

“Stop!” Nyx was taken aback and quickly reprimanded Chubby.

She never expected Chubby to pull such a stunt. He had always behaved so obediently in front of her that she had momentarily forgotten his true nature.

This was the same mischievous little hatchling who had dared to sneak out of his eggshell to explore the outside world.

Archie's legs had gone completely limp, his mind blank.

As soon as Chubby released him, Archie immediately looked like he had just survived a catastrophe. He gasped for breath, his body still cold, unable to recover for a long time.

The guilty little Chubby slinked back to Nyx, shrinking his head in a rare moment of sheepishness.

This was the first time he had ever seen someone afraid of him. He found it amusing and couldn't resist teasing a little. But he clearly remembered that Archie used to like him a lot. He thought, 'Why is he scared now? How strange.

“Apologies,” Erik sighed helplessly, reaching out to pull Archie off the floor, offering an apology on Chubby's behalf.

He thought, 'As expected, Chubby still needs a proper lesson.

“I—It's fine,” Archie stammered, belatedly feeling embarrassed and humiliated. He forced a smile that looked even worse than crying, trying to change the topic. “Where's Chubby?”

Just now, he vaguely heard Nyx call out that name.

Scanning the room, Archie landed his gaze on a hatchling incubator sitting on the table. Overjoyed, he rushed over and scooped it up-egg and all-into his arms. “Chubby! I missed you so much!”

It was only after holding up the incubator that he noticed another one placed right beside it.

"Sis, why is there another egg? Which one is Chubby?" Archie asked.

The living room fell into dead silence.

Nyx's expression twitched as she struggled to hold back her laughter. In the end, she couldn't help it and let out a snort.

Tilting his head, Chubby looked at Archie with a puzzled expression. "Chubby is right here."

Archie stiffened. Slowly, with robotic stiffness, he turned his head toward the voice.

When his eyes met the gaze of the little python, his breath caught in his throat.

"The one you're holding is Sky, and the one on the table is Ash. I'm Chubby," Chubby patiently explained.

Archie felt like he was suffocating. Clutching his head, he had to sit down to process everything. He thought, 'How did things end up like this?'

"Chubby, apologize to Archie," Nyx urged. "You scared him just now."

If she hadn't mentioned it, Archie might have been able to move on. But the moment she did, he wanted to cry even more.

He had never been so mortified in his life.

Though he never had much dignity in front of Nyx to begin with, now even in front of the little cub, his image was utterly

1/4

28 Feb

47%

Chapter 222

shattered-he couldn't hold onto even a shred of pride.

Archie felt helpless inside. He forced out a couple of laughs. "Chubby sure has grown big"

He thought, 'It has only been a few months. How did Chubby go from a tiny little egg to such a massive python? An alien is terrifying beyond words.

"I'm sorry. I was wrong. I shouldn't have scared you on purpose," Chubby admitted with a sincere attitude. "But I'm not big at all. My dad is the big one. My dad is a huge python, super majestic. Do you want to see him?"

Following Chubby's gesture, Archie looked towards Jaws. The moment his gaze met those gentle, smiling, and blood-red eyes, he shuddered and immediately looked away.

He didn't even dare to imagine just how big Chubby's so-called "huge" actually was.

Although Earth was fortunate to have established diplomatic relations with the Beastmen Empire, humanity still knew very little about them.

Before this, Archie had only vaguely understood that these extraterrestrials were called Beastmen, and in his mind, he had pictured them as something like werewolves-pretty cool in his eyes.

He had never imagined that Nyx would be so bold as to marry a giant python and have a child.

The commotion finally came to an end when Chubby transformed into his human form.

Witnessing this "instant shape-shift" with their own eyes, the Earthlings present couldn't help but gasp in amazement.

The moment Archie saw Chubby's chubby little face and his soft, squishy body, his eyes lit up instantly. He was back in the game. "Chubby, come here, let me hug you-

Before he could even touch Chubby, Layla pushed him aside without hesitation and scooped Chubby up in her arms, examining him from every angle and then grinning from ear to ear.

"Nyx, you really know how to give birth!" In all Layla's years, Chubby was the cutest child she had ever seen.

Nyx's colleagues were still trying to wrap their heads around the situation, but they had at least figured out one thing-this was Nyx's child.

Feeling a little embarrassed, they patted their empty pockets. "Sorry, but we didn't bring any gifts for the child."

"It's fine; come have a seat." Nyx waved them over.

The male Beastmen naturally served drinks and snacks to the matron's guests, which left the Earthlings feeling uneasy and on edge.

They had heard that these individuals all held extremely high statuses-so high that even Earth's top officials had to show them the utmost respect.

The only reason they were able to sit here, chatting and having snacks, was purely thanks to Nyx's influence.

In fact, it wasn't just them-Earth as a whole owed its survival to Nyx after she saved them from the flood crisis.

"Ever since the flood stopped, order has been gradually returning to normal," Bruce told Nyx about Earth's current situation.

Initially, the arrival of alien spacecraft had caused a massive shock to Earth's civilization. But as time passed and the aliens didn't reappear, people gradually resumed their usual work and lives.

At present, Earth was under a protected lockdown.

2/4

13 Fri, 28 Feb

Chapter 222

≈.47%-

The Beastmen Empire had taken Earth under its wing, shielding it from invasion and occupation. However, Earthlings still couldn't access StarNet or freely travel through space. For the average person, life hadn't changed much.

While this might seem pitiful, it was necessary. If Earth immediately integrated with the interstellar community, more and more people would inevitably choose to migrate to advanced civilizations.

In the vast universe, a few billion people were nothing more than a drop in the ocean. The entire race would soon become fragmented, fade into obscurity, and eventually disappear.

"Earth isn't ready to formally join the interstellar world just yet. At the very least, we need to develop into a galactic civilization before we can qualify for the Star Alliance." Bruce adjusted his glasses, his tone both weary and hopeful. "I wonder if I'll ever live to see that day."

"Everyone is grateful to the Beastmen Empire for their help, and even more so to you," he pressed his hands together and bowed his head solemnly in gratitude to Nyx.

Back when Nyx had ended up on Earth, she hadn't exactly had an easy time. Although the family that mistreated her was now despised by all and hunted like rats in the streets, that still couldn't erase the pain she had endured.

Yet, despite everything, Nyx never held a grudge against all of humanity. Her magnanimity was truly admirable in their eyes.

Nyx simply smiled and shook her head. To her, Earth wasn't all bad, but it wasn't great either. She had been abused there, but she had also made some friends-and, of course, there was the adorable Dollar.

She waved at the chubby Dollar. "Come here, Dollar, I've got some little fish for you."

Hearing the call, Dollar immediately leaped out of his owner's arms and trotted over eagerly, clinging to Nyx's leg.

"Kitty." Chubby's eyes lit up.

Even though Aurelius was also a kitty, he never got a chance to play with Aurelius-only Nyx could. But he wanted to play with the kitty too.

Chubby mimicked a cat's call, spreading his arms wide as he excitedly lunged at Dollar.

Out of respect for Nyx and just being generous to a cub, Dollar was very patient with him. He even retracted his claws completely and allowed Chubby to hug it.

The two chubby little guys tumbled together, creating an impossibly cute scene. Everyone couldn't help but smile.

They ran around the living room, chasing and playing. Eventually, they outgrew the space and dashed straight into Nyx's bedroom.

"Should we go get Dollar out of there?" The boss looked a little nervous.

"It's fine; don't worry about it." Nyx reassured him. She never minded having fluffy visitors in her bedroom.

Just as she finished speaking, the sound of something shattering suddenly echoed from the room.

The boss sucked in a sharp breath, looking so embarrassed that he wished he could disappear into the floor.

"It's okay; I'll check it out." Nyx waved him off. "I forgot I had things on my desk—that's on me."

Jaws stood up and gave her shoulder a gentle squeeze. "I'll go."

He pushed open the door and saw the broken bottle of catnip perfume on the floor. The air was thick with its scent. His brow twitched, and he immediately shut the door tight. But he was a step too late.

3/4

Of The Beastmen 223

Chapter 223

47%-

Back in the living room, Nyx heard the door slam shut with a loud bang, followed by Dollar's meowing—it sounded off.

Her gut told her something was wrong. Before she could react, someone suddenly grabbed her from behind. "Kai?"

Even the slightest whiff of the perfume was enough to have an overwhelming effect.

The leopard had been a victim of this perfume before. He was already extremely attached to Nyx, and his self-control was always hanging by a thread. Now, his eyes turned blood-red.

The sudden change left the Earthlings in the room utterly confused. They stared, stunned.

And it wasn't just Kai—Theon and Felix were also visibly agitated.

Felix struggled to keep his nephew under control, but even his own willpower was quickly wearing thin. "Hurry-help!" Aurelius barely managed to get the words out.

The males unaffected by the perfume immediately sprang into action. Before things could spiral out of control, they pried Kai off Nyx and dragged Theon, Felix, and Aurelius along with him, locking them in the farthest room from her bedroom.

"W-What just happened?" Archie swallowed nervously.

His fear only deepened when the moment the door shut, furious beastly roars erupted from inside. The sound of bodies slamming into the door and heavy objects crashing to the floor followed.

The guests all turned pale.

Nyx frowned, "I'm going to check on them."

"What?" Archie quickly grabbed her. "No way! What if you get bitten?"

Even though Nyx was strong, Archie thought she couldn't possibly handle a room full of crazed beasts on her own-one swipe from them could be fatal.

"Relax; they won't bite me." Nyx assured him before glancing at the others. "Help me entertain the guests." "Nyx, just leave them alone," Zayne said disapprovingly. He thought it was just some perfume. They could endure it.

"I should still check." Nyx hesitated. She couldn't bring herself to ignore them.

Males in a heightened state like this were extremely aggressive toward each other. She was worried they'd end up fighting.

As expected, chaos had already taken over inside the room.

The place was a disaster, wrecked by the out-of-control feline males. Compared to them, Dollar's little rampage earlier was nothing.

Nyx pushed the door open. She barely had time to take in the mess-before she was in danger herself. Catnip perfume had a way of drawing out the true nature of feline males.

Normally, they held back in front of their beloved female, restraining their instincts. But now, there were no more masks.

Nyx suddenly regretted not putting that bottle away sooner. She learned her lesson now.

***

Fri, 28 Feb

Chapter 223

$.47%-

The first thing Nyx did upon waking up was to order her mates to dispose of all the perfume products in the house.

She swore never to touch those dreadful perfumes again.

The troublemaker, Dollar, was punished with a month-long ban on snacks, losing all its canned food, meat sticks, and freeze-dried treats.

His accomplice, Chubby, raised his little hands high and obediently stood in the corner as self-punishment. Seeing the dejected and pitiful expressions on both the child and the cat, Nyx quickly softened and waved her hand to forgive them.

After all, it was her fault for leaving fragile perfume bottles out in the open. Both young children and kittens were natural troublemakers-mishaps were inevitable.

With that, the matter was put to rest.

Nyx, taking advantage of the nice weather, led her Earth companions on a sightseeing excursion, purchasing one-of-a-kind mementos that could not be found on their own planet and stowing them away in the recently acquired Space Button.

After a long time away from the public eye, she finally made an appearance, sending the Empire's citizens into a frenzy of excitement.

"Sis, you really are the center of attention." Archie couldn't help but marvel.

He was a well-known internet celebrity back on Earth and was used to turning heads, but compared to Nyx, he was nothing. The way people looked at her-it was pure worship, as if she were a deity.

He thought, 'No wonder the Beastmen Empire is willing to help Earth for her sake. Her influence is truly immense.

Rubbing his hands together, Archie chuckled, "I can brag about this interstellar trip for the rest of my life." Their close ties with Nyx made them honored guests Of The Beastmenstmen Empire, envied by everyone back on Earth.

After a ten-day stay on Central Planet, the Earth envoys were preparing for their return journey.

On the eve of their departure, they gathered at Nyx's estate for a farewell barbecue and cocarrois—making session.

Nearly all young children loved playing with dough, and Chubby was no exception.

Given a small lump of dough, he kneaded it for a while before deciding that was too simple. Standing on his tiptoes, he tried to copy Theon's movements.

"Come here, Chubby. Let me teach you," Nyx said, settling him beside her. "Place a cocarrois wrapper in your palm, scoop a little filling. That's a bit too much—take a little less. Yes, just like that. Pinch the middle together first, and then fold the edges into pleats."

Given Chubby's chubby little hands, Nyx didn't teach him the quick folding technique; instead, she let him shape the cocarrois at his own pace.

At first, Chubby struggled with the pressure and split two open, but by the third one, he had gotten the hang of it.

Archie was dumbfounded. "How did he do that?"

Looking down at the ugly cocarrois he had made and then at the perfect ones crafted by the tiny three-head-tall toddler, Archie was hit with the crushing realization of his own incompetence.

2/3

Chapter 223

"It's okay; you're doing great too." Chubby patted him comfortingly. "At least yours are still holding together. They might burst when cooked, but they're still edible."

Archie was even more embarrassed. Devastated by the blow Chubby had dealt him, he went off to seek comfort from Sky and Ash.

He thought unhatched younglings were much better—silent and peaceful, unlike Chubby, who delivered verbal attacks out of nowhere.

Hugging an egg under each arm, Archie took a deep, satisfied breath—until he heard a crisp cracking sound.

Of The Beastmen 224

Chapter 224

Two sounds of eggshell cracking overlapped perfectly.

Archie's expression froze, and cold sweat broke out all over his body.

He thought, 'D-did I..... just crack my dear sister's precious eggs? But I haven't even used any force!

In an instant, a chilling sense of impending doom engulfed Archie. He trembled as he lifted his head, his mind already flooded with countless gruesome ways he might die.

He thought, "These are Theon and Erik's precious babies. Though they usually get along well with me, when it comes to their children, what father wouldn't feel grief and rage?"

In the living room, everyone's eyes locked onto Archie.

Theon and Erik, overcome with emotion, stood up and reached out to take Sky and Ash from his hands.

"Sorry, but I didn't mean to." Archie squeezed his eyes shut in terror, wailing for mercy. "Just go easy on me, I'm begging you!"

As soon as the eggs left his hands, Archie immediately curled up, wrapping his arms around his head to brace himself for the males' wrath.

After a while, however, a soft, chubby little hand patted his head.

Archie shuddered reflexively, squeezing his eyes even tighter.

The pain he had expected never came. Instead, he heard Chubby's babyish voice above him, full of curiosity. "Archie, what are you doing?"

Chubby's round, wide eyes were filled with confusion.

Everyone else had already gathered around to witness the hatching, yet Archie was still squatting here, holding his head. Chubby wouldn't allow anyone to dislike his little brothers, so he enthusiastically started promoting them.

Chubby said, "My little brothers are about to hatch. A baby lion and a little gray wolf. They're super fluffy and adorable. Archie, don't you want to see?"

Archie thought, 'Hatching? Oh... right. Eggs could hatch. Babies could break out of their shells.'

As he regained his rationale, a wave of deep embarrassment surged through him, turning his face beet red. He was on the verge of tears. But at least he wasn't going to get beaten, which was a relief for him.

Besides, a fluffy lion and a fluffy little gray wolf did sound worth looking forward to.

Forcing himself to regain composure, Archie pretended nothing had happened and followed Chubby to witness the hatching.

Two incubation chambers were placed side by side on the table, surrounded by a crowd.

Jaws picked up Chubby and let him sit on his shoulders to ensure he had a clear view of his brothers breaking out of their shells.

Meanwhile, the late—arriving Archie was stuck outside the circle, his view completely blocked by the tall backs of the males. He stretched his neck, trying in vain to see.

