

Chapter 0035

When Renea tapped on the front request, she found Aron's name.

She hesitated for a moment before accepting his friend request.

In less than a second, Aron sent her a message.

He texted, "Are you done with your work?"

Renea, "Yes."

After that, he didn't send any more messages.

Aron held his phone and had no idea what to send. After constructing the sentences, he deleted them and repeated the cycle.

Renea texted, "Thank you for today."

Aron immediately replied to the message.

Aron replied, "No need to keep saying thank you all the time. Its easy to feel distant that way."

Renea was lost in thought as she read the message.

"Aron Kingston!"

She silently repeated his name in her mind. However, no matter how hard she tried, she couldn't recall where she had seen him before, or how they were connected. Yet, that sense of familiarity lingered on.

After dismissing doubts in her mind, she once again resumed her cold and aloof demeanor. She took another card from the drawer and inserted it into her phone.

"Hello."

"It's you again."

"I have some information for you. Do you want it?" Renea asked.

The person on the other end of the line responded without hesitation. "Yes."

"Dylan Morris will be joining the cast of "Night of Blooming Flower", the day after tomorrow. I want you to drop the news the same day he joined the cast."

"I will have to see if the information is worth reporting it."

"Sure, I'll send it to you via mail later."

"I have a question. Since you have so much information in your hands, why don't you report it yourself."

Renea chuckled and replied, "That because I have faith in you."

With that, Renea hung up without giving the person a chance to speak.

The news about the Morris family celebrating Renea's birthday reached the ears of Jasper. Just a moment ago, he was extremely attentive to Kailey. However, he was waiting for Renea outside her classroom with a cup of coffee.

"Renea, what do you want to eat lunch today?" Stella walked over with her arm around Renea's shoulder and asked.

"Anything will do. I'm not picky."

Upon seeing, Renea approaching, Jasper immediately went up to her and said, "Renea, I bought you your favourite coffee."

"What are you doing? Are you trying to please Renea? Don't you think it's too late now?" Stella sneered.

Jasper's face flushed crimson with embarrassment.

"Renea are you mad at me, I only approached Kailey previously to ease the relationship between you two."

Renea took the cup of coffee from Jasper and said, "Thank you."

Jasper was stunned and overjoyed. He was certain that Renea still had feelings for him.

"Why did you accept the coffee? Are you still in love with him?" Stella asked as she was very puzzled.

Renea looked at Stella with a smile and asked, "Do you know how to make someone feel heart-wrenching pain?"

Stella shook her head as she felt a chill down her spine.

"That's by seizing what he cares about the most, raising it to the highest point, and then letting it fall heavily. That will make him experience extreme joy to profound sorrow in the shortest time." Renea chuckled.

Renea had once experienced it herself. Of course, she wanted to let those who caused her such pain go through a similar experience.

Stella could not help but shiver. Renea's appearance was too reminiscent of her insane Uncle Aron.

A mad beauty would be the perfect description of Renea at this moment.

Renea tossed the cup of coffee in her hand into the trash bin as she sneered even more intensely.

"Come on let's go for lunch." Renea turns to her normal state.

Stella had also forgotten about what had just happened.

"The end of the month is coming, and it's time for the monthly break. Have you planned where to go for the month of Renea?" Stella asked.

After Stella's reminder, Renea finally realized that today was already the 25th. Thus she fell into contemplation.

"Renea? Renea?" Stella called out several times in a row before Renea snapped back to reality.

"I will be busy at the end of the month." she said.

Stella sighed in disappointment. "Fine, I was just about to ask you out for shopping."

"Next time alright," Renea said as she patted Stella on the shoulder. This matter was too important to her.

The Grand Hotel was bustling with guests.

There was a celebration banquet for the new film, "On My Way," directed by renowned director, Clark Reed. At the film premiere, it exceeded 100 million views, making it the blockbuster of the year.

Well-known celebrities from the industry came one after another to offer their congratulations, which was also a great opportunity for Clark to build momentum.

To be honest, riding on its popularity was not an exaggeration. Clark heard that Aron, the president of the AK Group, would also be attending. Aron was a big shot in the investment industry, known for his unique perspective.

Not only was Aron precise in financial investment, but he also possessed a distinctive eye for the film and television industry.

All of the films and television series he had invested in ended up becoming major hits.

"On My Way" would be a great example of it. From its initial planning to casting, no one in the industry had high expectations for it, and there were no well-known actors in the cast.

Even if there was some news about it, it wasn't substantial. Moreover, when the character's posters were released, they discouraged a quiet number of people from participating in it.

No one was willing to invest in it. However, Aron's $500 million investment shocked everyone in the business and entertainment industry.

Reality proved him right, as the show achieved a record-breaking rating as soon as it premiered.

The celebrities who came were merely looking for a chance to get close to Aron. They wanted to see if there was a good film option in the current market.

Renea, who was in the uniform of the hotel service staff, pushed a small cart and walked straight towards the restroom.

When she emerged from the restroom, she had changed into a white shirt and casual trousers. She had applied light makeup as her styled wavy hair cascaded vertically onto her shoulders. She executed a tough and capable aura.

Renea heard that Kevin White, an internationally renowned director known as the 'Sovereign Master' would make a discreet appearance today. However, no one else knew he would be coming.

Her sole purpose for coming here today was to create a chance encounter with Kevin. She wanted to make sure he knew of her existence.

She had searched through every room, yet she still hadn't coincidentally run into him.

She wondered, 'Could the news be wrong?'

'But the news about Kevin making an appearance at the banquet is indeed true There were even photos of him with Clark.'

After searching through all the rooms on the second floor, she realized there was only one room left.

"How do you go about your task? The coffee is so hot. How am I supposed to drink it?" A woman's scolding voice rang out from the room.
