Zach responded gloomily. It could be heard that he was unwilling. He only agreed because he wanted to cooperate with her. Zach turned over and pressed her down. He lowered his head and kissed her.

Elvira was going to send some samples to a big jewelry client today. Before they left, the secretary who accompanied her suddenly had an allergic reaction. Her body was covered in rashes, and she looked a little scary. Elvira quickly arranged for someone to send her to the hospital

The secretary could not accompany her, and Elvira could not find anyone to accompany her. Just as she tried to think of a solution, she saw Carmen, who had just printed the information. She saw that Carmen looked a little different from before. It seemed that the clothes she wore today were different.

In the past, Carmen always gave her a grayish feeling. Today, she seemed to have an extra layer of brightness on her body and looked much brighter.

"Carmen. Stop what you're doing and come with me to the client's company." Elvira did not bother to arrange for anyone else. Carmen was more flexible in her work and was the most suitable person to bring along.

"Alright, I'll come as soon as I put the things down," Carmen agreed.

Elvira took Carmen to the client's company. On the way, Carmen accidentally spilled her drink on Elvira's clothes. Carmen quickly apologized, "I'm sorry. I didn't do it deliberately. Are you alright?"

"I'm fine. It's just that my clothes are wet. It's alright." Elvira took out a tissue and wiped it. She was wearing white today, so it was quite obvious.

"You're meeting an important client later. I'm so sorry. Why don't you wear my coat? I just bought it today. They have no smell." Carmen quickly took off her coat and handed it to Elvira

"How can I do that? What are you going to wear?" Elvira thought about buying another coat. It was indeed impolite to wear such a coat to meet clients.

"I'll just wear yours. I'm only your assistant. It's alright." Carmen insisted on letting her wear the jacket.

Elvira saw it was too late, so she could only wear Carmen's clothes first. The clothes fit her well and matched her pants, so she put them on first.

When they arrived at the other party's company, Carmen got out first. She turned around and waited for Elvira to get out. After Elvira came out, the driver drove to park the car. The two of them prepared to walk to the company.

A motorcycle suddenly passed by behind the two of them. Two people were on it. The person sitting behind suddenly took a gun and aimed it at Elvira.

Carmen and Elvira turned around at the same time and saw this scene. Carmen grabbed Elvira's arm and pulled hard.

The moment the other party fired, Carmen pulled Elvira to her. The other party's gun missed and the glass of the building shattered.

Seeing this, the bodyguards rushed over. One of them quickly pulled out his gun and fired, knocking the two men on the motorcycle to the ground.

Elvira frowned when she saw this scene and subconsciously reached out to protect Carmen. The bodyguards quickly went forward and grabbed the two men.

Just as everyone thought that the danger was over, a gun was placed on a building in the distance. The muzzle was pointed at Elvira again.

The bullet shot out and tore through the air toward Elvira. In just a fraction of a second, a big hand suddenly grabbed Elvira and pulled her fiercely in his direction.

Elvira fell into an unfamiliar embrace. She felt a sharp pain in her arm and looked up to see that the Leonard.

His gaze was as sharp as a blade. Carmen was frightened as well. She looked at this scene in shock. The bodyguards were even more frightened. The person they were protecting was injured in front of them again. "Hurry up and go in." Leonard pushed Elvira and quickly ran upstairs.

Seeing that they failed, the people on the other side did not continue fighting. They quickly packed up and retreated.

The bodyguards quickly rushed over to protect Elvira and Carmen as they retreated to the building. They were afraid danger might be lurking there.

They immediately sent Elvira to the hospital. She asked Cole to deal with the company's matters. When Zach heard the news, he rushed to the hospital immediately. This time, he was angry. He directly fired all the bodyguards and asked them to get lost. This time, he couldn't listen to anything. He dealt with everyone related to this matter.

When Elvira saw Zach like that, her heart ached. She knew that he must be feeling terrible now. She extended her uninjured arm to him. Zach walked over.

Elvira hugged him with one hand and rubbed her head against his waist. "Don't be angry. Don't be angry. Look, I'm fine. It's just a small injury."

from now on." Zach regretted and blamed "I'm sorry. It's my negligence. The people I sent are all useless. I'll protect myself too much. His eyes were red as he looked at the wound on her arm that had just been bandaged. His heart was broken. "As long as you don't feel sad, I'll agree to anything you say." Elvira could only coax him first. She didn't want him to feel too sad.

"I've already sent someone to find out who dared to attack you. I won't let those people off." Zach sat down and looked at her closely. He seemed to be worried she would be injured if he blinked.

Elvira nodded. "Alright, I'll listen to you."

She just wanted to go along with him now. No matter what he did, she had no objections.

The investigation result of this attack was out very quickly. This time, it was the Miller family who attacked Elvira. This surprised Elvira.

She thought, 'I didn't seem to have any grudge with the Miller family. Wasn't it too ridiculous to send someone to shoot me in broad daylight?'

As the investigation went deeper, the results were even more unexpected. It turned out that the person the Miller family wanted to assassinate was not Elvira, but Carmen.

After Zach received this result, he couldn't stop frowning no matter what. Elvira explained, "That should be because Carmen and I changed our clothes. That assassin recognized me as her, so the gun was aimed at me." 10:03 Mon, Dec 9

"Why did you change your clothes with her?" Zach felt a tightness in his chest that made him uncomfortable.

"Carmen accidentally spilled the drink in the car. My clothes were wet, and I couldn't meet the client like that. Out of respect for the client, Carmen and I changed our clothes.

"When the assassin pointed the gun at me, it was Carmen who pulled me away." Elvira told him everything, but no one expected there to be a second assassin.

If Leonard had not pulled her away, she would have died.

"No matter what, the Miller family will die." Zach was furious. Elvira was his bottom line. The Miller family had crossed his bottom line now. He would make the Miller family suffer.

Elvira wanted to persuade him to think twice. After all, it had been so many years, and he had never wanted to deal with the Miller family.

It was easy to deal with the Miller family, but it would involve his stepmother and father when the time came. At that time, who knew how much trouble there would be? Everyone would probably not have a good life.

She Got A Better Man

"The Miller family's identity is rather sensitive. You'd better think twice before acting." Elvira knew that he was in a fit of anger. He was the most upset that she was injured, but she still reminded him.

"Elvira, I did not decide to do it on impulse. Whoever dares to hurt you, I will not let them go. Zach hugged her gently. His voice was hoarse and low but filled with a penetrating deterrence Elvira knew that she did not have to say anything else. Although he was injured, she could feel his extreme care for her every time she was injured. She was quite happy.

Elvira just had a superficial wound and did not need to be hospitalized. After treating the wound, Zach personally carried her out of the hospital.

After coaxing Elvira to sleep, Zach got up to deal with the Miller family that night. He had long disliked the Miller family. He thought. "Did those bugs think I was afraid just because I didn't deal with them? I was just too lazy to find trouble. Since they dared to hurt Elvira, they should be ready to suffer my anger.

The next day, the Miller family encountered a calamity. The company almost collapsed. The partners terminated their contracts and the shareholders withdrew their investments simultaneously.

The head of the Miller family knew that someone was targeting him and immediately sent someone to investigate. What Zach did to the Miller family was done openly, so the Miller family quickly found out that Zach was targeting the Miller family.

