

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 491

“Of course I’ll ask Dr. Skyworth to help. I can still afford to pay a measly twenty million,” Alex stated with a confident smile.

Jacob wanted to keep arguing with Alex, but Brian put a stop to it. After that, Brian grinned at Tyrael and said, “Dr. Skyworth, please give me a minute. I need to talk to my mother before I can let you know about the payment. Please don’t get into any arrangement with that punk in the meantime.”

It was crucial for the Jenningses to get Tyrael to cure Lucas as Brian didn’t want to lose the opportunity to get the shares back.

Twenty million was rather heavy for them at that moment. However, they could still bite the bullet and survive through the momentary financial hardship, especially if it meant getting their shares back.

Still, with such an enormous sum involved, Brian had to report to his mother. If she didn't agree to it, Brian would not be able to do anything about it.

Tyrael got the message that Alex's eyes were sending, so the former nodded. "Okay, I'll wait for a few minutes, but you should know that this kid is rather sincere as well. He is willing to pay me twenty million."

If Jacob hadn't heard those words from Tyrael's lips, Jacob would've never believed that Alex could afford to pay that much to save Lucas.

Jacob then remembered how Alex had killed two people from Lumenopolis but was never convicted or anything. That made Jacob rather suspicious.

Jacob then recalled how Alex also knew Flynn, the King Class warrior from the underworld forces. Flynn went as far as shooting and killing a butler who tried to pull a dirty trick on Alex. That incident, plus the fact that the police did nothing even after Alex killed two people, meant that Alex was pretty powerful as well.

If the Jenningses were the ones who murdered someone else, the police would've arrested them and given them the death penalty.

Those thoughts frightened Jacob, and he no longer dared to mess with Alex.

Brian, on the other hand, was more worried about how Tyrael might agree to help Alex out. If that were to happen, Heather would not be indebted to the Jenningses.

As such, Brian wasted no time and walked to the side immediately to call Demi.

“Dr. Skyworth is asking for twenty million to save Lucas, mom. Alex is here to ask the doctor to help too. He’s willing to pay the doctor twenty million,” reported Brian directly as soon as the line was established.

“Twenty million?” blurted Demi, who was at home. She immediately frowned upon hearing that. Twenty million was a heavy price for the Jenningses at that moment.

“That’s right. Dr. Skyworth said that Alex was willing to pay twenty million to help Lucas. I suspect that the doctor wouldn’t help us even if we match Alex’s offer,” informed Brian.

Silence dragged on for a moment on the other side of the line. After that, Demi instructed, “Offer the doctor twenty-two million. Do not let that loser, Alex, hire the doctor. We must get our hands on that favor. Only then will Heather owe us and ask the new chairman to sell the company’s shares back to us!”

Demi was an intelligent woman - she understood the importance and urgency of the matter. They could not be bothered about the twenty million at a crucial moment like that, and they certainly could not give up on getting those shares back.

“Understood, mother.”

Brian hung up after confirming with Demi. He then hurried back and said, “Dr. Skyworth, we are willing to pay you twenty-two million to hire you to treat Lucas.”

Wow, they even upped the price.

Alex was surprised, and his eyes soon shone with an intrigued glint. Those two must have something terrible planned, and it must be huge. Otherwise, they would not pay twenty-two million just to get Tyrael to cure someone they hated and viewed as trash. I wonder what they have planned...

Alex was instantly curious. He truly wanted to know what the Jenningses had up their sleeves.

“Fine, you win,” said Alex as he turned to Tyrael. Alex put on an awkward grin before adding, “I only have twenty million, Dr. Skyworth, so I will not be able to hire you to save my brother-in-law. Please help them out. I pray that we can hang out again in the future.”

After saying his piece, Alex shot a look at Tyrael before he brought Stanley out of the place.

Tyrael received the message and nodded. He was courteous and would've gotten up to walk Alex out, but he didn't do so at the time as Tyrael didn't want Brian and Jacob to suspect that something was off.

"Alright, I will go to the hospital with the two of you tomorrow morning," said Tyrael to Brian after Alex had left.

"Thank you, Dr. Skyworth. We will pay you regardless of whether your treatment is successful. We will transfer twenty million over tonight, then pay the remaining two million tomorrow," said Brian.