"Dear dad." He poked Bruce. "can you

1/3

rry me on your shoulders too?"

14 Fri, 28 Feb

Chapter 224

Bruce was seriously recording the moment on his phone. Without hesitation, he replied, "Get lost."

↩ . 46%

6

The day before their departure, the Earthlings felt incredibly lucky to witness Nyx's babies hatching with their own eyes.

Sky and Ash were very cooperative, not even disrupting their planned gathering. In just a few short minutes, they peeked their heads out from their cracked eggshells.

"Little brothers." Chubby clapped his hands in excitement. "Yay!" He had guessed right—there really was a baby lion and a little gray wolf.

Sky was a lion, and Ash was a little gray wolf. The two tiny creatures were still covered in a wet, nutrient-rich fluid.

They didn't look very fluffy—in fact, they looked a little ugly. But Chubby didn't mind. He remembered that he had looked the same when he hatched.

Eager to help, he volunteered to bathe his two little brothers.

Theon and Erik, not wanting to discourage his enthusiasm, knelt beside him to assist. Together, they carefully cleaned the newborns before handing them over to Zayne for a full check-up.

After the entire process, the lion and the little gray wolf had become fluffy and soft, sitting obediently like two plush dolls.

The medical check-up results showed that everything was normal. Nyx breathed a sigh of relief and kissed their chubby little faces.

Even if they weren't as quick-witted and precocious as Chubby, they were still her beloved babies. As long as they were healthy, that was all that mattered.

Clearly and distinctly, Ash and Sky called in unison, "Mom."

Hearing the voices, Nyx was startled. It wasn't Chubby's voice. It sounded even softer than Chubby's.

She lowered her head and met two pairs of bright, glistening eyes.

"Mom, hug." Sky buried his little head into Nyx's embrace.

Not to be outdone, Ash wagged his tail furiously. "Mom, kiss me."

Although they weren't very active, Ash and Sky were complete clingers. During their time in the eggs, the limited movement they had was mostly just to snuggle up to Nyx.

Nyx, tangled up with the two little ones, looked dazed, with a smile unconsciously forming at the corner of her lips.

The fur of the newly born cubs was at its softest, making them utterly irresistible.

She didn't even need to reach out to pet them—they would actively snuggle up to her and even call her "Mommy."

Nyx held the two cubs in her arms, giving one a kiss on the left, another on the right, and then crouched down to give Chubby a kiss too.

She felt herself the happiest female in the world.

With the cubs successfully hatched, the entire manor was filled with joy.

Chubby finally got the little brothers he had been longing for. He stopped playing with dough and making cocarrois, completely obsessed with touching the fluffy fur.

Sky and Ash, with their calm personalities, enjoyed the loving strokes from Chubby. They sprawled out on Chubby's lap, purring softly and trustingly exposing their bellies.

2/3

19:14 Fri, 28 Feb

Chapter 224

46%

At mealtime, they sat in their high chairs, eating everything on their plates cleanly without needing to be fed bite by bite.

So adorable and so easy to care for everyone from Earth was green with envy.

"If we ally with Beastmen, can we have Beastmen cubs?" a few of Nyx's female colleagues couldn't help but ask.

Unfortunately, Zayne shook his head, shattering their dreams. "No. Earthlings and Beastmen are two completely different species. They cannot produce offspring."

In the vast universe, there were many civilizations, and while many races looked similar, intermarriage was rare.

Not only was it impossible to have offspring if they married each other, but the lifespans of Beastmen and Earthlings were vastly different. Even if they tried to be together, it would be hard to find happiness.

With their hopes dashed, everyone reluctantly took turns holding Chubby, Sky, and Ash a little longer. After all, once they returned to Earth, they would no longer have the chance to interact so closely with the little python, lion, or gray wolf.

Even Archie overcame his fear and took a few photos with Chubby in his beast form. He sobbed, hugging Chubby tightly. "You're the only python I will ever dare to hold. Please don't forget me."

Afraid at first, but now utterly reluctant to part, Archie felt at loss.

Nyx promised them that once the cubs grew a little older, she would definitely visit them on Earth.

After saying goodbye to her friends, she felt a bit empty inside.

Back home, Nyx sat on the recliner, lost in thought for a while, and then decided to do something to distract herself.

Coincidentally, Kian had just come out of the training room, his muscles pumped and radiating intense masculine energy.

Nyx narrowed her eyes and beckoned him over.

In front of her, Kian was like an obedient dog, eagerly taking quick steps toward her.

Nyx wrapped her arms around his neck. "Want to come to my bedroom?"

It was a blatant invitation. Kian's face turned bright red. Unable to speak, he nodded vigorously, the veins in his arms bulging, betraying his eagerness.

Just as he picked Nyx up, Jaws' voice suddenly echoed from nearby. "Nyx, why didn't you invite me?"

Read Of The Bea 225

Of The Bea 225

Chapter 225 Chapter 225

Nyx was startled. She hadn't noticed Jaws nearby and had no idea when he had appeared.

"Where's Chubby?" At this time, Jaws should have been taking care of the cubs.

46%

"Chubby is napping with Sky and Ash. Theon is watching them" Jaws walked over, pinching her cheek gently, and asked again, "Why didn't you invite me?"

It had been a long, long time since he had been close to Nyx. When Nyx was on Earth, he couldn't reach her. During her pregnancy, he had the desire but not the courage.

After giving birth to Sky and Ash, Nyx was completely focused on the cubs, leaving no opportunity for him or the other mates.

If everyone was equally deprived, Jaws could tolerate it. But the feline males had already gotten their share, and now the Black Mamba was about to get ahead of him.

"Let me join, please." He took Nyx's small hand, his voice soft and hoarse. "I'll do whatever you want. I'll listen to everything you say."

Hearing this, Kian

htened his grip around Nyx, his cold gaze clashing with Jaws'. Though dissatisfied, he didn't voice any objections.

Nyx was silent for a while, some intimate images involuntarily flashing through her mind. She coughed lightly and finally gave in to the temptation. "Alright, Cool then."

As soon as she finished speaking, two more figures approached, blocking their way.

Zayne adjusted his glasses. "Nyx, where are you all going?" Though he had clearly overheard everything, he pretended not to know, smiling gently, "Can I join Nyx went speechless. She felt like she had been caught doing something wrong, shrinking her shoulders guiltily and glancing at Zayne, and then at Erik.

What made her even more nervous was that Seafarion's figure also appeared at her bedroom door.

The good-looking guy from the Sea Race just stared at her with this sad look, his soft eyelashes shaking a bit, giving off this delicate vibe.

He didn't speak, but his eyes looked as if silently asking, "Have I fallen out of favor?"

Things seemed to be getting out of hand. Nyx clenched her fists, curling up in Kian's arms, not daring to make a sound.

She had only intended to have some f suddenly it hit her.

with one mate. She looked around, her gaze sweeping over the males present, and

It was because she had comforted the feline males earlier, making the other mates feel jealous.

Nyx sighed helplessly. She hadn't meant to play favorites. She had planned to make it up to the other mates eventually. It was just that, with guests around recently, it hadn't been convenient for her to bring it up.

"You won't go too far, right?" she asked softly.

Naturally, the males all nodded in agreement.

Nyx believed them. In her mind, she still held a naive thought: Last time, things had gotten so out of hand probably because of the catnip perfume, which had driven the feline males a bit crazy.

1/3

Chapter 225

This time, without the perfume, the mates were all calm. It should be a little easier to handle on bed, or so she thought.

46%

+5

Chubby woke up, rubbing his sleepy eyes and stretching. Sleeping with his fluffy little brothers was an amazing experience.

He had slept so soundly that he accidentally slept from noon until evening, and it was already dark outside.

He continued to cuddle with his brothers for a while, until Sky and Ash also stretched and opened their eyes. The three little cubs jumped off the bed and went out to find their mom.

Nyx wasn't in the living room. The kitchen smelled delicious.

Chubby led the way, with the two fluffy ones following behind, peeking into the kitchen. Nyx wasn't there either.

They thought, 'She must be in the bedroom

"Awake?" Theon was finishing up the last dish. Hearing the noise, he turned his head and saw the three little cubs with messy' hair and fur sticking out. A smile appeared in his eyes. "Go sit at the table. Dinner's almost ready."

Chubby puffed out his little chest. "I'll go call Mom for dinner!"

Sky and Ash perked up their ears and wagged their tails. They would go too.

Theon's expression changed drastically, and he hurriedly stopped them. "No need to call Mom! She's busy with something else right now."

The gang bang in there wasn't finished yet. If the little ones interrupted at the wrong time, it would be beyond awkward.

It wasn't so much about how the males would feel-the real concern was that Nyx might develop a psychological shadow and refuse to be intimate with them again. That would be a disaster of epic proportions for them.

What is Mommy doing?" Chubby blinked in confusion.

He thought, 'She doesn't even have time to eat? It must be something really exhausting and troublesome.

A strong sense of responsibility welled up in Chubby's heart. He rolled up his sleeves and declared, "I'll go help Mommy."

Theon sucked in a sharp breath. He quickly plated the food, and then scooped up Chubby and firmly planted him in the baby chair by the dining table. "Sit tight and eat your food."

But the moment he took his eyes off them, the lion cub and little gray wolf had already snuck off to Nyx's bedroom.

Theon turned his head and saw them just in time-cold sweat instantly broke out on his forehead.

He was nearly at his wit's end and shouted for Felix to come help.

Felix appeared at the sound of the call, only to find two fluffy cubs raising their tiny paws, about to scratch at Nyx's bedroom door.

He rushed over at lightning speed, scooping up one in each hand.

The usually quiet cubs were anything but silent now, crying out loudly for their mother.

Fortunately, the room was soundproof enough that their calls wouldn't be heard inside. "Alright, let's eat first, Felix coaxed them. "Mommy will play with you tomorrow."

Just as he finished reassuring them, a faint voice drifted out from inside the room.

2/3

46%

Chapter 223

The cubs couldn't understand the deeper meaning of the sounds, but they could tell Nyx was crying.

The lion cub and little gray wolf bristled in alarm.

Before they could start wailing. Felix swiftly carried them away from the door and back to the dining table.

"Don't be scared

Mommy isn't being bullied."

WONGA

Theon joined. "There's no bad guy."

Aurelius cut in. "Daddy's inside. How could Daddy possibly bully Mommy?"

Kai said, "Really, there's nothing to worry about."

After their coaxing and comforting, the little ones finally-reluctantly-settled down and started eating.

Inside the room, Nyx had no idea about the chaos happening outside. She had no mental space to spare for anything else.

Suddenly, her eyes were gently covered by a hand, and she heard Zayne's soft laughter beside her ear. "No perfume tonight. Let's play a different game. Guess... who it is?"

3/3

Of The Bea 226

Chapter 226

Nyx had no idea when these guys had all come to an agreement. She couldn't guess it right.

Zayne said, "Ten minutes. If you don't guess correctly or give up, there'll be a little punishment."

With that announcement, Nyx tensed up, her toes curling in nervous anticipation.

She tried her hardest to focus, desperately wanting to know whose turn it was. But she just couldn't figure it out.

Zayne announced, "Time's up."

Then came a fierce punishment. Luckily, the cubs had already been coaxed away to eat and weren't lingering outside the bedroom. Otherwise, they'd be worried about Nyx all over again.

The second round of the game began.

Nyx really didn't want failure again, but she had no sense of time. Panicked, she blurted out a name after just three minutes, "Jaws!"

Jaws chuckled and shook his head. "Nyx, you want it to be me that badly? That makes me really happy, but... unfortunately, you guessed wrong."

"It's me, Nyx." Kian's voice held a hint of barely concealed displeasure.

The consequence of a wrong answer needed no explanation.

Without giving Nyx any time to recover, the game continued.

She was like a lamb waiting to be slaughtered. She had lost count of how many rounds she had played- maybe the eighth or ninth-before she finally got one guess right by sheer luck.

Nyx let out a long sigh of relief. But she relaxed too soon. Just because the game had ended didn't mean everything was over.

*****

When Nyx woke up, two fluffy little cubs were snuggled up on either side of her, while Chubby was angrily facing off against Jaws.

The moment he saw her open her eyes, Chubby immediately abandoned his father and rushed to her side with concern. "Mommy, did Daddies bully you?"

The tiny cub's face was full of righteous indignation, his chubby fists clenched tightly.

Nyx's mind went blank for a moment before an overwhelming sense of embarrassment washed over her. She propped herself up, pulled Chubby into her arms, and said, "Of course not. How could he?"

But her explanation was too weak-Chubby didn't believe her. He wasn't that easy to fool.

"If Daddies didn't bully you, then why did you wake up so late?" asked Chubby.

And she obviously had no strength-her arms were soft even as she held him.

Three pairs of round, curious eyes stared at Nyx, unblinking, leaving her momentarily speechless.

She racked her brain for an excuse and coaxed them, "Because Mommy and Daddies played a game last night, and we got really tired."

1/3

19:14 Fri, 28 Feb

Chapter 226

"What kind of game?" Chubby pressed on.

Nyx went speechless, thinking that sometimes, having smart cubs could be exhausting.

"A game little cubs can't play." She vaguely dodged the question. "You'll understand when you're older."

46%

The cubs exchanged glances. They thought, 'Mommy's and Daddies' explanations are more or less the same, so it must be true'

Chubby finally relaxed a little and gave her a serious, grown-up reminder. "Mommy, next time, don't play until you're too tired. You need to rest."

Nyx nodded absentmindedly, her face burning with embarrassment.

As if that weren't enough, Sky and Ash asked, "Mommy, did you cry last night because you lost the game?"

Their innocent eyes were filled with pure curiosity.

Before Nyx could completely explode, the males hurriedly carried the three loose-lipped cubs away.

+5

One moment of indulgence had nearly sentenced the males to a long, sex-less lifestyle.

Fortunately, Nyx didn't hold it against them. Instead, she actually found a game to distract the cubs and divert their curiosity.

It just so happened that the game was a product from a company under the Sea Race Group, a wildly popular holographic survival game across the entire empire.

Nyx hadn't been particularly interested in the game at first, but since it had recently launched a competition and was all over StarNet, it caught her attention.

The game's wilderness scenes were incredibly realistic, and all players used their beast forms, as if they were returning to the embrace of nature. It seemed kind of fun.

Since the competition was a four-player team format, she decided to sign up with the cubs.

Upon hearing this, Seafarion immediately tried to stop her. "Nyx, this is a competitive tournament. Players have to fight over resources, battle each other, and eliminate opponents. It's not suitable for you and the cubs."

Holographic games had highly realistic sensations-even though players wouldn't actually get injured or die, the pain was still very real.

Nyx hesitated. She didn't really mind for herself, but the cubs were still young, and it did seem a bit inappropriate.

Just as she was about to give up, Chubby suddenly pounced on her leg and clung to it. "Mommy, I want to play."

Sky and Ash also started circling around her excitedly, their eagerness written all over their faces.

"Alright, we'll play." Nyx relented, unable to resist their pleading. After all, she was the one who brought it up in the first place. Now that she had piqued their interest, it wouldn't be right to go back on her word.

"We'll just treat it like an adventure-no fighting," she warned the cubs. "If anyone attacks us, we surrender immediately."

The three cubs sat upright before her and obediently nodded.

The moment they were out of Nyx's sight, however, their expressions changed, eyes gleaming with excitement. They thought, 'Surrender? No way. If Mommy lost the game, she would cry!'

2/3

Fri, 28 Feb

Chapter 226

Nyx had no idea what Chubby, Ash, and Sky were secretly discussing behind her back.

46%

She anonymously registered four gaming accounts, naming them: Nyx, First Comer, Second Comer, and Third Comer.

