Nyx keenly sensed that someone was staring at her, so she glanced around briefly. After spotting that they were disciples from some other Sects, she withdrew her gaze.

Apart from Herbal Valley and Sword Guild, several small Sects had also arrived one after another yesterday. She didn't know many Sects, and just by looking at their clothes, she couldn't tell which Sect they came from.

Many came to participate in the Sect Competition. During this period, there were surely a lot of outsiders coming in and out of Herb Peak.

Nyx had already mentally prepared that her life would be disturbed. So, even if being stared at from afar, she didn't really feel annoyed.

She just ignored those gazes. Then, Nyx began to dig the soil, water the plants, and attentively tidy up Olivia's spirit field. Then, she said goodbye to Olivia. "All the chores are done. Seeya."

To protect the newly planted seedlings from being blown crooked by the strong wind, Nyx didn't call the immortal cranes. Instead, she leisurely took a walk in the field. Only after leaving this spirit field did she start using the summoning spell.

However, before she could finish the summoning spell, her movement suddenly stopped, and she turned her head to look.

As expected, someone was spying on her.

Half of that person's body was hidden behind the dancing tree shadows. He thought he was hiding well and didn't think she could find his presence.

He thought her turning back was just a coincidence. But then he saw Nyx walking towards him step by step with a clear direction.

"Matthew Jennings?" Nyx looked up and down at his face and matched it with a fleeting face in her memory. It took her a long time to recall his name.

He was the man that the Voss family wanted to marry her to. He was a member of Feather Sun Palace who was said to be lecherous and had more than a dozen mistresses at home.

After their eyes met, a slight look of embarrassment appeared on his face. He didn't know how she had discovered him.

A strange feeling welled up, but soon, his gaze landed on Nyx's delicate face, and he instantly forgot everything. The amazement and covetousness betrayed from his eyes..

He had taken a fancy to this naturally beautiful woman at first sight. Although Nyx was a mortal, after leaving home and working as a servant in the Celestial for so long, digging the soil and being exposed to the sun, she still looked gorgeous.

In comparison, his mistresses seemed very dull and ordinary.

The woman he hadn't obtained was always better.

Matthew looked very confident about attracting Nyx.

This woman who had fled from the Voss family's arranged marriage had annoyed him before. He had thrown a big tantrum in the Voss family. But after all, a beauty was worthy of pity. As soon as he saw her in person, he didn't really want to blame her.

He just put on a stern face and said condescendingly, "Since you recognize me, you should know that I'm your husband. Come back to Feather Sun Palace with me, and I'll write off all your previous mistakes."

Matthew thought he was being very magnanimous. He closed his eyes proudly, put his hands behind his back, and puffed out his chest, just waiting for her to come crying and begging for forgiveness.

Then, she would serve him attentively and meekly, tremblingly making up for her previous ignorance.

But it was very quiet around. After a long time, nothing happened.

Matthew opened his eyes impatiently and saw Nyx looking at him with a subtle expression, which was completely different from what he had imagined.

He was just lustful and not an evil person who resorted to coercion. Besides, he indeed had paid for the marriage with the Voss family.

Nyx calmly said to him, "The Voss family made the engagement with you. For the matter of breaking our engagement and taking back the betrothal gifts, just discuss it with them. I'm not a daughter of the Voss family."

She had no blood relationship with the Voss family and hadn't received the betrothal gifts from Matthew either. So, it was useless for him to come to her. She wouldn't compensate him on behalf of the Voss family.

After all, she hadn't agreed to let the Voss family sell her off.

Upon hearing this, Matthew's expression froze. He remembered that in his anger, he had made a big scene in the Voss family. He had not only taken back all the gifts he had given but also smashed Voss Villa, putting the whole family in chaos.

So, this marriage was most likely off.

Looking at the delicate and graceful woman in front of him, he gritted his teeth and reached out to grab Nyx's wrist. "We'll talk about the gifts later. You come with me first."

He would validate this marriage. The Voss family didn't have the guts to refuse him, after all.

"Can you understand what I'm saying?" Nyx dodged his pull and frowned, saying in a more ruthless tone, "I have nothing to do with you or the Voss family. Please stop pestering me anymore. I already have a dual cultivation partner."

Hearing that she had a dual cultivation partner, Matthew was taken aback for a moment and then sneered. "You mean your useless fiance?"

It was both novel and ridiculous to Matthew that a mortal and a useless person were calling each other dual cultivation partners like cultivators.

"What's the point of following him? Instead of being a servant in the Celestial and serving others with him, you might as well come with me and just serve me alone," he said.

Nyx felt a bit disgusted by his lewd and vulgar words. She didn't really listen carefully to what he was specifically saying. She just dodged his pull and coldly shouted, "Go away."

If he wouldn't stop pestering her, she might as well resort to violence.

Being dodged and refused by Nyx again and again irritated Matthew. He said angrily, "What? You're already married? Have you been fucked by that useless guy? Then I should kill him."

He thought, 'How dare someone lay a hand on my woman? It was really unacceptable!

Facing the woman who had been fucked by someone else, Matthew turned intimidating and considered killing Nyx.

He asked, "I'll ask you one last time. Will you come back to Feather Sun Palace with me?"

If Nyx dared to shake her head and miss this last chance, he wouldn't show any mercy anymore. Only by killing this bitch and her boyfriend could he vent his hatred.

Thinking of this, he stepped closer and reached out to grab Nyx's neck. However, before he could touch that white and slender neck, a powerful force suddenly burst out.

Matthew was immediately punched backward. His head Wh the ground tre, and then he spat out the dies in his mouth in a sorry state. He looked at the source of the flying end end ether in chock and dieter –

There were a lot of sword cultivators in front of hi

Judging from their attire, some of them were studente from sword cut and the others were from the Celestial None of them were people he could afford to mess with

Only the two people closest to Nyx weren't wearing new storm, and they did seem to be mudents from these rov

Sects.

Nyx was very surprised that her companion had suddenly descended from the sky Seeing the familiar faes next to her, de put away her anger and greeted him kindly. "What a comedence, we meet again. Are you als here to watch the Swent Sovereign practice his sword?

That man was slightly taken aback and then smiled. He neither nodded nor denied it.

He thought, So this is what Nyx looks like in human form. Why does she look so familiar? Do all rabbit demens look similar after transforming?

Matthew got up from the ground in a sorry state. His cars were ringing so much that he couldn't hear what they were saying clearly.

He just saw Nyx smiling charmingly at one of them, and that person kept staring at her, looking very affectionate, & rush of anger burned in his chest.

Blinded by anger, he rushed up like crazy and pointed his sword at that person. "You're her boyfriend? Die

That person looked young and was a handsome man. Since he wasn't wearing a student uniform, he must be that guy from the Linden family who eloped with Nyx.

Greg looked at the sword tip in front of him and was silent.

The sword cultivators watching were also stunned. They thought this person must be crazy. Otherwise, a person with normal sanity wouldn't dare to talk to the Sword Saint, Greg Campbell, like this.