He had already announced that whoever dared to cooperate with the Miller family was against Gilbert Group and would suffer Gilbert Group's anger.

This was the first time Zach had been so angry in public. It frightened those merchants who had collaborated with the Miller family. How could they dare to cooperate with the Miller family?

They immediately said they would immediately terminate the contract and cut ties.

The head of the Miller family was in a terrible fix. He immediately called his biological sister, Zach's stepmother, and told her about this angrily. He asked her to look for Zach immediately and ask him to stop.

Helen was quite shocked when she heard the news. After all, she had married Samuel for more than ten years. Although Zach hated her, he always pretended to be high and mighty, as if he would degrade himself if he looked at her. He did not care to do anything to her. She wondered why he suddenly dealt with the Miller family.

"What did you guys do to make Zach fall out with us?" Helen thought that she knew her stepson well. She believed he would not deal with the Miller family for no reason.

"He would have done it long ago if he wanted to deal with the Miller family because of his grudge. Why would he wait until now?" Helen thought.

"I just found out, too. Nina asked someone to kill Carmen. The last time, they didn't get to kill her. This time, Nina wanted to find an assassin to kill Carmen. Who knew that she would show the assassin Carmen's outfit that day?

"But Carmen changed clothes with Zach's wife, causing the assassin to mistake her for someone else. He attacked Zach's wife. I heard that she was injured." The head of the Miller family was also angry.

Carmen was now completely out of the Miller family's control, which made him very unhappy. Initially, they kept her because she was still useful.

Chapter 219.

Now that she was disobedient, they thought it was right to destroy her. After all, she was just a 'dog raised by the Miller family. This was what he tacitly agreed to.

Who knew there would be such a mistake and they would offend Zach?

"It would be great if they could kill her," Helen said regretfully. She hoped that Elvira would die. She hated Elvira because of her bad attitude toward her.

After all. I'm her stepmother-in-law. But she didn't even take me seriously. How dare she look down on me? Helen thought.

If not for Zach's protection, she would have attacked Elvira.

"If they kill her, Zach will kill my entire family. It's just a superficial wound now, but he's already going to destroy my family. Hurry up and think of a way to save the family. Stop making sarcastic remarks," the Miller family's head said furiously. "I want to help too, but as you know, I don't have a position in the Gilbert family. The other party has always refused to acknowledge me. What can I do?"

"Now, I can only look for Samuel to cry and let him make a fuss in front of his mother. Let's see if they can leave something for the Miller family," Helen said calmly.

"Helen, you're the hostess of the Gilbert family, after all. Now that such a big thing has happened to our family, you can't ignore it. You have to think of a way to help our family. The head of the Miller family was so anxious that he felt dizzy.

He was also cursing his daughter for being too rash. "How could he make such a big mistake? She had completely stirred up a big trouble. If the Miller family falls in my hands, I'll be too ashamed to face my predecessors.

"I want to be Gilbert family's hostess. But Tracy hasn't died yet, and now, Elvira appeared and is doing well. Tracy likes her very much. What can I do? I can only take over if the two of them die.

"Otherwise, everything I say will be in vain." Helen knew that she couldn't save the Miller family. She knew Zach's methods. She couldn't even protect her son, let alone her family.

Last time, her son had injured Elvira and almost lost his life. He was crippled and could only survive overseas. Now, her family had accidentally injured Elvira and ended up in a dilapidated state. She felt Zach was indeed capable.

Nina was also terrified when she found out about the company's situation. She did not expect things to develop to this point. Nina couldn't watch the company go bankrupt and do nothing. Hence, she dressed up carefully and planned to plead with Zach. She believed that, based on her friendship with Zach, Zach would help her.

Nina risked her life to stop Zach's car. The driver had no choice but to stop. He looked nervously at the boss, who was emitting cold air behind him. "Mr. Gilbert, the person in front..

The bodyguards had already gone to pull her. Nina refused to leave no matter what, shouting that she wanted to see Zach.

Zach ordered thever to bring her over. Nina leaned against the car window and looked at the man sitting inside. Then.

Nina said with an aggrieved expression, "Zach, I beg you to let our company off.

"This is all my fault. I was jealous of my sister and did something wrong. I accidentally injured Ms. Willis. I'll agree to all your requests if you let my family's company off."

"Do you know that you have a smell?" Zach looked at her coldly as if he was looking at a dead person.

"S-Smell? What... What smell? Nina subconsciously sniffed her clothes. She had specially put on perfume today. There was only the smell of perfume and nothing else.

"You smell like rotten garbage. Every time I see you, I smell this smell. It's so disgusting that I want to vomit. So don't show up in front of me again Zoch looked at her as if she was a pile garbage.

Nina could not believe what she was hearing. He said that I smelled rotten garbage? How is that possible? She had thought she could be his mistress since he could not give up on Elvira 50e used to believe he would want her as long as she lowered her stance

o

She Got A Better Man

"How could this be? Nina couldn't get it.

"Zach, I... I'm willing to be your mistress now as long as you let my family go." Nina's mind was buzzing, but she did not want to give up this opportunity. She didn't believe that Zach did not have any feelings for her.

She felt that he didn't be with her because he didn't want to get divorce and give up on Elvira. In that case, she would be his mistress and be willing to be his woman.

"Have you ever seen anyone willing to accept a pile of trash? You have no self-awareness at all. You guys, clear her mind. If you want me to let your family off, unless you turn back time and return an uninjured wife to me. "Otherwise, the Miller family will go bankrupt." Zach ordered the driver to drive away after saying that. He did not even look at Nina.

Seeing this, the bodyguards immediately pulled Nina to the huge trash can at the side. The two of them threw her into the trash can, then lifted another trash can and poured all the trash on Nina's head.

Trash was all over Nina's body and face. She was so scared that she cried. When she cried, trash was in her mouth. Now, she smelled like trash, like Zach said.

The bodyguards did not waste any more time talking to her. They left after dealing with her.

Nina cursed as she crawled out of the trash can. The trash can was even overturned, and she fell with it. She looked as fisheveled as she could.

It had started to rain at some point, making her feel even worse. Nina sat there crying uncontrollably. She wanted to look for her phone to call for help, but a pair of white leather shoes stopped before her. She looked up and saw Carmen, dressed neatly, appear in front. "Carmen, you slut, how dare you come here! Because of you, our family and I are in a miserable state. You're indeed a jinx. Why don't you die?" Nina shouted as if she had gone crazy.

Carmen looked at her coldly and said, "The Miller family killed my daughter. This is only the beginning of your retribution. Nina. Just wait, I want everyone in the Miller family to die with my daughter"

"You.... You did it on purpose. You deliberately changed your clothes with Elvira and made that person think Elvira was you That was why they injured her. It was all your plan.

"I'm going to tell Zach. Nina looked at the woman before her and suddenly understood that everything that happened was Carmen's plan to take revenge on the Miller family.

words? Don't be too naive. If you hurt Elvira, you'll lose everything. Those who killed "Do you think Zach will believe your my daughter have to die." Carmen stared coldly at the woman lying on the ground like a bedbug.

Your daughter died of her illness. It has nothing to do with our family," Nina cried out in despair. They had not done anything, but the child had died of her illness in the middle of the night.

