Chapter 391 Cody's breakdown

As if thinking of something, he instructed Chad, "Tell the National Investigation Bureau to arrest Aaron Barker immediately. I want to interrogate him myself."

"Huh?"

Chad didn't understand, "Bro, of three, Aaron didn't do anything out of the ordinary at all."

Malcolm insisted, "Arrest Aaron Barker. I won't say it again."

They all thought that those photos were taken on bed.

So someone must have moved Cody out of the bar to a nearby hotel, and then let some voluptuous women to come and pose.

But in fact, there was no complete bed on the photos. One could only see the white pillows and covers.

When a normal person saw this kind of photo for the first time, he or she would think it was a photo in bed.

He looked down at Lyra who was in his arms, choosing to tell her first of any thoughts he had.

"Rara, those photos on the internet are probably no bed photos. They may be taken in the room at the bar."

"When I just checked the surveillance, I noticed that all the people who entered and left the room 3805 left one after another after 2:00 a.m. last night."

"And Aaron left just after 7:30 as if nothing had happened. And in the missing half hour in between, he should call those voluptuous girls to pose."

Cody was going to blow up again after hearing this analysis.

"Aaron, he's usually humble and reasonable. And he has done good deeds in front of us, but I didn't expect him to be so scheming! Hurry up and catch him! I'll have to kill him myself!"

Seeing that Cody blew up but can only vent his anger to the air first, Lyra helplessly shook her head and laughed.

"I advise you to think about how to word the explanation with grandpa. Your phone is off. He has not been able to find you. It's estimated he's still angry. If you can't make him get over it, you're ready to be killed."

Cody suddenly shivered. He just got beaten by the belt and his body seemed to hurt again.

If he went back to the Carver family, he would be screwed up and only death awaited him.

Cody walked towards him in anger and went up to him with a fierce punch, using his full strength.

Aaron wailed and was knocked to the ground.

"Bastard, I'm not too mean to you, am I!?"

"The year before, that son of bitch of Combs family kissed your then girlfriend. It was me who brought people to help you out. Afterwards, I was beaten by my grandfather. I stayed in the bed for three days. have I complained about you?"

"You're going to ruin my career and my life! Where exactly did I wrong you!?"

The more he talked, the angrier Cody became and he grabbed Aaron by the collar, lifted him up and punched him more times, specifically on the face.

Aaron's face was soon bloody and his blood was dripping from the corners of his mouth.

Lyra and Malcolm watched from a distance and did not obstruct.

It wasn't until Aaron could hardly stand it that Malcolm spoke up to stop it, "That's enough. Chad, take Mr. Cody away."

Chad immediately stepped forward and held Cody's arm from behind, forcibly dragging him away.

Cody was still not satisfied and kicked to Aaron's waist.

Aaron cried out in pain. He did not raise his eyes. His expression looked painful, and every now and then came the sound of inhaling.

Perhaps he was ashamed of being beaten up so hard, so he didn't say a word in rebuttal.

Lyra watched him quietly for a moment, observing all his expressions.

"Aaron, I can see that you have guilt in your heart towards Cody. You should not be the mastermind of this incident. Someone made you do it, didn't they?"

Aaron kept his head down and didn't say anything.

Chapter 393 Someone's in trouble

One hour later.

Various hot opinions about Cody on the internet were subjected to a round of cleansing.

The National Investigation Bureau's official notice of punishment clarified for Cody that he was just drunk and was taken advantage of to take photos to blackmail money.

Fans of Cody online saw this message and instantly became strong-willed.

"I told you my Cody would never do such a thing! Those people are just jealous of my Cody's popularity!"

"Thanks for returning my Cody's innocence. Those trollers who do not know the truth and still take the side, come out and apologize!"

Lyra was sitting in the car back to Lyre Spiti. She was checking her phone for new headlines and was pleased with the way the incident had petered out.

Thinking of the old Mr. Carver, Lyra made a phone call personally the next day just after she arrived at Angle Group.

She persuaded him in various methods.

She also used her job as the Angle Group's agent as an excuse, and said that Cody's schedule was full recently, so she was afraid Cody won't be able to return to Frayton for a while.

The old Mr. Carver couldn't beat him anyone, so he had to give up.

After dealing with the recent difficult matters at hand, Lyra leaned back in her chair and let out a long breath.

But she relaxed her thoughts for just two seconds and soon continued to be on high alert again.

Tomorrow, she would return to the Lloyd Manor. Not knowing what unknown things awaited her, she must do some early preparation.

With that in mind, she called Micah.

The call was quickly answered.

The old man in the bed was peaceful, calm and unresponsive.

Lyra knew there was no way he would react.

Micah gave a diagnosis that could not be wrong.

However, she just wasn't willing to accept it and wanted to make sure.

The tip of her nose was sore and unbearable. Her eyes became watery, and the intense sadness overwhelmed her. Her tears dripped uncontrollably onto the back of her hand.

"They are simply not human!"

She whispered. Her eyes gradually looked ruthless.

