

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 381

Whitney also knew that Alex became the Jennings family's live-in son-in-law after he graduated. She asked deliberately to embarrass him and let Dylan know his true identity.

“What? Don't spout nonsense, Landon. Not only is Alex handsome, but he is also the top student at college! How could he cast his pride aside and live off a woman?” exclaimed Whitney as she feigned surprise.

Smirking, Landon said, “Without good looks, how can anyone become a boy toy in this era?”

With a look of revelation, Whitney glanced at Alex and asked with a smile, “Alex, are you one?”

The phrase 'boy toy' was usually a derogatory term used to insult men who had no backbone.

Right now, that was what Whitney meant.

Glancing at his ex-classmates, Landon and Whitney, Alex laughed and replied, "Yeah, I've been living off a woman after graduation. On the other hand, both of you seem to succeed in life."

His casual admission perplexed Landon and Whitney.

Initially, they wanted to humiliate Alex. However, their attacks failed to provoke him.

Rose looked at Alex curiously. Although he had been embarrassed, he was still so calm and composed. For some reason, she suddenly felt that her cousin's husband was terrifying.

The most impressive people endure embarrassment without uttering a word.

However, Alex still smiles after being humiliated in public.

Can anyone else deal with this better than him?

No!

Seeing Landon and Whitney trying to embarrass Alex, Dylan felt awkward.

He was even afraid that Alex would be unhappy.

Actually, he did not invite the couple. However, as they met coincidentally, he brought them with him.

Never did he imagine they would try to stir up trouble.

This upset him.

“Landon’s doing well. I heard that he’s promoted to the senior management level at a listed company. He probably earns seventy or eighty thousand a year, right?” said Dylan with a laugh.

Seventy or eighty thousand a year?

Shocked, Rose stole a few glances at Landon.

I can’t tell at all! This guy looks like a pervert, but he actually has such a high income.

However, Landon sighed and said, “Don’t mention it. The company wanted to be listed a while ago, but it was a huge blunder. The boss kept messing things up, ruining my bright future. I’m planning to quit and work for Warren instead.”

“Warren?”

Stunned, Dylan asked, “Where’s Warren working at now?”

Warren was their college classmate.

“Warren is a manager at Midas jewelry store, the best-performing subsidiary of the Jones family’s corporation. I heard that he’s going to become a shareholder,” said Landon.

“Wow, then he’s doing well!” exclaimed Dylan.

Naturally, Warren could not even compare to Alex. After all, the latter was the hidden boss of the Four Seas Corporation.

Warren climbed up the ranks with his own abilities. It was an unfair comparison to make with Alex, who was born in a wealthy family.

Dylan knew this well.

“What are your plans now?” Landon asked Dylan.

“Me?”

Dylan glanced at Alex. He remembered the latter said to look for him at Four Seas Corporation after being discharged from the hospital.

He knew Alex definitely look out for him.

However, he could not put down his pride. After all, they were good friends in the past. If he went to work for Alex, their friendship would become weaker.

Yet, if he continued to rely on himself, he would probably fare worse in life.

This was the reason he asked Alex out for drinks.

He was still undecided.

Chapter 382

“Come, drink. Let’s talk about work later.” Noticing that Dylan was looking at him hesitatingly, Alex lifted his glass and declared.

“Yeah, let’s drink.” Dylan raised his glass and smiled.

Landon grabbed his glass and clinked it against

Alex's and Dylan's. However, Whitney kept looking at the performance on the stage, not wanting to drink with the three of them.

She did not deign to drink with Alex as she looked down on him.

Landon knew Whitney well. He merely smiled and stopped talking about Alex being a live-in son-in-law.

“Does this pretty lady want a drink?” asked Landon, looking at Rose with a smile.

“I don't drink,” answered Rose.

“Should I order a cup of milk tea for you?” asked Dylan when he heard her.

The bar offered both alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages.

“Sure, thank you!” said Rose politely.

Chuckling, Dylan ordered a cup of tea.

At that moment, a couple walked over. Whitney stood up quickly and greeted them.

“Here, Lily!” Whitney waved her hands.

When the couple spotted her, they walked over.

The woman called Lily had heavy make-up on. She looked seductive under the lighting. Holding the man’s arm intimately, she strutted over.

The man was very tall and muscular too. There was a gold chain hanging around his neck, making him look like a show-off.

Lily, Alex and Dylan were classmates at college too. However, she was only close to Whitney and did not stay in contact with the others.

She came today because of Whitney's invitation.