When they sent her to the hospital, she could not be saved. Can we be blamed for this? If she has to blame someone, she can only blame her child for being unlucky, Nina thought

"I've already told you that she's sick. You're the ones who caused her death. Don't try to shirk your responsibility. Nina. Just wait for your retribution, Carmen said softly before leaving with the umbrella

Her revenge on the Miller fegnily had just begun. Everyone in the Miller family has to pay the price for my daughter's death, Carmen thought.

No matter how much the Miller family struggled, they eventually went bankrupt because of Zach's ruthless methods. All their assets were gone, and the Miller family people had nowhere to go.

Zach then sent people to investigate the Miller family's taxes. Sure enough, they found a lot of evidence of tax evasion. Coupled with the fact that the company's accountant had taken the initiative to submit a case, the head of the Miller family, including the men in the family, had all been arrested. There were only some old and weak women and children left side, who couldn't do anything to save them because they were penniless and couldn't even protect themselves.

The Miller family collapsed in an instant.

This also let everyone know that Zach was a wife-protecting manjac. If anyone dared to hurt his wife, their entire family would suffer.

Helen took the women of the Miller family in. Helen gave them a place to stay and provided them with food and drinks. That was all she could do Helen's brothers and nephews were all in the detention center now. They were waiting for the trial to start before going to jail. The women of the Miller family took turns crying to her and asking her to plead for mercy.

This huge change caught everyone in the Miller family off guard They had been at ease for too long to remember that it would be devastating once danger arrived.

Helen had a headache from their crying. Moreover, she was angry in the first place, so she asked the driver to drive her out. She wanted to see Elvira.

In her opinion, the instigator of all this was Elvira. 'If it weren't for her, Zach wouldn't have dealt with the Miller family. It had been so many years. If he wanted to move, he would have done it long ago. He wouldn't have waited until today.

'Sure enough. I did not like Elvira when I first saw her. Now, it confirmed my guess. That woman is here to jinx me. At this moment, Skylar was personally feeding Elvira soup. Her heart ached when she saw Elvira's injured arm. This time, Elvira's right hand was injured. It was inconvenient for her to eat so Skylar said she wanted to take care of her.

After settling the Miller family's matters, Zach returned. Seeing that his mother had snatched his job, he hoped that his mother would leave quickly because he wanted to serve his wife himself.

How could Skylar bear to leave when her daughter-in-law was injured? If she left, she would feel guilty.

Hence, the mother and son rushed to serve Elvira. As long as Elvira moved, they would immediately come to her and ask her what she needed. They even wished they could follow her to the washroom.

Elvira felt that she had only suffered a superficial injury and was not in a state where she could not take care of herself. She said, "Zach, go to the company to work. Skylar, if you have nothing to do, find a friend to drink coffee. I can do it alone."

"That won't do. You can't use too much strength on your arm right now. Oh, right, have to look for Louver and buy some scar ointment for you. I'll buy more this time. Zach, take care of Elvira first.

Tll be back soon Skylar went to change her clothes as she spoke When she came out, she took her bag and changed her shoes.

As she walked, she reminded her son, "I've made chicken soup for Elvira. It's in the pot. Pour some for her to drink. Don't let her starve.

"I'll be back in about two hours. Before I leave, don't go to the office. Don't let Elvira stay at home alone. I'm worried." 10:05 Tue, Dec 10 GE

"Mom, I won't go to the office. I'll stay at home with her. You do have to come back. Zach suddenly felt that finding his mother a partner might be a good idea. This way, his mother wouldn't have to keep coming to snatch his wife.

She Got A Better Man

"That won't do. Elvira likes to eat the dishes I cook. I still have to cook for Elvira. I don't need you tomorrow. You can go to work. I'll be back soon." Skylar left quickly with her bag.

She was walking too fast. Zach was afraid that she might sprain Her ankle.

After closing the door, Zach walked back and sat beside Elvira. He looked at her arm and asked, "Are you thirsty? I make a drink for you."

I've already eaten a lot of chicken soup. I'm not thirsty at all now, Elvira shook her head. She was already full because of her mother-in-law. As expected of her biological mother-in-law. Skylar was too good to her. "Then what do you want to eat? Isn't it too boring to sit like this and do nothing?" Zach was worried that she would feel bored.

"Yes. So, let me go to the office. That way, I won't be bored," Elvira quickly said.

"No way-

You're injured. What if your wound inflames? If you're bored, watch a drama. I'll cut some fruits for you to eat," Zach said as he turned on the television.

"Forget it, I'd better deal with my work." Elvira's arm was burning with pain. If she did something, she could divert her attention and make her feel less painful. Hearing her words, Zach frowned and asked with heartache, "Does your wound hurt?"

Elvira didn't expect him to be so sharp. She didn't say anything, but he knew that her wound hurt. She didn't deny it.

Her denial would only make him feel that she was forcing herself. She nodded. "It does hurt a little. I can distract myself if I do something.

Zach's frown deepened. His hands were clenched into fists. If he could, he wanted to get hurt in her place.

"Hey, it only hurts a little. It's alright. Why don't you make me a cup of drink? I want to drink it." Elvira held his hand and squeezed it.

Zach's fist immediately relaxed. He smiled and said, "Alright, what do you want to drink?"

"Orange juice." Elvira smiled and ordered a glass of juice. It seems I can't just let myself have something to do. I have to let him have something to do, too.

After Zach left, Cole called. Elvira picked up. "Cole, what's the matter?"

Cole was silent. Elvira asked again. Cole asked, "Does your injury have anything to do with Carmen? Did she do it on purpose?"

"Why would you think so? I'm sure she didn't mean to. Everything was a last-minute decision, and there was no preparation beforehand. She didn't know I was going to take her out," said Elvira.

"Maybe she wasn't prepared for this. There's bound to be a chance for her. Also, why is your assistant so coincidentally allergic? Cole's chest was heaving up and down. When he learned that Elvira had beeg shot, he was about to explode. "That's impossible, Cole. Don't think much about it. Besides, I only suffered a superficial injury. It's not a big deal. I'll have to trouble you to deal with the company's matters." Elvira did not want Cole to think much.

"I understand. Rest well. Don't worry about the company. I'll help you take care of it." Cole hung up the phone after saying that Elvira could tell that he was angry and suspected Carmen.

Dec

Elvira rubbed her forehead helplessly. Cole's temper is even woe than I had expected. He used to be very obedient. Ever since he woke up from the fire, his temperament had changed. He is no longer the obedient little cutie from before! Elvira suddenly felt a little melancholic.

Zach came with the juice. "A call from Cole?"

"Yes, he asked me about my injury and work." Elvira put down her phone, smiled, and took the orange juice from him. Zach immediately retracted his hand and said, "I'll help you drink."

Elvira was speechless..

"I'm not that fragile, she protested in a small voice.

"You can't use force with your right hand," Zach insisted on feeding her.

Elvira had no choice but to let him be. She then drank the orange juice through a straw.

Zach received a call and needed to go out for a while. He frowned slightly. Elvira could tell he was in a difficult position and said, "Go ahead. I promise I won't do anything before you come back. I'll watch TV" Elvira turned on the television to reassure him.

"I'll be back soon. Don't go anywhere. Just stay at home," Zach reminded her worriedly. Now, he was afraid. He would feel uneasy if she was not in his line of sight..

"I promise I won't go anywhere," Elvira immediately assured him. She kissed his cheek, indicating that he could go and deal with his business.

