

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 461

Alex spent the whole day making the pills.

After Autumn and Lexa finished arranging the ingredients, they stood to one side and watched Alex as he worked.

They were pretty much watching for fun though.

After all, the layman enjoys the show while the connoisseur recognizes the artistry.

They were both pretty much clueless about traditional Chinese medicine, let alone something as advanced as alchemy.

They both still watched for their own personal reasons despite their cluelessness.

Flynn had ordered lunch to be brought to them. Happy Living wasn't too far away from here, but he knew how occupied Alex was whenever he made pills. There was no way he could leave to eat, so food had to be brought to him.

After setting the table, they started eating in the pharmacy itself.

“We sold all those Pills of Regeneration you made last time. Maybe you should make some more,” Flynn suggested with a smile.

“How much were they sold for?” Alex asked.

“One million per pill. They were pretty popular, actually.” Flynn chuckled.

One million per pill?

The ladies at the table were taken aback. These pills sure make a lot of money.

“If those regular pills can sell for a million per pill, then this Pill of Longevity would probably sell for tens, maybe hundreds of millions,” Alex said in shock.

This Pill of Longevity he was currently making could add about ten years to one’s life. They might even sell for a billion if marketed to CEOs and chairmen.

Alex was a bit new to the market.

“Of course. Even if it only added one extra year of life, it would still sell for maybe fifty million, let alone ten years,” Flynn replied.

Ten years of life?

Autumn and Lexa's eyes widened. This is practically magic!

"Mr. J-Jefferson, did you just say this pill of yours can add ten years to someone's life?" Autumn asked excitedly.

She finally understood why her own father was so in awe of Mr. Jefferson and even willing to use her to bridge the gap between them.

"Yeah. How much do you think a Pill of Longevity would sell for?" Alex asked curiously.

Since Autumn's grandfather owned a herb pharmacy business, he felt like Autumn would know some things about the market as well.

"If it really can add ten years of life, then it can sell for 500 million or even a billion!” Autumn said confidently.

“Are pills really that expensive these days?” Alex asked with a surprised chuckle.

“Of course, Master! Even an expert such as my grandfather doesn’t know alchemy. This skill of yours is probably incomparable. You don’t know how many people out there want to buy pills that you created, and yet, there’s no market for it yet,” Auriel answered.

“I see.” Alex nodded. He had learned alchemy from the Nine Heaven Scrolls, and it was understandable that the knowledge of such old scrolls had gotten lost over time.

He looked at Flynn and said, “I can make some, but I’ll only be able to start tomorrow or the day after.”

Pills of Regeneration were just normal recovery pills.

Its ingredients weren't hard to find apart from the main ingredient, which had to be over a hundred years old.

Autumn had sent plenty of herbs that were well over a hundred years old, so he could use those to make Pills of Regeneration and other similar recovery pills.

"Okay, take your time," Flynn said.

Last time, he had earned about forty million or so with the pills Alex had given him.

Autumn and Lexa were pretty envious, but that was all they could do.

After lunch, Alex continued making pills. Autumn watched until it was rather late in the afternoon. When she saw that Alex was still teaching Auriel as he made the pills, she said her goodbyes and left.

Lexa waited until late at night and only left once she took the Pill of Vitality Alex had just made. She handed Alex an old book after she took the pill.

Alex asked her to stay, but Lexa turned him down straightaway.

Chapter 462

Alex had been refining pills for two days straight.

Making elixirs consumed a lot of mental strength. Furthermore, he had to teach Auriel Skyworth while creating the elixirs. His body and mind were both exhausted.

However, as a Master in martial arts, all he had to do was to regulate his internal energy and his fatigue would dissipate.

He had managed to refine quite a few pills in the past two days. The Pill of Cultivation made him feel the most accomplished.

Although he only managed to make 2 batches, it would still significantly improve his skills and mastery.

Alex then picked up the phone and called Maggie, Stefan, Tyrael, and the others. He then told them that the pills that they wanted were ready, and instructed them to go to Happy Living tomorrow afternoon to collect them.

After receiving Alex's call, most of them felt beyond excited. The elixir was a miraculous medicine that could be considered equivalent to an extra life. They were overwhelmed with joy.

The next day, Alex set up a banquet at Happy Living.

Everyone had reached the place early to personally meet the renowned Alex.

It was the weekend and Alex did not have to send his son to school, so he slept in for a few more hours.