"That's fine," replied Tyrael, who then gave Brian his bank account number.

Chapter 492

Heather and Carmen stayed by Lucas' side at the hospital. Although he had not regained consciousness, they had not left either.

Both of them were displeased that Alex had left with Stanley, but they did not call him to chide him either.

After all, they did not want their relationship with Alex to sour.

The following morning, Lucas finally came to. Before he could rejoice, he noticed that he could not feel anything below his chest or move his limbs.

Lucas panicked.

Even though he could not feel any pain, the fact that he could not feel any sensation told him he was likely paralyzed.

“Lucas, you’re awake!” Carmen exclaimed when she noticed that Lucas had opened his eyes.

“Mum, call a doctor over! I can’t move my body, not even a little bit! I think I might be paralyzed!” Lucas hurriedly instructed Carmen with a look of despair in his eyes.

Carmen’s face fell.

The previous night, before Lucas regained consciousness, she had harbored a sliver of hope that a miracle would happen.

When Lucas said that he was paralyzed, she nearly collapsed.

“Mum, call a doctor over! I don’t want to be paralyzed!” Lucas yelled.

Tears started rolling down Heather’s cheeks uncontrollably as she explained, “Lucas, the doctor won’t be coming. He said you’re paralyzed...”

She decided not to continue. The reality was too harsh, and she felt that Lucas could not take the blow.

“Don’t worry. We’ll definitely find a way to cure you!” Heather chirped.

Even she doubted her own words, not to mention Lucas.

When he heard what Heather said, Lucas started wailing for a long time.

Despair was written all over his face.

He knew what it meant to be paralyzed.

His life was finished. He would be better off dead!

He lost all will to live and wanted to end it all, but he could not muster the courage to bite off his tongue to commit suicide.

“Lucas, believe in me. I’ll definitely find a way to cure you!” Carmen sobbed.

Lucas did not respond and could not even be bothered to look Carmen in the eye.

At that point, Demi walked in with Jacob.

Demi had on a worried and pained expression. Her eyes were red, as though she had just been crying.

The moment she entered, tears flowed down her cheeks. She rushed to Lucas' bedside and bawled, "Lucas, I heard you met with a car accident and nearly died of a heart attack! My grandson, how are you feeling?"

Although Heather did not like her grandmother, she was here to visit Lucas. So, she chose not to argue with her and explained, "Granny, Lucas' injury is quite severe. He injured his spine and is in danger of paralysis, but we'll definitely find a way to cure him."

Lucas stared at his grandmother expressionlessly.

He had borne a grudge towards his grandmother. All these years, after their father died, their grandmother had expelled them from the family and was biased towards Brian's family.

However, he had already lost all will to live. Since Demi was here to visit him, he could not be bothered to snap at her.

When he thought of how he would spend the rest of his life confined to a bed, he was overcome with sorrow.

Demi cried and berated herself, "Lucas, it's all my fault. I should've cared more about you. When I heard of your accident, I really regretted everything. Your dad died early, and your family hasn't had it well, so I thought I'd train your determination by not giving you guys a hand. However, all of you misunderstood my intentions... Don't worry, Lucas. Granny has found you the best doctor in the world who can treat your spine and let you live a normal life!"

“Really?” Carmen turned to Demi eagerly.

Heather exclaimed, “Grandma, did you really find such a great doctor?”

“Of course, it’s true. However, I have a condition that I hope you’d agree to, Heather,” Demi continued.

Chapter 493

Heather was taken aback, and her hopes diminished.

I should’ve known. Granny wouldn’t have a change of heart so easily! She probably wants to set me up in some way... Even the doctors said modern medicine can't heal Lucas' paralysis. What can granny's doctor do?

“Heather, just say yes!” Lucas yelled.

He did not want to let go of the slightest chance he could recover.

He was only twenty-three years old. He could not accept becoming a cripple at such a young age.

Demi's tears and the hopes she gave Lucas were enough for him to have unconditional faith in her.

“Heather, what are you waiting for? Don't you want your brother to recover?” Carmen snapped.

Heather was heartbroken that his mother and brother had snapped at her that way.

She had wanted Lucas to recover as well, but her gut feeling, as well as her understanding of Demi, told her that the woman was up to no good.