"Oh! Isn't this the straight-A student, Alex?" exclaimed Lily with an exaggerated laugh.

Smiling back at her, Alex greeted, "Hi, Lily. Long time no see."

Rose looked at Alex in shock. Is he really a straight-A student?

Then why did he marry into my cousin's family?

A strong sense of curiosity drove her to find out who Alex actually was.

Anyway, she thought he was not who he seemed on the surface.

“Oh, right. Let me introduce him to you! This is Jayden, my boyfriend. He’s the boss of the Golden Pavilion Club, with more than a hundred underlings working for him. If you have any troubles, just call me. I’ll tell my boyfriend to settle them for you.” Lily introduced her burly boyfriend proudly.

“Oh, so you’re Mr. Jayden. Nice to meet you!”

“Lily, your boyfriend is so impressive. He has both riches and power. Do take care of us in the future!”

Although Landon, Whitney and Dylan knew Lily was here to brag, they were still surprised when they heard Jayden’s identity.

He was a mobster boss! An average person would not dare to provoke him.

Whitney was shocked too. She remembered that last month, Lily's boyfriend was a handsome man who owned a little shop. She did not expect Lily to find a mobster boss as her current boyfriend.

Facing an intimidating mobster boss like Jayden, Whitney felt a bit restrained even though she shared a close relationship with Lily.

If she had known, she would not have invited her friend.

On the other hand, Lily enjoyed the attention greatly and drank a lot while Jayden eyed Rose.

Sensing the latter's ill-intentioned gaze, Rose started to feel extremely uneasy.

After all, Jayden was a mobster boss. As a young woman who had not encountered many of society's challenges, she felt intimidated.

Chapter 383

To Jayden, Rose surpassed his girlfriend, Lily, in every aspect. H felt an irresistible urge surging.

Although Alex noticed Jayden's lecherous gaze, he was not bothered by it.

“Don't be too polite, guys. You don't need to fear me either. Go to the Golden Pavilion Club in the future. If you say my name, I'll waive the bill for you!" declared Jayden with a grin when he saw the fear in Rose's eyes.

To win the favor of such a pretty and innocent-looking woman like Rose, he had to act in an easy-going and generous manner.

"You're so generous! We'll definitely go there for drinks in the future," said Landon flatteringly.

"Sure! I'll make sure that you have a good time," promised Jayden with a loud laugh.

As he laughed, his gaze was still locked on Rose's body. Then, he grabbed a bottle of alcohol, passed it to Alex and said, "Buddy, since you're my girlfriend's classmate, we're friends too. Here's a toast to you!"

A cold glint appeared in Alex's eyes.

Before Jayden could do anything, Alex knew what he was up to.

Jayden suddenly toasted him as an excuse to toast Rose as well.

By doing so, his actions would not seem so abrupt.

“Sure,” agreed Alex nonchalantly. He lifted his glass slowly and clinked it against Jayden’s.

A vicious intent flashed across the latter’s eyes when he saw Alex’s arrogant actions. Although he was unhappy, he did not show it visibly and continued smiling instead.

“What’s your name, pretty lady?” After toasting Alex, Jayden asked Rose.

“My name is Rose Grayson,” Rose whispered.

“As magnificent and gorgeous as a blooming rose. What a pleasant name!”

Jayden complimented her, feigning an artistic flair. Then he lifted his glass and said, “I’m Jayden. Let me give you a toast too!”

“I’m sorry, but I don’t drink,” said Rose as she shook her head.

“You can drink other beverages too.”

“Okay, then.” Left with no choice, Rose could only lift her glass of milk tea, clink it against Jayden’s glass and take a sip.

When Lily saw her boyfriend was actually toasting Rose individually, and letting her drink other beverages, she was enraged.

“Alex, I’ve not seen you in a few years. Where are you working at?” Lily guessed that Rose probably came with Alex. Seeing their average attires, she instantly looked down on them.

“Don’t you know that he married Heather after graduation?” said Whitney sarcastically.

“He married Heather?” Lily was dumbfounded for a moment. So he married Heather?

What kind of luck does he have? He actually won Heather’s favor. She was hailed as the prettiest woman!

Lily started feeling suspicious after noticing how ordinary Alex’s clothes were. The Jennings family was quite influential. Did they stop supporting him financially because he had a fallout with them?

“He’s a live-in son-in-law,” revealed Landon with a smirk.

Pfft!

Jayden spat out the alcohol that he had just drank.