Because he had been training rigorously, it had been a while since he managed to get a good night's sleep.

At a little past eleven, he got up to make food for Stanley. Seeing that Carmen was home too, he let Stanley and Carmen go outside to play.

The incident of Alex causing Susan's death might have cast a shadow over Carmen's heart, because for the past few days, Carmen's attitude towards Alex had changed tremendously. She seemed to treat Stanley better too, and occasionally brought him out to play.

After that, he made his way to Happy Living.

Alex had just stopped his car when he saw Maggie, Stefan, Autumn, Tyrael, Auriel, and the others waiting to welcome him at the entrance.

Such a big occasion naturally drew the curiosity of other customers.

However, after taking one look at Alex's car, they understood.

Seeing Alex walk over, everybody bowed politely and greeted him, "Welcome, Mr. Jefferson!"

Alex took a glance at the crowd and laughed. “You guys came so early. When did you all arrive?”

Stefan chuckled. “It’s rare for Mr. Jefferson to organize a gathering, so of course we have to arrive early! It’s a form of respect to you, too.”

Maggie smiled and said, “That’s right. Moreover, you refined pills for all of us! Of course we have to come early.”

Maggie had deliberately dressed up for today’s lunch. She donned an elegant and noble black dress with the tulle outlining her curves. However, it did not seem flirtatious and instead looked uniquely charming.

Her seductive figure was on par with her refined and delicate facial features, all of which vividly expressed her aura.

Alex could not help but take a second look. Maggie really looked especially pretty today.

At that moment, Autumn walked over to Alex with a cherry-red face and curtsied, which made her seem like a young and humble country beauty.

Autumn was originally unsociable and distant, but after she got to know Alex, the smile on her face seemed to resemble flowers that bloomed during spring, which made her look modest and gentle.

She glanced at Alex as a tinge of red appeared on her cheeks.

Upon seeing this, a look of surprise flashed across Maggie's eyes.

As a woman, she could feel Autumn's sincerity towards Alex, which made her develop a sense of hostility.

Whether it was her family status, her own selfishness or her constant arrogance, she felt that she and Alex would make a perfect match.

Even though she already knew that Alex had a family, she was always thinking of ways to snatch him away.

As a woman of her status, her view towards relationships and marriage was something that no other ordinary woman could understand.

Relationships and marriage were no longer purely out of love.

Alex pretended not to understand Maggie's and Autumn's intentions and smiled instead. "I've always been an easy-going person. It's not like we just met a few days ago, so feel free to be at ease, too."

Once he finished speaking, Auriel freely held his hand and said smiling, "Master, you're finally here! I even skipped my breakfast so that I could eat with you."

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 463

Auriel's sudden appearance managed to break the awkwardness between Maggie and Autumn. Alex and Auriel made their way in together.

Everyone else smiled a little before hurriedly catching up.

Alex had instructed Flynn to prepare the King Chambers. Once Alex arrived, the dishes were served.

He had specially invited these people and prepared the King Chambers for them. He felt that since they respected him a lot, he should not be stingy.

But of course, even if he had invited these big shots to eat street food, they would still be happy all the same.

The liquor prepared for that day was Nebula City's most famous hundred-year wine, which was sold for over fifty thousand in the market. On occasions, one wouldn't be able to get their hands on it even if they had the money.

The dishes that were served were also Happy Living's best delicacies. Everything on the table would amount to over a million.

Only the true big shots could get to eat such a grand meal.

Alex was a person who valued courtesy and etiquette. Although Stefan and the others respected him as a god, he would not see himself as a god for real.

There had to be basic trust and respect between people, especially when it came to big shots from their status.

Maggie made her move quickly and sat on Alex's right side.

Upon seeing this, Stefan quickly smiled and said, "Mr. Jefferson, Autumn has admired you since a long time ago. Why not you let her sit on your left to serve you?”

Autumn blushed furiously. Just as she was about to take her seat beside Alex, Auriel suddenly grinned and sat down. Feeling awkward, Autumn had no choice but to sit beside Auriel.

“Serving? As his disciple, of course it’s my job to do so!” Auriel said while smiling.

“Of course, of course,” Stefan responded, smiling back.

“Take a seat, everyone. Don’t stand on ceremony,” Alex said.

Everyone waited for Alex to sit down first before they did; this was also a form of respect for Alex.

After everyone took their seats, Auriel poured a drink for Alex. Everyone else also filled their cups.