She felt that the doctor Demi hired might be a hoax.

“Heather, do you know how much granny spent to hire Dr. Skyworth?”

When Heather fell silent, Jacob snapped, “She spent twenty-two million on this! All she wants is for you to fulfill a small request from her. Don’t tell me Lucas’ life is worth less than that to you? Or do you feel that granny’s small request can be worth twenty-two million?”

“What? Grandma, you spent twenty-two million hiring a doctor?” Heather exclaimed in shock.

She knew that with the current state the Jennings family was in, even two million was not a small sum.

“That’s right. If he can treat my grandson, I’d spend thirty, or even fifty million if I had to.”

Demi nodded and looked at Lucas, sobbing, “These years, I’ve owed you three too much. I’ve thought things through. Just take this twenty million as compensation for how I’ve treated you.”

Demi sounded sincere about it, and even Heather, who had her doubts all this while, was moved. She agreed, “Grandma, what do you want me to do? I’ll do anything within my ability to help.”

Demi was overjoyed. She was waiting for Heather to say that.

The reason she came was to get Heather to agree. She would then transfer the rest of the twenty million to Dr. Skyworth. Otherwise, if they spent twenty-two million to treat Lucas without Heather agreeing to their request, they would have been wasting their money!

She would not do something so foolish.

“Heather, what I want is very simple. Please help me ask the chairman of Four Seas Corporation to sell us the shares we previously owned at the original price. This isn’t something too difficult for you to do,” Demi requested.

Heather was astounded. She did not expect Demi to ask for that.

She replied after some thought, “I can try, but he might not agree to it.”

“Heather, given your relationship with him, as long as you’re willing to make a small sacrifice, I’m sure the chairman will agree. Think about it, the chairman has helped you with so many things and even bought over the Jennings Corporation for your sake. Surely you understand his intentions?” Demi analyzed the situation.

Heather was lost in thought.

She had nearly forgotten that man in her distant memory.

Now that Demi brought this up, the man who had once taken up a significant portion of her heart reappeared in her mind. She could not seem to shake him off.

Chapter 494

“Alright then. As long as your doctor can heal Lucas, I’ll plead with the chairman to sell your shares back to you!” Heather nodded decisively.

“Great! Thank you so much, Heather. Granny will never forget the contributions you made to the family!” Demi thanked Heather.

Lucas and Carmen heaved a sigh of relief when they saw Heather relent.

Lucas could not help but inquire, “Granny, when is the doctor arriving?”

“Just a moment, Lucas. Dr. Skyworth will be here soon.” Demi smiled.

She was overjoyed. She believed that given how much the chairman of the Four Seas Corporation loved Heather, he would definitely agree to her request.

She beamed when she thought of how she would regain control over the Jennings Corporation.

At this point in time, Brian brought Tyrael Skyworth into the ward.

“Dr. Skyworth,” Demi and Jacob rushed forward to greet him.

They rushed over excitedly and greeted him, “Dr. Skyworth.”

“Dr. Skyworth, can you really cure my son?” Carmen queried.

“Shut up! Dr. Skyworth is one of the top doctors in the world of Traditional Chinese Medicine. Some even call him a divine physician. Who are you to doubt his capabilities?” Demi roared.

Carmen quickly apologized, “I’m sorry, Dr. Skyworth, I didn’t mean it that way.”

Tyrael waved her off and smiled. “It’s fine. To be honest, I can’t guarantee if I can save him either. Let me have a look at the patient first.”

Although Tyrael had absolute faith in the Pill of Vitality

Alex gave him, he could not give a definite answer.

When the doctors in the hospital heard that Tyrael was here, all of them rushed over, including the director.

“Dr. Skyworth, I’m pleased to meet you.” The director shook Tyrael’s hand warmly.

The director’s name was Jerome, and he had met Tyrael a couple of times. He had complete faith in Tyrael’s skills.

However, he remained doubtful that even Tyrael could heal Lucas.

That being said, Tyrael was a master in Traditional Chinese Medicine and someone he hoped to build good relations with, so he had treated him with the utmost respect.

After the handshake, Tyrael recognized Jerome and returned the greeting, “Ah, Dr. Laster. I’m sorry for stepping in without telling you beforehand.”