As for the team name, a sudden inspiration struck her, and she called it "Auspicious Three Treasures."

Seafarion looked at the adorable names and couldn't help but shake his head with a smile, feeling slightly relieved. With names like that, they clearly weren't here for serious competition, so he thought they probably wouldn't be targeted for attacks.

"What beast form do you want to choose?" he asked Nyx. The game's target audience was primarily male, and all players participated in beast form.

However, since it was just a game, beast forms could be freely chosen and modified. Many players with weaker real-life beast forms would alter their in-game avatars into powerful beasts.

Nyx pondered for a long time, images of her mates' beast forms flashing through her mind. She thought, 'A lion? A tiger? A wolf? A leopard? A snake? Sea Race is out of the question-I want to play in a land-based setting!

Besides her mates' beast forms, other animals also seemed interesting to her. Feeling greedy and wanting everything, she simply left it up to fate and let the system randomly select a beast form for her.

The moment she entered the game, Nyx sensed that something was off.

Her perspective was strangely low. She looked down and saw her two fluffy front paws.

In the tournament's live broadcast hall, many viewers noticed this unusual stream-it seemed to be a new contestant.

Clicking in to watch, they were instantly stunned.

[A rabbit?]

[Who the hell joins a competition with a beast form like that?]

[Is this a joke? They'll get eliminated in seconds!]

[WTF!]

[I'm betting 100 StarCoins that this cutie pie won't last three minutes.]

AD

Comment

Send gift

Of The Bea 227

Chapter 227

Chapter 227

Although entering with a rabbit was ridiculous, the rest of the team was fairly normal.

A python, a lion, and a gray wolf—each was a powerful beast form and a popular choice in this game.

92%

The python was entirely crimson, resembling the infamous Jaws. The lion's golden fur gleamed, just like Felix's. Meanwhile, the gray wolf's eerie blue eyes were identical to Erik's. However, their sizes weren't as massive as the originals, and their auras weren't as intimidating.

The audience was unfazed by this.

[Another one of Lord Nyx's fans.....]

[LOL, eight out of ten streams are like this.]

[I just came from another stream—those four were mimicking Felix, Kai, Jaws, and Kian.]

[I saw one earlier where all four players had beast forms identical to Zayne's Snow Wolf.] [Yeah, I saw that too.]

[At least this stream has some originality—there's actually a rabbit.]

[I'm dying of laughter.]

This little rabbit walked slowly and clumsily, with its front feet stumbling over its back feet. It was obvious that it was not used to its rabbit beast form, indicating that this was probably not its true form.

The audience thought, 'Did they deliberately pick a rabbit? This is a competition. Do its teammates have no objections?'

As the audience speculated about whether the little rabbit would be scolded by its teammates, they were stunned to see the three fierce beasts excitedly pounce toward the rabbit.

The cubs adjusted their beast forms to the system-generated adult versions.

Not only did their field of vision expand, but their bodies also grew stronger. Though not as imposing as their fathers, these bodies were enough to excite them.

They thought, 'So this is what it feels like to grow up. Mom really picked a fun game.'

Even inside their mature shells, they were still three babies less than a year old.

The voice modulators made them sound like adults, but the moment they spoke, their reliance on Nyx was unmistakable. Their voices, sticky with affection, instinctively called for "Mommy."

Nyx looked up at the adult-sized cubs, eyes filled with fondness.

She did her best to adjust to her tiny body, lifting a paw to touch each of them one by one.

The next second, the cubs had knocked her over. Three pairs of sparkling eyes stared at her.

They thought, 'Mommy is a little bunny. So soft, so cute!'

Usually, Nyx was the one hugging and showering her cubs with affection. But now, the roles had reversed- she was the one being squished and cuddled, weak, helpless, and with no way to fight back.

Three fierce beasts and a little bunny rolled together in a playful mess, forming a warm and harmonious scene.

1/4

Chapter 227

The live stream viewers were stunned.

K9250

[1]

[?]

[Did I enter the wrong stream?]

[Isn't this supposed to be a survival game?]

[Did they come here for a picnic?]

[Uh... What's the relationship between these players? This looks so weird.]

[No clue, but my friends and I definitely don't att like this.....J

[Even my biological siblings and I aren't this close...]

It was almost unheard of for males to interact like this. No matter how close they were, rolling around in each other's arms was unthinkable.

[Umm..... could they be kids?]

[That's possible.]

[Yeah! If they're baby cubs, then this makes sense.]

Since all these players used virtual avatars and modulated voices, revealing no real information, it was entirely possible that they were just children.

Taking a closer look at their overly adorable usernames and team name, the viewers felt even more certain of their guess.

[If they're cubs, then it's fine to just have fun. The competition doesn't matter.]

[Enjoy it while you can, little ones. Some bad guy's gonna come and eliminate you soon.....]

[LMAO.]

[Hope the bad guys have some sportsmanship and don't attack right away. Give the little ones a chance to surrender first.]

The players in the game couldn't see the live stream chat.

Chubby and Sky and Ash were still lost in the joy of their new forms, completely unaware that their identities as cubs had been exposed.

Taking turns, they carried Nyx on their backs and balanced her on their heads, happily heading to the river to look at their reflections.

Viewers had seen plenty of backstabbing and bloodshed in this tournament, but this unexpectedly heartwarming scene stirred a sense of happiness in them.

It didn't match the overall competitive vibe, but it was a game-people could play however they wanted. As long as they had fun, that was all that mattered.

The system detected that this new live stream was gaining popularity and automatically recommended it to the potential top-ranking list. More viewers started tuning in.

And with more people, the chat became less harmonious.

2/4

05:49 Sun, 2 Mar

Chapter 227

[A bunny is competing too?]

[I came here to watch fights, not kids on a field trip.)

[What the hell? Why is this even trending?]

(Ugh, they must've bribed the competition organizers J [Hurry up, someone eliminate them already.)

[Relax, it should happen soon.]

[If I remember correctly, there's a particularly vicious crocodile in this river. It's already taken out a bench of players)

[Expecting that!]

The clear river water reflected the shadow of a milk-colored little rabbit.

It wasn't fat, but because it was so fluffy and small, it looked round and chubby.

Nyx crouched by the shore, looking again and again, almost mesmerized by her own reflection.

She never thought she would get to experience what it feels like to be a little animal in her lifetime.

The sound of the flowing water was constant, masking the approaching danger.

Not far away, a dark figure lurked in the water, its eyes cold and glaring at Nyx.

If he could eliminate one more player, his team would advance to the intermediate map. This rabbit was like a free point, practically delivered to him. But the rabbit's teammates were all guarding nearby, and they were all fierce beasts.

The crocodile assessed his speed, hesitated for a moment, and decided to go for it. If he could kill that rabbit, he would retreat immediately. Even if the three of them caught up, it wouldn't be a big deal for him.

The water was his domain, where the lion and gray wolf's combat abilities wouldn't be useful. Only a snake with slightly better swimming skills was left, not a threat.

Those three didn't seem too impressive either. They were playing in the water so happily with the rabbit, not like serious competitors at all. They looked more like a group of kids on a picnic to him.

He thought he could earn four points in one go. The crocodile thus made up his mind, no longer holding back, and suddenly launched an attack.

The sound of the water instantly grew louder.

Nyx, alert, perked up her ears and quickly called out to Chubby, Sky, and Ash, "Run!"

As she fled, she thought to herself that if she couldn't escape, she would surrender, but then she realized the cubs hadn't kept up. She turned around in a panic to check.

The live stream audience was already getting so excited that they started cursing.

[What the heck?]

[So fierce?]

Sun, 2 Mar Chapter 228

Of The Bea 228

Chapter 228

Chapter 228

Unlike Nyx, the audience had witnessed the entire process.

They saw the moment the crocodile emerged from the river, only to immediately receive a slap from the lion. The slap was swift and accurate, hitting the crocodile's weak spot.

92%

The crocodile was knocked dizzy, and the ambush he had charged up for missed its mark. Realizing that things weren't going well, he immediately tried to retreat, but it was too late.

In the blink of an eye, the three fierce beasts shed their innocent, cub-like aura and blocked his escape route.

By the time Nyx looked back, the battle was already over.

As the team leader, she clearly heard the system announce an additional point, and her eyes widened in disbelief.

She thought, 'So, my cub, who isn't even one year old, has successfully taken down a crocodile? Even though it is three against one, it still seems absurd no matter how you look at it.

The barrage of comments flooded with people admitting they'd been fooled.

[How could this be a cub?]

[They did it on purpose, pretending to be weak to lure people in.]

[Ahhh, I've been tricked so badly...]

[19 seconds, finished the fight without taking any damage.]

[This should count as the lion's personal achievement? The other two didn't even lift a finger.]

[Is it just me, or does this lion really have a vibe similar to General Lane?]

Those who had been loudly urging the crocodile to eliminate this team fell silent and shut their mouths in embarrassment.

Though embarrassed, they stayed in the livestream room and didn't leave.

The reason they had looked down on this team was simply because they idolized strength and power, belittling the weak.

But now, they had been corrected by this battle and wanted to keep watching.

The livestream's popularity skyrocketed visibly.

As a new star rose, the team suddenly paused the game. The audience stared at the suddenly darkened screen, confused and puzzled.

In the game room, Nyx stepped out of the holographic game pod and began pulling the cubs out one by one. "Didn't we agree not to fight?" she asked.

The three cubs stood in a row, their little heads hanging low.

"But... we won," Chubby muttered softly.

Recently, they had been learning combat skills from their father, practicing diligently every day in the virtual training room, all to avoid surrendering or admitting defeat.

1/4

15.49 Sun, 2 Mar

Chapter 228

Nyx fell silent for a moment. The fact that the cubs had won was completely unexpected.

They certainly didn't lack combat talent, given that their fathers were among the Empire's strongest warriors. But Nyx thought they were still so young for such tasks.

92%

"Nyx, Jaws called out as he heard the commotion and entered the room, speaking up for the scolded cubs. "Letting them train a bit isn't a bad thing.

"I started fighting when I was very young too. They're stronger than I was back then, so you don't need to worry too much, Besides, it's just a holographic game. It can't hurt them.

Nyx looked down and saw the longing in the cubs' eyes, her stance softening slightly.

She went to ask the other mates for their opinions, and most of them agreed that males were born for battle. Beastmen valued martial prowess, and every male would eventually have to learn to fight.

Whether it was Chubby, Sky, or Ash, they were far stronger than ordinary cubs. Since they had the ability, starting practical combat training early wasn't a bad idea.

Compared to the strong cubs, the mates were more concerned about Nyx.

They sternly instructed the cubs, "You must protect your mother. If you can't win, surrender immediately."

Losing the game didn't matter, but Nyx must not be hurt-not even in a virtual game.

The cubs nodded repeatedly.

"Come on, let me teach you a few more moves," Felix said, taking over their training.

In the livestream, the audience had waited all night, and it wasn't until the next morning that Nyx and the others finally logged back in.

[They're here!]

[Finally online!]

[I almost fell asleep waiting!]

Not only were the viewers waiting for them, but after the surge in traffic the previous day, many teams from the same map had come to camp at their logout spot, hoping to ride the wave of popularity.

As soon as Nyx entered the game, she felt the weight of countless eyes watching her, making her tense. Fortunately, players who had just logged in had a two-minute protection period as a buffer.

Seizing the opportunity, she quickly planned an escape route in her mind. She thought, 'First, run to the right. Then split up.'

The two minutes flew by, and the system sounded the countdown: [3, 2, 1-time's up!]

Before Nyx could react, Sky and Ash charged out like mad dogs.

The people hiding in the shadows were completely caught off guard by their aggressive move.

The chat exploded instantly.

2/4

05:49 Sun, 2 Mar

Chapter 228

[Ahhhhhhhhhh!]

Starting off this intense?]

(No more pretending to be cubs today?]

Amid the chaos, Nyx heard a series of point notifications. [Eliminated one opponent: gained 2 points.]

92

They only needed 100 points to advance to the intermediate map. In just a short while, their points had already climbed to 48. 48.

Nyx was utterly stunned.

The wind howled as a leopard leaped down from a tree and lunged at her, ready to bite.

Since he couldn't defeat those two terrifying figures, he decided to bite and kill their little rabbit teammate.

In the blink of an eye, Nyx heard a loud crash.

When she turned around, she saw that Chubby had actually whipped his tail and snapped the thick tree where the leopard had been hiding.

The leopard, of course, couldn't escape in time and was instantly turned into 2 points.

The little rabbit was trembling in fear. She thought, 'How could my soft and cute Chubby become as vicious as his father?"

The live chat was stunned as well.

[]

[I almost thought this was Jaws himself...]

[Ditto!]

[I'm terrified. This is the first time I've seen a snake this scary, aside from Jaws...]

[I feel like this snake is the strongest in the team. Too bad he didn't participate in the battle.]

[It's probably because he's protecting the rabbit, right?]

[Tsk, it'd be better if the rabbit wasn't here.]

[The beginner map is fine, but when we reach the intermediate map, the rabbit's weakness will definitely become more obvious.]

[Let's eliminate him early. A three-person team would be much better.]

Despite the endless discussions in the live chat, the three fierce animals finished their fight and then happily trotted over to Nyx, wagging their tails as if asking for praise.

The audience was speechless.

[What's the relationship between this rabbit and them?]

[Why does it feel like they're all listening to him?]

[It's like a rich nepo baby playing with his bodyguards he hired with money.]

[It must be nice to have money.]

3/4

92%

Chapter 228

Nyx carefully checked the little ones for injuries. Fortunately, none of them were seriously hurt. But even minor injuries made her feel sorry for them.

The little rabbit drooped his ears. "We need to find some medical supplies."

Even though it was a wilderness survival game, there were occasional supply drops on the map, and sometimes there were points to collect.

However, the probability of finding supplies was extremely low.

The live chatters couldn't help but comment.

[Do they really need to treat such minor injuries?]

[It's not that easy to find medical supplies.....] [Unless the Beast God intervenes to help them.]

[LMAO!]

[Stop joking.]

Of The Bea 229

Chapter 229

Chapter 229

Chubby, Ash, and Sky were full of trust in Nyx and followed her without hesitation.

After walking about two hundred meters, Nyx tripped over something.

The fluffy little rabbit rolled into a ball on the ground, spinning several times before lying flat in a daze. The little ones hurriedly helped Nyx up.

Chubby angrily wanted to smash whatever had tripped his mom. But when he took a closer look, he realized it seemed to be a medical kit.

The viewers in the live stream, who had been mocking the little rabbit, suddenly fell silent.

[Did I see that right?]

[Did they really find supplies?]

[Wait, is this for real?]

[Why them?]

[Does this make me look funny?]

Nyx shook her head, brushed off the grass and leaves stuck to her, and opened the medical kit. Inside, there were exactly three healing potions.

Her eyes lit up, and she let each of the cubs use one. The cubs listened to her very well.

After the potion was applied, all their wounds healed, and in the blink of an eye, they were as strong as before.

The audience felt this was a complete waste of precious resources.

[What a waste!]

[Such minor injuries didn't need potions at all.]

[They should've saved them for later.]

[Hmph, they'll regret it when they're seriously injured and have no potions left...]

Nyx didn't have any such worries.

If the cubs were seriously injured, they would definitely withdraw from the competition and not push themselves further.

The original intention of playing this game was to travel and enjoy the scenery with the cubs. Now that there were no enemies and everything was calm, they naturally wanted to enjoy the game to the fullest.

The forest scenery was charming, completely different from the manor.

Nyx picked a spot with soft soil and took the cubs to dig holes, laughing and playing in the dirt for a long time.

Many new viewers who came because of the hype thought they had entered the wrong livestream.

The regular viewers were already used to it.