Alex raised his glass and said, “It’s fate for us to meet in Nebula City. I am humbled that you all favor and respect me as who I am. Dr. Skyworth’s granddaughter here is my only disciple. Ms. Grant and the Jones family are also important partners to me in my tech dome project. In fact, we are all one big family. I hope that we can all continue to work well together. I don’t want to be too long-winded. So, here’s to all of you!”

Alex raised his wine glass to the air and downed it in one go.

Stefan and the others hurriedly raised their glasses and gulped down their wine too, not wanting to show disrespect to Mr. Jefferson.

Among them, Maggie was a lightweight when it came to drinking. Furthermore, the glass was filled with whisky. She coughed as the alcohol burned her throat.

“S-Sorry...” Maggie’s expression turned awkward and her face was red as a ripe apple. She did not dare to look at Alex.

Upon seeing this, Alex said to the waiter, “Bring me a cup of ‘82 Lafite.”

The waiter hurriedly informed him, “Alex, the 82’ Lafite is sold out. There are still two bottles left from yesterday but they’re all reserved by Felix.”

“Mr. Jefferson, there’s no need. I drank too quickly just now and I’m not used to whisky’s taste. I’ll be okay after a few more drinks,” Maggie quickly interrupted.

“Don’t worry about it. The purpose of drinking is to have fun and it doesn’t matter what kind of alcohol you drink. If you don’t like whisky, you can have red wine instead.”

Alex smiled and turned to the waiter again. “Please bring out the best red wine you have.”

“Sure! Coming right up,” the waiter responded before leaving to get the wine.

Maggie looked at Alex gratefully as warmth filled her heart.

Stefan and the others started to offer Alex a toast. They knew that Alex could hold his liquor and did not worry about him getting drunk.

After countless rounds of drinking, Alex finally got down to business and talked about their formal matters.

It was the elixir that everyone cared most about.

He took out a few bottles of pills while everyone's eyes sparkled with delight.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 464

“These bottles contain pills that I have made over the past two days, and also the elixir that I have promised all of you,” Alex said as he pointed at the bottles.

Everyone immediately became enthusiastic. The reason they came today was for the elixir and they were beyond eager to see it with their own eyes.

Alex opened the bottle and poured the pills out onto a clean cloth. Followed by a thick medical scent, ten yellow pills tumbled out.

Auriel and Maggie, who were seated beside Alex, took in the scent of the pills and immediately felt a sense of relaxation and ease.

Alex looked at the crowd and said, “Everybody, it is not exaggerated to say that these pills are divine medicine. Because at this current moment, it is indeed equivalent to divine medicine.

“Is it really divine medicine?”

Everyone was so excited that they were speechless.

At first, they simply wanted Alex to make them normal, ordinary pills. To their surprise, he had made them pills that were equivalent to divine medicine.

Suddenly, Alex spoke up again, “The pills I made are one-of-a-kind. Even if you use the best technology out there, you will not be able to make this. I can’t say that my pills can revive the dead or make the living immortal, but they can make you healthy and strong, prolong your lives and cure all sorts of illnesses. And when you’re at death’s door, as long as you are still breathing, just take my pill and you will live on. Five or ten more extra years will not be a problem. You must be careful with these pills, and don’t take them all at once.”

Everyone could not contain their awe. The pills made this time are this divine?

The pills that Alex had poured out were the Pills of Longevity.

The main purpose of the Pill of Longevity was to help Richard, but just one was enough for him.

Furthermore, he could not consume all of it at once or his body would not be able to take it.

The Pill of Longevity was made in one batch which consisted of exactly 10 pills. His plan was to give Richard 4 pills. After all, Richard was the one who provided him the main ingredient of the Pill of Longevity- Wild Thousand-Year Ginseng.

For the remaining seven pills, one pill would be given to Stefan, one to Tyrael, and he would keep the last four for himself.

The crowd gawked at the sparkling, yellow-colored pills and suddenly felt anxious.

Among all of them, Tyrael Skyworth was the eldest and the most excited.

After hearing what Alex said, he could no longer maintain his indifference as he was a divine physician himself.

He was always ill. Previously when he treated Richard, he was unable to perform the acupuncture personally and could only guide Auriel to do it.

His incurable illness had constantly caused him a torturous amount of pain over the past few years.

If what Alex said was true, these sparkling, pure, medicine-scented divine pills could completely cure him of his illness.

