

The Hidden Billionaire Heiress (Lyra Melvin) Chapter 60

At the entrance of the Angle Group building.

Downstairs there was a huge crowd, including reporters, people "demanding justice", and quite a few onlookers that were drawn to watch the show.

Lyra locked the car door and strode toward the company entrance.

She was alone, but she exuded an intimidating vibe that there was a large group of supporters following behind her.

Reporters had been waiting for a long time. Catching sight of her, they wanted to take this opportunity to interview her, so everyone just scrambled to get near her.

They almost thrust their microphones to her face and the shutters were clicking non-stop. This was much bustling and raucous than before in Charlotte's ward.

"Miss Carroll, have you watched the news this morning? What would you like to say about Miss Matthews' statement on the live interview?"

"May I ask if what Miss Matthews said is true or not? She claims she's not the homewrecker, so why did you divorce Mr. Freeman? I heard that you didn't get any property from the divorce. Did you cheat on Mr. Freeman?"

"Are you really involved in the case where Miss Matthews got attacked?"

These reporters were eager to jump at the opportunity to scoop the juiciest news, so a barrage of questions was thrown at Lyra.

Lyra walked rapidly towards the gate, not betraying a slight fear when faced with the crowd.

The large sunglasses covered most of her face, but not her confidence.

"Miss Carroll, could you please answer our question? The whole country is waiting for your response!" A reporter shouted.

There came another hubbub of from the crowd. Some of them started to talk loudly, expressing their speculation about this series of events.

Lyra frowned, casually took a reporter's microphone, and said in a very final sort of way, "Be quiet and listen to me if you want the answer."

The reporters froze for several seconds and immediately bombarded her with another round of questions.

relationship with Mr. Freeman is?" A reporter took advantage of his proximity I'll reiterate it. We've been divorced and we have nothing to somewhat

Miss Matthews was the homewrecker who brought an end to your marriage with Mr. Freeman. Also, you were forced to give up any property and thus get nothing from the Lyra shrugged, "Any other questions? If not, I'm going in.

are rumors online that you got your current job in Angle Group because you're the mistress of Mr. Lloyd.

was in no way obtained through improper means, and as for whether unflinching tone, loud and clear among the crowd, but it failed to someone assault Miss Matthews two days ago? Was it

"Let the evidence speak for itself as to who is behind this. I have important business to attend to, so please excuse was determined to leave, the reporters got anxious and tried to stop like that!

company entrance, and some even tried to take advantage of

Lyra could say anything, a familiar husky voice

you don't need to pay the price for starting over the crowd with undisguised disgust

here to back her up!" Someone recognized was shocked by his sudden appearance and the case

succinctly, "I'll give the public an explanation few reporters who were asking Lyra questions just now had already been deterred by him. But the crowd was you standing

to Fred and said with a cold arm to beckon someone. Several bodyguards dressed in black and wearing sunglasses immediately showed up and only bystanders who did not want to get themselves into a calm tone and headed

Melvin took her by the wrist and said in a low voice,