Zach couldn't bear to leave her, but it was something important. He got up and went to change his clothes. Before leaving, Zach instructed Elvira worriedly. He kissed her before he was willing to leave. Zach told the bodyguards to protect Elvira well after coming out. He said if anything happened to Elvira again, he would fire

The bodyguards did not dare to be careless. They were all on high alert.

After Zach left, Elvira turned off the television. She was in so much pain that she was not in the mood to watch television.

Elvira leaned against the sofa in a daze. Her phone rang. She picked it up and saw that it was an unknown number. She picked it up. "Who is that?"

"This is Leonard. I'm downstairs. Open the door for me when I get upstairs, Leonard said.

"You came to my house? What do you want?" Elvira immediately sat up straight and questioned.

"Don't you want to know who's trying to kill you?" Leonard hung up Elvira frowned as she looked at her phone. Her mind was in a mess. She suspected that the person who shot her the second time was not the same group of people as the Miller family.

The doorbell rang. Elvira stood up and opened the door. The bodyguards and Leonard, who looked like a repairman, stood at the door. A bodyguard asked warily, "Mrs. Gilbert, did you call a repairman?"

"Yes, I called him. Let him come in and fix the water pipe. You guys go ahead and do your job" Elvira still let Leonard in. The door closed. Leonard took off his hat and looked around the room, which was quite cozy.

If you have something to say, say it quickly. My wound hurts now, so I don't have time to entertain you." Elvira walked back to the sofa and sat down. She did not look too good.

"Is this how you treat the person who saved your life? Leonard down on the sofa and poured himself a glass of water.

"At most, we're even." Elvira said calmly,

"If you put it that way... it's not wrong" Leonard took a sip of water and smiled.

"Speaking of which, why did you coincidentally appear there to save me that day? Don't you have to make yourself clear?" Elvira looked at him warily and suspiciously. It would be too much of a coincidence if he said he happened to appear there. There must be something wrong with this abnormality. Who knows what he was thinking? Elvira thought.

"It's not a coincidence. I've been secretly protecting you," Leonard replied nonchalantly as if he were talking about a trivial matter.

She Got A Better Man

Elvira's eyes widened in shock. "Have you been stalking me all this time?"

Leonard nearly spat out his water and quickly corrected her, "It protection Protection!"

"It's still stalking! Just admit it-what's your real motive?" Elvira glared at him, clearly displeased. Anyone would be upset knowing they were being followed constantly, leaving her no sense of privacy

"If I said I had no ulterior motive and just wanted to resolve the grudge between your husband and me, would you believe it Leonard replied, looking at her with a hint of helplessness.

"If you want to resolve things with him, go find him Why are you following me? Elvira shot him a displeased glare.

"If I followed him, wouldn't that just cause trouble? You're the person he cares about most. If I could save you a few times by chance, wouldn't that lessen his hostility toward me and my family?" Leonard explained Elvira looked at him with disdain. "If you truly want to resolve things with my husband, you shouldn't be putting in effort on our side. It would be best if you focused on your parents and those bizarre siblings of yours. Maybe get them to act normally instead of constantly scheming against others!"

Leonard was momentarily speechless. Surprisingly, he found her words quite reasonable. "If I could change them, would I need to do this? Besides, I'm just repaying a favor. You saved me, so protecting you is the least I can do," he said with a dismissive wave. Elvira looked at Leonard's casual demeanor, feeling a chill in her heart. She had no shortage of bodyguards, and they were far from incompetent. Yet, none of them had noticed someone following her all this time. It was clear that Leonard was no ordinary man. Leonard didn't seem to harbor ill intent for now and had even saved her once. She thought, 'But what if he were a villain? What if he did have malicious intent? Wouldn't I have already been captured and at his mercy? The thought alone sent a shiver down her spine. "What's with that look? What kind of person do you think I am? Leonard instantly bristled, not needing to guess to know she wasn't thinking anything good about him.

"What look? What do you expect me to think? Aren't you here to tell me about the assailant? If you have no ulterior motive, go ahead and tell me now," Elvira said, forcing a smile that didn't quite reach her eyes.

Leonard stared at her, clearly irritated by her gaze, but he still spoke. "The assailant is targeting Zach."

"What? Are you saying Zach is in danger?" Elvira immediately gasped in shock.

"They couldn't get to him, so they went after you instead," Leonard said, looking at her with sympathy. "If you want to stay alive, it's better to distance yourself from Zach."

Elvira stared at Leonard, clearly shocked by the turn of events. What do you mean by that?" she asked, confused. 'Are you saying he has too many bodyguards?"

She thought, "Why couldn't they go after Zach and have to target me instead?

"You usually serni pretty smart, so why are you acting so dumb now?" Leonard said, shaking his head. "It's not that they can't kill him. It's that they can't. Zach is important, but you..."

Leonard didn't finish the sentence, but his meaning was clear. If she stayed with Zach, another attempt on her life could very well follow.

"This matter hasn't been discovered by Zach yet," Elvira quickly urged Leonard. "Help me make sure he never digs too deep Tue, Dec into it. He must never find out about this." She believed that since he had already uncovered so much, he could handle what she asked.

Leonard was taken aback by her words, staring at her in disbelief "What do you mean? If he finds out, he can protect you better. Why wouldn't you want him to investigate?"

"I can't let him know I was hurt because of him. Let him think it was the Miller family who sent someone after me. Otherwise, he'll feel more guilt and pain. You've always protected me, right? Keep doing that. I'll pay you to do it. Name your price-I think you're quite capable." Elvira thought it thoroughly; she understood how much Zach layed her. If he found out that his presence danger, he would be filled with unbearable guilt and regret. She didn't want that to happen.

Leonard was somewhat confused, struggling to understand her reasoning. "Do you think I have that much free time? I'm busy. I'm about to go abroad and have things to take care of. I don't..." *20 thousand dollars! Per month!" Elvira felt that offering this amount was quite generous.

"An ordinary bodyguard charges at least 20 thousand a month, and you're offering me that?" Leonard crossed his arms, his tone full of pride. "Do you think I'm just any bodyguard?" "You're so great, yet you still got injured and almost died." Elvira retorted mercilessly, causing him to blush with embarrassment.

That happened for a reason! Things are never as simple as they seem!" Leonard immediately retorted.

Then how about 40 thousand dollars? Alright, 100 thousand dollars? I can't go higher. I'm short on cash right now. The movie I invested in is draining my funds!" Elvira said, feeling the sting of it.

"Fine, 100 thousand dollars it is. It is a special rate; I'll only do it for two months. We'll talk about the rest later. Now, transfer the money, Leonard said, pulling out his phone to show his account number.

Elvira winced at the thought, glaring at him. "Didn't you say you wanted to fix things with my husband? You never asked for money before."

"I don't ask for money, and you think I'm worthless. Stop stalling and pay up," Leonard insisted, bringing his phone closer. Feeling helpless, Elvira reluctantly transferred 200 thousand dollars-A hefty sum that pained her.

"If I weren't taking your money, I'd still arrange for someone to protect you. Don't worry, Leonard explained.

Elvira was left speechless, thinking she could thank him well.

"Your husband truly loves you and is going all out against the Miller family, but as for Carmen, I think you should still be cautious. Do you believe everything that's happened is just a coincidence? Leonard raised an eyebrow as he looked at her.