What he actually meant was, I’m sorry for stealing your patient.

Jerome understood what Tyrael meant but did not mind at all. In fact, he was hoping that Tyrael would be able to cure Lucas.

If Tyrael managed to heal Lucas’ spine, this would be a feat that would shake the entire medical world. His hospital would gain fame as a result.

“Nothing of the sort, Dr. Skyworth. If I knew that you would be in Nebula City, I would have gone over to ask you for help. It’s our hospital’s greatest honor to have you helping out.” Jerome welcomed him sincerely.

The other doctors treated Tyrael as a God as well. After all, with Tyrael's fame, all of them paled in comparison.

"Alright then, let me have a look at the patient," Tyrael requested. Although he was already informed that Lucas had received a spinal injury, he did a thorough check all the same.

Finally, he took the Pill of Vitality given to him by Alex the previous night and announced, "The patient has received a severe spine injury. With the current state of medical technology and western medicine, it is impossible to repair the damage to the nerves.

Perhaps there would be a slight chance of recovery if we try using acupuncture from Traditional Chinese Medicine, but given my current skill level, the chances of him making a full recovery are slim."

His words dealt a severe blow to the entire Jennings family, especially to Heather and Carmen. If even Dr. Skyworth could not save Lucas, no one in the world stood a chance.

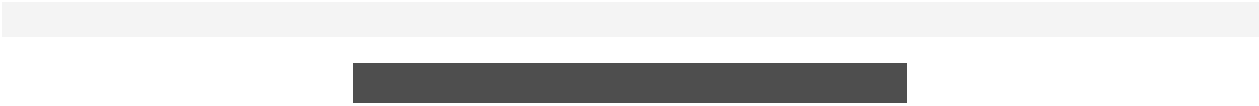

“However, I have a pill here. Its effects include complete repair of damaged nerves. It’s the patient’s good fortune to have hired me today.”

Just as everyone was filled with despair, Tyrael fed Lucas the Pill of Vitality. Everyone watched in anticipation.

Everyone knew that Tyrael's pill would need some time to take effect. This was medicine, not magic.

However, they still observed Lucas keenly, hoping for a miracle.

After all, Tyrael had created countless medical miracles before.

They held their breath in anticipation.

Jerome and the doctor in charge of Lucas did not believe that Traditional Chinese Medicine was capable of repairing a damaged spine, but since this was the renowned Dr. Skyworth, they had hoped for a miracle as well.

Tyrael himself was curious as to whether the Pill of Vitality would work.

He had no doubts regarding the Pill of Longevity Alex had given him before. Its potency and effects were beyond anything he had imagined and felt more like an elixir than a medicine.

However, he had not seen the Pill of Vitality at work before.

Heather, Carmen, Demi, and the others stared at Lucas as well.

They were all hoping to see positive results.

This was especially so for Demi and Brian. After all, their ability to repurchase their company's shares depended on the efficacy of this pill.

Lucas' face flushed red, and his body started to shudder. This was followed by a warm sensation filling his body from the inside - it felt extremely comfortable.

When the crowd saw Lucas' paralyzed body start to tremble, their eyes were filled with astonishment.

Is the pill taking effect? Is his spine being repaired?

Everyone held their breath and stared intently at Lucas. They did not dare make any noise in case this would disrupt his recovery.

A few minutes later, to the amazement of everyone present, Lucas sat upright.

“Hahaha! I've recovered! I've really recovered! I'm no longer crippled!”

Lucas laughed heartily, and tears started flowing from his eyes.

Just a few moments prior, he was wallowing in despair at the thought that he would live the rest of his life confined to bed.

Just a few minutes later, he had made a full recovery after taking a pill from Dr. Skyworth!

He was unbelievably thrilled.

“Lucas! Lucas! You’ve recovered! That’s great!”
Carmen hugged her son tightly and burst into tears.

Heather was crying tears of joy as well and quickly pulled herself together. She bowed deeply towards Tyrael and thanked him, “Thank you so much, Dr. Skyworth. If it weren’t for you, my brother would have to spend the rest of his life lying on the bed!”

Everyone could not contain their excitement at Dr.

Skyworth's accomplishment.