He even overestimated Alex earlier. Never would he imagine the man to cast his dignity aside and become a live-in son-in-law. A look of contempt instantly appeared in Jayden’s eyes.

A piece of trash like him is not worthy to be my rival!

Jayden narrowed his eyes as he glanced at Rose. I’m so tempted by this irresistibly pretty girl!

“Alex, you married into the Jennings family?” Lily widened her eyes in disbelief.

When they were at college, Alex was the top student in the class. Furthermore, he was quite handsome too. Someone like him would have a bright future after graduation.

Back then, she even had a crush on him.

However, she did not expect Alex to become a live-in son-in-law.

This was a huge shock to her.

“Don’t you know men and women are both equal in today’s society? If women like you can live off their boyfriends, why can’t my sis support Alex?” Seeing how Alex was insulted by Lily, Rose immediately leaped to his defense.

In her opinion, he wasn’t living off a woman because he had a sizeable salary of his own. He truly must love Heather because he chose to live with the Jennings family.

If one loved someone, one would do anything in the world for them?

Since Alex was in love with Heather, it wasn’t strange for him to be a part of the Jennings family, even if he had to bear the derogatory term of being a man who depended on a woman.

A self-assured man like him wouldn't bother with such insults.

"Who did you say is living off her man? Come on, say it again!" Lily yelled with indignation like an angry Chihuahua.

"Why would you be so agitated if you aren't living off a man? Aren't you exposing yourself right now?" Rose laughed mockingly.

Noticing how Jayden would not defend Lily, the worry in Rose dissipated.

Lily was enraged. She had no idea Rose had such a wicked tongue. Unwilling to humiliate herself further, Lily had no choice but to give up.

"Come on, let's just drink." Dylan hastily changed the subject by raising his glass in a toast to everyone.

Originally, he had only invited Alex out for drinks to feel the latter out before deciding if he should join Four Seas Corporation. If not, he could sell the blue and white porcelain gifted to him by Alex for some cash.

He didn't expect to meet Landon and Whitney on the way. Worse, they both insisted on coming along.

At that time, Dylan thought Alex probably wouldn't mind. After all, they used to be classmates.

However, Whitney had invited the snobbish Lily along? Worst of all, Lily's boyfriend was a gang member, which really made the whole atmosphere extremely tense.

Dylan sneaked a glance at Alex. He was relieved when his friend seemed completely unperturbed.

After everyone had a drink, Jayden toasted Rose again. “Gorgeous Rose, I toasted you once before, but all you drank was a glass of tea. Shouldn’t you show me some respect this time?” He poured a round for Rose, nudging it calculatingly in front of her.

Flustered, Rose shook her head hurriedly. “Sorry, I really don’t drink.”

“Gorgeous Rose, don’t you know respect goes both ways? I’m an important man with hundreds of people at my beck and call. Are you really gonna insult me like this?”

Rose’s heart stuttered with fear. Jayden’s tone was both boastful and sinister. What could she, a dewy-eyed girl, do to defuse this tension?

Subconsciously, she gripped Alex’s arm, at a loss at what to do.

“Just let it go. I’ll take her place since she can’t drink,” Alex offered.

Jayden’s expression darkened. He spat scornfully, “Who the hell do you think you are? Why on earth would I want to drink with you?”

A damn live-in son-in-law is an embarrassment to men! Why should I respect you?

Dylan’s expression changed at Jayden’s words. All the while, he had been worried for Alex’s sake, but who would have thought the conflict would arise so soon?

“Jayden, aren’t we all pals here? Don’t be angry now. Come on, here’s a toast to you.” Dylan tilted his glass at Jayden, his face all cooperation and amicability.

“Dylan, is it? Lily spoke of you before. Didn’t two women make a cuckold out of you? Trash like you are unworthy to toast me.” Jayden cast all pretenses aside and lashed out.

Whitney and Landon were feeling worried about the current situation.

To be honest, they were both afraid of Jayden.

Chapter 385

Dylan was smoldering with rage. His hand shook with anger as he gripped the wine glass.

“Jayden, don’t be mad anymore. I’ll drink to you.”
Rose mustered the courage to appease him.

“Hmph, looks like you aren’t completely thick.” Lily felt a sense of satisfaction at the sight of Rose’s silent acquiescence and fear.

She smirked arrogantly, “My boyfriend has a lot of influence over the West District. Just a few days ago, some people were impudent towards my boyfriend. They refused to drink with him as well. Do you want to know what happened to them? They lost both of their legs.”

Rose’s heart trembled with fear. Finally, she picked up her wineglass.