Of course this made him lose his steady and calm composure as a divine physician.

Maggie was incredibly excited as well.

She had always believed that Alex was a true divine physician. She had previously invited Alex to help treat her grandfather's illness.

Alex had said that he wanted to make a Pill of Longevity for her grandfather and that just one pill could prolong his life by ten years.

Although she did not doubt Alex, it did sound a little absurd.

Seeing that Alex really managed to make the Pill of Longevity made her look at him under a different light.

The Grant family could not afford to lose this grandfather of hers. It would be the best news to them if he could really live for another ten years.

As for Stefan, Alex had already promised to give him at least one pill. For that, Stefan was eternally grateful.

Alex turned to look at the crowd and casually said, “I’m not trying to brag, but illnesses that modern medicine cannot fix- such as diabetes, kidney failure, lung cancer and other malignant diseases- all these can be cured with this pill.”

What? It can even cure cancer! !!

The crowd was no longer calm. Everyone was shocked!

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 465

Although the few illnesses that Alex named were very common, they were serious diseases that modern-day medicine could not cure.

Even if one went overseas, they still would not be able to find a cure.

This was especially so for cancer. There was no country in the world that could cure it completely.

It was the same for diabetes. It was termed as the most persistent illness because it was extremely torturous and there was no medicine that could cure it.

However, one elixir from Alex and those illnesses would be cured.

It was a medical miracle!

Everyone present, including Tyrael Skyworth who was a legend in Traditional Chinese Medicine, could not help but exclaim out loud. Alex was a true divine physician and his abilities were simply out of this world!

Autumn's eyes gleamed and her face was as red as burning fire. She could not help but think: Mr. Jefferson really makes my heart flutter. I must not let go of this opportunity.

Auriel looked at her master in admiration. Seeing others admire her master so much made her feel proud.

Maggie's face was also in a shade of bright crimson, partially due to the wine.

However, as she stared at Alex, her eyes overflowed with splendor. Like a wife looking up to her husband and taking in his greatness, she was beaming with pride and happiness.

After he saw everybody's yearning gaze, Alex laughed and said, "Alright, I'll stop rambling and distribute the pills as promised."

Everybody nodded with full of anticipation.

"These four Pills of Longevity are for Ms. Grant," said Alex as he poured out four pills from the porcelain bottle and passed them to Maggie.

"Thank you, Mr. Jefferson!" Maggie hastily received the pills with both hands in much excitement.

“Remember, your grandfather can only take one pill. It must be cut into two halves and be taken separately- the second should only be taken a month later. Otherwise, he will not be able to withstand the strength of the medicine.

“Okay,” Maggie nodded.

Seeing that Maggie took four out of the ten pills, Stefan and the others were extremely envious.

Seeing this, Alex smiled. “The reason why I gave Maggie four pills is because the Wild Thousand-Year Ginseng, which is the main herb of the Pill of Longevity, was provided by Richard. If you guys are able to find a Wild Thousand-Year Ginseng, I can make more Pills of Longevity for you.”

“The Wild Thousand-Year Ginseng is so rare. I’ve searched for it for more than ten years and have never ever seen one,” said Tyrael as he shook his head.

Upon hearing this, Stefan rubbed his hands together. He should go to his father-in-law’s place to see if he had it.

However, he bet that he would not be able to find any.

“This one is for Dr. Skyworth. You also have cut them in half. Just one half will be able to get rid of all of your illnesses.” Alex took out one Pill of Longevity and gave it to Tyrael.

Tyrael hurriedly took them. His hands trembled because of his overwhelming excitement.

“Thank you so much, Dr. Jefferson!” said Tyrael in a shaky voice. He had been waiting for too long for this cure.

As he spoke, he broke the Pill of Longevity into half and swallowed one half of it.

Everybody stared at Tyrael in anticipation, hoping to see a miracle happen.

After a few minutes of taking the Pill of Longevity, his complexion and skin immediately became livelier. He also started to sweat excessively.

Tyrael felt as if there was a magical, warm current flowing through his body.

His body was like one that had gone through years of drought, with uneven cracks that had formed on the skin surface. However, this warm current was like gentle, purifying water which quickly filled in the cracks and nourished his skin.