"That's none of your business. I can handle it myself," Elvira replied. Her mind was still on the 200 thousand dollars he had taken, still feeling pain. "If you're done, then leave."

"Come on, you're a billionaire, right?" Leonard suggested. "If you're willing to divorce Zach, you could walk away with billions in assets, and you'd be the wealthiest person."

"Get lost! Mind your own business! I'm not divorcing my husband! Elvira shot him a glare. "The door's over there, don't let me show you qui."

Leonard grabbed an orange, waved at her, and left. After he was gone, Elvira fell into deep thought again. She had a hunch that Carmen had done it intentionally, using Zach to target the Miller family. She hadn't said anything because she didn't want to put Zach in a difficult position.

She Got A Better Man

Chapter

Elvira felt sorry for Carmen. She had no idea who her biological parents were, and her life had been full of hardship, from the orphanage to being trafficked. After having a child, thinking Carmen would find support, only to lose the child tragically.

Perhaps her suffering wasn't something she could blame herself or. Elvira didn't expose her because, first, Zach owed her, and second, because Carmen had tried to save her when the criminals shot at her.

Carmen likely started her plan after learning of her daughter's death. Knowing she didn't have enough influence over Zach to target the Miller family, so she got close to Elvira.

When the Miller family planned to kill her, Carmen took the bullet for Elvira. However, Elvira was Zach's breaking point, and upon learning the Miller family had dared to target her, Zach went mad. Destroying them was revenge for both Elvira and Carmen's daughter. Carmen's reasoning was correct. Zach wouldn't have gone after the Miller family because of her or her daughter; they didn't hold enough significance in his heart. Only Elvira could make him lose control and act without hesitation.

Elvira closed her eyes for a moment as her phone buzzed. It was a message from Carmen, apologizing and resigning from her position.

Elvira didn't reply, unsure of how to respond. Carmen used her, and she didn't feel like offering forgiveness. However, she couldn't help but feel pity for Carmen's loss of her daughter, so she chose to let it go.

Carmen moved out of the house Zach had given her and told her bodyguards to stop following her. She took a taxi and left. She knew Elvira had likely seen through her plan, but the outcome was favorable-Zach had destroyed the Miller family, However, her revenge wasn't complete. Carmen was already thinking of other ways to get back at the family. Since they had killed her daughter, she would make them suffer.

That night, Nina, drunk and out on the streets, was dragged into an alley by thugs. When she was found, she was unconscious and in a horrific state. The witness screamed in shock and called the police, who arrived and took Nina away in an ambulance.

When the Miller family received the news, they were focused on getting someone out of the detention center. Danni and Helen assumed Nina had just fallen or gotten drunk.

It wasn't until they arrived at the hospital that they learned the truth: Nina had been brutally assaulted by a group of people, her hands and feet broken, and her face disfigured. Both women went pale, their legs weakening in shock.

When Nina was wheeled out, her face was wrapped in bandages and she was still unconscious. Danni was so horrified by her condition that she fainted, while Helen trembled in shock, barely able to hold herself together as she followed to the ward.

When Mandy arrived and saw Nina's horrific condition, she was shocked. She asked, "Did Zach do this? It is too much! It was just an accident with his wife-why did he go so far with Nina?"

The police officer coldly reminded her, "Miss, do you have evidence to support what you're saying? If you do, please provide it. Otherwise, be careful with your words, as this could be considered defamation, and the person involved has the right to file a lawsuit against you

"I don't have any evidence; I'm just saying things casually. You should investigate it yourselves," Mandy said, not wanting to offend Zach over Nina. However, she was sure that Zach was behind the incident.

In her mind, Zach was a devil. Because of him, her parents and the three siblings could never gain the Gilbert family's approval and were never allowed to return to the family.

When Danni regained consciousness, she angrily demanded that the police arrest those responsible for harming Nina. The police reassured her that they were already investigating and would arrest the culprits once they were found.

They also mentioned that such a severe case hadn't occurred in Jersten for many years, and the authorities took it very seriously. Solving the case was essential for the public's peace of mind.

Danni cried, accusing Zach, "No need to investigate. It was Zach Gilbert! He ruined my daughter, destroyed our family, and sent people to prison! My daughter was innocent-how could he be so cruel?" She wept, her grief and anger choking her words Helen quietly called Samuel and nervously explained what had happened to Nina. Samuel was shocked by the news. He had heard about the Miller family's troubles but felt powerless, Ruining a young girl like Nina seemed too much.

Furious, he tried calling Zach to confront him, but Zach didn't answer. He was too focused on returning home to check on his wife.

When Zach entered the house, his mother swung a wooden stick him. He quickly dodged, asking, "Mom, what are you doing?"

"Zach Gilbert, what did you promise me when I left? You said you wouldn't go out, but you left Elvira alone at home. Didn't you know she was hurt?" Skylar yelled as the stick swung down again.

"Mom, I'm the one who decided to let him go. Please don't hit him! Elvira quickly stepped in to protect Zach, her concern for him evident.

"You're still protecting him? I won't bother with the ointment if He says he has something to do!" Skylar raised the stick. glaring at Elvira. "Tell me, isn't this too much?"

"Yes, I'm in the wrong. It's my fault. Mom, can you please put down the stick? Let's talk calmly," Zach quickly pleaded

"It's still your fault. Elvira, don't be so nice to him. It would be best if you punished him properly. Today, you're cooking and doing the dishes. Go on! Everything's ready for you," Skylar gestured, signaling Zach to make up for his mistake.

Before he returned, Skylar had ordered ingredients through a delivery service and even bought a chicken soup to help Elvira replenish her health.

"I'll handle it, honey. You rest for now, and I'll have it ready soon Zach said quickly. After changing clothes, he kissed Elvira before heading into the kitchen.

Elvira was about to go to the kitchen to help, but Skylar pulled her back, insisting she rest on the sofa. Zach first cleaned the chicken and put it in the pot to simmer before adding the other ingredients. He wasn't used to cooking, so he had to look up instructions on his phone while preparing the meal.

Half an hour later, Elvira couldn't resist and hurried to the kitchen when she came out of the bathroom. She asked, "Is there anything I can help with?"

"No need, just relax. I can manage: I'm checking on my phone for instructions," Zach said, pointing to the phone beside him

Elvira gave him a thumbs-up. Suddenly, there was a loud knock the door, startling everyone. Elvira and Zach looked at the door, exchanging a glance before Zach put down what he wholding and, with Elvira, walked toward it.

Skylar had already walked to the door to see who it was. When she saw the person outside, she turned back and said, "Samuel Gilbert, what's he here for? Zach intended to have the bodyguard handle it, but Skylar had already opened the door before he could act. Samuel, who was about to confront Zach, was met with Skylar standing in the doorway, hands on her hips, glaring at him. She scolded him immediately. "What's wrong with you? Why knock so loudly? Is the doorbell just for show?" Samuel was taken aback by her question and momentarily lost his momentum. His tone softened, and he replied. "Let me in first, then we'll talk

"This is my son's house! If my son doesn't want you here, then stay out! If you dare step inside, I'll chop you down!" Skylar was furious. She spun around, storming toward the kitchen, and returned holding a kitchen knife moments later.

