

"I'll repay you when I'm released later," Soo Yin said in between wanting to do something more.

"I just want you to feel what I felt earlier." Dae Hyun caressed Soo Yin's cheek with his fingers so gently. It made Soo Yin close her eyes in amusement.

"Dae Hyun, don't torture me like this," said Soo Yin, stuttering because she was out of breath.

"How does it feel, honey?" Dae Hyun smiled mischievously seeing Soo Yin's gloomy and misty gaze.

Soo Yin wanted to rebel, what she felt almost drove her crazy if she couldn't vent it.

Dae Hyun couldn't bear to see his little wife who had tears in her eyes. Wanted to beg but Soo Yin seemed too embarrassed to say it. So he then unbuttoned his pajamas forcibly then threw it on the floor.

Dae Hyun retraced Soo Yin's body with his lips to warm up again since he had been stalling for a while. Seeing Soo Yin who was already tempting again, Dae Hyun immediately put his body in the core of Soo Yin's body.

Soo Yin couldn't help but sigh and moan as Dae Hyun stabbed her body with passion and anger which mixed into one.

Dae Hyun was even more excited to see Soo Yin's body writhing spoiled without being able to do anything because her hands were tied. It really gave a sensation of its own.

Soo Yin went limp because what Dae Hyun did was able to make her float up many times. If her hands weren't tied, she might have pushed Dae Hyun's body.

After two rounds of Dae Hyun doing it, he stopped the action. He couldn't bear to see Soo Yin's face that was already full of sweat.

Dae Hyun then untied his wife's hands.

"Sorry if I hurt you, Honey." said Dae Hyun while kissing Soo Yin's forehead gently.

Soo Yin was so tired that she just closed her eyes, ignoring her husband's words.

=====

A few days later,

The Flower Restaurant,

Since opening, the restaurant was quite busy with visitors. Now there were two professional chefs working with their assistants because Dae Hyun was no longer able to help. Starting today, Dae Hyun had started working at a company.

Even though his family asked him to go back to the hotel, Dae Hyun didn't want to. It was all done because he didn't want his relationship with Soo Yin to be affected.

"Dae Hyun, are you going to be overtime later?" Soo Yin said when they arrived in front of the restaurant.

"Why? Do you miss your very handsome husband already?" Dae Hyun teased while chuckling amused.

Soo Yin pursed her lips, hearing how her husband was so confident, which had gone too far.

"No, I just wanted to say that before you pick me up I will still be at this restaurant," said Soo Yin.

"Soo Yin, please don't work too hard. You are the boss of the restaurant, you just have to keep an eye on it." Dae Hyun disagreed when Soo Yin helped other workers.

"I'm bored if I have to sit around doing nothing. If you feel bad, you can pay me a bigger salary," Soo Yin said with a big smile.

"You can take whatever salary you want." Dae Hyun ruffled Soo Yin's hair like an older brother to a younger sister.

"Now go, don't let you be late for your new office on the first day of work." Soo Yin turned to the side, then tidied her husband's tie to make it even neater.

"You didn't congratulate me on work?" Dae Hyun said with a mischievous smile.

"I gave you that every day, didn't I? Don't you realize that?" Soo Yin rolled her eyes.

"It's different because today is very special. The first time working made me want more enthusiasm."

Soo Yin leaned in and then kissed Dae Hyun's cheeks alternately because she already understood what her husband wanted.

"This." Dae Hyun touched his raised lips with his index finger.

"If you want that then you definitely won't be able to go to the office," Soo Yin said. Kissing on the lips will only make their passion soar.

"Okay."

Soo Yin bit her lower lip as she remembered something. Her heart felt restless and guilty.

"Soo Yin, what's wrong?" Dae Hyun frowned when he saw another expression on the beautiful face of his wife who was suddenly gloomy.

"I heard the news, now the hotel is experiencing service quality and will suffer if it doesn't change its policy immediately," said Soo Yin to share the anxiety she had felt since last night.

"Don't worry about it because it's none of our business anymore." Dae Hyun understood that his wife felt bad about what happened to the hotel but for him it was impossible to come back again.

"Honey, grandma must be very disappointed in you. Go back to work at the hotel for grandma's sake," Soo Yin asked hopefully. She didn't want Hae Sok to feel so disappointed that she hated her too.

"We'll think about it later because I have to leave soon." Dae Hyun cupped Soo Yin's face and put his lips on her forehead.

Soo Yin nodded her head with a lowered face.

"Don't feel guilty because it's not all your fault," said Dae Hyun.

Soo Yin immediately got out of the car and then waved at Dae Hyun who was slowly disappearing on the street. Soo Yin let out a long sigh before finally entering the restaurant. She knew her husband didn't want to work at the hotel anymore because his family would definitely demand that they separate.

Soo Yin hoped that nothing would happen because many people depended on working at the hotel.

It was still early, only a few workers had arrived because it was not yet time for the restaurant to open. Soo Yin walked over to Jean who was sitting in the back seat. Jean seemed to be massaging her head.

"Jean, are you sick?" said Soo Yin who immediately approached her friend.