“Oh, that small thing? It’s not even worth speaking of. I remember the year I started out, my comrades and I overtook the territory in...” Jayden reminisced endlessly, his mood brightening with each boastful story. He was engrossed in each retelling of his glory days.

“Honey, you are so awesome! I love you so much!” Lily cooed, her face a picture of worship as she latched onto his arm.

Jayden and Lily chattered incessantly like a couple of magpies. They were so sickening that even Whitney and Landon wanted to gag.

Man, they sure are shameless!

After a while, Jayden and Lily realized nobody was interested in them. As a matter of fact, Alex was staring at them mockingly. This made the couple furious.

What the hell is giving this live-in son-in-law such guts? How could he not cower after hearing so many violent tales?

“Why aren’t you raising that glass in your hand? Come now, quickly toast my honey,” Lily demanded, her eyes glaring viciously at Rose.

“I-I’ll drink!” Rose stuttered. She could tell Alex was about to face off with Jayden, but she couldn’t take it anymore.

Her face was deathly pale after hearing Jayden’s vicious boasts about breaking people’s limbs, filled her mind with grotesque scenes.

“With me here, who the hell can force you to drink?” Just as Rose was about to gulp down the wine, Alex swiped the glass from her hand deftly and slammed it on the table.

A mixture of gratitude and terror washed over her.

“Alex, it’s fine. I can handle one or two glasses,” Rose assured hastily.

“Fine. If you love drinking this much, then drink with me,” Alex sneered. He popped the cork off an unopened bottle of wine expertly and shoved it at her.

“Come on then! If you love to drink, we’ll each have a bottle, no need for glasses.” Alex brought out yet another new bottle of wine for himself.

“I-I-I-” Seeing the insult on Alex’s face, how could Rose dare to drink now?

Jayden snorted at Alex, “Punk, you sure have balls.”

“I’m okay.” Alex glanced at him coolly, before lighting a cigarette and blowing a stream of smoke at him.

“Do you want to die!” Jayden’s face grew ugly with rage.

Rose jolted with fear. This was the first time she witnessed a full-grown man in a fit of rage.

“Honey, this useless scumbag is much too insolent! Teach him a lesson, will you? I’m so sick of his arrogance,” Lily urged, a gleam of hostility in her eyes.

Alex was cocky, even though he was just a live-in son-in-law who lived off of a woman. Just for that, she wanted Jayden to beat him up until his pretty face became unrecognizable.

Whitney and Landon, while slightly worried, were buzzing with anticipation.

Frankly, they despised Alex too.

Back in their school days, he was an elite student and was fairly good-looking. Many girls had a crush on him. One of them was the girl Landon had been pursuing. It was only a few years later that Landon had the chance to date Whitney.

How could he not detest Alex?

Whitney felt the same. That fateful year, she had a crush on Alex, but he ignored her. It was too humiliating to even think about.

Dylan wasn't afraid, despite how Lily was encouraging Jayden to beat up Alex. On the other hand, Rose was feeling chills down to her bones.

“A-Alex, apologize to them quickly, alright? Just apologize to them quickly and then we can go home!”

Rose was terrified now.

Chapter 386

“Apologize?” Alex sucked in some more smoke before blowing it directly into Jayden’s face. “Do you really think they deserve my apology?”

His actions shook Rose to her core. Does Alex have a death wish?

Sure enough, Jayden had enough of Alex's goading. "Mother!" he roared before hurling his wine glass at Alex.

Rose squeezed her eyes shut, too afraid to see what was next. Beside her, Lily and Whitney waited eagerly, anticipating the concussion Alex was going to get.

Alex simply deflected an incoming glass away with a careless flick of his hand. It hurled back at Jayden, still intact.

Bang!

The deflected wine glass hit its mark unerringly and shattered into pieces.

Jayden's head was bleeding profusely.

“You...”

Everybody was stunned into silence. What the hell did Alex just do?

Rose, in particular, was staring at Alex with an adoring gaze.

Wow, I didn't know Alex is so incredible! He must have learned martial arts! The way he flicked the wine glass away casually was a scene out of an action movie!

On the other hand, Jayden and Lily were staring at him, dumbfounded.

Huh, Alex doesn't seem like a piece of trash at all?

Jayden was the most surprised. He was a martial arts expert himself. When he saw Alex's unflappability in the face of danger, he knew instantly the latter was trained in martial arts as well. In fact, he might be even better than Jayden.