At the same time, they were filled with respect for him and his medical skills.

Lucas' case of paralysis was one that stumped all doctors worldwide, but Tyrael managed to solve it in a few minutes with a single pill. It was just like magic!

Everyone looked at Tyrael with respect and admiration.

On the other hand, Tyrael himself was overwhelmed by the shock as well.

It really is a medical miracle! Dr. Jefferson managed to cure Lucas' paralysis with the Pill of Vitality in several minutes! Dr. Jefferson really is a God in the medical world!

Tyrael's respect towards Alex shot up. He was overjoyed that his granddaughter was accepted as Alex's pupil. Even if she had only learned a fraction of her skills, she would be a brilliant doctor in her own right.

Tyrael knew that Heather was Alex's wife. Although he did not know why Alex had not come down to cure his brother-in-law himself, he gathered that Alex wanted to keep his identity secret. In that case, he had no choice but to take the credit for Alex's work.

"Mrs. Jefferson, you're too kind. I was just doing what I could." Tyrael returned the bow.

If it weren't for the Pill of Vitality Alex gave me, I wouldn't have been able to cure Lucas' paralysis either, even as the top practitioner of Traditional Chinese Medicine. Even in my prime, I would only have a twenty percent chance of curing Lucas at best.

Tyrael added humbly, "To tell you the truth, I was given this pill by someone else. Mrs. Jefferson, I'm not the one you should be thanking."

Jerome was taken aback. He said with a quivering voice, "Dr. Skyworth, you've just created a medical miracle! With that pill earlier, you could claim a Nobel Prize! This medicine is of great benefit to mankind!"

Tyrael laughed awkwardly. "Dr. Laster, I'm afraid I'm not worthy of your praise. I happened to chance upon this medicine. Otherwise, I wouldn't be able to cure a paralyzed patient either."

Jerome thought Tyrael was simply being humble and smiled. "Your medicine itself is a medical miracle. If we mass-produced this, it would be able to help countless people!"

Tyrael shook his head. "Dr. Laster, this medicine was indeed made by a miracle doctor, one whose skills are way beyond me. Its ingredients are extremely rare, and according to that doctor, mass production is impossible."

Jerome sighed. "What a pity... Dr. Skyworth, did you say that this medicine was produced by another doctor? Don't tell me there's someone even more skilled than you?"

Tyrael smiled. "Dr. Laster, you flatter me. Although I've had a few minor accomplishments in the medical world, there are countless skilled doctors that my skills simply cannot compare to. The doctor who produced this medicine alone has shown me miracles that I never thought were possible. I would not be surprised if you told me he was Apollo in human form. I've suffered from an ailment that has plagued me for over a decade. I've thought of many ways to cure it, but to no avail. That doctor prescribed me a pill, and taking half of it was enough to cure me of that chronic ailment. It's a pity that he wishes to remain low-key. If he's willing to work in medicine, he would be able to revolutionize the medical industry!"

Everyone was bewildered when they heard of the existence of a doctor better than Tyrael.

All of them had their own thoughts when they heard what Tyrael said.

If only if I can befriend this doctor Dr. Skyworth is talking about. I could be saved from death several times!

“Dr. Skyworth, may I ask who this doctor is and where he is right now?” Jerome inquired.

Everyone turned to Tyrael in anticipation and hoped to remember his name in order to somehow befriend him.

This was especially so for Demi. She was getting old, so she had many ailments troubling her as well. If she got to know this doctor, she would be able to seek medical help from him.

Tyrael read their minds and replied apologetically, “Sorry, I’ve promised that doctor not to reveal his personal information.”

Everyone seemed crestfallen when they heard the news.

However, Tyrael continued, “However, I can tell everyone that this doctor is currently residing in Nebula City and would not leave for the short term. I am sure that you will run into him if it is meant to be. In addition, the Jennings family should thank that doctor instead of me. This pill was manufactured by him, and without it, I would not be able to save the patient either. Alright then, I’ve got to get going. Farewell.”

Tyrael then turned to leave.

Heather hurriedly queried, “Dr. Skyworth, when do you think my brother can be discharged?”

Tyrael simply smiled. “Perhaps the doctor in charge will be able to answer that question more accurately.”