He could even feel his old, ghastly wounds healing!
He could not help but widen his eyes in disbelief.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 466

“Mr. Jefferson, this... this is amazing! This illness of mine has been bugging me for decades! I can’t believe I’m completely healed now in just a matter of minutes!” Tyrael exclaimed as hot tears poured down his cheeks.

All these years, he had been suffering severely from a lingering illness, and life had been unbearably painful. He couldn’t heal the sick or save lives personally, and had to live with the risk of not knowing when he would die.

The only thing that had comforted him was his granddaughter, Auriel.

It was fortunate that Auriel had not let him down. Otherwise, he himself wouldn't have a reason to persist living on.

But now, half of Alex's Pill of Longevity had completely healed him.

It was simply a miracle that no words could describe.

Tyrael got to his knees and wept bitterly, "You're my savior, Mr. Jefferson. If you don't mind, I will put everything down just to follow you, whether if it means climbing a mountain of swords or plunging into a sea of flames. I'm at your service, Mr. Jefferson!"

No one could comprehend what Tyrael was feeling at this moment.

Seeing the miraculous recovery of Tyrael, everyone was all the more impressed with the elixir that Alex had invented.

The Pill of Longevity was simply priceless. Once it was in your possession, you wouldn't sell it for any amount of money.

When Alex saw how emotional Tyrael was, he quickly got up and walked over to help him up. "I appreciate the thought, Mr. Skyworth. But you're an elder after all. You don't have to be so polite with me."

Alex was really uncomfortable with the respect he was receiving from this old man in his sixties.

Tyrael, who was helped to his feet, said hastily,
“That’s a must, Mr. Jefferson. You’re my savior...”

“But I’m just Auriel’s master and you’re her grandfather,” Alex smiled. “You’re still an elder to me.”

Tyrael shook his head. “That doesn’t matter.”

Alex held his tongue, seeing that he couldn’t argue against Tyrael’s stubbornness. He gave Tyrael a faint smile and returned to his seat again.

Then he gave a Pill of Longevity to Stefan and said, “Mr. Jones, this is the elixir that I’ve promised you. I’m sure you’re aware of what it’s capable of, so I’m not going to go much further into it. Cherish it. No one can say for sure if I can make such an elixir again in the future.”

Stefan accepted the Pill of Longevity and nodded fervently. “I got it. I won’t take it unless it’s absolutely essential. Thank you so much, Mr. Jefferson.”

Alex nodded, and after distributing the Pills of Longevity, he took out another bottle- the Pills of Vitality.

As there were many people selling alligator innards in the black market and Flynn had also made his purchase from them, Alex was able to make two stoves of Pills of Vitality.

The Pill of Vitality wasn’t as potent as the Pill of Longevity, but it was more effective than the latter to martial artists.

Not only could it repair bones and heal wounds, but it could also quickly repair a broken Energy Field, giving the wounded martial artists the chance to train again.

The Pill of Longevity and the Pill of Vitality had their own strengths. While the medicinal properties of the former focused on prolonging life and treating chronic diseases, the latter focused on treating scleroderma, such as broken bones.

After explaining the properties of the Pill of Vitality to the crowd, Alex gave Maggie two pills and said, “Here’s two for you. One for Deckard to cure his illness, and one to keep for his own use.”

“Okay! Thank you so much, Mr. Jefferson!” Maggie exclaimed with her eyes full of gratitude.

“I heard you’re also a martial artist, so these three are for you,” Alex said to Autumn, taking out three more pills and giving them to her. “Don’t misuse them because they can save your life at the most critical moment and allow you to train as a martial artist. Oh right, as I’ve said yesterday, give one to your grandfather's family as well, so that they can travel further and longer to collect herbs.”

“Okay. Thank you, Mr. Jefferson!” Autumn was so thrilled that her hands trembled, and she didn't know what else to say.

“And these are yours,” Alex smiled while packing up the remaining five pills and giving them to Auriel.

“Train and study well. Don't let your grandfather down.”

“Yes, master! I'll do my best!” Auriel nodded with determination.

After giving away the elixir, Alex asked everyone to continue with the banquet when Maggie suddenly handed him a key to a luxury car.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 467

“Mr. Jefferson, this Bugatti Hermes Special Edition is on display tomorrow at the Nebula International Auto Show. I’ve already placed an order in advance and it can be collected tomorrow.” Maggie gave the smart bracelet key to Alex.

An ordinary Bugatti cost about twenty million, but a Bugatti Hermes Special Edition cost double the price. It was the king of luxury cars and there was only one in Nebula City and that belonged to Maggie.

