

Chapter 15 No one steps on my toes and go score free

"No, it just getting to know each other, maybe during the contract signing you will come along with me," Anabel said and kissed her husband George goodbye before leaving the house.

However, when she came to blueberries, she did not see anyone, but just when she wanted to ask the waiters questions, her phone started ringing. It was Mrs. Han so she hurriedly picked up her phone

"Hello" she answered anxiously fearing she will cancel the business deal.

"I am sorry, I didn't make it to the Blueberries tonight something came up, but you can come over to my place let's discuss the business plan. It's just a few minute's drives from the Blueberries." Lala's voice sounded through the phone.

Without thinking Anabel agreed to come over. Lala texted the address to her. Anabel entered her car and drove to Lala's private cottage.

She drove into the opened gate and parked her car. She was scared to come out of the car, because of how quiet and dark the whole place was.

The compound became so dark the moment she off her headlight. However, she managed to come down and gently walked toward the door, fortunately, the door clicked open before she could touch the handle, and everywhere, was lightened up.

She let out a sigh of relief however, her face became horrified immediately after she saw who was standing before her.

"You!" She exclaimed pointing at Lala. How can she forget the face of the woman she helped Dolly humiliate? That incident is still making headline news on the internet.

She knew that what she was doing was wrong but because she don't want Dolly and Nora to kick her off their group, she has to help out just like she has helped them do so many horrible things in the past.

"I am sorry I don't mean to do that." She said genuinely.

"I know you are sorry that is why I will give you a little punishment," Lala said

"What punish...." Before she could finish, Lala gave her a letter from her lawyer. Anabel took the paper and gently opened it. She scanned through the content

"What is the meaning of this?" She asked in confusion. She can't believe the content of the letter and so she needed an explanation.

"What do you mean Anabel? Is it that you don't know how to read or that you can't see properly? Which one is your problem? Tell me, so that I can know how best to help you" Lala mocked

"You are so lucky that I chose to punish you this way, honestly, it could have been worse you know," Lala said indifferently and sipped from the wine in her hands. She had the urge to pour Anabel the red wine in her hands when she remembered how she was treated at the party, however, she held herself together.

Anabel opened her mouth to talk, but her ringing phone interrupted her. It was her landlady and so she picked up her phone.

"Anabel dear, I am sorry to inform you that I am no longer the owner of your shop. I sold it out yesterday. Sorry, it came so suddenly." The woman said.

Anabel was no longer listening to the woman on phone she suddenly realized that the content of the latter in her hands was the truth.

How could she be so careless as to allow Dolly to put her into trouble? She has worked hard to raise money for the office and just when her new company started doing well this happened. How can she find a new place now that her family depended on her income for survival? George her husband has just lost his job and he is still looking for a new one.

That office was the only thing that made her step up to the level Dolly and her friends wanted and that was when they finally accepted her well in their group and now all that is about to vanish.

She recalled how she was the first to shout at Lala and told her to leave the party. Before Elise came for rescue. She did that to protect Lala from being bullied by her friends because she knew how horrible that can be. Little did she know that the single act will land her in serious trouble.

Anabel's eyes wetted up. How did she manage to get herself into this mess all because of that ungrateful woman called Dolly? How can she explain this to her husband She looked at the paper again and her hands started trembling. She can't hold back her tears anymore, she fell to her knees, held Lala's leg, and pleaded for her mercy.

"I am sorry please don't do this to me. I should have known that Dolly was the one that looked for your troubles. Please forgive me" she cried.

"I gave you three days to vacate the place if not I will allow my lawyer to throw your things out. Now get out of here before I send your flesh to my hungry dogs" Lala threatened, pointing toward the dogs.

Anabel was speechless, she did not want any trouble. She knew that she deserve what is happening to her. Her mind to Nora who was still in the hospital, her fingers being seriously injured by an unknown person, and with that in mind Anabel Refused to suffer like Nora. She does not want to end up like her just because of that insensible woman Dolly.

Anabel saw the gigantic dog that was barking at the locked cage and stood up from the floor and hurriedly enter her car. She was crying seriously Her hands trembling as she start her car and drove out of the compound. She felt defeated and ashamed of herself.

Lala was really satisfied. As she watched she drove out of her compound in a very pitiable condition.

No one steps on her toes and goes score free. This was a harsh policy she set for herself after what she went through at the hands of Lucas and his family