[You're not in the wrong place; this livestream is always like this.]

115

05:49 Sun, 2 Mar

Chapter 229

[Great, the vibe has returned to cubs on a field trip.]

[I'm really impressed by them.]

[How can they have so much fun playing in the dirt?]

[What's so fun about dirt?]

[Hurry up and go fight! Eliminate opponents, level up the map!]

[They're only halfway to the points needed. Hurry up!]

[What's the point of digging in the dirt?]

The audience urged them with frustration, but Nyx's little paws suddenly hit something hard

She felt around a bit, called the cubs over, and together they dug the object out of the soil.

It was a medical kit. Unlike the medical packs they had found before, this kit contained ten healing potions.

"Wow!" the cubs' eyes sparkled as they exclaimed in surprise.

They knew Nyx was the best.

The chat was flooded with questions.

[?]

[?]

[They found something by digging in the dirt?]

[I never knew supplies could be hidden underground.]

[Well, mainly because no one ever dug in the dirt before...]

[This is insane.]

Nyx happily stored the medical kit in her system backpack, ready to take it out whenever needed.

She shook the dirt off her body and said, "Let's go find something to eat."

In this wilderness survival game, players had to act like real wild animals, finding ways to gather food and fill their stomachs.

This was also an important part of the game.

Some players weren't eliminated in battles but because their hunting skills were too poor.

The three cubs, however, were well-prepared and vowed not to let their mom go hungry.

Chubby volunteered. "I'll go hunt."

Sky and Ash naturally stayed behind to protect their mom.

Hearing the python say it was going hunting, the livestream viewers immediately perked up.

While it wasn't as exciting as fighting enemies, hunting also showcased the players' skills and was worth watching.

The livestream screen split into two perspectives. On one side was a python, and on the other side were three fluffy animals.

2/5

Chapter 229

A. 92%-

Most of the audience was drawn to the python.

Nyx watched as Chubby left. After Chubby's figure disappeared from view, she looked around and fixed her eyes on the beautiful wild berries in the bushes. "Let's pick some berries," she said.

The berries were very small, with thin, tender skins, so only the little rabbit could pick them.

The gray wolf and the lion, holding a large leaf to collect the berries, followed closely behind her.

The remaining audience were mostly people who enjoyed watching children playing house, and they were thoroughly entertained.

[These wild berries are especially fragrant and sweet. They sell for a high price in the market.]

[Yes, they're super delicious.]

[Suddenly, I think playing this game as a rabbit beast form would be fun too.]

[Actually, if all the players were fierce beasts, it would waste such a realistic and detailed map.]

[I agree.]

[Ditto.]

[Now I kind of want to go into the game and eat some berries...]

The vibe in the chat was very harmonious.

Yet, Chubby returned with a full load and literally brought other viewers back with him.

After just watching the intense scene of the python hunting, they came back to find the lion and gray wolf following the rabbit while it picked berries. Many people were displeased.

[Picking berries actually requires someone to accompany them? Such a delicate little lord.]

[If it weren't for the rabbit slowing them down, the three fierce beasts could have gone hunting together.]

[Can the weaklings stop playing this game?]

[What's the point of having a rabbit in this team?]

[This game should just ban these useless beast forms.]

[Agreed.]

[Isn't this a bit too much?]

[Why can't the rabbit play the game? Did you create the game?]

[Their teammates have no issue, so who are you to complain?]

[So what? What's it to you? If you don't like it, leave.]

[My beast form is also a rabbit. I'm going to report you for discrimination.]

Back and forth, the chat room erupted in argument.

Fortunately, the players in the game couldn't see the chat, so the argument outside didn't affect their mood.

3/5

05:49 Sun, 2 Mar

Chapter 229

The little rabbit was still diligently picking berries, while the lion and gray wolf used their sharp claws to help the others process the prey.

Suddenly, there was a loud sound.

The cubs immediately looked up at Nyx.

Nyx had just jumped out of a bush and, caught off guard, crashed into a golden box.

She was startled and jumped into the air.

"Don't be scared," the cubs comforted their mother, quickly gathering around her in a protective posture.

From the sound of Nyx landing on the box, it seemed to be empty.

They exchanged a glance and hesitantly opened the box. In an instant, a flash of golden light appeared:

[Points +10]

The system's announcement echoed not only in their ears but also throughout the entire live stream.

The previously heated chat momentarily paused before erupting into louder reactions.

[Did they find more supplies again?]

[No way, points +10?]

[Many teams struggle for days and might not even get 10 points, and this one gets them for free?]

[Damn, they're definitely using cheats.]

[Or maybe they bribed the game's officials.]

[Heh, it's nice to have money.]

In just one day, this was Nyx's third time finding supplies, and no one could ignore her uniqueness.

They thought Nyx was just lucky.

Some viewers who already had issues with the rabbit took the opportunity to report the livestream, demanding that the game officials take action against the cheating player and restore a fair and healthy gaming environment.

The situation blew up, attracting even more onlookers and even pushing the livestream into the platform's top ten trending list.

[What's going on?]

[I heard someone's using cheats?]

[This is hilarious. Isn't cheating supposed to be for winning? Why is there a rabbit in the team?]

[Well, it is kinda cute.]

[Cute or not, cheating should result in a ban.]

Due to the overwhelming number of reports, the officials quickly responded, releasing the relevant backend data.

The results showed—there was no cheating involved.

The only difference in the little rabbit's account compared to others was an additional safety lock, which automatically surrendered and exited the game whenever it was attacked.

4/5

Chapter 229

The audience was left speechless by the findings, too shocked to know what to say.

[It just surrenders when attacked?]

[Uh... I get the feeling it really is just here for a vacation...]

[Yeah, I see it now. It has zero interest in winning.]

[LMAO. It's way too protective of itself. It's just a game, no one's actually getting hurt or dying.]

[Maybe it's a baby? Maybe a parent set up the safety lock for it.]

[If that's the case, could its teammates be the parents?]

[Possible. They do spoil it a lot.]

[Something still feels off. Why would the parents listen to the baby?]

[Wait a minute.]

[Hold on.]

[I have a bold theory...]

[Guys... could this little rabbit... actually be female?]

Of The Bea 230

Chapter 230

Instantly, the livestream chat exploded.

From the very beginning, everyone had fallen into a thinking trap, automatically assuming all players were male.

Now that a different possibility had been raised, the revelation hit like a lightning strike, as if their minds had been forcefully unblocked.

This little rabbit was unfamiliar with beast form, had adorably soft behaviors, and was being completely protected by three powerful teammates.

Her teammates acted like her attendants, following her every command without question.

All signs pointed to a high probability-she was female.

JA

AAAHHHHHHH!]

[SOMEONE SAVE ME! I should've realized sooner!]

[HOW WERE WE SUPPOSED TO REALIZE? It never even crossed mind!]

[There's never been a female playing this kind of game before!]

[We're done for...]

[We're absolutely doomed...]

[I messed up... I shouldn't have insulted her earlier...]

Although there was no concrete evidence confirming her as female, most of the viewers-especially those who had been rude before—were already half-convinced. They immediately started groveling and apologizing.

Meanwhile, those who had argued with them earlier seized the opportunity to mock them.

[Oh? Now you're apologizing?]

[How convenient.]

[So you only dare to pick on weak males but wouldn't dare offend a female?]

[Do herbivorous males like us deserve to be insulted by you?]

[Mind your own business next time. How someone plays the game is none of your concern.]

The ones who had been trash-talking dared not retort anymore, afraid of offending a female and facing consequences later.

With that, the toxic vibe in the chat finally started to clear up, and before long, harmony was restored.

Now that they had realized the little rabbit might be female, the audience couldn't help but view her actions in a different light.

[No wonder she's so adorable.]

[So, she has such a gentle personality. She even cares about her teammates, treating their minor injuries.] [Some people complained that she was delicate before. Hmph! So what if she is?]

1/4

Chapter 230

[With luck like hers, she can afford to use potions freely there's no need to save them.)

Not only was she female, but she was also a little rabbit blessed with incredible fuck.

The audience watched in astonishment as Nyx continued to find supplies-healing potions, points, food, and even special items

They had been shocked so many times that their hearts were growing numb.

When Nyx's luck reached a near-supernatural level, it naturally draws admiration from those who respect power.

[She's incredible...]

I'd like to see who still dares to call her a burden.]

[Honestly, isn't this what you'd call a god-tier teammate?]

[I'm signing up for the competition. If I get placed on this map, I might run into her!]

[Me too!]

[Anyone want to team up?]

Nyx wasn't sure if it was just her imagination, but she noticed more and more people appearing around them. Figures would occasionally emerge, moving in their direction.

They're definitely here to steal our loot," Chubby said confidently.

Sky and Ash immediately tensed up, their gazes sharp and hostile.

There was no way they would let anyone lay a hand on the supplies their mother had picked up.

The moment another player appeared, they charged like rabid dogs, striking first before their opponents had a chance to react.

The ones who had been lucky enough to be placed on the same map as the little rabbit barely had time to celebrate before they were eliminated from the game.

Sky and Ash fought with perfect coordination, growing fiercer with each battle. Their usual gentle and quiet demeanor was nowhere to be seen.

Nyx stared blankly at her two ruthless little cubs, while the system continuously broadcast their increasing points.

Then, a special notification sound rang out. [Map upgrading-]

In an instant, the scenery around them changed. One moment, they were in a sunlit forest; the next, they found themselves in the middle of a howling snowstorm. A snow-covered mountain loomed before them.

Nyx immediately turned to Chubby, rubbing her little paws together in concern. "How do you feel? Do you want to exit the game?"

From what she remembered, pythons had limited adaptability to extreme climates.

Lions weren't suited for snowy mountains either, but they might fare slightly better than a python.

"I'm fine." Chubby shook his head. He could adapt.

Nyx hopped in circles around him a few times, observing him carefully. Seeing no signs of discomfort, she sighed in relief. 'Maybe beastmen have different constitutions from ordinary animals,' she thought.

2/4

Chapter 230

"Let's find a cave to shelter from the wind and snow first? With a wave of her fluffy paw, she led the three cuts on the mountain.

Now that they had entered the intermediate-level map, the environment was much harsher than before, but there were far fewer opponents.

Along the way, they didn't see a single animal-not even system generated ones, let alone other players.

It seemed that finding food on this map would be a challenge

Nyx silently rejoiced that her backpack was stocked with plenty of food-both scavenged supplies and leftovers from past hunts and berries. It would last them at least ten days, maybe even half a month.

Just as she was feeling pleased with herself, a sharp gust of wind whistled down from above.

Nyx tilted her head up-only to see a giant eagle, which seemed to be heading straight for her.

In the blink of an eye, the eagle's razor-sharp eyes locked onto the small, soft rabbit on the ground, and it dove toward her at high speed.

Midway, Chubby suddenly lashed out with his tail, striking fiercely. He missed, Undeterred, Chubby immediately launched another attack.

Sky and Ash flanked their mother on either side, watching the battle between the eagle and the python with intense focus, their bodies taut with tension.

So far, this was the strongest opponent they had encountered in the game.

Nyx thought, 'As expected of a mid-level map. The players here are clearly on a different level from those in beginner

zones.

She thought to herself, anxiously twitching her ears as she watched Chubby gradually fall behind.

After several clashes, the python had two long wounds on its body, with many of its scales torn off. Blood snaked down, staining the snow.

Nyx's heart ached terribly as she urged, "Sky and Ash, hurry and help your brother. If you can't win, just surrender."

Sky and Ash sharpened their claws, caught in a dilemma. They needed to stay and protect their mother, but Chubby was truly at risk of losing.

In just a few seconds of hesitation, Nyx watched as Chubby suffered another slash from the giant eagle, nearly getting his eye injured. She couldn't take it anymore.

The livestream audience witnessed everything, erupting in shock.

[Oh my!]

[The little bunny is charging in herself?]

[Bunny is kicking the eagle?]

The giant eagle wasn't as composed as he seemed.

The python was a rare and formidable opponent. A single misstep, and he could end up entangled.

While dealing with the python, he also had to stay wary of the lion and the Pale Wolf.

3/4

05:49 Sun, 2 Mar

Chapter 230 Fortunately, the lion and gray wolf stayed out of the fight to protect the little bunny. He withdrew his gaze-only for his vision to go blurred as he was caught off guard by a heavy blow.

A mother protecting her young was the most ferocious force in nature.

Even confined to a rabbit's body, Nyx's maternal instinct and fury unleashed a terrifying strength.

The giant eagle was sent tumbling, completely disoriented.

Seizing the chance, Chubby seized the moment, coiling around and constricting with full force.

When the system broadcast a +2 score, Nyx finally let out a breath, collapsing into a bunny pancake.

AD

Of The Bea 231

Chapter 231

Chapter 231

The livestream chat had gone completely wild.

[That was amazing!]

JAAAAHHHHHHHRY

[They actually won']

[That wasn't just any eagle! That was Anderson-this year's Imperial Military Academy prodigy!]

Help, I think I just fell for her.]

Though her victory came from her small size and catching him off guard, the fact remained-she had dared to charge at her natural predator to protect her male.

That was a level of courage even many males wouldn't dare claim.

Soon, the eliminated giant eagle, Anderson, appeared in the livestream chat, sounding helpless: [I wasn't trying to attack the little bunny. I just wanted to approach her and get to know her.]

It was that python who attacked without warning, forcing him to retaliate. Of course, he did have some intention of showing off in front of the female.

He never imagined he'd get kicked by her-and worse, eliminated because of it.

The chat erupted into laughter.

[Understandable. We get it.]

Don't worry, you're not the only one who's suffered like this.]

[At least you got to interact with her...]

[How did it feel getting kicked in the face!

[So far, you're actually the most successful one.]

[She didn't kick anyone else, just you. That means you're special.]

Anderson: [You guys make a good point.]

Anderson: [I won't give up. I'm going to find her again

At first, he had only thought she was cute, lucky, and interesting-nothing more. But after that kick, he found himself truly intrigued.

The power gap between an eagle and a rabbit was undeniable, yet she had still thrown herself at him, all to protect her male.

He had never seen such a brave and loyal female before.

Fortunately, he had the privilege of being in the top ten of the popularity rankings, which granted him a one- time resurrection.

This time, he was determined to get close to the little bunny.

The audience, who had been joking around, was dumbfounded.

04:53 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 231

[Wait, bro?]

[Are you serious?]

We were just joking! Don't take it seriously...]

Anderson was the favorite to win this tournament. His team was composed of incredibly strong players, including two professional gamers and a former roommate from the Imperial Military Academy.

Since entering the game, they had split up and fought solo, dominating the competition. Each of them had attracted countless fans, and their team had skyrocketed to the top of the leaderboard, maintaining its status as the most popular group in the livestreaming hall.

As the most popular player in his team, Anderson had shockingly been eliminated by a new player who had only joined the tournament two days ago.

This outcome was completely unexpected, and it brought a massive wave of traffic to Nyx's livestream. His fans were beyond frustrated.

[Anderson, you're here to compete, not to chase after a female.]

[You need to win the championship! Your teammates are still waiting for you!]

[Don't make the same mistake twice!]

[What's more important, the tournament or the female!]

Seeing how agitated Anderson's fans were, Nyx's original audience, who were just there for the drama, started to push back.

[Honestly... I think the female is more important.]

- [Ditto.]

[You can always enter the tournament again next year, but if you miss your chance to talk to again.]

[How is a treasure like the little bunny not worth more than some championship medal!]

[If I had a resurrection chance, I'd be charging straight in too.)

you might never see her

Fired up by the audience, Anderson couldn't hold himself back any longer. He immediately exited the livestream, used his revival chance, and reentered the game.

