

The Hidden Billionaire Heiress (Lyra Melvin) Chapter 37

Fred saw Melvin's livid face and thus called him.

Melvin snapped back from his own thoughts and instructed, "About the ownership transfer of the villa, the lawyer must give us a draft of the agreement today, and then contact Lyra to come over to sign it."

"Yes, I'll get to it immediately."

At the Angle Group Tower.

Since Stacy was jailed, Lyra had lacked someone to help her, and now she had to focus on the reality talent competition project, so she decided to pick a replacement from those agents and assistants.

At the moment, in her small office, seven female employees of varying heights were standing in two rows.

Most of the female employees in the first row looked pretty, but not standing upright, looking a bit ostentatious.

Lyra only took a glance at the first row and she didn't like them being so fake.

She scanned across every face and her eyes were drawn to the girl standing furthest away in the second row.

"You, step forward."

The girl did not expect to be called. Surprised and delighted, she cautiously took two steps forward, "Hello Director, my name is Kellie Winters."

Lyra looked at her profile.

A newcomer, born in a remote area, nothing dodgy in her history and family background.

That's exactly the kind of person Lyra wanted.

"Then it's you. Start as my assistant."

Kellie was flattered.

The other employees were upset, "Director, she's only been here for a month, and she's still on probation. Is this compliance with the rules?"

Lyra threw them another glance.

"I, am the rule."

The crowd choked on her words. Without being selected, they could only leave discontentedly.

The newcomer Kellie was very excited and kept bowing to thank her, "Thank you, Director, for giving me this opportunity. I'll do my best in every task you give me, I promise..."

"Okay, I see, but actions speak louder than words." She gave Kellie an affirmative look and handed her a pile of documents, "Familiarize yourself with these matters as soon as possible."

"Okay, Director."

carried the documents

turned her office chair to look out the floor-to-ceiling well-known entertainment company in Frayton. Many collaboration opportunities were in fact

Therefore, she had got to make

was the typical Lyra

she was thinking, Kellie knocked on the door again and was a call from you. The person said it was Mr. Watts from Shihai.

Lyra wondered, "What house?"

was a seaside

Melvin and her divorced for quite a while. Why did Melvin suddenly want or out

Ridiculous.

be there after

was no reason

house might come

...

In the café.

wearing sunglasses, walked to a table with two roses,

woman sitting opposite her, she removed her sunglasses and her up and the Matthews family, Charlotte Matthews? You're pretty, but your bearing is far from that out of the gate. Was Irene trying to frowned slightly, displeased, but she still managed to keep smiling, "If you ask me here just to humiliate me, it is really not was actually about to take her bag and leave when Irene held her hand, "Don't rush.

with Lyra, Charlotte paused

that bitch either, I

Charlotte hesitated.

be underestimated. She was quite tempted at the idea,

Irene, she would only end

the Matthews family with no power, and she almost got me several times before. I'm afraid I won't be able to beat her.

gave Irene another glance and got up you join forces with me, I'll help you change that and make you the

of triumph flashed across

"Deal."

...

to get off work, Lyra drove gate and was surprised to find that her heart was still