Chapter 651

Alex knew he couldn't waste any more time, as he noticed Autumn kept tossing and turning on the bed as if she was in great pain.

In order to bring her out of the room, he held her firmly in his arms. Autumn immediately had her arms wrapped around him.

He had a hard time breathing due to the woman's powerful grip. However, he couldn't care less because he needed to rush her to Sakura Club as soon as possible.

“Hey, where are you taking her with you?” Desmond asked when Alex was on his way out of the room with Autumn.

Alex dismissed the young man's question and continued marching out of the room at top speed.

When he was on his way out of the hotel, he felt her breath on his neck as she continued kissing him intimately.

He paid no heed to the weird sensation he felt and hailed a cab. Then he instructed the driver as soon as he made it into the car with her, "Take me to Sakura Club at once!"

Autumn continued muttering in barely audible volume throughout the journey. Alex couldn't hear her apart from the time she addressed his name.

Just when Alex tried to figure out the things he needed to help Autumn alleviate her condition, he felt an odd sensation coming from his pelvic area.

His eyes widened in disbelief when he caught a glimpse of Autumn lying on his thigh with her eyes glued to his groin.

Startled by the woman's response, he tried to shrug her off, but she ended up in his arms again because of the bumpy road.

Autumn then whispered in his ear with a salacious look, “Can you give it to me? I want you!”

Alex let out a few coughs before he recomposed himself.

Alex knew he had to do something about her to stop himself from going berserk. Subsequently, he launched a powerful strike on her neck and rendered her unconscious.

Once she passed out and stopped trying something reckless, Alex let out a long sigh of relief.

“Youngsters nowadays are getting increasingly wild, huh? I was afraid of holding the hand of my significant half back when we weren't married yet!”

Alex felt embarrassed when he heard the driver making fun of him. He knew the driver must have been observing them ever since they boarded the car.

Instead of engaging himself in a conversation with the driver, he looked out the window until he reached his destination.

He rushed into the place with Autumn in his arms shortly after he paid the driver. He quickly got a bottle of pills out of a drawer and fed her a pill.

In the meantime, David, who had his pants completely drenched, started throwing a tantrum, destroying everything around him to vent his frustration.

He couldn't feel his groin anymore. To be precise, he couldn't even feel his manhood when he wetted his pants.

As a man, nothing could possibly hurt him more than losing his manhood. He thought it was worse than killing him on the spot.

David couldn't care less about his disheveled look. He rushed out of the room and yelled at the woman he encountered in the hallway, “Try seducing me! Hurry up!”

The woman was astonished by his words. She shrugged him off and reprimanded him, “Have you lost your mind or something? Go get yourself a doctor if you're not feeling well!”

Unwilling to waste his time, David showed her the stack of cash he had with him and instructed, “I'm telling you to seduce me immediately!”

Tempted by the money he had shown her, she brought him to another room to have sex with him.

A few minutes later, David's yell echoed throughout the hallway of the hotel. “Alex, how dare you to turn me into half the man I used to be! I'm going to kill you!”

In Sakura Club, Autumn brought herself up from the bed once she regained consciousness. As she continued massaging her swollen temples, she finally recalled the things she had gone through prior to losing her consciousness.

I wasn't in my right mind and lost control over my body after David forced me to drink the suspicious glass of water in Venus Hotel! He almost got his way! Alex was the one rushing to my rescue! In the end, he brought me into the car and took me somewhere else with him! I-I seemed to have lost control over myself during the ride before I was unconscious!

Autumn flushed once she recounted the things she had done and said in the car. She wasn't even sure if she could carry herself in an ordinary manner whenever she was around him in the future.

Once she gathered her thoughts, she pulled the blanket off her body to check on herself, since she could vividly recall that she had been drugged.

She found that her shirt was disheveled, yet she knew she was the one who had ripped her own shirt. On top of her was a man's jacket of inferior quality.

Therefore, it was safe to assume it belonged to Alex.

Autumn couldn't figure out the reason Alex was able to pull himself together instead of letting loose of his lust when she wasn't even in her right mind. Is he just a righteous man? Or is he a blockhead?