Deep in the snowy mountains, the little bunny had successfully found a safe haven for herself and the cubs—a clean, sheltered cave.

But more than the cave itself, which offered protection from the blizzard, Nyx was most delighted by the nearby hot spring. It reminded her of Felix's planet

Their last hot spring trip in the snowy mountains had ended too abruptly. This time, she could take her time and enjoy it with Chubby, Sky, and Ash.

"How about we stay here until the game ends?" she asked the cubs for their opinion.

Since birth, this was the first time the cubs had seen snow and a hot spring. They were so excited that they rolled around on the ground, fully supporting their mom's decision.

214

04:53 Mon, 3 Mar 6

Chapter 231

Even though the audience knew the little bunny wasn't aiming to win the championship, they still felt it was a shame.

[Wait... so she's just going to stay here?]

[The conditions for clearing the intermediate map require either 300 points or collecting four badges. She's been incredibly lucky—she has a huge advantage.]

Yeah...]

(Doesn't she want to check out the advanced maps?)

[The snowy mountains and hot springs here aren't that special, and the conditions are pretty rough... She's way too easy to please.]

[Well, she's the kind of girl who gets happy just playing in the water and digging in the dirt. She's adorable.)

[I'm so jealous of her mate.]

Naturally, the audience had started considering the three beasts as the little bunny's mates. When they saw her letting the python rest inside the cave, even massaging him with her fluffy little paws and blowing gently on his injured spots, the jealousy was practically dripping from their comments.

[He already used a healing potion, his wounds are completely healed! Make him get up and do some work!] [That python actually dares to just lie there and enjoy it? Letting a female take care of him?]

[Shameless.]

[I admit it. I'm jealous.]

[Aaaahhhhhh!]

[Damn it! Why can't I be the one living that life?]

[No wonder Anderson refuses to give up on chasing after her...]

Speaking of Anderson, the audience got curious about his situation and switched to his livestream

What they saw completely shocked them. As expected of a top contender for the championship, Anderson wasn't one to be taken lightly.

Even though he had to start over from scratch after reviving, in just a short time, he had already leveled up and made it back to the intermediate map. He had even managed to traverse the mountains and reach the area near Nyx's location.

But that wasn't all-he had actually abandoned his real eagle beast form and switched to a snow wolf beast form.

Look at that fur, completely snow-white with no flaws, and those grey-blue eyes-it's clear he's trying to imitate Zayne's look

The audience was really impressed.

He's really trying hard.]

[He knows how to play to his audience.]

I gotta hand it to him.]

[If he pulls this off, I'll wish him the best.]

3/4

04:54 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 231

[Go for it! Hurry up and compete with the snake for attention!]

Anderson carried the audience's expectations and cautiously approached the hot spring.

This time, he learned from his last mistake. Before the three wild beasts got suspicious, he quickly spoke up to show he meant no harm, "I'm not here to fight."

Even though he said that, the three beasts still stared at him, eyes filled with suspicion. They thought, "He's using Zayne's beast form, huh?"

Anderson figured their hostility came from jealousy between rivals.

Ignoring the three males, he stepped past them and cheerfully greeted Nyx. "Hi, I'm Anderson, the eagle you met before."

Just in case Nyx had met other eagles, he added. "The one you kicked."

At the mention of this, Nyx's fur stood on end, and she turned into an even rounder bunny ball. She thought,

"Is this guy here to get revenge on me?"

Of The Bea 232

Chapter 232

Chapter 232

Like mother, like son. As soon as Anderson finished speaking, the three wild beasts charged at him like mad, full of aggression. It looked like they were going to tear him apart.

Anderson was shocked and confused, dodging their attacks while trying to figure out what he'd said wrong. All he did was introduce himself. He even used polite titles, and didn't say anything rude.

Anderson was totally baffled and finally came to a conclusion-it was due to their jealousy.

He thought, 'Being envied by the female's mates means I am not far from winning her over-my chances are promising. With that, the hunted Snow Wolf actually burst into laughter.

He rolled swiftly to evade Chubby's strike, seizing the rare opening to pin Nyx under his paw-using the little rabbit to command the beasts.

Sure enough, the three beasts halted their attack, standing wary and alarmed, not daring to make a reckless move.

"Don't worry. I mean no harm." Anderson reassured them.

If he wanted to, he could force the three beasts to surrender, admit defeat, and drop out of the game. But he didn't do that.

Similarly, he didn't really put pressure on the little rabbit; he just kept his paw raised above her, keeping her under his control.

That alone should show his friendly intent. Nyx started to calm down. She thought, 'Looks like he's not here for revenge after all.

"Are you here for something?" she asked, thinking he might be here to rob them. "If you want supplies, I'll give you everything. Just please leave us alone. We won't disturb your game. We just want to enjoy the snow and the hot springs."

"I'm not planning to continue the game either," Anderson said happily, glad to finally talk with her. "Would it be okay if I stayed here with you to enjoy the snow and the hot springs?"

As for supplies, he had no intention of asking for any. He could even go hunting for the female if needed.

Nyx eyed him suspiciously. She didn't want to share her space with a stranger. Plus, she felt like this guy had some hidden agenda.

But now, she was being held under his paw as a hostage, so even if she didn't want to agree, she had to give a reluctant nod for now

Anderson was overjoyed.

He had so much to say to the little rabbit that he didn't know where to start, stumbling over his words. "You're a fan of Lord. Nyx, aren't you? I even changed my beast form just for you. What do you think?"

Nyx was speechless, but she didn't deny it, nodding vaguely.

She thought it was understandable why others thought that way. After all, her cubs' beast forms all matched their father's. No one dared to boldly assume that she was Nyx herself, so naturally, they saw her as a fan and imitator.

And this eagle, who abandoned his original beast form just to mimic Zayne, had made his intentions glaringly obvious.

"Are you trying to court me?" Nyx asked bluntly. "Do you think I'm female?"

She threw a direct question at him, catching Anderson completely off guard. He stammered, "Ah, y-yes."

1/3

100%

Chapter 232

Irritably scraped at the ground with her tiny paw. She thought, 'I' a stranger who has only seen me twice could figure out I am female, then my secret may have been completely exposed

She didn't bother to argue about her gender and decisively refused. I'm already married with kids. I have no intention of seeking another mate.

She already had enough males at home, and with her cubs to take care of, she had no desire for romance. "Married, with kids, Anderson subconsciously muttered, repeating her words. He knew the little rabbit had a mate, but he hadn't expected her to have cubs already.

But that detail wasn't what mattered to him. What mattered was the latter half of her sentence: She wasn't planning on finding a new mate.

He thought, "Why? Does she really find her current mate so satisfactory?"

He admitted that her three mates were indeed exceptional, but not to an untouchable degree. At least just now, they had failed to protect her. giving him an opening.

"Please give me a chance to pursue you. Will you?" Anderson was unwilling to give up so easily. "I'm the top-ranked freshman of this year's Imperial Military Academy, with an S-grade gene level, specializing in command and combat.

"My family has served in the military for generations-my father used to be a general. I have no romantic history, and I'm on my own. My original career plan was to remain on the Central Planet, but for my matron. I can relocate to her planet for work"

Forced to listen to a long-winded self-introduction, Nyx found her ears drooped in exhaustion.

Her stance remained firm. "Don't waste your time on me. You'll find a female more suited to you."

Seeing this, the livestream audience couldn't help but feel sorry for Anderson.

Oh my... that rejection was brutal...]

[How is she not even considering such an outstanding candidate?]

[It makes sense. The little rabbit is an exceptional female herself. Of course, she's picky about her mate.]

[She looks completely uninterested. Does that mean her mates are at least on Anderson's level?]

[The three around her are pretty strong...]

A group of military academy students rushed over to cheer Anderson on.

[It's only two rejections. No big deal. Pursuing a female and failing dozens or even hundreds of times is normal.]

[As long as there's contact, there's hope.]

[Maybe it's because the eagle first appeared as an enemy, so he left a bad first impression?]

[That's possible...]

I think so too.

Then just use Zayne's beast form and keep trying. That'll work for sure.]

[Start by hunting prey for her.]

[Cleaning her cave would be better-use the opportunity to stay close.)

2/3

Chapter 9:2

The comments were buzzing with activity when suddenly, a terrifying name appeared on the screen.

Zayne Please don't use my beast form to harass married females 1

Zayne At this hour, none of you are in class!]

Zayne [I'll go check J

In an instant, the chat fell silent

Not only did the military academy students scatter like frightened birds, but even the other viewers felt as if they had been caught skipping class to play games.

Even years after they left school, the pressure from a teacher was still intense,

They thought. Why is Zayne the livestream? Does he watch game streams too? Judging by his reaction, he doesn't seem to support Anderson pursuing the little rabbit.

After a long pause, the chat finally became active again.

[Zayne, can we ask why you don't support Anderson?]

In less than two seconds, Zayne actually responded [Because she's married. She's satisfied with her mates and doesn't need another one

The viewers had clearly been asking about Anderson. Yet Zayne's reply was entirely from the little rabbit's perspective, making it feel strangely off.

Before anyone could pinpoint why it felt odd, their attention was completely drawn to Anderson in the game. Anderson was trying to join the little rabbit and the others in the hot spring.

The spring was big enough, and Nyx didn't say anything. She just silently put some distance between them.. Whether he was oblivious or just persistent, Anderson actually moved closer to her.

The little rabbit had short legs and couldn't swim fast enough to escape. Luckily, Chubby stepped in, shielding her behind him.

Chubby had finally had enough and shouted, "Stay away from my mom!"

3/3

Of The Bea 233

Chapter 233

The air froze in an instant. The chat also paused for a moment before erupting into an even crazier frenzy.

[2]

[What did he just call her? Mom?]

[Holy...]

[I'm speechless.]

[Wait, they're mother and son?]

[Damn, I've been shipping them as a couple this whole time. My whole belief system just collapsed.....]

[But now that I think about it, they never actually showed any romantic intimacy.]

[Still, who would've guessed they were mother and son?]

[I've never been this close with my mom.]

[Same here.]

[Ditto.]

While the audience was still in shock, Anderson was hit even harder.

He stood frozen, mid-step, unable to believe what he just heard.

100%)

He thought, 'So that python isn't the little rabbit's mate-he is her child? Does that mean the lion and gray wolf are her kids too?

It didn't take long for the guess to be confirmed.

Chubby wrapped his tail around the little rabbit, gently placing her on the lion's back before instructing his two younger brothers, "Protect Mom. I'm going to fight him."

Sky and Ash also wanted to beat up the guy harassing their mom. But remembering how their carelessness had led to her being captured before, they reluctantly stayed behind. "Beat him up, brother. End him!" they cheered for Chubby, Hearing their shouts, Anderson felt a massive headache coming on.

He had no time to hesitate. He quickly retreated, scrambling onto the shore as fast as he could to evade the python's attack.

As he fled, he kept trying to explain, "I just like your mom and want to pursue her; that's all."

He came to join this family, not to break it apart.

Enraged Chubby continued shouting, "Give up already. Mom doesn't like you!"

Weakened by his unfamiliarity with the Snow Wolf beast form, Anderson felt his combat ability had noticeably diminished. And he felt that this python was even stronger than during their last battle-so much so that he was completely outmatched.

He barely dodged a whip-like strike, and in the next second, he was nearly constricted. Just running away had him using all his strength; he couldn't find a single opening to fight back.

Anderson could no longer afford to play the fool. His expression grew serious.

1/4

04:54 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 233

100%

He thought this python was truly powerful. The most terrifying part was that he could sense it constantly improving- learning from the fight, and never making the same mistake twice.

Such

person

ability was exceedingly rare. With strength like this, he believed there was no way this python was just an ordinary

The same went for his two brothers-not only did they have extraordinary combat instincts, but their teamwork was also seamless, as if they were born to fight together. Their combined strength was even greater than the sum of their parts.

Anderson tried to pull the same trick and go after the little rabbit, but he didn't even manage to touch a single tuft of fur before getting brutally beaten.

Sky and Ash had been itching to pummel him. Seeing him foolishly deliver himself to their doorstep, they were eager to skin him alive.

The lion closed in from all sides, leaving deep and gruesome wounds on Anderson's body, while the gray wolf viciously sank its teeth into the fake Snow Wolf's throat, shaking its head violently.

The battle was intense.

The live-stream audience screamed and cheered wildly, even Anderson's own fans included.

They admired Anderson because he was strong, but when someone stronger appeared, their idol worship naturally shifted.

[Aaaaaaaaah!]

[This is amazing! I love it!]

[Now THIS is a real battle between the strong!]

[I'm switching sides-sorry, Anderson, I love this python now!]

[I love the lions and the Pale Wolf! They're usually so quiet, but when they explode, it's terrifying!]

[Actually, the little rabbit is the same.]

[You're right... Guess it runs in the family.]

[Is Anderson really about to lose to them a second time!]

[Can this team keep competing? I want to see them take the championship!]

As the Snow Wolf lay on the verge of death, the outcome seemed certain. The audience eagerly awaited the sound of a +2 points notification.

Then, in a split second, a sharp whistling sound cut through the air.

Chubby instinctively returned to Nyx's side, wrapping the little rabbit in his coils and shielding it tightly.

His decision proved to be absolutely correct. In the very next moment, a peregrine falcon suddenly swooped down.

This raptor wasn't particularly large, but its speed was astonishing. If Chubby hadn't anticipated the attack in advance, the little rabbit would have been snatched away, possibly even injured.

The cubs were enraged. Compared to dealing with Anderson, they now wanted to tear this falcon apart even more.

Unexpectedly, the peregrine falcon flew toward Anderson, scrutinizing his battered state with amusement. "Tsk. How did you end up like this, Anderson?"

2/4

04:54 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 233

Judging by his tone, it was clear he knew Anderson well-very well.

Nyx and the cubs were unaware of the falcon's identity, but the live-stream audience knew exactly who he was,

Finally 1

A teammate finally arrives to save the day.<sup>1</sup>

[Perfect timing One second later, and Anderson would've become someone else's points.]

[I knew a three-on-one wasn't fair. It should be three-on-three!]

100%

[Exactly! The little rabbit doesn't fight, and Anderson is out of commission, so now both sides have three fighters each.]

Just as the audience predicted, the peregrine falcon was not alone,

A brown bear and a giant lizard emerged, slowly approaching from the distance.

The battle vibe grew tense.

Sky and Ash also returned to their mother's side, warily eyeing these uninvited guests.

From within the coils of the python, Nyx lifted the little rabbit's head, peering out.

She looked around and realized who these people were. Trying to negotiate, she said, "Are you Anderson's teammates? Please take him away. We don't want to fight you."

They had no ambitions of competing for rankings and had no direct conflict of interest with this team. There was no need for a life-or-death battle that would leave both sides wounded.

However, the brown bear spoke in a deep, gruff voice, "You've already beaten Anderson up this badly. How could we just let it slide?"

He eyed Nyx with great interest. "Unless you join our team and give Anderson a chance."

Nyx frowned, "I can give you some healing potions. Once he's recovered, consider that our compensation."

After all, it was indeed her cub who made the first move. If they wanted to settle this peacefully, they had to pay a price.

But when it came to emotions, she would never force things, nor could she accept using emotions as a bargaining chip.

The brown bear was relentless. "Healing potions? We have those. How could something like that compare to you?"

The monitor lizard chimed in. "Anderson is only 18, still young and impulsive. He may seem immature in your eyes, but he's absolutely sincere."

Nyx didn't know what to say. She simply used that as an excuse to brush them off. "Eighteen is too young. He's not within my range of consideration."

At the mention of age, the audience in the livestream suddenly realized something.

[Could she be quite old? Is that why she doesn't want a new partner?]

[Possible.

