

Beg You All 186

Chapter 186: Finally wait to show up

A handsome guy who didn't want to reveal his name?

Shadow?

When Chu Tian mentioned these two aliases he had used before, there was a moment of silence on the other end. After about four to five seconds, the dignified male voice spoke again. "Are you the Shadow?"

"That's right." Chu Tian took a deep breath and said with a smile, "If it's a fake exchange, I wouldn't know your old personal number, right?"

"Oh, it's interesting." The dignified man laughed and said, "You don't sound like a man in his fifties."

"Hehe." Chu Tian chuckled and said, "That was just a joke. In fact, I knew that someone from the National Security Bureau was at Wang Xiaofeng's home, so I made a joke."

"Okay." The dignified man laughed, "So, why did you suddenly contact me?"

"I want to contribute to our country," Chu Tian stated. "As a conscientious and justice-seeking citizen, it is my responsibility to make contributions to our nation. I wish to develop a firewall for the country."

"Oh? What firewall?"

"Other than me, there's no firewall that can be broken by anyone else in the world." Chu Tian said, "Elder Sun, as the boss of the National Security Bureau, you are not known by ordinary people, but you should know that these important organizations in our country will be attacked by thousands of hackers every year. More or less, they will lose something every year."

"With my firewall, you won't have to worry about that anymore because I promise they won't be able to invade again."

"So, then..." Male voice muttered for a moment, then said, "It must not be cheap, right?"

"Oh, no money." Chu Tian smiled. "It's free this time."

"Oh! Free?"

"Yes." Chu Tian said, "But, I have a small request, that is, I hope that I can personally meet with Grandfather Sun."

"Meet me? That's not a problem."

"I can only trouble Elder Sun to personally make a trip. Goodbye."

After saying this, Chu Tian directly hung up the phone.

At the same time!

In an office in the NSA office building in the capital, a gray-haired old man looked at the cell phone in his hand, smiled, then pressed a button on the table and said, "Come in."

The door to the office opened, and a man in a straight suit walked in and said, "Chief."

"Have the technical department look up a number," The old man said. "The number is * * * * * . I want all the information about the owner of this number within half an hour."

"Yes!"

The man bowed his head and left the office.

After the man left, the old man leaned against the chair behind him and smiled. "Free? If there's nothing to be courted, it's either a traitor or a thief. Shadow, I'm afraid something has happened to you. Hehe, it's interesting."

Saying this, the old man chuckled, then picked up the cup of water on the table and took a sip.

Time passed, and it was twenty minutes in the blink of an eye.

Suddenly, the office door rang twice.

The old man said, "Come in."

The door of the office opened, and a thin man in glasses came in and said, " Director, we have all the information you want about this man."

As he spoke, the bespectacled man placed a document on the desk and continued, "The owner of the given phone number is named Chu Tian, an 18-year-old male and a student at Haicheng Medical University. His parents tragically passed away in an accident during his second year, and he has no remaining relatives."

"This individual is quite enigmatic. He currently owns a bar and a popular milk tea shop called White Milk Tea Shop. Surprisingly, he keeps a low profile at school, and no one seems to be aware of his wealth. In fact, he's known for being financially challenged."

"The intriguing part is his relationship with his girlfriend, Bai Xiaochun. She is considered the number one goddess among the freshmen at Haicheng Medical University. Naturally, their relationship has attracted attention."

"Furthermore, there is another fascinating aspect. Some time ago, he was kidnapped by Luo Dawei, the chairman of Xiang Piao Group, along with his daughter Luo Piao. They sought his white milk tea formula. However, both of them have now been apprehended by the authorities, and Luo Dawei reportedly paid one billion for his release."

The old man listened attentively, his smile widening. "Quite a mysterious individual indeed. Thank you for the information. Keep an eye on him, and let me know of any further developments."

The bespectacled man said, "Chief, should we take some action against this guy?"

"No." The old man said, "It's just an investigation. There's no need to make any arrangements."

"Got it. "

The bespectacled man nodded and left the office, leaving the old man alone to ponder the intriguing situation.

If Chu Tian were to see the photos, he would instantly recognize himself in them. The images prominently featured him, captured during various moments on the basketball court of his school. They portrayed his passion for the sport and his unwavering commitment to improving his skills. Additionally, there were a few delightful pictures capturing Bai Xiaochun, his girlfriend, happily clinging to his arm, her bright smile illuminating the frame.

The sight of these photographs would evoke a rush of memories and emotions for Chu Tian, serving as a vivid reminder of the treasured experiences he had shared with friends, the exhilaration of competing, and the love and support he received from Bai Xiaochun. These images would undoubtedly stir his heart, leaving an indelible mark on his consciousness.

"Chu Tian... 18 years old?" The old man chuckled softly, his eyes filled with amusement. "Finally, you make an appearance. I didn't think you would be so audacious. I must admit, it's quite intriguing."