For some reason, she was slightly upset, but those were concerns for another day. She surveyed the surroundings for a moment before she stepped out of the room.

Not long after she stepped out of the room, she ran into Auriel. “Ms. Jones? You're not supposed to get out of bed just yet!”

Before Autumn could reply to her, Auriel muttered to herself again, “Mr. Jefferson is awesome! He figured out the exact time you were going to regain consciousness and asked me to take the medicine to you. I need to get him to teach me this in the future!”

Autumn asked with a smile, “Do you know where Mr. Jefferson is? Can you please show me the way to him? I wish to express my gratitude for the favor he has done me.”

“Mr. Jefferson is currently occupied with something else. Therefore, he told you to pay him a visit in the near future.” Auriel showed Autumn the bowl of concoction and urged, “He wanted you to finish this as well.”

Autumn expressed her gratitude and gulped down the entire bowl of concoction without any hesitation.

Since she couldn't meet Alex, she then went home and told her father the things she had gone through. There was no way she would let David off the hook.

When she was merely a step away from the entrance of the Jones residence, she heard someone shrieking at the top of his lungs. She could tell right away that the voice belonged to Desmond.

Her heart sank to the bottom of her stomach, as she thought something was wrong with Desmond. Without a second thought, she rushed into the mansion.

Stefan wouldn't stop whipping Desmond who had been tied up and hung in the middle of the air.

Autumn couldn't believe her eyes and thought her father might have figured out the things going on when she was away. How is that possible? Has Desmond told Dad everything?

Autumn rushed over to stop her father and urged, “Dad, calm down! Can't we talk about it? Is it necessary to resort to violence?”

Stefan glanced at her daughter and beckoned her to leave him alone because he had no intention to stop just yet.

“He's getting increasingly absurd! It's time to teach him a lesson! Otherwise, he's going to bring upon the downfall of the family soon!”

“Autumn, you need to save me! Uncle Stefan is going to kill me!”

Desmond asked Autumn to do him a favor, but nothing she brought up could change her father's mind, as he was determined to vent his frustration on the young man.

In the end, others showed up to bring Desmond to his room. He continued shrieking in pain while walking up the stairs.

Autumn asked, "What's going on? Has Dad figured out the truth?"

Desmond answered with an aggrieved look, "I-I told him everything David was up to and urged him to avenge you!"

Sighing, the young man added, "However, he found out something was wrong and forced me to tell him the truth. He threatened to cast me out of the family. Thus, I had no choice but to tell him everything. Then he punished me without mercy."

Autumn thought Desmond deserved it because she wouldn't have fallen prey to David if it weren't because of him.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 653

After Alex sorted everything out, he returned home. He missed his son, as he had not met his son for more than two days.

Heather's family wasn't influenced when the Jenningses had filed for bankruptcy because Heather had tendered her resignation a long time ago. It was the best out of the worst possible outcomes.

Alex had thought of dropping by the kindergarten to pick Stanley up, but it was a futile attempt.

By the time he arrived home, it was already six o'clock in the evening. As soon as he stepped into the living room, he ran into his brother-in-law and mother-in-law.

Lucas had his eyes glued to his phone since he was in the middle of a game. Meanwhile, Carmen was seated next to her son on the couch, watching the television.

When Alex passed by the duo, he thought of ignoring them and marched in the direction of Stanley's room.

It was then that Carmen slammed the coffee table with all her might and bellowed, "What are you doing here? Haven't you been trying to hit on someone else because our family is no longer in our prime?”

Alex had no intention to engage himself in another conflict. He just couldn't figure out the reason they wouldn't stop picking on him.

Not wanting to talk to them, Alex was about to return to his son's room. Just then, Heather walked out of the kitchen and said, “Alex, I think we need to talk.”

He turned around and looked at Heather. Then he said coldly, “What is it? Why don't you tell me now? I'll take Stanley away with me in a short while.”

Carmen was upset by Alex's attitude. She sprang up from her seat and rushed to her daughter's side, reprimanding her son-in-law, “Is this the way you're supposed to talk to my daughter?”

She seemed to have forgotten Alex wasn't an easy target when Alex was being courteous to them.

“Also, where do you think you're taking Stanley with you? You're not allowed to take him away from us!”