With the blade raised, she stood at the door, ready to strike if Samuel dared to enter. Her posture made it clear she wasn't joking. Elvira was stunned, never expecting Skylar to be so fierce. She remembered their previous meetings: Skylar hadn't said a word. Samuel, intimidated by Skylar, didn't dare enter. He pointed at Zach and yelled, "You two are alike, violent and unreasonable! Nina was a good girl, and look what you've done her!"

Zach was confused by Samuel's accusation, and Elvira, equally surprised, looked at him and asked. "What is he talking about?"

Zach replied, "I have no idea." Then he turned to Samuel and said. "If you want to go crazy, do it at your place. Don't come here and disgust us! His eyes were filled with hostility. "You're still pretending! You-

With a sharp thud, Skylar swung the knife towards him, forcing Samuel to step back in fear quickly. She glared at him and shouted, "If you can speak properly, then do it. If not, get the hell out!"

"Y-you. You're nothing but a shrew pretending to be virtuous in front of my mom. You put the knife down!" Samuel, afraid of being struck, looked strangely comical in his panic.

"Say it or not?" Skylar demanded, not backing down. She wouldn't let him off easily just because he asked.

"Tonight, Nina was attacked by a group of men after leaving the bar, her face disfigured and limbs broken. You tell me, how could you be so ruthless?" Samuel shouted, pointing at Zach..

"Oh, please, you can't say whatever you want. Do you have proof of this? My husband would never do such a thing. If you have evidence, bring the police to arrest him. If not, running around spreading lies could get you... well, you know!" Elvira glanced at Skylar, whose face had darkened. Skylar instantly exploded in anger, swinging the knife toward Samuel. "You shameless old man! How dare you son? Til kill your slander my

"Skylar, you shrew! I'm speaking the truth! If you don't believe me, ask him if he did it!" Samuel shouted as he ran, refusing to back down.

"Facts, my foot! You fool, tricked by a woman! Get out of here, and never let me see you again, or I'll cft you every time I do!" Skylar yelled, genuinely intending to strike. She would have landed some blows if Samuel hadn't run fast.

Zach looked at the two women who unconditionally stood by him and believed in him. He felt deeply touched and, with curiosity, asked Elvira, "I went out earlier. Didn't you suspect it was me?"

"I don't suspect you. I trust you," Elvira answered without hesitation. "Go back to cooking. I'm getting hungry." Zach hugged and kissed her before turning back to continue cooking. The feeling of being trusted wholeheartedly by someone felt incredibly good. Skylar slammed the door shut behind her, gripping the knife tightly. She sneered. "They think they can bully my son? They should look at themselves first!" she said.

Elvira walked over and gave her a thumbs up. "Mom, you're amazing! I still have a lot to learn from you!"

Skylar brushed her hair back and said, "It's nothing! Elvira, remember that our kindness and elegance must be reserved for the right people. For shameless ones like him, you must go all out and outdo them in madness!" "Mom, I've learned my lesson and will learn more from you in the future. You're amazing!" Elvira said, gazing at her with admiration.

Seeing how much Elvira admired her, Skylar was in a perfect mood. She returned the knife to Zach. "Continue your cooking; if he dares to bully you again, I'll make sure he regrets it" she said, patting Zach's shoulder before heading out to chat with Elvira.

Zach felt a mix of emotions. He could never forget the day his mother chose to leave with his sister, leaving him behind with the Gilbert family. For a long time, he wondered why his parents abandoned him.

But today, something clicked. Zach finally understood that Skyl had never abandoned him. He looked at the two most influential women in his life, chatting and laughing together, and felt a deep happiness.

Elvira and Skylar were gossiping about what Samuel had just said "Mom, do you think what he said is true? Was Nina that in badly hurt?" Elvira couldn't believe Zach could have done something like that, but if someone had treated a girl that way, still seemed incredibly cruel to her.

"Elvira, the person who did this probably knows you. Skylar thought momentarily and believed the person might be seeking revenge for Elvira.

"What? That's impossible! None of the people I know could be that cruel. Even if Nina is guilty, she should face legal consequences. As a woman, I can't accept such cruelty toward another woman, Elvira shuddered at the thought.

irls must take care of themselves, "She made mistakes too. Didn't you hear Samuel? She was out of a bar when it happened. avoid places like bars, and especially never get drunk alone. If she didn't get into trouble, who would?" Skylar shook her head, clearly frustrated. "Yeah, you're right, Mom," Elvira immediately agreed. Thinking back to when she and Samantha Green had gone to bars, she couldn't help but feel they were asking for trouble.

As Zach cooked, he couldn't stop thinking about who could have done this. He didn't believe Nina had just encountered a gang of thugs. If there were no grudge, it would have just been a random assault, but the extent of the injuries-disfiguring her face and breaking her limbs-seemed deliberate.

Samuel wanted to settle the score with Zach. However, he failed and was scared away by his ex-wife's knife. He felt especially frustrated. When he arrived at the hospital, Nina was already awake. But she seemed to have become a fool. Her eyes were and she kept muttering something crazily.

Seeing her like this, Danni and Helen were quite anxious. They asked the doctor what was going on. The doctor said that she must have suffered stress trauma from overstimulation. After some psychological counseling, she would slowly recover.

"Will my cousin be disfigured? Will she recover?" Mandy looked Nina's bandaged face and could not help but ask. If Nina was really disfigured and became a fool, what was the point of living?

Her hands and feet had been reattached, but the doctor couldn't guarantee how much she could recover. The one who broke her hands and feet was quite cruel. It was a comminuted fracture "That depends on the later stages of recovery. The doctor did not dare to guarantee anything. He could only say these things.

Danni was agitated by the doctor's words and lost control of herself as she shouted, "I don't know what you doctors are doing! If my daughter's face can't be treated, I won't let you off!"

The doctor understood her feelings and was unwilling to face such an unreasonable patient's family, so he ignored her and left. Seeing this, Danni rushed over to continue arguing with him, but Helen caught her.

"Danni, it's useless to argue now. It's better to think of a way to treat Nina" Helen was really having a headache now.

And you. Your stepson caused your niece to be in such a miserable state. Are you just going to watch and not do anything? How can you let him treat your family like this?" Danni didn't like anyone now.

"I did nothing! Didn't I call Samuel? What else do you want me to do? I have no status in the Gilbert family. Do you think I can kill Zach to avenge Nina?" Helen felt that Danni was so angry that she became beyond reason. Helen was also very frustrated now. Her maiden family had been destroyed by her stepson just like that, but she could not do anything to that brat. Did Danni think she felt good?

"Even if we can't kill him, you should teach him a lesson. We can let him be so arrogant. When the police find evidence, I'll make Zach pay the price!" Danni screamed uncontrollably.

Mandy quickly pulled her mother to the side and said, "Mom, don't say anything first. She isn't very calm now. Let her calm down first."

Helen also knew Danni must feel bad since something so bad happened to Nina, so she could only endure it. When Samuel returned, Danni was agitated and questioned, "Did you go and settle scores with your vicious son? What did he say?"

"I went to see him, but he said that he didn't do it. This has nothing to do with him. Samuel was too embarrassed to say that his ex-wife chased him out with a knife. But it seemed that Zach really didn't do anything to Nina Although Samuel did not like Zach or even hated him, he felt that Zach could not have done this.

