Kailey's expression instantly changed.

Renea then got up and approached her. The sinister smile on her face, grew deeper as she spoke, "What are you afraid of? I was just joking with you. The place where you and Tia were chatting was a blind spot of the surveillance camera. So, you guys were not captured."

Knowing that she had been fooled, Kailey was furious. However, she had to put on a show in front of Leon so she could only endure her rising anger.

"Renea, why are you still joking with me at this time? Do you care so little about the reputation of the Morris family?"

"Well, I'm not a member of the Morris family. Don't worry, my honor and disgrace have nothing to do with the Morris family. And the reputation of the Morris family won't be affected because of me." Renea said in a lazy voice. She had already walked away when she finished her words.

The way Renea talked in a supercilious manner enraged Susan and she complained to Leon, "Look at her, Honey. If you don't take action, the Morris family will be ruined by her. I think Dylan..."

"Shut your mouth! Didn't I tell you already don't ever mention Dylan to me again. We don't have this person in the Morris family." Leon berated.

Susan obediently shut her mouth after that. She was extremely worried about her son. Even though Dylan's matter was still in the middle of an investigation, how could she bear to let her son suffer? She had asked Leon to look for someone to help Dylan several times, but not only did Leon scold her, but he also didn't allow her to find anyone to help Dylan. Now all Susan could do was to worry.

If the case was proven, Dylan's life would be completely ruined.

On Tia's side, she had set up a donation website. Not long after it was established, Someone had already donated.

In less than an hour, the donation had already reached $200,000. Looking at the money in the account, Tia was delighted.

Many fans rewarded her during her live broadcast just now.

It turned out that she could also use public opinion to make money.

"Mum, look, we have money for dad's surgery already."

"Tia's Mom Isabella Adams was also thrilled. She had never seen so much money in her life."

"Yeah, it looks like public opinion still very useful. Try revealing a little more information. It's best if you can talk more about you and Renea, so that netizens will know that ungrateful person treated you before. Oh, right, you should also act sad. This way netizens can resonate and sympathize with us."

"Yes."

Tia then did as she was told. In the afternoon, she recorded another video and uploaded it on the Internet.

In the video, Tia talks about how close she was with Renea in the past. She also mentioned how she treated Renea, and how Renea had treated her.

"I had no idea that she would abandon herself for the sake of money. Before this, I already noticed something was wrong with her, since she

In the video, Tia talks about how close she was with Renea in the past. She also mentioned how she treated Renea, and how Renea had treated her.

“I had no idea that she would abandon herself for the sake of money. Before this, I already noticed something was wrong with her, since she started wearing branded clothes. I even reminded her that we are no longer rich and that she should be grateful instead of wasting money, since Mr. and Mrs. Morris are already nice enough to let her stay in the Morris family.”

“Renea told me that she didn’t spend the Morris family moneys, and the money she used was all the money she earned herself. I was confused before. How could a student like her earn so much money. After seeing the post on the school forum, I still couldn’t believe that she would do such a thing for money.”

“Even if everyone said that she was kept as a sugar baby, I still don’t believe it. I still believe her, even if she is heartless and unwilling to help my father. I still believe in her. However, I didn’t expect that she would bribe me and humiliate my dignity with money. I also didn’t think that she would really be willing to be sugar baby just for money.”

Tia said each word with as much emotion as she could. She even choked on her tears mid-sentence.

It was no wonder she was performing the art students since she was able to thoroughly expose her pain and instantly make paper resonate with her.

“Tia don’t be sad. It’s not worth it to be sad for such an ungrateful woman. You are doing great job. We don’t need her money. We will all help you!"

"Yes, Tia don't be said. What goes around, comes around. I have already donated money for your father on the website. Although it was far from enough, we have a lot of us. I believe we will definitely help your father to collect enough money for the operation."

Not long after the video was posted, Tia's donation website received another sum of money which was more than $500,000. Yet, she had no intention of shutting the website down.

Because money was still coming in.

$700,000 $800,000 $100,0000... Tia got more excited as she looked at the constantly changing numbers.

Tia's father, Thomas Hughes, said worriedly, "We have enough money already. We had better shutdown the donation website if we continue to receive money like this. It considered scamming."

"How could you say that? This is not scamming at all. They all donated to us voluntary. It's not like they force them for anything." Isabella scolded from the side.

"Tia, don't listen to your father. If you shut down the website now, doesn't it mean that we're turning away the money that has already been donated to us?"

Looking at the constantly changing numbers, Tia was very tempted. She had no intention of shutting the website down at all.

"Dad, you still need money to pay the follow up treatment. Our whole family is counting on you. You are sick now. If we don't save more money here, how are we supposed to live in the future?"

"Tia is right." Isabella strongly supported Tia's words.

Thomas could only shake his head helplessly after listening to her words.