Everyone was a little surprised at Maggie’s generous offer.

Alex wanted to refuse as he was contented with his R8. A Bugatti sports car was too conspicuous for a low-profile person like him.

But on second thought, he nodded and accepted it, lest Maggie overthink.

“Mr. Jefferson, this is the key to a hilltop villa at Mount Blossom. The house is ready and you can move in any time. It’s just a little gift from me. Please, you must accept this, Mr. Jefferson,” Stefan chimed in as he quickly took out a set of keys.

The hilltop villa on Mount Blossom was a single-family mansion. It covered a wide area and was worth about fifty million.

Seeing that Stefan was being so generous as well, Maggie couldn’t help but cock an eyebrow as a tinge of animosity rose from the depth of her heart.

The Jones family is competing with me. Autumn wants Alex for herself!

“I’m really sorry, Dr. Jefferson,” Tyrael piped up in embarrassment after seeing the luxurious gifts Maggie and Stefan had presented. “I do have a few antiques, but none of them are with me now. I...”

“Don’t compete with them, Dr. Skyworth,” Alex smiled as he waved his hands. “The herbs that you gave me that day are priceless. I should be the one to thank you.”

“As long as you think it’s useful, I’ll send them to you if I were to come across any medicine of such quality in the future, Dr. Jefferson,” Tyrael beamed.

Alex nodded. “Sure. And I’ll keep you in mind whenever I make my elixirs.”

“Thank you very much, Dr. Jefferson,” said Tyrael quickly.

Alex looked at the car key, then the key to the hilltop villa. “Please don’t gift me with such fancy things in the future,” he said with a smile. “But I’d appreciate it if you’d spend that money on getting me the best herbs.”

Maggie and Stefan nodded hastily, while Stefan said, “Don’t worry, Mr. Jefferson. My father-in-law is engaged in the herbs business. I’ll ask him to watch out and save the best herbs for me and I’ll make sure to offer him a good price for it.”

“Mr. Jefferson, I’ll be sure to place the highest bid the next time someone auctions a high-quality herb,” Maggie added.

Alex nodded. They are not short of money, anyway. It doesn't matter if I get their help in finding me the best herbs. I'll just repay them by giving them more good medicine when the time comes.

"All right. Let's eat," Alex announced before turning to the waiter. "Replace the dishes with warm ones."

"Sure." These few servers were acquainted with Alex. The King Chambers was specially reserved for him, and it wasn't open to the public.

"Come, let's drink." Alex raised his glass and signaled for a toast.

"Mr. Jefferson, let's collect the car at the auto show tomorrow," Maggie suddenly said after emptying her glass in one gulp.

Upon giving it some thought, Alex nodded and said, “Okay, just give me a call by then. I’ll go if I’m not busy.”

“Okay,” Maggie said with excitement.

Autumn was a little envious when she saw that Alex was going to accompany Maggie to the auto show. She was going to invite him to visit the villa together, but she gave up the idea when she saw her father shake his head.

Shortly after, the dishes had been replaced. Everyone ate and drink to their heart’s content before they left.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

After the meal, Maggie went back to Lumenopolis on her private plane.

She wanted to send the Pill of Longevity and Pill of Vitality back as soon as possible.

On the private plane, Maggie decided to keep one of the four Pills of Longevity that Alex had given her for herself.

I've seen the magical efficacy of the Pill of Longevity with my own eyes. It's an elixir that could save my life at critical times. I should keep one for myself in case I get into any trouble or accident. It will be a lifesaver.

One is enough to cure Grandpa's disease, so it's up to him to deal with the remaining two. I mean, this thing is too precious. It's normal to be a little selfish, right? Grandpa can't finish it anyway.

Holding that thought and feeling no pressure, Maggie took one Pill of Longevity from the bottle and kept it in her purse.

Two hours later, Maggie arrived in Lumenopolis.

Seeing the return of his granddaughter, Richard, who was half-lying on the couch, had his eyes brightened and spirits lifted.

The last time Alex saved him, his body system was still not improved, so he looked pale and sick.

However, as he was a martial artist, he seemed sharp for a sick patient.

In reality, he himself knew his condition best.

Although he could still walk, he had exhausted himself too much and one screw-up would put his life at risk.

Hence, he had pinned all his hope on Alex, hoping he could develop a Pill of Longevity for real to prolong his life.