"How could it have nothing to do with him? He was the one who did it. Who else could it be other than him? Just because of that little bitch, he destroyed my company and arrested all the men in my family. He was merciless. Now that it's my daughter, it's my turn next! Other than him, who else has the ability to do such a vicious thing and escape punishment!" Danni felt a chill run down her spine. She didn't think that Zach would let go of her, the last good person in the Miller family.

"We don't have any evidence yet. If he doesn't admit it, there's nothing we can do. If I go and look for my mother, she will definitely side with Zach, Samuel said with a sullen expression. His biological mother now saw him as an enemy. What could he do?

Tue, De

"There's nothing you can do about it. Fine. Are you going to let my daughter he destroyed just like that?" Danni looked like she had gone crazy, making people a little afraid.

Mandy rolled her eyes and said, "Why don't we do this? Why do Anyway, he's the one who made her like this. Let him take my airs outside now.

we just let Zach take responsibility for my cousin? sin in. It's fine if he doesn't get a divorce. Many men have

When the three of them heard this, they looked at Mandy who s speaking casually. She shrugged and said indifferently. "Anyway, he was the one who caused this. He has to take responsibility. If he refuses, we can seek justice from Grandma. A girl was ruined by him. How can Grandma not care?" Mandy could not stand the way Elvira was pampered and pampered by Zach. It was just a superficial wound, but Zach had gone to great lengths to destroy a company. Was Elvira worthy?

"Mandy's words made sense. Since he was the one who destroyed her, he has to take responsibility. Let him divorce Elvira and marry Nina!" Helen really hoped that this could happen. She wanted Zach to suffer. She wished that he was dead so that she and her child could make a name for themselves

"Will... Will this work? Will he agree to it?" Samuel felt that they were really daring. Were they too naive?

"If he refuses, just make a fuss. Find the media to expose what he has done and ruin his reputation," Danni said angrily. Samuel didn't even want to speak anymore. If she really had this ability, would the Miller family have been ruined by Zach? Danni was determined to make Zach take responsibility for her daughter. This way, she would have someone to rely on in the future. Hence, she asked Samuel and Helen to bring her to Tracy to cause trouble.

After eating and washing the dishes, Zach pulled his wife, who was still watching television with his mother, back into the house.

Skylar wanted to spend more time with Elvira, but Zach snatched Elvira away. She could only turn off the television and go, back to her room.

She did not know if her son would sleep with Elvira. Elvira was injured. What if Elvira's wound was pressed? Thinking of this, she immediately knocked on Zach's door. Zach came to open the door and asked, "Mom, is there anything else?" Skylar had been with Elvira for an entire day. It was his turn to be with Elvira at the moment.

"Um... Elvira is injured. Don't do anything to her. She needs to recuperate, Skylar reminded her son.

Zach's face darkened when he heard Skylar's words. He said that he understood and slammed the door shut.

Skylar's face was almost slapped by the door. She was so angry that she waved her fist at the door. This unfilial son. Elvira saw him return with a dark expression and asked with a smile, "What's wrong?"

"It's nothing, I don't know what's wrong with my mother." Zach was now thinking about marrying his mother off.

She Got A Better Man

In the past, Zach didn't like Louver. Now that he thought about he didn't dislike Louver that much. After all, Louver was young, good-looking, and liked Skylar 11 Skylar was willing, everything was okay.

"Regarding Nina, do you have any thoughts?" Zach felt that this matter was quite strange. Since the guy who hurt Nina was targeting the Miller family, this must relate to Elvira.

The other possibility was to frame him, but there was no point in doing so. He could not be blamed for something he had not done.

Who would be so crazy for Elvira?

Zach had already sent people to investigate. For the time being, they had not found any useful information. Those guys seemed to have appeared out of thin air and disappeared into thin air without leaving any traces.

"What can I think? Even if Nina deserves to die, I don't agree with those people's methods." Elvira shook her head. She really did not know what was going on, let alone who did it.

"Honey, thank you for believing that I am innocent." Zach hugged her gently and let her lean against his chest with a gentle smile on his face.

"Of course. I believe you. You are the person closest to me. If I don't believe you, who else can I trust? You scumbag father? That's a joke. Elvira held his chin gently and smiled.

have to say, that person did something that I couldn't do. I don't want to let anyone from the Miller family off. Nina has received the punishment she deserves. This is good. The whole Miller family is getting what they deserve. Zach felt that this result was not bad. "Then shouldn't your scumbag father and his mistress go and cause trouble?" Elvira felt that this was a certainty. She reckoned that Zach would have a headache later.

"The only thing they can do is to make a scene. They're just a toothless tiger. Don't worry." Zach did not care about those people at all, Does your wound still hurt? Can you sleep?" Zach touched her injured arm gently.

"It still hurts a little. I can sleep if you hug me and tell me stories Elvira rubbed against his chest and closed her eyes in satisfaction.

Zach took the phone, found a fairy tale, and read it to her. After reading three fairy tales, Elvira was already asleep.

The next day, Elvira received a call from Cole. There was a tricky matter that she had to deal with personally. Elvira could only go to the company. Zach accompanied her there.

After arriving at the company, Elvira asked Zach to deal with his own business, and the two of them separated.

Elvira went to her office. Cole followed her in. Seeing that she did not look too good, Cole asked worriedly, "Are your injuries quite serious?"

"No, it's just a superficial wound. It's just a little painful, but no big deal. I'll be fine after resting for a few days. Let me take a look at the proposal" Elvira gestured to Cole

Cole opened a cooperation agreement and placed it in front of her. Elvira sat down and looked at it carefully. Cole had been staring at her. Elvira sensed it and raised her head to ask, "Is there anything else?"

"Nothing. It's just that Carmen didn't come to the office again. Cale reported to her.

"Oh, she sent me a message and resigned. She won't be coming anymore. If you're short of manpower, find another person to take her place, Elvira said indifferently.

"So, she was the one who planned what happened that day and most killed you?" Cole looked at Nina with certainty.

Elvira sensed that Cole seemed to be repeatedly confirming this problem. He seemed to care about this very much. She said. "It's a long story. She was Zach's savior. When the assassin fired, he tried her best to pull me away. She didn't expect anything to happen to me, so it was even between us. She has resigned and left. I don't want to pursue it anymore."

"Since she pulled away from you, how did you get injured?" Cole continued to ask, not wanting to let go of this question.

This was an accident. It has nothing to do with that matter, Cole, what happened to you?" Elvira was more worried about his condition.

Cole lowered his eyelashes slightly as if he was thinking about something. Elvira sensed that he seemed to be in a bad mood. so she added, "I'm really fine. It's just a superficial wound."

"Take a look first. Ask me if there's anything you don't understand." Cole stood up and left. Elvira could tell that he was very unhappy.

Elvira wanted to say something, but she did not know what else she could say to him. In the end, she could only watch him leave. She really felt that Cole was a little strange. Cole had changed too much recently. He made her feel unfamiliar occasionally, which made her very uncomfortable.

Elvira's phone rang. It was Leonard. She picked it up to see what he wanted. After all, she had spent a lot of money to hire him to protect her.

"You picked it up pretty quickly this time," Leonard said in a teasing tone.