"Honey, call your comrades over to kick Alex's ass!" cried out Lily furiously.

What? They want to call for help to take Alex down?

Rose shook with fear at Lily's shriek. She tugged on Alex's sleeves frantically, saying in a timid voice, "Alex, they are calling for backup now. Let's just run away quickly, okay?"

"What is there to be afraid of? They are just a couple of vermin. I wouldn't mind teaching them a lesson. Maybe that will knock some sense into them," Alex said placidly.

His swagger made naïve, little Rose swooned with admiration.

Wow, Alex sure is macho!

“But you’ll be outnumbered. Are you sure you can defeat all of them? Are you trained in martial arts by any chance?” Rose asked worriedly.

“Yeah.” Alex nodded casually.

“Really? Alex, you are so cool! I want to learn martial arts too! Can you teach me?” Too caught up with excitement, Rose had temporarily forgotten about the dangerous situation at hand.

“Forget about learning martial arts? You should focus on your studies instead! All you have to do is support your husband and care for your future children.” He smiled, hastily making excuses.

He wouldn't want to train Rose in martial arts.

“Alex, don't you know what era we are living in now? What do you mean by “supporting my husband and caring for my children”? That is so outmoded! We women are just as capable as men!” she huffed, somewhat irritated.

Jayden grew more and more enraged as he watched the two of them bicker like he wasn't there. Pulling out his phone, he barked, “Tiger! Gather everyone and come to Sakura Club right now! I wanna teach this bastard a lesson he won't forget!” Snarling, he hung up the phone before glaring ferociously at Alex and Rose.

He was going to destroy Alex, then snatch Rose away.

Now that King Class warrior Flynn was reforming, many of Sakura Club's members had betrayed him in favor of Jayden. Sooner or later, he bet he would replace Flynn as the new gang boss.

Raping a few women was nothing to a King Class warrior.

As for Lily, Jayden would kick her to the curb as soon as he snatched Rose up.

Whitney couldn't bear this any longer. Surely Alex was too arrogant! She couldn't wait for him to be beaten up. Maybe he wouldn't be so cocky then.

Hearing Jayden's call for backup, Rose instantly froze with fear.

For a moment there, she had forgotten about the perils she was in. Her heart skittered wildly in her chest.

How can I not be afraid, he is a mobster boss!

“Alex...” All she wanted to do now was convince him to leave with her.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 387

Alex cut Rose off with a single wave of his hand.

“Running away with our tails between our legs is not how I work.”

Rose was speechless. That’s admirable, Alex, but can you maybe turn the cogs in your brain a little? What will you do when Jayden calls one or two hundred goons to attack us? Do you really think you can defeat all of them?

“Um, Alex, their numbers are too big...” Rose muttered.

“Fighting depends on brains, not brawn,” Alex explained, tapping his head. “Numbers mean nothing in a fight.”

Rose was once again swayed by his persuasiveness. Somehow, she felt what he said made sense, even though she wasn't sure how.

“Kid, here's a chance for you to unleash your madness. Just wait and we'll see how fierce you can be,” Jayden promised. He threw the tissue he was pressing against his bleeding wound away before pulling out fresh new ones to replace it.

He didn't have any other option. Alex threw the wine glass with incredible force, resulting in a huge gaping wound that wouldn't stop bleeding.

Had he not wanted desperately to get his revenge on Alex, he wouldn't be here waiting for backup. Instead, he would already be on his way to get stitches in the hospital.

He definitely needed stitches. The wound was probably four centimeters wide.

“Alex, if I were you, I would be on my knees begging for mercy! Who knows, maybe he might spare your worthless life. Otherwise, prepare to be a cripple because he is gonna break your legs!” Lily said smugly.

Alex poured himself another drink before knocking it back with one smooth swallow. He wiped his mouth and said to Lily mockingly, “Hey, tell your goons to hurry up, won’t you? I’m getting rather bored here.”

This guy is a madman!

He is insane!

Jayden and Lily were so mad they could taste blood in their mouths. “Kid, you better put your money where your mouth is!”

Since they weren’t worthy of his attention anymore, Alex glanced over at Dylan, who looked devastated.

“Alex, I swear I only meant to invite you here! I met these two on the way and they insisted on coming along. I didn’t know Whitney would invite Lily along...” he explained hurriedly.

“They were once our classmates, weren’t they? Of course, they can come along. What’s the issue with a friendly drink between pals?” Alex smiled lazily.

“Huh? You don’t blame me for this?” Even as he felt a sense of relief, Dylan was taken aback.