Alex turned around and remarked, “Stanley's my son! I can take him wherever I want as his father!”

“Stop getting full of yourself! Shall we not forget my daughter is his mother as well? We're talking about my grandson!”

“Well, I'm afraid that won't be for long.”

Halfway through the conversation, Heather asked, “Are you trying to take him away and divorce me because of that woman?”

Seconds after Heather finished her sentence, Carmen went berserk because she couldn't believe the man she deemed a wimp had gotten himself into an affair with someone else.

“How dare you cheat on Heather when you're just a live-in son-in-law? I'm going to kill you for betraying my daughter!” Carmen started throwing punches at Alex.

Alex was irked and thought he would never return if it weren't because of his son. After all, the Jenningses were nothing but a bunch of fools.

He pushed his mother-in-law aside and repeated himself in a callous tone, “Heather, I've made myself clear for once, and I'm going to repeat myself for one last time. I've never cheated on you. If you still think that's not the case, we can always file for divorce whenever you're ready.”

He returned to Stanley's room and greeted his son with a bright grin once he made himself clear.

Stanley was initially occupied with a book, but when he saw Alex, he catapulted in the direction of his father.

The little boy snuggled against his father and asked in a mellifluous voice, “Daddy, where have you been? Why were you away for such a long time? Can you take me along with you whenever you're away in the future?”

All of a sudden, Alex stopped holding a grudge against Heather and her family because they were affiliated with his son at the end of the day.

He kissed his son on the forehead and said, “I was occupied with something for the past two days, but I rushed over as soon as I was done.”

Alex thought of taking Stanley away with him. However, he changed his mind at the last minute and spent a night with Stanley in his room.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 654

Alex brought Stanley out with him early in the morning. Carmen was about to pick on her son-in-law, but Heather stopped her.

Staring at the departing father-son duo, Heather wondered if they would truly leave her someday.

Alex was in a great mood with Stanley was next to him in the car. Whenever his son was around, he thought nothing else mattered.

Thrilled by the upcoming agenda, the little boy asked, “Daddy, where are we going?”

“We'll go to the amusement park! I'll take you to try the rides you've always wanted to try!”

He finally had time to accompany his son over the weekend. Therefore, he thought of spending some quality time with his son.

The amusement park was crowded with people from all over the city. Alex held Stanley's hand and showed him around the park, fulfilling his wishes.

Alex was contented when he saw Stanley smiling throughout his time with him at the park.

When Stanley was riding the merry-go-round, a woman ruined the peaceful atmosphere by exclaiming, “Hey, isn't this the good-for-nothing neighbor of ours? What's your name again? Alex? Are you here with your son?”

Alex turned around and noticed a family of three, including a man and a woman in their mid-thirties as well as a little girl, had shown up behind him.

Who are they? Oh! They're the so-called neighbors. If my memory serves me right, they're Joseph and Wendy. What do they want from me? We're not really acquainted with one another, are we?

Confused by the reason the woman with an ostentatious outfit had struck up a conversation with him, he asked, “What do you want from me?”

“What do you think? I can't possibly ask for something from a loser like you, can I?” Wendy remarked with a scowl.

After she finished her sentence, Alex turned around, indicating he had no intention to carry on with the conversation.

Unable to stand the man she deemed a loser ignoring her, she added, “It must be our unlucky day to run into you here! I bet you can't mooch off the stony-broke Jenningses anymore, right?”

She took the chance to insult the Jenningses, since her family wasn't a match for the Jenningses in terms of wealth a few years ago.

Meanwhile, Joseph remained silent throughout the conversation of his wife with Alex. It seemed as if he was afraid of defying her as well.

On the other hand, Alex had no intention to let others ruin his day just yet. He asked nonchalantly in return, “What does the Jenningses' situation have to do with you?”

Wendy got increasingly enraged because of Alex's question. She yelled, “What? Are you angry when I'm not even done yet? Haven't you enjoyed living off a woman throughout the years? Why are you here when you can't even make ends meet?”

Alex answered with a smile, “Thank you so much for expressing your concerns over the family, but we're doing just fine. At the very least, I can still afford the ticket to an amusement park.”

