Mana explosion

Levy's brows scrunched up instinctively as she looked at Derek with a narrowed gaze before sharply asking, "What do you mean by that?"

He didn't reply instead he calmly leaned back on his chair crossed his limbs and then placed his hands on the lap before releasing oppressive alpha vibes from his body then Levy smelled a scent that has been masked before—wild ferns, the trickle of the streams and the scent of Siberian tiger spread through her system and her eyes widened as she looked at the man in front of her. She did know that he was a mage but he hid his shifter side so well that she couldn't even sense his beast.

This was something that she has never seen before!

"You can suppress your beast?" She asked surprised, she could sense that the tiger was really dominant and didn't look like a beast that would be willing to be restrained within the shell of his human counterpart. But somehow Derek has suppressed him, she could hardly feel the presence of the tiger as dominant as it was currently, as dormant as it was earlier.

Derek hitched a side of his lips and said, "Well, it's nothing crazy, is it? I just do not wish to accept this side of mine and my beast knows it as well. He knows that I will never accept him, the way other half shifters accept theirs and he is contented staying within, as long as I give it a chance to spread its limbs once in a while." After saying that he suppressed his beast again, the alpha vibes were gone and so was the presence of the beast.

As soon as those suppressing vibes were gone the females behind Derek took a deep breath as if they could finally breathe and maybe she wasn't far from the truth. Alpha shifters whether half-blood or not were stronger than the dominant ones, it was just that if they faced a full-blooded alpha then they will have to bow their heads.

"Sorry about that," he said without looking back at the females and then looked at Levy with a smile that didn't reach his eyes. "Just like you, I was born with a bond that was broken halfway. Parents who didn't love me for what I was, in fact, it would be better to say that my very existence scared them to the point that they wished that I was dead."

"That's impossible, one of the parents has to be a witch or mage for you to be a mage, how can they hate their own kind?" Her father hated her because she was a much stronger witch than she was a shifter but if Derek's parents were shifters then—

"That's because my mother mated with two males," Derek answered with a sarcastic smile. "She was the only female alpha of the pack, worried that someone will take over her reign, she chose a man who was weak and looked like he was easy to tame what she never thought was that one day she will find out that the man was a mage. She was highly upset but the imprinting already started and she was pregnant with me as well, she couldn't do anything. In fact back then she thought that my father wasn't as strong of a mage as others that was until she saw him teaching me spells to turn animals into stools and chairs, potions that were more highly lethal than black mamba poison. She freaked out and then the next thing I knew she took my father somewhere, when they went out of the pack's territory they were two people but when she returned she came back alone... saying that she was attacked by a bunch of wolves and my father was killed by them...what she couldn't see I could smell the blood of my father on her."

He spread his hands and raised his brows. " Then she mated with the beta of her pack and had two kids with him, throughout the entire time I stayed with them, they made sure that I didn't get closer to their kids... I realised that I wasn't invited and left home. But what I never forgot was the smile of my father when he promised me that he will be back, neither he nor I thought that he will be attacked by the very female he trusted..so to answer your question, yes I hate the shifters and I hate everything that is related to them."

" Even your beast?"

" Even my beast," affirmed Derek without even pausing slightly.

This was her first time hearing someone say that they hated their beast but then again, he had every reason to hate their kind.

" I understand why you might think that we might be a compatible match but I do not have any wish to be entangled in a mess of revenge or whatnot, what I want is nothing but calm—"

" Even if I was to tell you that your mother didn't die because of mana explosion but because someone from your pack killed her?" Derek intercepted her suddenly and what he said was enough to shock her to the core, at first she wanted to ignore what he said, she thought that he was just lying to bait her by telling her nonsense but he looked too confident for that and Levy couldn't help but ask, " How do you know that? How can you be sure? I saw my mother's body she was affected by excess mana back then."

" Mana explosion is not something that happens only when someone loses control of their powers, it can also happen when someone forcefully instils magic powers in someone else's body." Derek's gaze stayed on as if he noted every expression that flitted through her eyes before he said, " I work in the wizard association and there is a report regarding your mother's accidental death. Since she was a member of the wizard association and was under the careful watch of the elders — the second she died, the matter was investigated and according to the investigation of the wizards, there were two mana energies clashing in the body of your mother at the time of her death."