No one wished to die if there was a chance to live, even if they were seventy or eighty years old.

“Maggie, has Mr. Jefferson developed the Pill of Longevity?” Richard asked with great enthusiasm as he sat up straight.

Maggie quickly went to help Richard up and said, “Yeah, he’s done it, grandpa. Mr. Jefferson was generous enough to give us three Pills of Longevity. He also said that one is enough to cure your disease and that it’ll also increase your life expectancy by ten years.”

“Really? Give it to me, quick!” Richard said.

Maggie nodded, then took out the bottle and gave it to Richard.

Richard accepted and opened it, and was immediately attracted by the strong medical fragrance of the Pill of Longevity.

He could hardly wait. He was about to pop one pill into his mouth when Maggie stopped him at once, “Grandpa, Mr. Jefferson said that the Pill of Longevity is too strong and your body won’t be able to withstand the medicinal properties of one full pill. You can only take half a pill and then the other half can only be taken after a month.”

“Okay, okay, I’ll listen to Mr. Jefferson’s instruction,” Richard smiled and had Maggie help him break the pill in two.

As Maggie went to work on breaking the pill, Richard asked, “Right, did Tyrael Skyworth also take the Pill of Longevity?”

“Yeah, Dr. Skyworth did,” Maggie replied.

“How was it?” Richard asked.

Remembering that amazing moment when Tyrael took the pill, Maggie said, “Dr. Skyworth took half a pill as well, and the medicine took effect in just a few seconds. And in a few minutes, his recurring disease was completely healed. It was simply a miracle.”

“Really?” Richard grew so excited that his speech slurred. “If it’s really that amazing... Quick! Cut it in half and give it to me now!”

The servant at his side immediately brought him a glass of water. Leah and Deckard had also rushed over.

“Maggie, did Mr. Jefferson really cook up an elixir?” Deckard asked as soon as he entered.

“Yeah,” Maggie replied as she gave half of the Pill of Longevity to Richard.

Richard accepted the pill and threw it into his mouth, where it melted straight away without the help of water.

“Have some water, sir.” The servant placed a glass of water in front of Richard.

“It’s okay. It’s already melted,” Richard said with a wave of his hand and quietly waited for the elixir to take effect.

Deckard and Leah looked at Richard in anticipation of the miracle.

Chapter 469

Very soon, Richard discovered that the elixir had transformed into a surge of energy that circulated through his entire body.

This energy didn't feel like a Mortal Force; it was very magical. He could clearly feel that this energy was repairing his damaged internal organs, body functions, and so on.

But what shocked Deckard and the others was that they actually saw that the grey hair on the old man's head gradually turned black.

This is unbelievable!

This is the elixir of life!

“Mr. Jefferson surely is a living God!” Deckard exclaimed.

Maggie was also amazed at her grandfather's changes. It was simply too amazing, as they had never seen such a medical phenomenon before.

Richard had become young again.

“Great! This is so great! Mr. Jefferson really is a living God!” Richard roared with laughter as he was unable to suppress the excitement in his heart.

“Dad, congratulations on your rejuvenation!” Deckard chuckled.

“Congratulations, grandpa, on becoming young again!”

“Congratulations, grandpa, for being ten years younger!”

Maggie and Leah hurriedly congratulated Richard as well.

Richard was so excited that it took a few minutes for him to actually calm down.

He looked at Maggie and said seriously, “Oh Maggie, if the Grant family can get a son-in-law like Mr. Jefferson, I can live to be at least a hundred years old and so do you and the rest of the family! If a family can live over a hundred years old for three generations, they will be matchless!”

Maggie felt the same way. Richard was originally a dying man, but he woke up at once with Alex’s help. And with the Pill of Longevity that Alex developed, Richard was now ten years younger. It was simply a medical miracle! It was something impossible to accomplish.

How many centenarians could there be in this world?
Very few!

Moreover, if the key figure of a prominent family could live over a hundred years old, it was simply the family’s greatest fortune and wealth.

Because only then could the family develop and grow, so as not to go into a decline so quickly.

Once the key figure died, the family would be left without a leader and only internal conflicts would ensue.

Many families went into decline because of the sudden death of their key figure, which tore the family apart over the dispute of family inheritance.

The final result was that the family would eventually go downhill and perish.

“I will try my best to pursue Mr. Jefferson, grandpa,” Maggie said firmly.