[She has three kids, and their levels seem high. She must be quite old.]

[Ah... so Anderson has no chance after all?]

3/4

04:54 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 233

[For a proper age gap, the difference shouldn't exceed 100 years. Too much is just impossible.]

[Tsk, what a shame...]

Seeing Nyx's firm stance, Anderson's teammates exchanged glances. Their auras suddenly turned sharp.

Then, forgive us for our offense."

The three cubs tensed up, preparing for battle..

The wind howled and lifted snowflakes into the air, forming a frigid vortex.

A battle was about to break out

Just as Sky and Ash were about to strike first, they noticed their opponents expressions change-shocked, uneasy, their eyes fixed on something behind them.

Sensing a possible trick, Chubby warned his brothers not to look back and turned his head alone. "Let me check."

4/4

Of The Bea 234

Chapter 234

The audience in the livestream had already seen the newcomer, utterly stunned.

[That's one huge Snow Wolf...]

[Isn't that Zayne himself?]

[No way. Zayne was watching the stream, wasn't he?]

[Zayne? Say something!]

[Where is he?]

Many people called out to Zayne, but there was no response. At some point, he had quietly left the livestream.

They thought, "So.... Is that really him in the game? And who are his teammates?"

As if addressing the audience's confusion, three more beasts silently emerged behind him.

Their presence alone made the area feel cramped and oppressive. Their sheer size was overwhelming, their aura so powerful that it seeped through the screen.

A golden lion, a Pale Wolf, and a Scarlet Python-the same composition as the little rabbit's team, yet they made those already formidable three look small and pitiful in comparison.

With just one glance, everyone understood the vast difference between the real deal and mere imitators.

The audience collectively drew a sharp breath

[No way...]

[The real ones actually showed up?]

[Zayne, Theon, Erik, Jaws... It's really them, isn't it']

[No doubt about it.]

[A mere game tournament actually lured them here?]

[What kind of legendary hot spring is this, attracting so many powerhouses?]

[Compared to the real top dogs, the previous championship contenders don't even measure up.]

[No way. The big shots are after the little bunny too?]

[What nonsense are you spouting?]

[Get lost.]

[Stop spreading rumors about Lord Nyx's mate:]

[Reported.]

The livestream chat erupted as viewers furiously denounced the absurd speculation.

04:54 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 234

But then, Chubby turned his head and saw who had arrived. His eyes lit up instantly. "Daddy!"

At the sound of his joyful call. Sky and Ash also turned around in excitement, completely forgetting their standoff with the enemy. In a flash, they bolted toward their dads. "Daddy!"

They were running straight into their dads.

Just moments ago, the cubs had been worried about protecting their mother. But now, all their tension melted away. Overcome with happiness, they rolled onto their backs, exposing their fluffy bellies, and rubbed affectionately against their dads.

Even though they were in their adult beast forms, they were still much smaller than their dads. And their natural, spoiled behavior didn't seem out of place at all.

Chubby, carrying Nyx on his head, charged forward with the others.

As they neared, the little bunny leaped into the air and landed squarely on Zayne's broad back, where she was caught securely.

"What are you guys doing here?" she asked in surprise.

Snow Wolf's voice carried a hint of jealousy. "Someone had the nerve to impersonate my beast form to court you. I came to put an end to such shameless behavior."

The little bunny twitched her ears, avoiding his gaze. She kneaded her fluffy paws against Snow Wolf's fur. "I already rejected him."

It hadn't even been that long since Anderson's confession. Yet Zayne and the others had rushed over so quickly-it was clear they had been in a real hurry.

Nyx puffed out her tiny chest and solemnly declared. I only want you guys. No one else."

She looked so serious and adorable that her mates gazes burned with intensity. They stared at her in unison, itching to gobble her up on the spot. But there was something else that needed to be dealt with first.

The males positioned themselves protectively in front of their matron and the cubs. Then, lifting their gazes, they locked. eyes with the few enemies standing not far away-who now looked utterly panicked. Their expressions turned ice-cold.

The three who had been ready to fight to the bitter end felt their legs go weak. Swallowing nervously, they realized they were doomed. They were about to become nothing more than points for the big shots.

But then again, a chance to fight against legends like these was incredibly rare. They could learn far more from such a battle than from simply winning a match.

Gathering their courage, they made a bold decision: instead of running, they fed a healing potion to Anderson, who barely hanging on, and prepared to face the coming storm together.

The potion took effect immediately. Not only did Anderson's wounds heal, but his body recovered from the exhaustion of his severe injuries.

Just moments ago, he had been lying on the ground, barely aware of what was happening around him. But now, as he climbed to his feet and caught sight of Zayne, his mind went blank, and an overwhelming sense of inferiority washed over him.

Meanwhile, the livestream had descended into total chaos.

No one even cared about the upcoming slaughter.

Witle-because the outcome was a foregone conclusion. It would be a one-sided

2/3

Chapter 211

Instead, all attention was on the little bunny's identity.

[Lord Nyx...]

The little bunny is actually Lord Nyx?]

I No wonder the name is Nyx.!

[The clues were so obvious, but I never dared to guess... This is insane.]

[Am I dreaming?]

[I must be hallucinating. Why am I imagining Lord Nyx livestreaming with cubs and playing games?]

I have the same symptoms...]

Same here. Is there any cure for us?]

[Wake up. This is real. It's not a dream. Not an illusion.]

The stream's viewership skyrocketed to unprecedented levels:

News spread across the entire StarNet. Even people who had never cared about the game before swarmed in—just to catch a glimpse of the legendary Lord Nyx in her bunny form.

Surrounded by a pack of fierce beasts, the milk-colored bunny looked even rounder and cuter. Fans collectively lost their minds, their noses practically gushing blood from the sheer adorableness.

"Since you're here, let's have Chubby and the others return to their original forms, Nyx suggested to her mates.

Now that they had their protectors, the cubs no longer needed to fight. There was no need for them to keep up the pretense of being adults-they could finally just have fun. Naturally, the males had no objections. Seafarion had been watching the livestream closely. Upon hearing the news, he immediately gave orders. Soon, the tech team made slight adjustments to the backend data.

In an instant, Chubby, Sky, and Ash shrank, reverting to their original juvenile forms.

Compared to his younger brothers, Chubby was slightly larger, looking like a big baby.

Sky and Ash still had their baby fat, their chubby, fluffy lion and gray wolf bodies squished together, snuggling up to each other before cuddling up to their mother.

The audience was utterly dumbfounded. Suddenly, they realized something crucial.

3/3

AD

Comment

Of The Bea 235

Chapter 235

Looking back at the occasional childish behavior of the three beasts, the audience finally understood the reason behind it. Such young cubs playing in water, digging dirt, and picking berries was the most natural thing in the world.

Nyx hadn't deceived them at all-the names had been completely straightforward, literally identifying them as Nyx and Her Three Treasures. They just never dared to believe the truth

[No wonder the team name was that Turns out, they really are just three little babies..]

I used to think they were strangely clingy to the little bunny. Now it all makes sense...]

Finally, we get to see what the second litter looks like!]

Such chubby hon and gray wolf cubs! They look so healthy I

They look so soft and fluffy. Too cute!]

[Chubby has grown so much, too.]

I want to hug them.

[What do I do? My mind is full of their battle scenes now.....]

[Same here.]

[I want to go into the game and hug them, but I don't think I could win.)

[Don't doubt yourself-you definitely wouldn't win.]

[Ahhh, stop, just stop!]

[I'm crying. I was actually eliminated by them...]

[Ditto.]

[They're not even a year old... How are they so good at fighting?]

Thinking back to the scenes of them ruthlessly demolishing other players and mercilessly racking up points, the audience found it impossible to reconcile those brutal moments with the adorable little cubs in front of them.

At an age where most cubs could barely string together sentences, these three had already fought their way to the top of the game's popularity rankings and were on the verge of winning the tournament.

They thought, "What terrifying combat talent. Truly worthy of being SSS-level female's cubs.

The audience was in awe, but those who had barely escaped with their lives-like Anderson and his teammates-were even more speechless, Anderson lay collapsed on the ground, staring at the three tiny figures in shock.

He thought, 'So... I have been utterly overpowered just by three cubs? Bullying little cubs isn't exactly honorable, but losing to them is outright humiliating

His teammates looked equally pale. They thought. That little bunny is actually Nyx... Had we known, we wouldn't have dared provoke her in a million years. But who could have imagined that the ones who have beaten Anderson into such a miserable state are just three tiny cubs?"

175

04:54 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 245

Meanwhile, the lion and gray wolf cubs, thrilled to see their father in-game, excitedly chased each other around their mother in endless circles, until Nyx felt dizzy.

"Alright, sit down and rest for a bit." Theon and Erik each reached out a paw, pressing down on their energetic cubs to keep them from bothering Nyx any further.

The two chubby little fluffballs, now pinned under their fathers' paws, simply wagged their tails happily.

They looked so tiny compared to their fathers, their fur soft and fine, fluttering gently in the breeze-almost as if they carried the scent of warm milk.

Looking at this incredibly cute scene, Anderson and his teammates were completely shattered. They actually considered these little cubs their opponents.

The intense embarrassment caused them to hang their heads, unable to bear staying any longer. Each took a potion to heal their wounds, and then silently fled the scene.

With no more interruptions, the interrupted hot spring fun resumed. The mist swirled. The little rabbit led the way with its short legs, followed by a string of little tails.

The cubs, imitating their mother, jumped into the water one by one, comfortably squinting their eyes in the warm spring water

The viewers in the livestream couldn't help but frantically screenshot and record, capturing this rare sight. [Help! It's too cute!]

[I can't take it anymore, I want to join the competition, I want to bump into Lord Nyx!]

[Team up, three missing one.]

[A-level male seeking teammates.]

[Same here.]

[What color of transport box should I prepare to steal the little rabbit?]

[To the one in front, I advise you to be careful with your words.]

[You want to steal the little rabbit in front of the big shots? How many lives do you have?]

[You don't even need the big shots to step in. Lord Nyx could just kick you away.]

[LOL!]

Even though they knew it was a long shot, many people signed up for the competition, hoping to meet Nyx in the game.

Fans worked hard to level up in the intermediate maps, busily occupied with their tasks.

However, Nyx only played for half an hour in the hot spring before taking the cubs ashore, resting briefly in the cave, and logging out of the game.

It was time for lunch. Facing the screen that had gone black again, the livestream was immediately filled with cries of despair.

[Offline again J

[When will she log in again?]

2/5

04:55 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 235

[I'm waiting I

Il guess I'll go have lunch too...]

If Lord Nyx's identity is exposed, will she ever log in again?]

I No way, right?]

[Sigh there is a possibility I

[Lord Nyx doesn't seem to like being watched.]

[Waaah, nooo!]

[I haven't seen enough of the little rabbit.]

At the dining table, Seafaron softly asked. "Nyx, do you still want to play?"

Nyx was startled by the question. Play! Why wouldn't 12"

Suddenly, she remembered something and opened her Intelligent Brain. Sure enough, the posts about her and the cubs playing the game flooded the screen.

Almost the entire StarNet was watching them.

"It's fine." Nyx decided to continue playing "We'll play until the competition ends," Chubby, Sky, and Ash supported her 100%. "Mom is the best!" They hadn't had enough fun yet.

To accommodate her mates in bed, Nyx didn't log in again until late afternoon.

The viewers had been eagerly waiting, and when she appeared, they were so moved they almost cried.

[She's back!]

[She's finally back!]

[The supervisor is in position.]

[If anyone violates the agreement, drag them out and beat them to death.]

[Respect]

During Nyx's absence, everyone spontaneously reached an agreement—no player should approach Nyx within 1,640 feet to avoid disturbing her and the cubs.

Nyx gained peace and quiet because of this. She happily rolled a snowball for a while with the cubs.

Due to the little bunny's not-so-agile paws, she couldn't shape the snowball into anything too intricate. Instead, she changed her approach and tried to make the snowball as big as possible.

From the size of a fist, she rolled it all the way to half her height. Then, it grew to nearly her full height. The three cubs pushed with all their might, working together with little grunts.

Just as they were having a great time, Jaws suddenly approached, lowering his head in apology. "Nyx, I just received word. There's something urgent I need to handle

Since it was a team

n competition, unless a player was eliminated, everyone had to be online at the same time and log off at 3/5

Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 235

the same time.

If the protectors weren't there, Nyx and the cubs wouldn't be safe, so they should temporarily exit the game with them

The cubs were reluctant.

"We'll protect Mom," Chubby said seriously. "I'll protect my little brothers too."

Sky and Ash didn't want to log off either. Their round eyes were filled with longing as they looked up at their mother with pitiful expressions.

Nyx could only shake her head at her mates. "It's okay, you go ahead. We'll play for a little longer." After all, it was just a virtual game, with no real danger.

The viewers in the livestream also expressed their agreement,

Don't worry; it's safe.]

[Whoever breaks the agreement will be mobbed.]

[Anyone who harms Lord Nyx or the cubs will become public enemy number one.]

[There are plenty of supervisors patrolling around; it's definitely safe.]

With the viewers' unanimous support, Nyx stayed with the cubs and continued playing

The cubs rolled a giant snowball, stopping only when they couldn't move it anymore, jumping and hopping with joy. "Mom,

look!!

Nyx smiled and praised them, "Amazing!"

The fluffy little bunny wiggled her ears, giving each of her beloved cubs a kiss, her love for them radiating without any -concealment.

The little python, lion, and gray wolf sat in a row, waiting for Nyx's kiss.

The scene was warm and happy, and the viewers were deeply touched.

[This kind of stream, I could watch for ten thousand years and never get bored.]

[Ditto.]

[Lord Nyx is so gentle...]

[I'm a bit jealous of her cubs, sigh...]

[Wait, did you see that?]

I saw it... A wolf.]

[What's going on?]

[Who is that?]

[Where are the supervisors? How did a rogue animal get in?]

[It looks like it's not a player... it's a wild animal set by the system...]

[Is it trying to eat the little bunny?]

04:55 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 205

Help Someone, please comell

It's over 1

The viewers hearts sank.

Although the cubs had been fierce when fighting and hunting, they were now in their juvenile forms, which made them no help in this situation

Of The Bea 236

04:55 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 236

Chapter 236

The audience thought, 'Could Lord Nyx trigger the safety lock and be eliminated like this?

Amid the desperate cries of them. Nyx turned alertly toward the cave where she heard some noise.

The cubs also sensed the movement and quickly gathered around the little bunny. But their own small size made their protection look rather comical, as they earnestly positioned themselves around the little bunny.

Compared to a full-grown wolf, they seemed like little snacks.

Now, the viewers not only worried about Nyx but also began to worry about the cubs.

The wild wolf was extremely aggressive and would never let them go. The cubs, however, would definitely never leave their mother to escape on their own. They might end up being wiped out all at once.

Realizing it had been exposed, the wild wolf no longer crept forward slowly. Abandoning its disguise, it charged fiercely toward its prey Caught off guard, it was forced back a few steps by a sudden strike of a python's tail.

Immediately after, accompanied by an adorably fierce roar, the lion and the little gray wolf jumped up and directly began biting at the wild wolf's vital points..

Its throat was in excruciating pain, and the wild wolf roared in fury, attempting to shake off these two reckless creatures.

But before it could escape from their bites, its body was once again entangled by the python, tightening around it. Not only was its movement restricted, but breathing also became increasingly difficult.

In the live stream, the audience watched helplessly as the wild wolf collapsed to the ground, its body twitching uncontrollably, quickly losing breath

[Is this wolf really that weak?]

(It doesn't look like it

[Of course not!]

[It's really strong.]

It played on the intermediate map before and was eliminated by this kind of wolf.]

