

It turned out that Aeri had been standing not far from where they were. She continued to observe what Dae Hyun and Soo Yin were doing behind the wall that separated the dining room and kitchen.

"You shameless! How dare they do something like that in the kitchen," Aeri grumbled with a burning heart knowing the most disgusting thing.

"Aeri, what are you here for?" said Shin-hye while patting the shoulder of Aeri who was peeking.

"I just wanted to get some water. Then what are you doing, Auntie?" Aeri said, stuttering and answered simply.

"I'm thirsty too." Shin-hye can hear that someone was in the kitchen.

"Who in the middle of the night like this is still awake and..." Shin-hye continued to walk while sniffing the aroma of cooking that made her stomach churning.

"Auntie" Aeri was about to forbid Shin-hye from going into the kitchen but it was too late.

Shin-hye raised her eyebrows when she saw Dae Hyun at the stove while Soo Yin sat, watching what Dae Hyun was doing.

"You two? I wonder who is up late at night like this," said Shin-hye.

"Auntie," greeted Soo Yin who immediately stood up. Her body immediately trembled for fear that Shin-hye would find out what they had done earlier.

"Dae Hyun, who's hungry in the middle of the night like this? Didn't you have dinner tonight?" Shin-hye approached Dae Hyun and stood beside him.

"I'm hungry," said Dae Hyun as he moved the spatula in the cauldron. Dae Hyun deliberately lied so that Soo Yin would not be scorned because he knew how Shin-hye was.

"Soo Yin, why don't you cook for your husband? Shouldn't a wife do that?" said Shin-hye.

"I don't allow her to cook," said Dae Hyun flatly.

"Dae Hyun, how can you spoil your wife too much. Even though she is much younger than you. She should be able to cook like other women in Grandma's family," said Shin-hye, glancing at Soo Yin.

"I married her because I love her so much that I won't demand much. She doesn't have to serve me because I will serve her."

"Besides, there's no need to worry if Soo Yin isn't good at cooking. Aeri isn't good at cooking either, yet you've always been quiet," added Dae Hyun casually.

"Ouch, what's this, it seems someone said my name?" Aeri went straight into the kitchen when she heard Dae Hyun mentioned her name.

"Aeri, from now on you must also serve your husband well. Look, at nights like this you have to cook for yourself even though you have two wives," said Shin-hye.

"I don't know at all if Dae Hyun is hungry. Besides, it seems like Soo Yin is the one who's hungry because she ate very little," said Aeri. Not wanting to let Shin-hye sneer at her.

"Poor Dae Hyun. You have a young wife who is actually very troublesome," Shin-hye quipped.

Soo Yin just stayed silent without wanting to answer of what they were talking about.

Dae Hyun had finished cooking a bowl of ramyeon with various seafood and vegetables. Judging from the appearance, it looked very good. The man just let out a long sigh, listening to the people who babbled incoherently.

"Honey, let's just eat on the side terrace," said Dae Hyun to Soo Yin.

Soo Yin followed in the footsteps of her husband who had already walked first.

Aeri was getting annoyed because Dae Hyun didn't care about her.

ooo

Dae Hyun went around to find an empty room to rest. But every place was full even though people usually preferred to sleep outside the room.

"Dae Hyun, where do you want to take Soo Yin? Looks like she's very sleepy," said Aeri who happened to come out of her room.

"Hmm, it seems that there are no more vacant rooms. We will sleep in my study," said Dae Hyun with a hand that always tightly gripped Soo Yin's wrist.

"Wait," said Aeri.

"How about the three of us sleep together? Aren't we family? I don't mind at all if we sleep together," said Aeri.

"No," Dae Hyun refused firmly.

"Why did you refuse my good intentions? I just feel sorry for Soo Yin. It's already too late, and besides, there are no more vacant rooms. There's no bed in your study. Are you so willing to let Soo Yin's body hurt all over from sleeping on the sofa?" Aeri will try her best to persuade Dae Hyun.

"I have no problem sleeping on the sofa at all," said Soo Yin. For her, she was used to live in difficulty when they were in a slump.

"How can that be, after all this room belongs to Dae Hyun so I will feel bad. You are also his wife so you also have the right to sleep inside. Look, the room is also very spacious." Aeri deliberately opened the door wide so that Soo Yin could see the king sized bed.

"No, if you want us to sleep there. Then you should find another room," Dae Hyun said coldly. He will not be easy to believe the words that came out of Aeri's lips. Surely she was planning something bad.

Aeri wanted to tantrum because it was very difficult to persuade Dae Hyun in a subtle way.

Dae Hyun then brought Soo Yin into his study. Although there was no bed, but in there, it will be much more comfortable.

"Wait here a moment, I'll get a blanket," said Dae Hyun.

Soo Yin nodded her head as she surveyed Dae Hyun's study which had not been used for a long time. It turned out that in the cupboard, there were many trophies and award certificates lined up. Soo Yin was even more amazed by her husband.

"Honey, go to sleep. Sorry, tonight we have to sleep here," said Dae Hyun. Even in a big house was like being in hell if there was someone who didn't like their relationship.

"No need to apologize, as long as we stay together then I'll be fine." Soo Yin wrapped her arms around Dae Hyun's neck who was sitting next to her. Then kissed his lips a few seconds.

"Now sleep well." Dae Hyun laid Soo Yin's body and then spread a blanket to cover her body.

"Then, where will you sleep?" Soo Yin said.

"Don't worry because I'll be sleeping here." Dae Hyun pointed at the floor directly below Soo Yin. Then spread the base as a bed.

"Why are you sleeping here? You can sleep on the sofa too," Soo Yin said.

"I'm doing that on purpose because I'm afraid that you might fall. I'm here just in case," said Dae Hyun with a smile.

Aeri kept her ear to the door. Her face reddened with emotion that was about to explode. Unexpectedly, Dae Hyun's treatment of Soo Yin was so sweet. He was willing to do anything for her.

Aeri kept her ear to the door. Her face reddened with emotion that was about to explode. Unexpectedly, Dae Hyun's treatment of Soo Yin was so sweet. He was willing to do anything for her.

After no more chatter was heard, Aeri chose to go to her room with her feet stomping hard enough on the floor.