

Finding Out The Billionaire Chapter 138

However, rather than criticizing him, everyone instead burst into uncontrollable laughter.

“Has this guy lost it? What on earth is running through his head? Hahaha!”

Everyone was bent over in laughter; the look of ridicule was blatant in their eyes.

“Alex is too hilarious! How can he say something as stupid as that with a straight face? Honestly, I think I pulled a muscle from laughing too hard.”

Wade was stunned for a second before he, too, broke out in laughter.

What an idiot! Does he not think before he speaks? Serves Heather right for choosing such a useless loser. Hahahaha...

“Young man, the brain is a vital organ. I hope you find yours soon,” the homeroom teacher sighed while tapping his head. He then turned to look at Heather, and a sigh escaped his lips.

She was someone he had always had high hopes for, and she had the title of the prettiest lady in Nebula City. Yet she had somehow ended marrying an idiot who blurted out nonsense at the drop of a hat.

But other than feeling sorry for her, there wasn't really anything else he could do.

Heather, on the other hand, was feeling so embarrassed that she wished the ground would open up and swallow her whole.

She had never felt more regretful. I shouldn't have asked Alex to join me.

She should've considered the situation, but instead, she had thoughtlessly asked Alex to come.

Idiot! Idiot! Idiot! I'm such a freaking idiot!

If I hadn't made Alex come, I wouldn't be in such a humiliating situation.

While everyone was busy mocking Alex, Ginny was shaking her head to herself. She couldn't understand how her schoolmates were that oblivious.

Alex was the freaking chairman of Four Seas Corporation. Even the richest guy in the city, Jack Sawyer, had to be super respectful towards him.

Yet these dummies were turning him and his words into one big joke. How ironic!

“Is it that funny?” Alex hadn't expected his one question to cause such a hullabaloo among Heather's teacher and schoolmates. His temper flared in response.

“Do you guys really think Wade is amazing just because he managed to book Madison Zucker?”

His eyes ran over the crowd in disdain. "Do you want to make a bet that Madison Zucker will obediently leave without even singing one song, just because I tell her to?"

"Enough!" Heather shrieked as she jumped out of her seat. "Are you not done embarrassing yourself?"

"This is embarrassing?" A glint of sadness crossed Alex's eyes.

Heather has personally seen Madison go to an amusement park just to see me. Yet, she still thinks I'm just boasting and intentionally embarrassing her? Does she think so little of me?

It had only been but a few days, but Heather had forgotten the incident. Which only suggested that he, her husband, didn't matter to her at all.

"Excuse me, I need to go to the washroom," Heather announced before hurried away in the direction of the washrooms. She needed to get away from there as quickly as possible.

When the crowd saw her leave, they finally dialed down on their ridicule. That being said, their eyes were still filled with contempt and derision when they glanced at Alex.

Suddenly, a shout broke through the tension.

"Madison Zucker is here!"

Everyone's heads whipped around to face the entrance.

Wade purposely shot Alex a condescending look before he and Tony stood up and walked up to welcome Madison.

The homeroom teacher and everyone else trailed behind them.

They couldn't contain their excitement. A superstar was in their midst!

Only Alex stayed behind in the hall. He sipped his wine leisurely, then took out a cigarette and lit it.