[The cubs are so round and cute, I can hardly remember how vicious they were in their previous fights, but now I finally remember...]

[As expected, even if they change their appearance, their combat skills don't disappear.]

[Their strength is impressive too! What kind of cub has such strength?]

[After all, they're Lord Nyx's cubs. They're definitely not something ordinary creatures can compare to.]

[I bet they'll definitely be 555-level males in the future.]

Do we even need to bet?]

The wild wolf was ferocious. But clearly, Nyx's cubs were even more ruthless.

It paid with its life but didn't even touch a single rabbit hair.

1/3

04-35 Mon, 3 Mar

100%

Chapter 236

The supervisor, hearing the commotion, arrived late and was stunned by the shocking scene, almost having his jaw drop.

"D-Do you need me to handle this for you?" he asked cautiously, pointing at the wild wolf's corpse.

The little rabbit shook its head. Thank you, but there's no need to trouble yourself."

It jumped over, prodded the wolf's corpse a couple of times, and intended to stuff it into the system's backpack to save the cubs achievements

After just prodding it a couple of times, something shiny fell with a "thud" to the ground.

The cubs curiously gathered around to take a look.

It was a badge. Nyx went speechless. She hadn't even been looking for the badge, yet it came to her on its own.

The supervisor fell silent, his emotions complicated as he thought. Why did the badge appear so easily?" Many players had been stuck on the intermediate map for dozens of days, thoroughly searching every dangerous spot, yet they only managed to gather four badges. Even more players, like him, had been stuck on the intermediate map since the start of the competition.

He had even given up on searching and switched to doing something else, like volunteering as a supervisor to guard Nyx.

"Do you want it?" Nyx offered the badge to him.

The supervisor hadn't expected such a stroke of luck. "You're really giving it to me? Aren't you planning to go to the advanced map for the finals?"

He stammered, politely declining twice, before awkwardly accepting it and thanking Nyx seriously

The advanced map was a much harsher disaster scene, and Nyx felt it wasn't suitable for the cubs to play and relax.

After staying at the hot springs for over ten days, she took the cubs to explore the snow mountains, where they found deep, frozen lakes, towering glaciers, waterfalls, and a small patch of forest without snow,

Even though they hadn't participated in the finals, they didn't feel any regret.

The audience, too, had been faithfully watching their livestream at all hours, no longer caring much about the results of the competition.

The game had given the cubs wonderful memories, as if they had truly gone on a long journey with their mother.

The rich experiences made them grow at a visible rate.

In an early morning, Nyx heard a light knock on the bedroom door and smiled, "Come in."

Upon hearing her permission, the three cubs immediately rushed into the room and took turns giving her kisses on the face. "Good morning, Nyx."

Nyx returned a good morning kiss to each of them, "Good morning, Chubby, Sky, and Ash

The cubs pursed their lips, seeming to feel embarrassed by their cute names. Nyx also felt somewhat helpless about their way of addressing her.

She couldn't remember when it started, but the cubs stopped calling her "Mommy" sweetly and began calling her Nyx, just like their fathers.

2/3

04:55 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 236

99%

After all, they were still only six years old. Other male cubs at this age still had a high chance of not being able to transform into their human forms.

Yet, they no longer needed adult care and instead treated their mother as the most protected member of the family.

Sitting at the dining table, Nyx was carefully fed by the three cubs, feeling that their return of care had come far too early.

She hadn't had enough fun with the little cubs before they grew up so fast.

The chubby, round little python, little lion, and little pale wolf were long gone. Now, in their beast forms, although they still appeared to be in their juvenile stage, their size was already quite impressive, exuding the intimidation of wild beasts.

In their human forms, they were also quite tall; although their faces were still youthful, their height surpassed that of other cubs their age.

Sky and Ash remained as calm as always, while Chubby had become more composed, no longer as mischievous as when he was younger, showing signs of a protective older brother.

Nyx stared at Chubby's serious face for a while, and then suddenly picked him up and placed him on her lap.

Instantly. Chubby's serious expression melted away, his face turning bright red with embarrassment. He thought he was so heavy; he shouldn't be sitting on Nyx's lap.

"Chubby, do you still remember Dollar?" Nyx gently stroked his head and asked, "The Dollar that used to play with you when were little.

you

Of The Bea 237

Chapter 237

Chubby, of course, remembered. Just thinking of that plump Dollar reminded him of the trouble they had gotten into together, and his face turned even redder.

Seeing him nod. Nyx sighed lightly. "Dollar is sick, and I want to go to Earth to visit it."

Dollar was seriously ill. She wanted to treat Dollar.

It had developed a tumor, which had spread, and after some treatment, the effect was very limited, almost as if it had been sentenced to death.

When they contacted Nyx, the boss appeared on video, his shoulders shaking as he cried uncontrollably.

Of course, he was willing to spend any amount of money to treat Dollar, but the veterinary technology on Earth was limited. and it seemed he could only accompany Dollar through its final days, waiting for death to come.

Six years had passed, and while humans had not changed much, the Beastmen were essentially the same as before, enough to cause Dollar, once in its prime, to enter old age.

From the moment the boss adopted Dollar, he had prepared for separation, but when that day truly arrived, it was still hard to accept.

Chubby's expression changed from embarrassment to shock, followed by intense sadness. He clutched his clothes tightly. "I want to see Dollar too

"Nyx, we want to go too." Sky and Ash also remembered Dollar.

Although they hadn't spent much time with it, Dollar had been there when they hatched, always waiting by their side. They all remembered in

This was the cubs first confrontation with the illness and death of a close friend.

They were deeply saddened, but much stronger than Nyx had expected. After a brief moment of sorrow, they quickly picked themselves up, busily preparing small gifts for Dollar.

"Nyx is the best, so she will definitely cure Dollar." They still trusted their mother as they always had.

Nyx also hoped she could live up to their expectations.

Over the years, she had studied veterinary theory and practice at the Imperial Military Academy. After obtaining her veterinary license, she had often helped rescue wild animals, gaining plenty of experience in treating them.

As for Dollar's condition, while she couldn't say she was 100% sure, there was at least a 90% chance of a cure.

From the moment she received the news, Nyx had been preparing tirelessly.

After six years, Earth was still under the protection of the Beastmen Empire, with many Beastmen Empire ships and starships patrolling nearby, ensuring safety throughout the journey.

Therefore, Nyx didn't plan to make a big fuss about the trip and would only travel with Theon and Erik.

Just before her departure, Aurelius followed her. "Nyx, I'll go with you."

Nyx looked at him in surprise. "Aren't you very busy lately?"

Emperor had already decided to abdicate and formally pass the throne to Aurelius, so he should be preparing for his succession

1/3

04:55 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 217

99%

Aurelius, the soon-to-be Emperor, transformed into a little white cat, stretching lazily and resting his head on the lap of Nyx. "It's exactly because I'm so busy that I want to take a break for a while."

Of course, the real reason wasn't as simple as that. He mainly stayed to accompany Nyx.

Although the chance of success for the treatment was higher, the possibility of failure wasn't negligible. If it failed, Nyx would be very upset, and he would have to stay by her side to comfort her. He was willing to be the substitute for that fat

Nyx subtly guessed Aurelius thoughts and, touched, kissed the little cat's head twice.

Immediately, a fluffy Tale Wolf peeked over, pushing the little white cat aside.

The little white cat reflexively bared his teeth, claws extended, but upon realizing it wasn't Erik but the innocent-looking Ash, he reluctantly calmed down.

He turned and glared at Erik, his deep blue eyes filled with anger. He knew it was Erik's teaching. Over the years, Erik had often competed with him for Nyx's affection, always using his son Ash as an excuse, Erik spread his hands and shrugged. He thought. Yep, it is intentional. So what?

Nyx saw their little antics and shook her head helplessly.

They'd been together for so many years, yet the clingy males at home still fought over a hug or kiss from her. There were no major conflicts, but the little frictions never stopped, and it had never changed.

Nyx ruffled Ash's head a few times, and then pulled Sky over to give it a pet, and then hugged Chubby.

After giving each of the cubs a bit of attention, she waved at her mates, trying to keep the balance. "Come, let me groom your fur

The golden-haired lion eagerly approached first.

Seeing this, Aurelius and Erik stopped their bickering and obediently squatted beside Nyx.

The ship soon filled with the warm scent of fur oil, mixed with the faint fragrance of scale maintenance lotion. Nyx felt her mind calm, her tense emotions slowly relaxing.

In Arkham on Earth, the cold smell of disinfectant filled the entire villa, and the boss silently squatted outside the door, waiting for Dollar's chemotherapy to end. He couldn't bring himself to go inside and look at it.

He had hired the best veterinarian available to treat Dollar, but after the first surgery, Dollar visibly began to wither. Each chemotherapy session felt like a trial.

Once a plump Dollar, now it was almost skin and bones.

Upon close inspection, he could see its body visibly heaving as it struggled to breathe.

Day after day, the boss watched Dollar's condition deteriorate, unsure if it would survive the next round of chemotherapy.

The sound of the doctor's footsteps came from behind, and the boss quickly stood to greet him, his eyes filled with fear and hope.

Even though the doctor had seen countless owners part with their pets, he still gently comforted the boss with a white lie. "Dollar is doing great; it made it through this round too."

2/3

04:55 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 237

The boss let out a long sigh of relief. He thanked the doctor profusely, giving a generous tip on top of the already high medical fees.

The doctor found it uncomfortably improper, so he repeatedly refused to take it.

"The fact that he won't take your money means Dollar's condition isn't good. It's very unlikely it will recover, the friend said after the doctor left.

The boss knew this himself. Though it was true, he didn't want to hear it. He didn't show it on his face, but his expression turned cold

The friend, however, didn't know when to stop and continued. "I think rather than wasting money on a futile effort, you should just let it live out its last days with good food and care.

"You can't spend your whole life just keeping a cat, right? You need to find a human partner. The friend's true intentions were revealed. "My sister is still single, and you two know each other well. What do you think of her?"

The boss furrowed his brows, "I'm against marriage. I thought you knew that."

Well, I'm just am just worried you'll be lonely. At least you used to have a cat, but what about in the future?" The friend chuckled awkwardly.

"We'll talk about the future later. Right now, I just want to stay with Dollar" the boss barely held back his anger and didn't yell at his friend. "Its condition might still improve. I've already contacted Nyx, and she promised to help me."

"What?" The friend was stunned. "For a cat, you'd go to Nyx for help? Someone as important as her would never lower herself to come to Earth for something like this."

Of The Bea 238

Chapter 238

Chapter 238

The boss's face darkened completely. "Nyx is different from you. She values emotions and won't measure everything by profit and status."

He stopped holding back, pointed to the door, and directly showed his friend out. "I'm not in the mood to entertain you today. Please leave."

Seeing his anger, the friend quickly changed his tone. "Wait, I didn't mean it like that... I was just making a reasonable guess, worried that you'd be disappointed"

He spoke a few soft words, but seeing the boss's attitude remained unchanged, he grew frustrated and lashed out, "I'm just telling the truth. Only you treat that sick cat like a treasure. I doubt if anyone will come to help your cat."

With this, he turned and stormed out, nearly slamming into someone at the door. His shoulder was pushed just in time to prevent the collision.

"Who is it!" The friend was already frustrated and, after being pushed, grew even more impatient.

He looked up and, upon seeing the person outside the door, sucked in a breath. "N-Ny-

It was Nyx, well-known in every corner of Earth, with no one who didn't recognize it.

The friend stared at the face, which looked no different from six years ago, and his mind went blank.

Instinctively, he looked behind her, meeting Theon's icy gaze, and his breath hitched.

As for this reckless person who nearly bumped into Nyx and had a nasty attitude, Theon couldn't offer a pleasant expression.

Only when the boss eagerly greeted them did Theon soften, giving a slight nod to the boss.

"Come in, please." The boss rubbed his hands, overjoyed and unsure what to do.

He had only contacted Nyx three days ago, and she had really come in person.

"Oh my, is this Chubby? And this is Sky? And Ash?" The boss, seeing the three cubs, couldn't help but exclaim, "They've grown so much?"

He remembered they were only six years old this year, but they looked like teenagers, though their faces still had a youthful innocence.

Thinking back to when he had witnessed Sky and Ash hatch, the boss felt a mixture of emotions, shaking his head with a sigh. "Dollar's getting old, and so am I."

"Don't say that," Nyx smiled. "You're only in your thirties-you're not old, and neither is Dollar. This time, after curing its illness and letting it recover, I'll inject it with a few gene-enhancing medications. It can stay with you for at least another thirty years."

"Really?" The boss was so excited his ears rang.

Dollar was 11 this year, so if it could live for at least another thirty years, that would make it a forty-something cat. It would be a rare care on Earth.

Hearing this, the friend, who had planned to leave quietly, couldn't resist coming back to ask curiously, "Can that medication be used for humans?"

Before Nyx could answer, the boss frowned at him, "Why are you still here?"

1/3

MO

99%

Chapter 238

The dismissive tone was too obvious, and the friend, unable to hold his composure, snapped back, "Tch, we used to be friends."

"Not anymore," the boss coldly declared, putting an end to their friendship. "I know what you're thinking." Ever since he became wealthy thanks to Nyx, many of his former friends had changed, including this one, who constantly tried to get money from him and even wanted to marry his sister to further seize his wealth.

He had never been one to dwell on these matters, always helping when he could, but this time, the guy kept poking at his sensitive spots, and he couldn't take it any longer.

The friend's intentions were exposed, and he turned bright red in embarrassment.

"What am I thinking?" he shouted defensively, turning the blame on the boss. "Aren't you just annoyed with not wanting to deal with me?"

my uselessness,

He pointed at Nyx and the others. "You like hanging out with useful people like them, sucking up to them. Well, suck up all you want. No matter how hard you try, she won't give you any of that medication she gives to cats."

Nyx went speechless.

She looked sympathetically at the boss, who was about to explode with anger.

The gene-enhancing medication was indeed very expensive, but she wasn't withholding it because of the price; rather, there were no gene-enhancing medications for humans on the market.

She explained seriously, "That medication is specifically for feline genetics. If humans use it, it won't have any effect and could even be deadly due to rejection and side effects."

Hearing this, the friend was momentarily stumped but muttered unwillingly, "Are you sure of that?"

He thought. If cats can eat it, humans can too. If cats can use the medication, why can't humans? I'm definitely being tricked

After being kicked out by the boss, the friend lingered outside for a while, staring at the villa before finally leaving, his mind racing with ways to get his hands on that medication.

Money didn't matter so much now; he wanted to live for another five hundred years.

Inside the villa, Nyx disinfected herself, changed into sterile clothing, and brought medical instruments and medication into Dollar's hospital room.

The poor little cat was lying there weakly, eyes closed.

As Nyx's footsteps drew closer, Dollar's nose twitched, as if it recognized a familiar scent, and it struggled to open its eyes just a crack.

It wanted to meow a few times, just like before, to greet the one it liked. But it couldn't do it.

As Dollar struggled to lift its paw, Nyx's heart ached as though it were being squeezed, and she quickly approached it, her voice trembling, "It's okay. It won't hurt soon. Dollar is a strong, brave little cat."

As she whispered comfortingly, she administered the anesthesia.

The frail Dollar recognized Nyx and trusted her completely, slipping into unconsciousness without resistance, its body relaxing

2/3

04:56 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 238

Outside the door, the boss was crouching with his head in his hands, and then stood up and began pacing nervously.

It wasn't that he didn't trust Nyx; he was simply very worried about Dollar.

A long time had passed, the ward door was suddenly opened from the inside.

The boss jumped in surprise and quickly looked up. He thought, 'Only a few minutes have passed; how could Nyx be out already? Is the surgery a failure?'