“Come on now, we are brothers! Don’t I know you by now? This is nothing, don’t take it to heart,” Alex said with a smile of assurance.

We are brothers! Hearing this, Dylan felt exhilaration surged through his body.

He said with clenched fists, “Alex, back when I was hospitalized, you said I could hit you up once I was discharged.”

Alex nodded. “Yup, have you thought about it?”

Dylan bopped his head up and down vigorously. “I have!”

“That’s good. Come meet me in my office tomorrow.” Alex raised his glass toward Dylan to clink their glasses together.

The latter nodded, downing his drink before pouring Alex another.

“Alex, I don’t know what’d have happened to me if you didn’t help me then. This is a toast for you.” Finishing his short but heartfelt speech, Dylan downed his wine in one gulp.

Alex smiled but remained silent, choosing instead to down his drink with Dylan.

Afterward, he said warmly, “Dylan, since we are brothers now, stop being so stiff and proper with me. Formality between friends will only make things awkward, you know?”

He didn't have many friends. In fact, Flynn and Dylan were probably the only ones he considered friends.

Both men were always respectful toward him because of his social status, which wasn't something he wanted.

He wasn't a man who desired other people's deference. He didn't enjoy the sensation of being placed on a pedestal either.

Lying low in Nebula City throughout these years, not to mention living as the Jennings' live-in son-in-law, changed him.

To be honest, he wished he could just live a normal life. He didn't want to be sought after or exalted anymore.

The two of them were lost in a world of their own, ignoring Jayden's presence as they chatted amicably with each other. This made Jayden's anger reach its tipping point.

How impudent!

Never had he ever met a man as audacious as Alex.

Regardless, Jayden was still brimming with anticipation. Soon, his men would reach Sakura Club!

Now, all he had to do was observe just how cocky Alex could be.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 388

“Jayden, brother, the people of Sakura Club wouldn’t let us in,” Tiger reported to Jayden through a phone call.

Jayden scowled, asking, “Who is it?”

“Bob.”

Jayden’s frown deepened. Bob was Flynn’s best fighter. His strength was simply unmatched. Despite Flynn’s reformation, Bob remained loyal to him.

Besides, Sakura Club had King Class warriors from the underworld forces too. Jayden wasn't eager to pick a fight with them.

His hands were tied with his men locked out of the club.

"Honey, what's the matter?" Lily felt compelled to ask when she noticed Jayden's knitted brows.

"My men are stopped by Bob outside. They can't come in," Jayden muttered crossly.

"Who the hell does Bob think he is! How dare he? Honey, don't be such a coward! You have so many brothers at your command. Just get them to break Bob's legs and storm in! I'll be very upset if you don't break Alex's legs tonight." Lily urged.

"What the hell do you know?" Jayden glared at her contemptuously. What an idiotic woman!

Sakura Club was made up of King Class warriors from the underworld forces. The only reason he dared to step up as the boss was because of Flynn's desire for reformation.

Break Bob's legs? I can't even imagine it. He will probably shatter my legs before I even make a move.

"Honey, don't you have hundreds of men at your beck and call? How can you be afraid of one measly Sakura Club?" Lily whined, turning her nose down at Jayden.

With a loud crack, he slapped Lily across her face.

"You stinking bitch, are you trying to sabotage me? Do you even know what Sakura Club is?"

"Huh?" Still reeling from the unexpected assault, Lily stared at Jayden, dumbfounded.

Jayden bit off impatiently, “Sakura Club is the strongest power of the underworld forces with thousands of elite soldiers. Bob is Sakura Club’s second-in-command. I don’t have thousands under my power, I only have about eight hundred! You want me to break his legs? Do you want me to die a painful death?”

“I...” Lily was speechless. Sakura Club is that formidable? How could I be so clueless!

Jayden paid no heed to Lily. Instead, he glared challengingly at Alex. “Alex, you are a bold one. Do you have the guts to fight outside?”

If his men couldn’t come in, he had no choice but to goad Alex out of the club.

“Alex, let’s not go out.” Having heard Jayden’s men couldn't enter the club, Rose was relieved.

“Huh, if you don't want to go out, do you plan to stay in here forever?” Lily taunted, seeming to have recovered from her shock.

That's true. If they plan to wait outside for us indefinitely, hiding in here isn't the best option.

With that thought in her mind, Rose felt dread creeping up on her again.

Meanwhile, Whitney and Landon were gloating over his inevitable doom.

They were eager to witness Alex's humiliating defeat.