In order to get the inheritance from her, this person did such bad deeds to her father.

This time, even if it was her blood relative, someone she loved or revered, she would never forgive that person!

"Dad, don't worry. I will give you an account for this matter. No matter who did it, I won't let them go off!"

Lyra stroked the back of his hand and rested her head on his arm. Her tears were flowing silently into her hair. And she could remember Reginald had given her so much fatherly love all the years.

"Miss Lyra."

Douglas stood by the door and knocked carefully, "Your brothers have arrived. Everything is in place."

"Okay, I'll be there soon."

She controlled her voice, which was so sad that it trembled slightly, and tried to speak calmly. Then she wiped the tears off her face.

Douglas was about to turn around and go downstairs when he was caught off guard that he heard Lyra ask in a whisper, "Douglas, has any of my brothers gotten into an argument with my dad recently?"

Keith was momentarily dumbfounded and could only look to Micah, "Micah, can you?"

Micah got up, got the test report on the coffee table and carefully examined it.

At the end of the report, it was written, "the parent-child relationship is not supported", along with the official seal of Suham Hopevale General Hospital and the signature of the president.

"The president of Hopevale General Hospital is Mr. Hall. He is my teacher. He has always had a good relationship with dad. He personally signed it ... It can't be false."

It was not false?

These words hit Keith and Kathleen's hearts hard.

Claudia was delighted and did not hide her feelings at all.

Lyra didn't pay any attention to the paternity test. She just looked at Collin, who was on the main couch and had deep eyes and didn't say anything.

"Collin, you don't seem surprised. You already knew it?"

Collin: "Not really early to know. After dad's accident, I'm the first to arrive. I immediately looked up the cause and knew it at most a few hours earlier than you."

Lyra watched everyone's expressions, "Micah has identified the signature of Mr. Hall is not false. So everyone believes I am not the daughter of the family?"

Her mom was devoted to her husband. Although Lyra didn't know exactly where this paternity test came from, she believed in her mom.

Her mom could not betray dad and do such a thing to her dad when he was on a business trip.

No matter how much Ethel had said, she wouldn't believe a word of it.

Once again, the hall fell into a deathly silence.

Keith took the test report into his hands and read it carefully twice in disbelief.

However, after reading it, he began to have a hint of uncertainty as well.

Collin sighed and arranged the follow-up in a heavy tone, "Keep it quiet for now. And cancel the inheritance signing first."

"Micah, focus on dad's illness during this period. Nurse dad's health. Even if there is only a slight chance of surgery, as long as it is not particularly risky, we should try to wake up dad as soon as possible."

Malcolm laughed and snorted lightly. And he glanced sharply and sarcastically at her, "Are you trying to say you will replace her? But you, are you worthy?"

Ethel's face turned completely cold.

"Mr. Malcolm, I hope that when Lyra's identity as an illegitimate daughter is made public, you will also choose to marry her with determination, regardless of the fact that White Corp's stock will plummet."

She smiled and gave a condescending laugh. Then she turned her head and walked away.

Chad watched her back as she got in a car and left. He spat and gritted his teeth, "As if she isn't an illegitimate daughter herself!"

"Oh my temper! Why the hell does she have to be so supercilious?"

"Keira is also only nineteen years old, but her scheming seems cute. Why is Ethel so disgusting!?"

Chad was indignant and cursed for a long time, struggling to quell his anger.

Malcolm just let him do so and calmly helped Lyra arrange, "For Rara and Clark's paternity test, I'll leave it to you to handle. Make sure it is done properly."

"Yes, bro, don't worry!"

Chad responded and immediately headed into the visiting room.

After the command, Malcolm carried Lyra carefully to the back seat of the car.

Chad went out to run an errand, but this time he went out to pick up Lyra, and Malcolm made a point of bringing a driver to drive.

On the way, Malcolm was holding Lyra in his arms while using his laptop, seemingly on official business.

However, Lyra's eyes opened the moment when she got in the car.

"Okay, wash board and ruler stand by for you."

Lyra was amused by him. The sadness half an hour ago completely fade away in his a gentle reassurance.

Her whole heart seems to be immersed in a honey pot, which was so sweet that she can not help but smile.

Malcolm took her hand, decisively put that ring on her and continued, "Wear my diamond ring and be my woman."

"Rara, you can't escape in your lifetime."

He cupped her hand. His soft and thin lips gently kissed the back of her hand. Then he got up and carried her on his arms.

"Wait."

Lyra looked at the green roses under the tree, "Can't waste such beautiful flowers. Why don't we have the bodyguards cut them and put them in vases in each room?"

"It's up to you."

He lowered his head, kissed her on the mouth and went inside the villa.

Lyra was still asking, "Why did you buy the green roses? And, don't you hate green? This is the first time I've seen green flowers for a proposal."

"The green rose is unique, just like you. Its flower language is evergreen love and forever. But ..."

Malcolm leaned in close to her ear, "Actually, it's mostly because you like green."