The enraged woman thought it was one of Alex's lies to defend the family. Subsequently, she yelled, “The family is a shame to the neighborhood, but it's fine.

It's only a matter of time before the family has to liquidate the house for cash!”

“Actually, it's really none of your business.” Alex tried to wrap up the conversation with Wendy because Stanley was finally done with the merry-go-round.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 655

Unable to stand the woman nagging at him anymore, Alex was about to take Stanley elsewhere with him.

However, Wendy got in their way and asked, “What's wrong? Why are you in a hurry to leave when we're still in the middle of a conversation? Are you afraid of embarrassing yourself in front of your son?"

"What else do you want from me?"

"I'm just trying to do my neighbor a favor! You know you can always come to us if the Jenningses have trouble making ends meet! I'll consider doing the family a favor instead of turning a blind eye!"

She had just indicated Heather and the rest of her family were similar to beggars from the streets. It was another one of her attempts to humiliate Alex.

"Oh? Thank you so much for the offer, but what exactly are you trying to offer the family?" Alex asked with a smile.

Wendy made a face and thought she couldn't expect much from a man who had been living off a woman throughout the years.

No wonder others wouldn't stop looking down on him! I can't believe he took me seriously when I was merely kidding! I seriously can't wait to see them suffer! Maybe I'll consider donating them a meal or two once in a while when they show up at our doorstep!

When Wendy thought of the things awaiting the family, she announced with her head held high, “My husband holds a managerial position in the company! His monthly wages are more than tens of thousands! If you grovel yourself at our mercy, maybe I'll get him to do you a favor and get you a job!”

Joseph arched his brows when he heard his wife's boastful statement. It turned out she was lying, and he was merely an executive of the company with monthly wages of a few thousand.

Otherwise, he wouldn't have to listen to his wife when he was supposed to be the one leading the household.

Although he was conscious those were merely lies, he remained silent because he was afraid she would pick on him once they were home.

After Alex took a peek at Joseph, he played along with Wendy and complimented, “Wow! Seriously? A managerial position with monthly wages of tens of thousands?”

Wendy got increasingly proud and showed him the designer bag she had. “See? This cost him over two hundred thousand, but he bought me this with his bonus without a second thought!”

Joseph's confusion was written all over his face. He had never heard of anything regarding bonuses. Since she had control over his monthly wages, he was never the one who had bought her the bag.

Alex had his eyes glued to the bag while complimenting, “Indeed, you're the only one who deserves such a valuable bag!”

It was then that Stanley asked with his brows arched in confusion, “Daddy, Mommy has the same bag. But what's wrong with the color of this bag? It seems different from Mommy's. Is it a fake?”

Wendy put her bag aside when she heard the little boy. She reprimanded Stanley, “You need to stop lying because there's no way she can afford a bag that cost two hundred thousand! The one your mommy has is the fake one! Mine is a genuine good!”

All of a sudden, a few ladies next to them brought themselves to a halt when one of them caught a glimpse of Wendy's bag.

She burst out laughing and said, “Oh, my God! Is she seriously telling others it's a genuine one when it's obviously something from the streets?”

The young woman's friends turned around and made fun of Wendy in a similar manner when they heard her.

“Does she think she gets to deceive everyone with that cheap bag she has over there?”

Wendy flushed in angst as they continued making fun of her without any signs of stopping soon.

Joseph's face scrunched up in pain as she pinched his arm with all her might to take things out on him, but he dared not defend himself.

Joseph's quite a pitiable man, huh? She doesn't even bother to respect him when they're out as a family of three.

Shortly after the young women's departure, Wendy was the arrogant woman again.

She reprimanded with a contemptuous look, “Youngsters nowadays have no manners at all! Moreover, they have such bad taste to the extent they can't even differentiate genuine goods from counterfeit goods!”

All of a sudden, Stanley leaned over and whispered, “Daddy, she's such a shameless woman.”

Alex laughed and caressed his son's head instead of exposing the arrogant woman in front of them.

Wendy couldn't stand Alex laughing because she thought the man was making fun of her just as those young women did.

She yelled, “I was even planning to ask my husband to get you a job! I guess we don't need to waste our time with the likes of you! You deserve whatever's awaiting you and the family!”