Dylan could tell Alex wasn't cowed by Jayden at all. However, the former's eyes still held a glimmer of concern for Alex's sake.

“What is there to be afraid of?” Alex countered easily, already getting up from the table to move outside.

Whitney and Landon’s eyes rounded with shock. Nobody could believe Alex had the guts in him, least of all Jayden.

Surely this fella is too reckless?

Fuming, Jayden stomped after Alex. He couldn’t wait to snap his legs in two. He could already anticipate how therapeutic that would feel.

Lily and the rest scurried after them, gloating.

Who knew this piece of trash is so prideful? Well, no matter, you are going to get what is coming for you now! Let’s see how arrogant you are after I break your legs!

“Alex, don’t be hasty!” Rose called out, scrambling after him with worry.

Jayden had so many goons on his side. Even if she were to believe Alex was a martial arts master, she still couldn’t imagine him winning against that many opponents.

Surely Alex has bitten off more than he can chew?

“Don’t worry, those deadbeats are nothing,” Alex assured her as he strode confidently down the stairs.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

As expected, hundreds of goons were lurking outside Sakura Club.

However, they were too afraid to enter with Bob and a few others guarding the front door.

“You guys are Jayden’s men, aren’t you? Do me a favor and take your brawls away from Sakura Club. Otherwise, I won’t hesitate to break your legs,” Bob threatened the men.

“Rest assured, we won’t fight here. The man we are about to fight is very cocky, he has already followed our boss out,” Tiger assured him hastily, radiating cooperation and amicability.

Bob nodded curtly and fell silent. He was rather curious to see the man who dared to piss off Jayden to the point where he had to call his men for backup.

At this instant, Jayden and Alex walked out of Sakura Club. Jayden smirked triumphantly when he saw his gang waiting for him. “Kid, do you see this? These are all my men. With a single gesture from me, they will charge forward to break your legs.”

“That’s right! Alex, maybe if you kneel and beg for forgiveness, I might consider intervening on your behalf. You know, for old times’ sake. Otherwise, prepare to face a lifetime of being a cripple,” Lily taunted, a sadistic gleam in her eyes.

“Alex, you should give up before it’s too late! Kneel and beg Jayden for forgiveness at once!” Landon urged, pretending to be concerned.

“That’s right, you have suffered humiliation before. Kneeling before Jayden should be no hardship for you,” Whitney mocked.

Confronted by the terrifying sight of the vicious gangsters, all blood drained out of Rose's face. She didn't have a clue on what to do next.

Alex drew out a cigarette and slipped it into his mouth as he stared at them tauntingly.

At this moment, a large, imposing figure strode over to light Alex's cigarette.

"Bob?"

Jayden's heart raced wildly.

What is going on? Why is Bob, the underworld's finest fighter, offering to light this live-in son-in-law's cigarette?

"Mr. Jefferson, when did you arrive? Why didn't you hit us up?” Bob quipped, evidently sucking up to Alex.

“Oh, I’ve been here for a while. I was just having a couple of drinks with my friends,” Alex answered conversationally.

“Who the hell are you?”

Lily glared disdainfully at Bob. “This piece of trash has insulted my honey, so you better get the hell away from him before my honey beats you up too!”

Jayden’s face turned pale at Lily’s thoughtless threat.

This brainless bitch! How dare she talk to Bob this way? Does she have a death wish?

He was so terrified he didn’t dare to utter another word.

“Mr. Jefferson, are these your friends?” Bob eyed Lily menacingly as he asked Alex.

Before Alex could speak, Lily was already rambling on with misplaced haughtiness. “Ha! How could this piece of trash be my friend?”

Alex grinned. “Hear that? She doesn’t want to be friends with me.”

Bob snorted, “This ignorant bitch doesn’t deserve to be your friend anyway.”

The moment he finished speaking, the good-natured smile on his face faded away, only to be replaced by the murderous scowl.

Suddenly, to the utter shock of everybody, Bob whacked Lily across the face with so much force she flew across the pavement.

All this time, Bob had been undergoing Charlie's intensive training. Under the latter's watchful eyes, he improved significantly, as was evident by his ease of flinging an over-a-hundred-pounds-Lily across a distance of three meters.

Bam!

She strewed across the floor like a broken doll.

It took a while for her to regain her senses.

"Honey, this scumbag has the audacity to hit me! Break his legs for me!" Lily was already wailing before she even got off the ground.

"Who is your honey? Jayden?" Bob scoffed.