His voice was seductive in the extreme.

Lyra couldn't help but kiss his thin lips. Their breathing intertwined, and they indulged in the pampering they gave each other.

As for inheritance, paternity test and illegitimate daughter, they should all get lost. She would only think about them tomorrow!

Chapter 398 the Lloyd family is having a return party

Lyra's eyes instantly went cold.

She smiled sarcastically as she remembered what happened yesterday at the Lloyd Manor.

"Even you don't believe this test, my brothers who have loved me for more than twenty years believe it. It's really ridiculous to think about it."

"As for your advice about having Micah come here", the sarcasm of her tone intensified, "he is the first to believe it when he saw the report with the president's signature yesterday."

Now throughout the Lloyds, she trusted no one.

Irene was secretly released and went to her opening ceremony. Before she left, she yelled at her and taunted, "The one in your family has been pretending to be an innocent sheep around you for so long. I'm really looking forward to the day when you see his true face!"

"It must be hard to be betrayed by the one you love so much! Lyra Lloyd! I'm waiting for the day when you know the truth and fall apart!"

Previously, she thought that Irene was slandering Malcolm.

Now when she thought about it, which brother should she be mentioning?

At the thought of this, Lyra was bitterly disappointed to the extreme.

Malcolm was once again deep in thought.

He had only heard about yesterday's incident at the Lloyd Manor from Lyra.

However, with his previous contact with several brothers, he felt that they were not such stupid people. It was impossible for them not to think through these doubtful things.

Especially Micah.

Micah was usually quiet and didn't show his emotions on his face. And he was the most scheming one among his brothers.

Although Micah said little, the doting on Lyra was no more than Collin and Keith.

If he didn't really love Lyra, Micah wouldn't have gone to all the trouble of giving him problems and making him experience the pain of childbirth to feel the pain that Lyra would suffer in the future because of him.

And Micah and Keith personally went to prepare the three glasses of wine.

Malcolm's tone sounded calm. What should come always had to come. But if Lyra knew it, she would probably feel unhappy for a while ...

Thinking about this, he immediately instructed Chad, "Call Keira over and have her accompany Rara on her pregnancy test. Don't say anything more to Rara."

"Yes."

Chad immediately took out his phone and messaged Keira.

Within two minutes, Keira came up from the garage.

She was Chad's little follower. Chad was busy with various investigations these days. Keira had to follow all the way every time, and then obediently wait in the car for him.

Once Keira arrived, Malcolm looked serious and instructed her in a serious manner, "If Rara asks later, tell her that White Corp had an urgent business and I need to go the office."

"Oh, okay."

After the arrangement, Malcolm immediately left with Chad.

The two of them returned to the White Manor in a short time.

Malcolm lowered his head and quietly thought about something the whole way.

When he reached the door of the hall, he instructed Chad again, "When I come out of the hall later, don't send me back to Lyre Spiti but your villa first for applying medicine."

Applying medicine?

Chad felt horrified to hear that.

So, was Malcolm thinking that if he entered the hall today, there must be something bad?

While he was frozen in place, Malcolm had already gone inside, leaving him with a still-cold and arrogant back.

Chad looked at the solemn entrance of the ancestral hall and suddenly felt that the place was so appalling.

He was really afraid that something might happen to Malcolm, so he quietly sent a message to Keira before following him in.

Keira, who was sitting in the hospital's waiting room, saw the message and forced her way into the pregnancy test room.

At the door, there was a gentle smile on Lyra's delicate face. Her chest was rising and falling incessantly, which was caused by a violent gasp after a wild running.

The old White froze and didn't say anything.

Albert immediately reacted and went around to the old White and pleaded, "Dad, Miss Lyra is involved in this matter. Please don't leave first. We can listen to what she has to say first. Maybe there is something that we don't know?"

Lyra smiled with curved eyebrows. Her face was extremely pleasing to the elders.

The old White stared at her and agreed.

Malcolm, who was still kneeling on one knee in the middle of the hall, actually had no confidence to be able to endure the punishment.

All his attention was focused on his back. He was concentrating on waiting to the pain, so he didn't even hear Lyra's voice at the door.

He had been waiting for a while. What fell on his back was not the harsh and vicious whip of the family rule, the shirt and suit that he had just taken off and rested on his shoulders instead.

The woman's slender but warm fingers helped him put on his clothes tightly to cover his muscular and tanned upper body.

He looked up and saw Lyra's eyes, which were implicitly displeased.

"Why are you here?"

Lyra suppressed her upset feelings and pulled him up, "If I don't come over, are you going to keep me in the dark again, like that time in Frayton?"

Malcolm bowed his head, and was unable to explain.

He just ... didn't want to worry her.

As soon as the punishment was over, the matter of shares would be over.

She had enough to worry about lately, and he didn't want to add to her troubles.

How could Lyra not know what he was thinking?

But she just got a little angry and whispered at him, "If you like to get beaten so much, I can satisfy you when you get back! But Malcolm, no one can touch you except me!"