He then left the hospital with Jerome sending him off.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 497

Demi shot Brian a glance. The latter understood and rushed after Tyrael.

Tyrael knew the whereabouts of that doctor, so they had to count on him to introduce them.

They had hired Tyrael to cure Lucas for twenty-two million. That was not a small sum, so they believed that Tyrael would favor the Jennings family thanks to that.

Hence, she sent Brian after Tyrael.

The doctor in charge glanced at Tyrael gratefully and told Heather, “Alright then, let me examine the patient.”

He examined Lucas with the aid of two nurses and some medical apparatus. Lucas had restored all bodily functions, and all his vitals were in the healthy range. His heart welled up with respect for Tyrael and the doctor he was talking about.

“The patient is fine now and can be discharged today. However, I’d recommend that he rest and recuperate for a few days,” the doctor in charge concluded after the examination.

“Alright, thank you, doctor!” Heather nodded her thanks and heaved a sigh of relief.

“You should be thanking Dr. Skyworth instead.” The doctor in charge smiled and left with the two nurses in tow.

By the time everyone else left, Lucas was already jumping around outside the bed. He did not look like a man paralyzed after a traffic accident at all.

Heather and Carmen beamed.

Demi was overjoyed as well. She patted Lucas on the shoulder and said, “I’m glad you’re fine now, Lucas. The twenty-two million I spent was well worth it.”

Only then did everyone recall that Demi was the one who hired Dr. Skyworth for twenty-two million. Their impression of Demi improved by a lot.

“Thank you so much, granny. I’ll do whatever you say from now on!” Lucas proclaimed.

Demi was pleased to hear this and nodded. “Alright, alright. When granny takes the company back, I will be sure to treat you all well.”

She then reminded Heather, “Heather, remember what I asked you to do.”

Heather nodded as well. “Don’t worry, granny. I’ll beg the chairman if I have to.”

Demi replied cheerfully, “All of you are my precious grandchildren. Take good care of Lucas. Granny will go back and take a rest. I’m getting old, so my body is getting weak as well.”

“Alright, bye granny. Take care,” Lucas bade her farewell.

“Alright then, I’ll be off,” Demi said as she slowly turned around to leave. Jacob hurriedly rushed to support her like a filial grandchild.

As she watched the two of them leave, Heather felt a strange sense of distance between herself and the two of them.

Although Demi had hired Dr. Skyworth to treat Lucas, her main aim had been to get Heather to beg the chairman to sell them the shares to Jennings Corporation.

Regardless, Demi’s gesture of spending twenty-two million to cure Lucas had moved Heather.

Her spite for Demi over the past few months had dissolved as well.

“Blood is thicker than water. After all, Lucas is her grandson. She can’t possibly just sit there and not help,” Carmen commented.

“That’s right. Granny is our grandmother, after all. When it comes to it, we can only count on our relatives,” Lucas lamented.

“Exactly! Look at that good-for-nothing Alex. He just came to visit you once last night and went home. He didn’t even come today, even though you’re his brother-in-law!”

When she thought of Alex, she had many things to grumble about.

“Heather, just ignore this incident. Make sure he doesn’t divorce you. The moment he decides to vie for the Jefferson inheritance, divorce him! I’d like to see the look on his face when we take ten billion worth of inheritance from him!” Carmen smirked.

“Alright, that’s enough. Let’s settle Lucas’ discharge for now.” Heather nodded. Although she had not said anything negative about Alex, she was utterly disappointed.

Chapter 498

“Mr. Nixon, I heard Heather’s brother got into an accident yesterday and injured his spine. He was paralyzed, and the hospital said that he would be confined to bed for the rest of his life. However, Demi managed to hire a divine physician who cured Lucas’ paralysis earlier in the morning,” Ally reported to Stuart in the executive VIP room of the People’s Hospital.

“What? You mean it’s possible to cure that level of paralysis?” Stuart exclaimed. He knew that this level of paralysis would be a problem for doctors all over the world. It was unfathomable that someone was able to treat it.

“I heard from a nurse that Dr. Skyworth treated him. He gave Lucas a pill that managed to cure him within minutes, and he is now discharged,” Ally concluded.

“Dr. Skyworth? Dr. Tyrael Skyworth?” Stuart muttered in shock.