Hearing that sinister question, terror struck Jayden's heart. He disassociated himself hastily from Lily.

“Bob, my brother, don’t listen to this bitch. I don’t know her at all!”

Boom!

Panic seized Lily’s brain.

Whitney and Landon stood there, gaping. Their faces a picture of disbelief.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 390

Jayden seems to be absolutely terrified of this man.
Who is he?

He seems to defer to Alex though, what is going on?

Landon and the rest were completely baffled. They couldn't make head or tail of the situation.

“Oh, really?” Bob chuckled sinisterly. “Then tell your men to break her legs.”

Lily didn't just express contempt toward Alex, she had even threatened to break his legs. There was no way he was gonna let her off the hook.

“Yes, Sir!” Jayden obeyed immediately. Gesturing at Tiger, he ordered, “Tiger, snap this crazy bitch's legs in two.”

What?

Jayden wants to break my legs?

Lily was in complete shock. How can this be?

“Honey, I’m not crazy! Don’t listen to this lying piece of shit!” Lily shrieked as her eyes skittered wildly in panic.

Murder filled Jayden’s eyes. With a flash, he grabbed Lily by the collar and gritted, “Open your damn eyes, woman. The piece of trash you are referring to is none other than the underworld forces’ second-in-command, Bob!”

“Wh-What? He is Bob?” Lily’s eyes went blind with sheer terror.

Earlier on, Jayden had told her all about Bob’s amazing feats. She couldn’t believe she just insulted

Bob, that Bob, in his face! Wasn't she flirting with death right now?

But why is he so obsequious toward Alex?

She wasn't the only one speculating over this matter; Jayden and Landon were scratching their heads over it as well.

At this moment, Tiger strode over. Jayden threw Lily carelessly down on the ground. Staring up at the steel pipe in Tiger's hand, Lily finally felt appropriately afraid. She clutched onto Jayden's legs, begging pathetically, "Honey, I was wrong. Please help me plea for mercy!"

Jayden threw a furtive glance at Bob but only saw the cold, unflinching face. With finality, he kicked Lily away and called out, "Beat her up!"

Tiger didn't hesitate one bit. He swung the metal pipe down Lily's legs with full might.

Landon and Whitney's legs started trembling uncontrollably at her howls.

The turn of events happened so quickly it couldn't register in their minds.

Rose, however, was dumbfounded. At the same time, she was overwhelmed with astonishment. What exactly just happened?

She wanted to demand answers from Alex, but considering the terrifying situation at hand, she didn't dare to open her mouth.

"Jayden, you coward, you called so many men just to beat up Mr. Jefferson?"

With Lily dealt with, Bob didn't bother to look at her anymore. Instead, his attention was now on Jayden.

The alliance between Bob and Alex hadn't registered in Jayden's mind yet.

However, he was puzzled over how deferential Bob was to Alex, who was just a live-in son-in-law. Why did Bob address him as Mr. Jefferson?

"Bob, this is a misunderstanding. Had I known Mr. Jefferson was an influential man, I wouldn't have the guts to provoke him!" Jayden explained hurriedly with a grimace.

Bang!

With a swing of his hand, Bob snarled, "Flynn and I are only here today because of Alex. How dare you pick a fight with him, and in Sakura Club at that?"

Boom!

This terrifying revelation struck Jayden. He didn't think Alex was such an important man.

Confusion was swirling inside Jayden. He was so sure Alex was just a live-in son-in-law.

Despite suffering a mortifying punch from Bob, Jayden didn't dare to retaliate. Instead, he lowered his head meekly like a child who was caught with his hand in the cookie jar.

"Mr. Jefferson, this bastard insulted you. Are you really gonna let that slide?" Bob asked Alex.

"Break his legs and disband Golden Pavilion Club," Alex replied dismissively, already heading to his car.

“Yes, boss.” Bob nodded in obedience at Alex’s retreating figure, before turning around to face Jayden.

“Jayden, do you want me to break those legs for you, or do you want to do it yourself?” Bob inquired, his tone as sharp and unyielding as an ice sword.

“Bob, I really didn’t know Mr. Jefferson is...” Jayden lifted his head pleadingly, his voice shaking.

Snorting, Bob didn’t bother with further chitchat. Without further warning, he brought his leg down brutally to kick Jayden’s right leg.

As a martial arts expert himself, Jayden would not take this lying down. He jumped up immediately to defend himself when he saw his incoming attack.

Bob let out a mocking laugh and slammed Jayden onto the ground as his leg came crushing down on Jayden's right leg.