It was then that Wendy's daughter grasped the hem of her shirt and requested, “Mommy, they're selling cotton candy over there! Can you get me one?”

Wendy turned into a lovely mother in split seconds. She patted the little girl's head and answered, "Sure! I'll go get you one immediately!"

Stanley couldn't stop himself from gulping when he caught a glimpse of the cotton candy.

Alex was heartbroken when he saw his son gulping in silence instead of making a fuss when he had a similar craving.

He thought the little boy was too mature for his own good. "Stanley, do you want it as well? I'll go get you one!" he said.

Wendy, who had made it to the stall with her daughter, started insulting Alex when he showed up with Stanley. "What are you doing here? You're not trying to get your son cotton candy, are you?"

“What? Are you the owner of the stall or something?” Alex asked in a calm and collected manner.

Irked by Alex's question, Wendy glared at him in the eyes and said to the owner of the stall, “Sir, I'll purchase everything you have!”

It took the stall owner a few seconds to snap out of bewilderment. Once he returned to his senses, he asked while sizing her up, “Miss, are you sure? It's going to cost you a little more than twenty thousand if you're serious.”

Wendy secretly gulped when she heard the total it would cost her. Although it was nothing she couldn't afford, it might influence the family's budget for the months to come.

Once again, the owner repeated himself, “Miss, are you sure?”

Wendy dismissed the owner's question, pretending as if she hadn't heard him.

The owner rolled his eyes and paid no heed to Wendy after he handed her the cotton candy he made.

Alex couldn't care less and remained silent throughout the conversation. He asked the stall owner to get him another cotton candy for Stanley once he was done with Wendy's order.

Stanley resisted the urge to have the first bite and offered, "Daddy, I'll let you take the first bite."

Overwhelmed by emotions, Alex took a small bite instead of turning him down.

"It tastes great!"

Stanley took a bite after his father had the first bite.
The duo had a great time savoring it.

Wendy, who was still nearby, turned around and took a peek at her daughter. Unfortunately, her daughter showed no signs of sharing the cotton candy with her.

Chapter 657

Wendy was jealous, as Alex seemed to be having a great time with his son even when the family was stony broke.

“Cotton candy isn't meant to be shared! That's very disgusting and unhygienic! I guess I can't blame you, since you can't afford another one, huh?"

Alex and Stanley couldn't care less about Wendy's remarks, as they were aware that she was merely jealous.

He gave his son a piggyback ride and asked Wendy, "We're about to leave. Do you want to join us?"

Wendy was at a loss for words. She couldn't believe he was able to carry himself in a calm and collected manner even after she had humiliated him more than once.

She thought it might have something to do with him going through something similar throughout the years. Thus, she couldn't help but feel sorry for the man.

After taking a glimpse at her phone, she realized it was indeed time to go home. Nonetheless, she had no intention of joining the father-son duo because she still deemed them unworthy of her time.

Alex and Stanley were walking behind the family of three as the latter made their way out of the amusement park.

Wendy thought they were merely heading toward the entrance. However, when she made it to the parking lot, she found out the father-son duo was still following behind them. Puzzled, she recalled Alex's offer and wondered if he needed a ride home.

When the thought crossed her mind, she turned around with her face puckered in irritation, yelling to chase the duo away, "You don't think we're going to give you and your son a ride, do you? I'm sorry, but that's impossible!"

Alex arched his brows in confusion. He had a hard time fathoming the things going on in Wendy's mind. He said, "Actually, I don't need a ride home. I can send you and your family home if you need a ride."

Wendy thought Alex was talking about his motorcycle when he offered to give them a ride. She asked sarcastically, "Are you sure your ride can accommodate all of us?"

Instead of answering her query, he remained silent and responded with a smile.

Seeing his response, she looked at Alex with an arrogant grin.

"Thanks for the offer, but no thanks. I prefer sitting in a car instead of exposing myself to unnecessary risk in a motorcycle."

“Well, go ahead and suit yourself.” Instead of wasting his time engaging himself in a conversation with her, Alex marched in the direction of a Bugatti.