"If you have something to say, say it. Don't call me if there's nothing else." Elvira was a little unhappy now. She was harsh when talking to him. "Who provoked you? Forget it. I'm calling you to tell you something. Do you want to know who hurt Nina?" Leonard asked.

"You know who did it? Could it be you? Elvira asked coldly.

"Of course it's not me. Nina is my cousin after all. How could I do such a beastly thing? I do things openly, alright?" Leonard immediately retorted.

"Is that so? Then is it fair for you to secretly take photos of me?"

Leonard was speechless for a while,

"Do you want to know or not? If you don't want to know, then forget it." Leonard was truly angered by her.

"If you want to tell me, say it quickly. If you don't want to tell me, hold it in." Elvira could tell that he really wanted to tell her. "Alright, you're good. I'm telling you, don't scare me. The person who destroyed Nina is your sidekick."

"I don't have any sidekicks." Elvira was confused.

"Isn't Cole your sidekick? He did all that to Nica. He was sinister and ruthless. Indeed, you can't judge a book by its cover." Leonard lamented.

"Nonsense! It can't be him! Where did you get this information from? How dare you slander Cole? Don't go too far!" Elvira immediately retorted agitatedly. How could it be Cole? It was totally impossible.

10:06 Tue, Dec 10GB.

When Leonard heard her say this, he was also angry. He said angrily, "If you don't believe me, just ask him. If it's not him, I'll take your surname! Believe it or not!"

Beep, beep, beep.....

The call was hung up, but Elvira was so angry that she felt dizzy her chest heaved violently, and she cursed Leonard for being crazy. He actually spouted nonsense and badmouthed Cole in front of her. Did he not know how close her relationship with Cole was? She would rather believe that it was a show prepared by Nina herself than believe that Cole had done it.

She Got A Better Man

Chapter 220 98%1

Zach was worried about Elvira's injury. He came down to check on her in less than an hour. Elvira had just finished her work. when she saw Zach coming over. She got up and pulled him to on the sofa.

"Are you hungry? Do you want to eat something? I'll get someone to buy some." Zach pinched her soft hand and asked.

"I feel that I've just had breakfast. Mom and you keep offering me food. I will soon be like a pig" Elvira smiled helplessly and happily

"I'll also gain weight with you. If you gain ten pounds. I'll gain ten pounds too. This way, we won't despise each other." Zach smiled and kissed her beautiful face.

"By the way, I plan to personally go to the filming base to see the filming progress of the drama. I might have to go on a business trip for two to three days"

Ever since the drama started filming, Elvira had received the news from Cole. It was time for her to take a look personally.

"Then I'll go with you, Zach said without hesitation. He could let others do his work. If there was really a need for him to decide, he could resolve it via video conference.

"There's no need. I want to bring Cole along." Elvira did not know what Leonard was up to. He actually suspected Cole. Elvira did not believe him at all. She wanted to bring Cole away from this troublesome place first.

Zach didn't reply

Zach's expression suddenly became serious when he heard her words. Elvira thought that he was angry when he saw this and explained, "Cole has been following the progress over there I'm not very familiar with it either. I brought him along because I hope to understand more about the situation."

I

"Elvira, I'm not angry. We have to hurry up. There's something we have to do as soon as possible, Zach looked at her seriously.

Elvira was speechless.

At night, Zach brought Elvira back home to eat with Tracy and Alice. Skylar went out during the day and came over for dinner at night.

Just as they were eating, a servant came in to report that Gabe had arrived.

Tracy frowned slightly when she heard this. She still instructed. "Bring her in Soon, the servant brought a group of people in. It was indeed a large group. There were a dozen of people.

"Tracy, it's been many years since we last met. Are you in good health? It's a pity that my brother passed away so early. I'm really sad."

A loud voice sounded. Elvira looked over and saw an old man walking in with a group of people. This old man was in good spirits, but he looked mean, making people unable to like him.

Behind Gabe were two juniors from his family, Samuel, and Helen. Beside Mandy, there was an unfamiliar woman. There were also a few young people behind him that Elvira had never seen before.

The others also greeted Tracy. Tracy looked at her unfilial son coldly and put on a fake smile. She gestured for everyone to sit down and let the servants get on coffee.

Skylar didn't even look at these people. She continued to feed Alice. Zach couldn't be bothered with these people. He focused on picking Bish bow for Ebara

"Gabe, you haven't been to Jersten for a long time Why are you free to viut me now? If you have something to say, just say it. I don't like people beating around the bush with me. Tracy took the initiative to ask Cabe are

Tracy. I came here to ask you for a favor. Look at them. There my family members. They are not capable enough but they want to work here in Jersten, so I come to ask you for help can you offer them some jobs so they can feed themselves Gabe pointed at his family members.

Gabe was Benjamin's cousin. Tracy couldn't be too impolite to him, so she smiled and said. "These children are obviously talented. Let them go to the company for interviews. I will get each a suitable position for some training first. That's a piece of cake. You can settle them with a call. There's no need to come personally Tracy, you're so straightforward. Thank you for your kindness. Hurry up and thank Tracy."

The few juniors thanked Tracy, but the disdain and arrogance in their eyes overflowed. Tracy could see that.

In fact, they wanted to be managers in the Gilbert Group but Tracy asked them to have interviews first? She really looked down on them.

Although Tracy saw their disdain, she pretended to not see that. She was older and more experienced. There was no need for her to bother with them.

Zach, come to greet Gabe. You haven't seen him for many years, right?" Tracy called Zach over to greet Gabe. Gabe was Zach's elder anyway. He had to show her some respect.

have to pick the fish bones for my wife," Zach replied indifferently.

With a loud slap, Gabe's hand landed heavily on the coffee table. His expression was harsh and serious. "You're getting more and more uneducated. How can you still be the leader of the Gilbert Group? Tracy, I think you should replace him! I think Samuel is not bad. He's your biological son. Why do you have to give Benjamin's life's work to an outsider!"

Tracy's expression turned cold when she heard this. "Gabe, I think you're muddle-headed! I can give my family's assets to whoever I want. I don't need you to come to my house and tell me what to do!"

"Mom, I think Gabe is right. I'm your biological son. Gabe is doing this for the Gilbert family's sake, Samuel could not help but say.

Tracy glared at her son unhappily. Her expression turned completely cold. She wanted to be polite when faced with them but they became bolder and bolder. Was she getting softhearted because she was old?

Danni could not take it anymore when she saw these people talking endlessly. Her gaze was fixed on Zach and Elvira. Now, she finally knew why Zach did so much for Elvira. Elvira was indeed a jinx.

"Tracy, I beg you to seek justice for my daughter!" Danni's cries were too shrill, scaring everyone.

Alice was so scared that her eyes widened. Skylar frowned unhappily and quickly coaxed Alice. She let the servants take Alice upstairs.

Tracy looked at Danni coldly and asked calmly. "Who is this? What happened? Why does she need me to seek justice for her?"

I have nothing to do with them. I'm from the Miller family. I'm here today to meet Zach. He raped my daughter. He has to be responsible for my daughter! Danni pointed at Zach and roared.

Zach looked up at her and could not be bothered with her. Elvira looked at Tracy coldly and waited for her to continue.

"Don't spout nonsense. I know Zach best. He and my granddaughter-in-law are very close. They are deeply in love. He will never do anything to let my granddaughter-in-law down." Tracy stared at this crazy woman with an unfriendly expression,
