

Soo Yin smiled happily that Jean could finally laugh too after so long. Seeing her smile, Soo Yin's heart was touched.

"Eat." Soo Yin started to scoop the food and then fed it to Jean.

"I can do it myself." Jean grabbed the spoon and lunchbox that Soo Yin was holding.

Soo Yin watched Jean who seemed to have an appetite for food. She almost forgot to contact Park Soo Hyun to ask him to meet. Soo Yin could've come to the hotel but she didn't want to take the risk.

"I will go out for a while to get some fresh air. My body feels hot this morning," said Soo Yin.

After being outside Soo Yin immediately took out her cellphone from her bag and then immediately called Park Soo Hyun.

Soo Yin kept her phone to her ear because Park Soo Hyun didn't pick up the phone for a while. She was walking back and forth while biting the tips of her nails.

"Wasn't I dreaming you called me?" said Park Soo Hyun's voice when the call was connected.

"I want to meet you," said Soo Yin without further ado.

"What the hell did you ask me to meet for? Are you getting tired of my brother already?" Park Soo Hyun pouted while chuckling.

Soo Yin stroked her chest so as not to get emotional. If it wasn't for Jean, she really wouldn't want to contact her annoying brother-in-law.

"Just say you have time or not? Because I have something important to talk about," Soo Yin said in a flat tone.

"Hmmm" Park Soo Hyun sounded contemplating.

"Okay, I have time this afternoon. Where do you want to meet?" Park Soo Hyun continued.

"Anywhere you want," said Soo Yin curtly.

"Okay then I'll send you the address where we'll meet."

Soo Yin immediately hung up the phone. If she didn't succeed in persuading Park Soo Hyun then she would tell Dae Hyun everything. Jean had experienced enough difficulties in her life.

"Miss," called Chang Yuan.

Soo Yin jumped up in surprise while holding her chest.

"Manager Chang, how long have you been here?" Soo Yin stammered. She hoped that he didn't hear when she contacted Park Soo Hyun.

"I just arrived, Miss," said Chang Yuan.

"You shouldn't have to pick me up because I can take a taxi to the restaurant," said Soo Yin.

"No problem, Miss. I came here with vitamins and milk for Jean," said Chang Yuan, showing the paper bag in his hand.

"Ah, you are indeed very considerate," said Soo Yin to tease Chang Yuan.

"I'm just helping a little," said Chang Yuan with a heated face.

"Well, we should go inside to meet Jean," said Soo Yin.

Chang Yuan followed Soo Yin's footsteps into Jean's room. Even though Jean still refused when he asked her to marry him, it didn't mean that Chang Yuan didn't care anymore. He would do everything he could to make Jean as cheerful as ever again.

"Morning, Jean," said Chang Yuan with a warm smile. Then he put the paper bag he was carrying on the nightstand.

"Morning, you shouldn't have bothered," Jean said with a bad feeling because Chang Yuan was so nice to her.

"No problem," Chang Yuan said sincerely.

"How was the food? Did it taste good?" Soo Yin asked.

"Hmmm, quite tasty. But I want to ask something from you," said Jean softly while playing with her two fingers.

"Say it, I will gladly grant it," said Soo Yin.

"Hmmm, I want your husband to cook something for me," Jean asked. When remembering Dae Hyun's cooking on the first day the restaurant opened, she suddenly wanted to eat it.

"Ah, of course. Later I will ask Dae Hyun to cook the menu you want." At first Soo Yin was about to refuse but when she remembered that Jean was pregnant, she immediately said yes.

"Are you not angry?"

"No," said Soo Yin briefly, trying to act casual.

"Thank you, you are indeed my best friend." Jean hugged Soo Yin's body happily.

They continued to talk for a while, before finally Chang Yuan took Soo Yin to the restaurant.

=====

Park Soo Hyun thwarted their planned meeting at noon. Said if there were a lot of work to be done. So Soo Yin was forced to follow his will to meet when the sun was about to set.

Tonight Dae Hyun was also working overtime so that Soo Yin can breathe a sigh of relief. At least she didn't have to argue for permission to leave.

The atmosphere of the restaurant was currently busy with visitors. The right time for her to go.

"Are you going home, Miss?" said Chang Yuan when he saw Soo Yin who had took her bag.

"No, I just wanted to stop by at Jean's house first and then go home. If Dae Hyun comes looking for me, just say that I'm already home," said Soo Yin.

"Should I take you?" Chang Yuan offered.

"No need, stay here," said Soo Yin quickly.

Chang Yuan just nodded obediently as he was impossible to leave the restaurant.

Soo Yin immediately left with the taxi that had been ordered by her. Park Soo Hyun asked her to meet at an inn located in north of Seoul. An inn that still had the feel of a traditional Korean house.

At first Soo Yin didn't agree to meet at an inn but Park Soo Hyun insisted that he only wanted to meet there. Inevitably Soo Yin complied even though it was a little risky.

After arriving, Soo Yin immediately asked the receptionist about the whereabouts of the inn room number 10. It was a separate room from one another.

Soo Yin can only hope that Park Soo Hyun wouldn't do things like that time. But just in case, don't forget that Soo Yin had prepared a weapon in her bag.

Soo Yin immediately knocked on the door after arriving. On it was written room number 10.. Until not long after, there was the sound of footsteps walking outside.