“That’s right, the doctor’s name is Tyrael Skyworth. It’s simply unbelievable. I didn’t believe this at first, but when I checked with the doctor in charge of Lucas, he told me that it was indeed the truth. Mr. Nixon, let's ask Dr. Skyworth for help! I'm sure he'll be able to heal your leg!" Ally suggested.

"Alright. Find out where Dr. Skyworth lives. I will visit him personally," Stuart instructed excitedly.

He knew Tyrael and had absolute faith in his skills.

He believed that Tyrael would be able to heal him in days if he tried.

"Mr. Nixon, I'll be heading off then." Ally nodded and left the ward.

Stuart eagerly awaited Ally's return for over an hour.

"Mr. Nixon, I've found it! Dr. Skyworth has set up a clinic in Nebula City called Skyworth Clinic!" Ally rushed into the ward and reported.

“That’s great. Get me discharged and send me to Skyworth Clinic immediately!” Stuart instructed in an exhilarated tone.

Soon, after some administrative work and after Stuart’s insistence, the hospital finally approved of his discharge.

His bodyguards escorted him to Skyworth Clinic.

Tyrael was busy prescribing medicine to a patient. When Stuart saw him, he greeted him, “Hello, Tyrael.”

Tyrael stood up in shock when he saw Stuart in a wheelchair.

“Stuart, what on earth happened?” Tyrael exclaimed.

Tyrael was friends with Stuart’s father, Jeremy.

Naturally, he knew Stuart as well.

“I don’t want to talk about it. I offended a petty man and got my calf broken in one kick. You’ve got to cure me!” Stuart requested.

Tyrael hurriedly rushed over to examine Stuart and muttered, “Yep, it’s nothing major. You’ll be walking within a week.”

Fractures were Tyrael’s specialty. A broken bone or two meant nothing to him.

“That’s great! Tyrael, you really are a divine physician!” Stuart commended him earnestly.

Tyrael smiled. “You flatter me.”

Stuart insisted, “You’re being too humble. The doctors at People’s Hospital told me I won’t be able to recover without two to three months of rest, and even when I do, I can't perform strenuous exercise. Meanwhile, you will allow me to get back onto my feet in a week!"

Tyrael laughed heartily and brought Stuart towards the consultation room for treatment.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 499

Tyrael was an excellent doctor and managed to piece the broken bones together much more skillfully than the doctors in the hospital.

His personal anesthetic was more effective than partial anesthesia. Stuart did not feel any pain at all.

After that, Stuart was stayed in Tyrael's clinic to recuperate.

When he thought of how he would make a full recovery in a week, a murderous glint flashed across his eyes.

When my legs recover, I'll make sure to break Alex's limbs! When I'm done with him, he'll really be a good-for-nothing! Not just mentally, but physically as well! There's no other way to appease my anger. How dare a live-in son-in-law like him break my legs? If I don't cripple him, I won't be able to walk with my head held high!

In the meantime, Alex was having tea with Maggie and Autumn.

Stefan had left the management of the tech dome to his daughter, Autumn. Hence, she would be the one to liaise with Alex regarding the tech dome.

“Mr. Jefferson, my father looked for Evans earlier today. He has agreed to sell us Nebula Hill for fifteen million. This is the contract signed by my dad,” Autumn explained as she passed Alex a document.

Alex nodded, skimmed through it, and passed it to Maggie.

The three of them were major shareholders of the tech dome, so Alex could not make any major decisions on his own.

Although he was the biggest shareholder, he had to consult the Grant and Jones families for most matters.

Although Jack owned more shares than the Jones family, he had complete faith in Alex. He arranged for Alex to take care of all matters regarding the tech dome while he handled matters regarding Four Seas Corporation.

Maggie nodded after reading through the contract. “No problem. We can fork out fifteen million, but I think we need them to sign another contract for their promise to absorb tax for five years. Evans is not a reliable man. If we break even sooner than expected, he will start hounding us for taxes.”

“I concur. Let’s leave this to Autumn,” Alex agreed. Due to the incident with the land, he did not trust Evans either.

“Alright, I’ll look for him tomorrow.” Autumn nodded.

“Well then, let’s start to source for a contractor. Which one of you will be doing it?” Alex queried.

