

Chapter 0021

"What nonsense are you talking about?" Hearing Renea's words, Shane immediately looked upset and became flustered.

As if someone had stepped on his tail.

Looking at Shane's guilty demeanor, Renea confirmed her guess.

Although Shane had kept a low profile in dealing with this matter, however, Renea was lucky enough to hear some news.

And for this, she was grateful to Susan.

In her past life, if Susan hadn't asked her to deliver food to Kailey in Dream High Academy to humiliate her, she wouldn't have had the fortune to hear such a shocking thing.

"Both of you can leave now. As for your academic performance, I will conduct a thorough investigation. If you genuinely entered based on your abilities, the school won't overlook your talent." Shane said.

"In the case, thank you for vouching for me, Mr. Miller." Renea remarked and took Stella's hand to leave.

During the entire conversation, Stella was in a daze.

"Aren't you afraid he might intentionally use your academic record to create a fake case and force you to drop out?" Stella asked as they walked out.

"He won't." Renea said with a confident smile.

Although she had no evidence of Alice's disappearance, Shane would certainly be investigated if this matter had been revealed.

In this way, Shane's reputation would be affected greatly. Even if the evidence remained undiscovered, his reputation would still be damaged. Thus, it would be challenging for him to run for the next principal position.

According to Renea's understanding, Shane was not a fool enough to take the risk at this critical moment.

"So, does that mean you have solved the issue?" Stella asked, with her eyes widened.

Renea smiled without saying anything.

"So, I have come to rescue you for nothing?" Stella sincerely expressed her oblivion to Renea's strength.

Hearing this, Renea looked at Stella in confusion.

Looking at her confused look, Stella said, "I figured Shane wants to see you because he wants to make things difficult for you. So I have texted my uncle for help."

"You uncle?" Then, Aron's image flashed across Renea's mind.

Renea felt as if his familiar scent was still lingering on the tip of her nose.

"You have seen him before. My uncle is Aron Kingston." Stella pouted as she began to question her uncle's popularity.

"Kingston? You guys have the same last name?" Renea asked.

Hearing that, Stella replied grumpily, "Can't I take after my mom's last name?"

Renea nodded knowingly and said, "Thank you."

She felt uneasy with Stella's concern toward her. After all, no one had genuinely treated her well in her previous life and this life.

Except for her grandfather, no one has ever treated her well or was kind toward her. So, Renea had a little hard time trusting other people.

She didn't question further why Stella would take after her mother's last name.

Because of Stella's reaction, Renea could tell that she didn't want to mention this matter anymore. And Renea was not that much interested in either.

"Don't be polite. We are friends." Stella said as she placed her hand on Renea's shoulder.

Ever since Renea had dealt with Sophia and others, Stella had tacitly regarded Renea as her friend.

Although Renea avoided Stella's touch uneasily, she didn't refuse her words.

After they had the first class in the afternoon, Sophia came into their classroom.

The incident involving the bet and the run on the field had already spread throughout the school. Thus, everyone knew that Sophia and Renea were at odds with each other.

Now that Sophia had taken the initiative to come to Renea, they all thought Sophia might have some ill intentions.

"What do you want?"

Before Sophia could get close to Renea, Stella blocked her path and asked coldly.

Looking at Stella blocking her path, Sophia rolled her eyes at her. Then she shifted her gaze toward Renea and said unwillingly, "I am sorry."

'Did she just apologize to me? Renea thought to herself.

Even though the incident involving Alice made Mr. Miller wary, Renea didn't think it would make Sophia personally come to apologize to her. so, she looked at Sophia in surprise.

Seeing that Renea didn't respond to her, Sophia bowed and spoke again, "I am sorry. I shouldn't have defamed and accused you of falsifying your academic record. Please forgive me.

During the entire apology, Sophia had her fists clenched tightly, which showed her complete sincerity.