Thereafter, she took out the Pill of Vitality and gave it to Deckard, saying, “Uncle Deckard, this is the Pill of Vitality that Mr. Jefferson promised you. He said that the Pill of Vitality can not only cure a recurring disease, but it can also quickly repair a person’s Energy Field. He told me to tell you that the remaining Pills of Vitality are likely to save your life at critical moments, so he hopes that you'll cherish them.”

Deckard took the bottle of the Pills of Vitality with trembling hands. He couldn't help but gasp in awe.

“Maggie, please tell Mr. Jefferson that I will remember his kindness and that I am always at his service should he need help,” said Deckard.

He was clear about the benefits of befriending Alex. Of course, the most important thing was that Alex had indeed helped their family a lot and he must thank him.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 470

Witnessing the magic of the Pill of Longevity again, Maggie went to bed holding the pill that she had privately kept for herself, feeling inexplicably warm in her heart.

Early the next morning, Maggie returned to Nebula City from Lumenopolis. She had already made an appointment with Alex to pick up the car at the auto show today, and she couldn't miss the opportunity of riding in a top sports car with Alex.

After arriving at Nebula City with great excitement, Maggie touched up her makeup before calling Alex.

“Mr. Jefferson, the auto show is about to begin. Where are you? I'll pick you up,” Maggie said softly as soon as the call was connected.

“I’m sorry, Ms. Grant. The project has been approved, and I’ve promised to treat Benjamin to a meal. I’m gonna have to say no to the auto show.” Alex’s apologetic voice sounded from the other end of the line.

“Oh, I see. Well, the project is more important. We’ll go and collect the car some other day then.” Maggie was a little disappointed inside, but thinking that the tech dome project had received its seal of approval, she simply shrugged it off.

She wasn’t one to act according to her sentiments, and she knew how serious things were.

Although it was a rare opportunity to be able to go on a date with Alex, the tech dome project was more important.

But even if Alex didn't wish to go, she had planned to visit the auto show by herself just to clear her mind.

Truth be told, Alex and Evans were supposed to meet up for dinner. He simply rejected Maggie because he didn't want to give her too many chances.

But now that the tech dome project had been approved, he planned to go on a site visit to Nebula Hill with Stefan under the proposal of the city's leader.

Nebula Hill was just the name of a place in the new district. It was far away from the outskirts of the city, but not very far away from Mount Blossom.

Under the survey of a group of staff, Alex finally took a fancy to the mountain range which had a pleasant view that stretched in every direction and was very suitable for development.

The staff had roughly surveyed that, including the entire uninhabited area outside Nebula Hill, and concluded that the total area was about thirty square kilometers, spanning across the three major urban areas of Nebula City.

“Let’s just buy the entire mountain range. Ginny, please accompany Mr. Jones to the city to enquire about this in the afternoon,” Alex said to Ginny who was next to him.

“If there are no competitors, we can get it with about ten million. But if there are competitors, it’s hard to say,” Stefan said.

As soon as Stefan finished speaking, they saw a caravan of cars approaching, from which a group of people got out of the car and they were seemingly interested in this mountain range as well.

“It’s the Zuckers,” Stefan said to Alex in a low voice upon realizing who the other party was. “Do they want to buy this mountain area too?”

The Zucker family was one of the four oldest families in Nebula City. They were very powerful. In terms of money alone, they might not be as powerful as Jack Sawyer, but in terms of connections, they were not inferior to the Sawyer family.

More so, the Zucker family was much stronger than the Jones family.

“Hey, aren’t you Mr. Jones? Is the Jones family interested in this piece of land as well?” A young man in his mid-twenties who recognized Stefan at a glance went straight to greet him with a handshake.

As for Alex, he was automatically ignored.

Alex had always kept a low profile and never exposed his identity to the media, so very little people knew about him.

Coupled with the fact that he was dressed casually, David was all the more unimpressed, thinking that he was just a staff member of Stefan's.

"Oh, Mr. Zucker, please to meet you." Stefan returned the handshake with a smile.

"Your little secretary is quite pretty, Mr. Jones," David smiled upon noticing Ginny. His eyes lit up. "Where did you recruit her?"

"Via the talent market, of course," Stefan said with a laugh. "I can't possibly recruit from the streets, no?"

"You sure are humorous, Mr. Jones," David laughed in response.

“Are you perhaps interested in this piece of land, Mr. Zucker?” Stefan asked.