For a moment, the boss imagined Dollar lying motionless, without a breath, and couldn't help but cry out in anguish.

"Sir, why are you crying?" Chubby asked, looking at the boss, who was sobbing uncontrollably, confused.

He thought, 'So, is he happy now? Tears of joy?'

The boss was sobbing so hard that he couldn't catch his breath when suddenly, a pair of furry paws expertly climbed up his leg.

His crying stopped abruptly. He looked up in disbelief.

Of The Bea 239

Chapter 239

Dollar crouched beside the boss, looking at him with a disdainful gaze, as if telling him to stop crying. Yet beneath the disdain, there was unmistakable affection.

Even as the boss cried and hugged it, wiping his tears on its fur, it didn't shy away from him but meowed and, grumbling, chose to indulge him.

Hearing it meow, the boss suddenly looked up at Nyx, unable to speak for joy. "Thank you, thank you so much."

He never expected that after the treatment, Dollar would immediately regain its vitality, still weak but able to run and jump

His hands trembled as he gently stroked Dollar's body, finding no lumps, no scars from surgery. It seemed like a perfectly healthy cat, and with some time and care, it could return to its previous state.

It felt like a dream to him.

"Does it need to continue any medication for reinforcement? the boss asked Nyx.

"No need." Nyx smiled and shook her head. Just gradually help it recover its diet, feed it nutritious food, and let its body rebuild."

As she spoke, she took out a special storage box from the Space Button and handed it to the boss.

Inside the box were three gene improvement injections for felines. Nyx instructed, "Once Dollar fully recovers, give it one shot per year. If there are any adverse reactions, let me know immediately."

"T-This is too expensive. The boss took it, his face turning red, feeling embarrassed.

He didn't know how to thank Nyx properly.

Earth's currency meant little to Nyx, and he couldn't think of anything that Earth had that the Beastmen Empire didn't.

The boss felt uneasy, scratching his head, his hands unsure where to go.

Nyx noticed his awkwardness and reassured him. "Dollar is also my friend. I saved it because I should."

Although Dollar was the boss's cat, she helped not out of obligation to him but because of her affection for Dollar.

"Chubby is also really reluctant to part with Dollar. Nyx rubbed Chubby's head and pulled Sky and Ash closer. "Sky and Ash 100. 100.

Dollar, hearing the sound, waddled over, arching its back and rolling on its belly in front of her.

It was a very clever little cat, knowing Nyx had saved it. It had always been fond of Nyx, but now it was utterly devoted to her. It was also very fond of Nyx's cubs.

snow

Although the three cubs now exuded the aura of fierce beasts, it still didn't feel afraid.

The cubs joyfully surrounded their good friend Dollar, pulling out various cat toys and snacks from the Space Button.

These were gifts they had prepared for Dollar. Among them was a large cat play structure, which needed to be installed in the yard.

Seeing the cubs manage to install the structure without needing help from their father, the three working together with such coordination, the boss was amazed. "Their hands-on skills are impressive

He didn't believe they were just six-year-old kids. The structure looked really complicated to design; even he might struggle to install it as nothly as they did

1/4

Chapter 230

After a long time. Hollar inally regained in stating in mouse and could fence the humus no explore consider

It was winter, and a fine layer of snow had just fallen. The yard widened in store peaceful and spier

Thollar sat proudly on top of the play storming cherraful mensi act declaring meteringy

The sound of the meining attracted a large tally cat

'n looked strong alert, and clearly the bully among the stray rat

The moment the tabby appeared. Dullar's mok tunediately turned into a fierce, angry grow!

Ny was sering Dollar like this for the for time and was a lile surprised.

do Bight with

The has helplessly nudged his forehead and explained "That's Dollar's arch needs it used to Dollar Eves siner Dollar got sick. It seems to have come by a few tours lait never found Dollar Slowly, it stopped coming

The tabby cat dashed to Dollar's side, smiled around confusion, as if trying to understand how Dollar had Aber hesitating for a moment. It turned and can off in a circle, combined it was hired in meal and den dared in our from a cloudy cat to a thin pitiful creature

A few minnes later a returned, holding a small nich in its month, which it tow at Dollar

Dollar pawed at the still-live fil a few times, showing lite interest

The tabby cat pushed Dollar's head, insisting it eat the fish

Aber some back and forth, Dollar ticked its tail in annoyance and bared its teeth at the truesome cat lack-and-forth,

elover.

Tollar, don fight. You can't win against it now the less had a bad feeling and rushed over. But it was too late

He was unclear who struck first, hat with two loud cries of age, the orange cat and the tabby cat solled in a tight

ys was started as well Just before the cond intervene, a lion's roar echoed though the yard.

Nyx

Altus instantly, the two fighting cats were completely separated,

The alley cat darted upea nearby tree, its ears flattening nervously as it stared up at the suddenly appearing hou.

It didn't know what kind of animal it was, but it felt that this was a dangerous beast it couldn't mess with subi

Though still a cul, Sky was already close to that of a sule adult male lion in size.

Under the taldey cat's fearful gare. Dollar Blinked for a while laclore walking over to nezle Sky, who was in beast form

While its appearance had changed, its scent was the cone i recognized lost it was the life subs liked

The talday's expression turned to one of shoek

Soon, a gray wolf and a large python joined in, affectionately rubbing up again Dollar

Ny thought the tady cat seemed to be questioning it Dollar had become a cat king

I hesitated, unwilling to caur down from the tree. After a long while, it seemed to make up its mind and heapest stown.

2/4

04:56 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 239

crawling cautiously toward Dollar.

Dollar naturally noticed the tabby car's movements, and when it approached, it raised a paw and gave it two swift slaps.

Unexpectedly, the tabby didn't fight back but instead rolled onto its back, exposing its belly in submission. It surrendered.

Dollar excitedly perked its ears, wagging its tail, and meowed proudly. From now on, this territory would be its alone to rule.

Watching the scene Nex couldn't help but laugh. She witnessed what it meant to have a backing.

Does that tabby cat have an owner?" she asked the boss

The boss shook his head. "It's wild by nature. I tried catching it a few times, but it refuses to stay"

Other people also tried catching it, but in vain

Suddenly, the boss thought of Nyx's extraordinary physique. "Why don't you give it a try? Lure it to you, and

I'll take care of

Nex had just been thinking the same

Stray cats living outdoors were unsafe, disrupted the ecosystem, and could lead to even more kittens roaming the streets

This tabby cat, though it often bickers with Dollar, was actually friends with it, regularly interacting and even showing concern by bringing it small fish. Letting it stay and be Dollar's companion wouldn't hurt.

Otherwise. Dollar, the only long-lived kitten on Earth, might feel lonely.

Nyx slowly approached the tabby cat, squatted down, and quietly locked eyes with it.

The tabby, which had been lazily sprawled on the ground, suddenly jumped up and curiously sized her up.

Nyx gave it some familiar time before cautiously reaching out to stroke its head and gently scratch its chin.

The tabby couldn't help but narrow its eyes and purr, staying by her side, unwilling to leave.

Nyx was like a human-shaped cat toy, irresistibly drawing the cat to follow her.

Following her all the way to the villa, the tabby began to sense something was off and hesitated, but still didn't turn to run.

The boss was impressed and gave Nyx a thumbs-up.

I'll give it a bath and a vaccine, Nyx said, bending down to pick up the tabby and following the boss's directions to the pet

The tabby, which had been arrogantly walking around outside, was now as obedient as a little doll in front of her.

Nyx cleaned it thoroughly, and then placed it in the pet cleaning chamber for a second wash, blow-drying its fur, and administering a multi-purpose vaccine.

Once the process was over, she came out holding the tabby, only to find the living room filled with familiar faces.

3/4

Of The Bea 240

Chapter 240

"Dear sister" Six years later, Archie was still the same overly energetic person.

Nyx visited Earth again, and the authorities took it very seriously. However, she refused an official escort, so the authorities notified her friends to host her.

"Let's eat first, and then we'll show you around. Earth has changed quite a bit over the years, Archie kept talking, chattering endlessly. Teven found an amusement park we can take Chubby, Sky, and Ash to Nyx had no objection to the itinerary and nodded. "Alright, let's wait a moment."

on

She took out a visual interference device from her Space Button, adjusted it, and put it on.

"Wow." Archie watched in awe as Nyx instantly transformed into someone else—short hair, a little chubby, unremarkable features, but a comforting look, dressed like an ordinary young Earth woman.

The males followed their matron's lead, one by one changing their appearance.

Even the cubs wore the devices, turning themselves into human versions of six-year-olds to match Earth's norms.

The three cubs looked strikingly similar, like triplets.

Archie was dazzled, unable to tell them apart, struggling to wrap his head around it. He couldn't help but raise his hands toward Nyx in a humble, pleading manner. "Any more, dear sister?"

Nyx couldn't help but laugh and handed him one. It had become a habit for her to always have many spare items prepared for anything

Seeing others were interested, she took a few more out from the Space Button and distributed them.

By the time they left, the group had all concealed their true appearances, walking on the street without attracting any attention.

Nyx saw the true state of Earth. Skyscrapers lined the streets, and flying vehicles zipped through the air, while some ground vehicles remained in use, not yet obsolete. The city felt full of technological flair.

In recent years, Earth had made many technological breakthroughs. It was said they had already found a habitable planet within the galaxy and were working on building a space jump device.

But Nyx noticed that the quality of life for people hadn't improved much.

Medical development was slow, food safety management was poor, and security was chaotic. These issues, which had existed for a long time, had persisted and even worsened.

"Your development direction is slightly off." Aurelius surveyed his surroundings, taking everything in before speaking to Bruce. "To become a space-faring civilization, you must first improve everyone's lives and step into a more civilized society

Bruce nodded, acknowledging the point. They had indeed been too eager for results.

Aurelius gave detailed development suggestions, which Bruce carefully noted.

Nearby, the three cubs listened attentively to their father.

Archie stared at their innocent faces and found it a bit funny. He thought, "Could they even understand?"

He then suggested, "Enough of that boring stuff I will take you to the amusement park."

1/4

04:56 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 210

Upon hearing this, the three cubs slowly turned their heads to look at Archie.

Actually, they weren't that interested in the amusement park, but Archie looked like he really wanted to go there.

They thought, "Never mind, let's not ruin it for him; we can play along."

Even on a weekday, the amusement park was packed.

Archie had been here many times before, so he led the way, acting as a tour guide with ease.

After trying a few easy, regular attractions, he took the cubs in front of a world-famous roller coaster.

"Are you brave enough to ride?" Archie grinned mischievously, especially directing the question at Chubby.

He remembered how embarrassed he'd felt last time when the little snake had been so scared, and he really wanted to get back at Chubby by seeing him cry in fear.

Nearby, other visitors couldn't hold back anymore. "How can you encourage kids to ride such a dangerous ride? What if they get scared?"

"Parents these days are so unreliable."

"What if something happens? The medical fees could be a fortune."

"Look at this ride; it's not for kids."

"Even adults end up crying, vomiting, or too scared to get up afterward. And he dares to encourage kids to ride it?"

Being scolded repeatedly, Archie lowered his head in guilt, reflecting on whether he'd gone too far in trying to get revenge on a six-year-old.

Chubby looked up at the massive roller coaster, assessed it, and figured it wasn't nearly as thrilling as his usual simulated combat training. It felt far less intense.

Chubby thought maybe Archie wanted to ride but was too scared, so he wanted Chubby to go along.

Chubby decided to be nice to Archie, so he nodded indulgently. "I'll ride with you."

Sky and Ash also agreed to go with Archie.

Archie vaguely sensed something was off, but couldn't figure it out.

He glanced at Nyx, who nodded, signaling it was okay, so he took the three cubs to queue.

As soon as they stepped into the roller coaster area, the sounds of visitors screaming and gasping filled the air, and the dazzling lights everywhere made it feel like they were in the vastness of space.

The roller coaster's theme was intergalactic travel. Although it didn't come close to the real experience, it was enough of a gimmick to draw in more visitors

"Here, put on these glasses, Archie instructed the three cubs to wear the special glasses handed out by the staff, which enhanced the feeling of realism and immersion.

The cubs fiddled with them to know the basic mechanism, realizing it wasn't particularly advanced technology.

Still, they cooperated and put on the glasses, securing their safety restraints.

2/4

04:56 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 240

The seats gently shook, signaling that the roller coaster was starting,

Suddenly, Archie felt a bit of regret. He'd been to this amusement park so many times and had never dared to try this ride.

This was his first time..

If he was scared, then imagine how a six-year-old would feel

But there was no turning back now, they couldn't just get ull.

"If you're really scared, just close your eyes, Archie said apologetically to the three cubs.

"It's okay; don't be too scared," Chubby said, patting his shoulder. "We're here with you."

Even if the roller coaster malfunctioned, they were confident they could get Archie out safely.

Archie felt something was strange about what Chubby said. But there was no time to think, as the next moment, they were hit by intense weightlessness, the roller coaster plummeting nearly vertically.

Archie instantly screamed for help. A faint smile appeared on Chubby's face. Last time they met, when he had wrapped his tail around Archie, he had screamed just as badly.

The three minutes on the roller coaster felt like a lifetime to Archie. When the ride finally stopped, he was so weak he could barely move, and had to be helped up by the three cubs.

He stumbled a few steps before collapsing onto a nearby bench.

"Did you cry?" Chubby struck him again with a sharp comment.

Archie looked up blankly, meeting the eyes of the three cubs.

During the ride, he had been so immersed in fear that he hadn't been paying attention to the cubs reactions.

But now that he looked at them, they all looked calm, with rosy cheeks and steady breathing. Not only had they not cried, they didn't seem to have any emotional distress at all.

The contrast was stark, and many people around them started whispering. They thought. This guy is even weaker than the kids.

Archie wiped the tears off his face, feeling like crying even more. His revenge plan had completely backfired.

The only thing he was glad about now was that he had worn the visual interference device. At least his face wasn't exposed, and no one knew who he was.

"Where's mom?" The three cubs looked around but couldn't see Nyx, nor were the fathers anywhere in sight. "They're over by the haunted house," their friends laughed at Archie while answering the cubs' question. The amusement park was too crowded, and almost every ride had a long line, so everyone decided to spread out. The haunted house had fewer people, so Nyx had already gone in with her mates.

The cubs had to go find Nyx. But before that, they thought they could get her some treats.

"There's ice cream over there." The three cubs walked side by side toward the ice cream stand, lining up. "Mom likes grape flavor

The vendor was surprised, and people around them couldn't help but comment,

"Aww, how sweet!"

3/4

04:56 Mon, 3 Mar

Chapter 210

"Are they triplets:"

They even know what flavor their mom likes!"

"Such lucky kids!"

99%

Not far away, a man in a mascot costume was wandering around, eyeing them. He thought. Triplets are too obvious. With so many people around, it would be hard to kidnap them.

After lingering for a while, the man changed targets.

He turned around, and the three cubs all stared at his back. From the moment they were targeted, they had noticed something strange about this man.

The cubs exchanged a glance and quietly followed him.

The man in the mascot costume had set his sights on a little girl, around ten years old.

Looking around and confirming that no adults were with her, he quickly approached and took out some candy laced with something from his pocket.

The little girl, not wary of the adult dressed as a bear, cheerfully took the candy and began unwrapping it.

"Don't eat it." Just as the man was about to succeed, he was suddenly interrupted. Furious, he looked in the direction of the voice and saw it was the triplets from earlier.

He thought, "How did they know the candy is unsafe?"

But it didn't matter to him anymore. He dismissed the thought and grinned menacingly as he walked toward them. "Little brats, just who do you think you are, sticking your noses into my business?"

4/4