Become the Richest Woman After Divorce (Stacy And Sophia) Chapter 10

Chapter 10 He's Too Poor

Ava looked sulky as soon as she saw Sophia.

“You got the cheek to come back. We called you many times but didn't. get through. I thought you were proud enough to leave us!

“You caused trouble to us and put Pierce in a plight. How dare you come back?”

Her words made people quiet. They only watched the “show” in silence.

Sophia pressed her lips with a smile.

“Pierce's grandma wants to see me. I'll leave as soon as I meet her.

She said as she directly walked upstairs to Pierce's grandmother's room.

Ignored, Ava stood up in anger. She used to throw a fit at Sophia a lot, so she never hesitated to do it.

“Stop. You didn't even greet us. How could you be so impolite? I knew Pierce should have married a better match for our family. It's so bad. that the Clement family has you here!”

Sophia turned to her with a cold face. Facing people's eyes, she didn't apologize obediently.

Instead, she smiled at Ava calmly.

“I should feel bad to marry your son!”

Ava's face changed as she didn't expect her docile daughter-in-law would talk to her in this way!

“You...”

“You even accepted an illegitimate son. I guess you will welcome Emelia, his humble mother, too. I don’t think that woman would be a better match!”

People all knew that Emelia’s mother was a bartender in a club. Her mother secretly gave birth to Emelia after hooking up with a rich businessman.

But soon after Emelia was born, that businessman died before Emelia’s mother went to him. There was no chance to prove the fact.

Her mother lost her mind and cried before that man’s house, hoping his wife would support their lives.

The scandal spread widely and was known to all. It was easy for people to find it out.

So Ava forbade Pierce to be with Emelia.

Emelia’s background was embarrassing.

It made Ava’s face gloomy.

Even her grandson in her arms appeared less adorable to her.

Pierce’s aunt walked over to comfort her at once.

“Sophia, it’s a family issue. Don’t wash your dirty linen in public. You’re still part of the family. How would we accept another woman?”

“Just apologize to Ava. This kid will be your son. You should be generous!”

O

People echoed.

“Yeah. Be generous. This kid is innocent.”

“Don’t be silly. You’re Pierce’s wife. It’s normal that a man has affairs.”

“That’s right...”

Ava glared at Sophia coolly and sneered, uttering mean words.

“Given your background, you should feel lucky to marry my son. It’s ridiculous that you still don’t realize who you are. So what if we keep this illegitimate son? You can’t even have a kid!

“Even if Pierce has more affairs, you would be to blame for being useless!

Look at you! If you hadn’t married Pierce, would you have afforded these famous brands?

“My son bought them for you! You’re carried away. Aren’t you afraid that I may drive you away and make you poor again?”

“Mom, what are you talking about?”

A deep, cold voice sounded.

As soon as Pierce came in, he heard Ava, which made his face dark.

These words were offensive. What was worse, there were so many people.

Sophia was still his wife.

Pierce looked at Sophia subconsciously.

He knew his mother well. Ava always despised women with poor backgrounds.

Chapter to He’s Too Poor

She must have humiliated Sophia like this a lot.

But Sophia had never complained about Ava in the past three years.

Pierce couldn't imagine how much he had ignored in the past three years.

But Sophia just sneered slightly and looked at Ava with indifferent eyes.

"Your son didn't buy me these clothes and bags. He never spent a penny on me. Why should I feel so grateful to you?"

She tilted her head to look at Pierce expressionlessly and asked with a sneer.

"Mr. Clement, can you tell your mother if I have ever used your money?"

When she spoke, she was quite calm. Before Pierce answered, she added an important sentence.

"By the way, I divorced Pierce. You don't need to drive me away. I'll leave without asking him for anything. "

Her words were shocking.

People around whispered in shock.

Ava was astonished that they got divorced.

She didn't believe that Sophia was willing to get divorced.

After Sophia finished, she went upstairs.

Sophia came to celebrate Pierce's grandmother's birthday and tell people about their divorce as well.

Chapter 10 Hes Too Poor

Ava looked at her son.

“Is that true? You got divorced?”

Pierce’s heart sank as he looked at Ava with a complex look in silence.

Complex feelings flooded him when he stared at Sophia’s slim back.

He seldom went back to their home during their three years of marriage.

But when he went back after they got divorced, he found that he didn’t know Sophia well.

He transferred money to a bank card every month. But the card was left in the drawer, untouched.

He had strange feelings beyond description, which made him upset.

Seeing that Ava was holding Luke, Pierce frowned gloomily.

“Why is he here?”

Ava paused. “This is your son and my grandson. We can’t let him stay in other places.”

Ava felt that Emelia was smart to send Luke over.

Pierce’s eyes darkened. Then he went upstairs.

Bianca had a nurse, who left the room so that Bianca and Sophia could talk alone.

Pierce stood outside the door and listened to their conversation.

“Happy birthday, Bianca. I... I’m going abroad for a business trip. So I can’t visit you a lot. Take care!”

Sad, Sophia didn’t bear to tell Bianca the truth about their divorce for fear that it would be too much for Bianca.

If it weren’t for Bianca’s protection. Sophia wouldn’t have been able to stay in the Clement family.

Learning that she would go abroad. Bianca was anxious.

“Go abroad? How long will you come back? You’re leaving as soon as Pierce came back. Did he do anything bad to you?”

Sophia paused to make her sound calmer. She spoke mildly.

“No. Bianca, we’re good. It’s a business trip. I’ll visit you when I have time

“By the way, this is your gift. Happy birthday!”

She gave Bianca the gift. Seeing Bianca’s happy smile. Sophia felt relieved.

Bianca took the gift. She was old but still sensitive. She could tell the gift was expensive. She knew that Sophia cared about her.

“Sophia. I know you like Pierce. Enjoy your life with him. Once you have a baby. I’ll take care of your baby!”

Sophia’s smile froze. but she still nodded as if nothing had happened.

She couldn’t enjoy a life with him. It was over.

As for the kid. how would Pierce want a baby with her when he already had a son?