He definitely did not have the time to settle this himself as he was in charge of hiring the science researchers.

Furthermore, he had high hopes for Synacore Semiconductor Manufacturing Company’s semiconductor technology. He intended to drop by Synacore to check if he could purchase the patent for their core technology.

If he managed to make a successful purchase, the tech dome would be nearly complete.

“I’ll do it,” Maggie volunteered.

“Alright then, I’ll leave it to you. Please settle this as soon as possible,” Alex instructed.

The three of them left after a short discussion about the project.

In the evening, when Alex went home and was about to cook dinner, Heather stopped him. “We’ll be eating out tonight. No need to cook.”

When Alex shot her a puzzled expression, she explained, “Lucas was discharged today. We’re celebrating.”

“Oh right, do you have anywhere to recommend?”
Heather continued.

“Let’s go to Happy Living,” Alex suggested.

“Happy Living it is then. Book a table, will you?”
Heather agreed.

Although Alex sensed something off with Heather's drastic change in attitude, he did not mull over it.

It was not the first time Heather had threatened him with divorce, after all. He had learned to ignore her.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 500

To prevent Heather and the others from asking questions, he did not ask for a VIP room. He settled for an ordinary private room instead.

Lucas' case was nothing short of a miracle. Carmen ordered the best dishes to celebrate her son's recovery.

“Granny is nice to me, after all. In order to save me, she spent twenty-two million to hire Dr. Skyworth to save me,” Lucas sighed.

“You’re her grandson. Looks like we’ve misunderstood her,” Carmen added.

When he noticed that the entire family was grateful to Demi, Alex scoffed, “She was just using you.”

He had already found out that the reason Demi had spent such a large sum was for Heather to get him to sell the Jennings Corporation Shares back to her at the original price.

When he learned of this, he sighed. Demi is a sharp woman and has learned from her lesson. Now, she’s bribing them with kindness.

“Who’re you to talk? You didn’t even come and visit me!” Lucas snapped.

When he thought of how Alex had only come to visit him for a short while and returned, he felt frustrated.

He’s my brother-in-law, but he acts like I’m an outsider! Now, he’s attacking granny as well. Darn it!

Alex was taken aback. I didn’t visit you?

Alex sneered. If it weren’t for me, you’d still be confined to bed!

He could not be bothered with Lucas and asked Heather, “Will you be asking the chairman to sell the shares back to the Jennings family?”

Heather nodded. “Since I promised granny, I’ll have to go.”

Alex scorned, “Haven’t you noticed? Your grandmother is using you. When she finds out you’re no longer of use to her, she’ll kick you aside like trash.”

Lucas protested, “Stop judging others by your own standards! Not everyone is as callous as you are!”

“I’m callous now? Alright, I’m done here,” Alex declared. What on earth happened to Lucas? Why is he at odds with me today?

“Alright, that’s enough. Let’s eat; the food is getting cold. We’re all adults, so I’ll decide what to do with my life,” Heather announced.

“Alright then, I guess I’m being a busybody!” Alex set his utensils aside and scowled, “Enjoy your meal. I’m full, so I'll leave after settling the bill.”

He then left the private room.

Carmen signaled Heather to stop him.

Heather spat, “Leave him! Who cares about him? I've had enough with him meddling in my affairs already! Just who does he think he is?”

Lucas chimed in as well, “That's right, mom! Alex is just a chauffeur, while sis is a manager at the Jennings Corporation! Who is he to interfere in her affairs? What's more, he's obviously stirring up trouble between us! Granny spent twenty-two million to cure me, and the first thing he does is try to sour our relationship! Just what does he think he's doing?”

“Just shut up and eat,” Carmen grumbled.

Alex was a gold mine to her. The day Alex decides to go back to the Jefferson family and vie for his inheritance, their entire family would be rich.

They had to appease Alex for now.

In fact, she intended for Heather to treat Alex better and coax him into vying for the inheritance.

If their relationship soured and Alex really divorced Heather, they would have lost out!

Lucas was fuming, but he did not dare to defy a direct order from Carmen.

Carmen instructed her daughter, “Heather, go get him back here! Don’t forget what I told you before.”

Heather understood her mother’s intentions and reluctantly went after Alex.