At the same time, Wendy and her family noticed the presence of the luxurious vehicle. She pushed Alex aside and rushed over with her eyes gleaming.

“Wow! Am I seeing things? Isn't this the latest model of the brand? It must be my lucky day for me to run into it in real life!”

Once she ensured she hadn't mistaken the car for another car, she started inspecting the car while keeping her distance in fear of ruining the car.

It might cost her a fortune to compensate the owner if she were to damage it. It was an astronomical figure she could never afford.

It's a dream come true if I'm allowed to go for a ride in this car!

Joseph retrieved his phone and urged, "Hurry up and stand next to the car! I'll take a picture of you!"

His wife nodded vigorously and stood next to the car shortly after she touched up on her appearance. Once she was ready, she instructed, "All right. I'm done!"

After they ensured they had the pictures they needed, Wendy noticed Alex was around again. She asked, "Can you stop staring at us? You can never afford this car."

Unwilling to make a fuss out of something trivial, Alex responded with a smile and unlocked the car with his key. Wendy was startled due to the flickering headlamps.

As a result, the intimidated Wendy squatted down next to the car. Once she returned to her senses, she saw Alex standing in front of her, instructing in a callous tone, “Can you move aside and stop getting in the way?”

Wendy's mind went completely blank while stepping aside as instructed.

She couldn't even fathom the things going on anymore when Alex showed Stanley the way to the car and helped him fasten the seatbelt.

Once he was done, he returned to his seat and accelerated the car in the direction of the bustling streets, leaving the confused Wendy and her family behind.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 658

The loser and his son just left in a Bugatti. How is that possible?

Wendy refused to acknowledge that Alex, the loser, was the owner of such a lavish and exclusive car.

She continued making things up to deceive herself until she linked the missing pieces of puzzles together and figured out he had never once taken her seriously.

Is that the reason why he was all smiles whenever I tried humiliating him in front of his son? That's just because he couldn't be bothered to refute me. He even offered to give us a ride. Have I just missed out on a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to go for a ride in such a luxurious vehicle? Why did I turn him down?

She started regretting her actions, as she knew it was very foolish of her to offend someone capable of purchasing a luxury Bugatti.

It's merely a piece of cake for him to get rid of us or wipe us out of existence from Nebula City! N-No! W-We need to move somewhere else as soon as possible!

Thinking that Alex might come after them, she remained standing in silence while all color drained from her face.

Joseph thought something was wrong with her, so he rushed to her side without a second thought. Then he asked concernedly, “What's wrong? Are you all right?”

His wife stuttered in return, “W-We need to move out of Nebula City as soon as possible! W-We should never return for the rest of our lives!”

Truth be told, Alex had never once taken her seriously. All along, he thought she was just another fool that was unworthy of his time.

Meanwhile, a middle-aged man was chased out of the Zucker residence along with the things he brought along for the inspection. He ended up shrieking in pain in front of the maids waiting outside of the room.

He brought himself up and yelled at the man in the room, “I've never seen such an ignorant and arrogant patient throughout the two decades I'm in the industry! There's nothing much the divine physician, Tyrael, can do about it as well!”

Seconds after he finished his remarks, someone cast another chair in his direction, but he managed to evade it after getting himself ready for the assault.

The perspiring man stammered, “I-I’ll never provide any consultation to the members of the Zucker family anymore!”

The man stomped his way out of the Zucker residence. After that, the ones outside of the room heard another round of commotions as David went berserk in the room.

Jorden was disappointed because most of the doctors from Nebula City told him it was over for his son, David.

Unable to accept the fact, David had chased over twenty doctors away within a day.

It turned out Jordan had gotten his only son, David, when he was in his mid-forties.

Unfortunately, when he was in his mid-sixties, the son, whom he regarded highly, was rendered impotent by someone else.

Jordan assured his wrathful son, “David, calm down and listen to me! I'll go get you another doctor to check on you! I'm sure there's someone capable of healing you!”

“Dad, how am I supposed to calm down when I'm half the man I used to be at the age of twenty? What am I supposed to do with my life from now onward?”

David then yelled hysterically, “I'm going to kill Alex! Send someone to take him out!”

“David, we can still count on Tyrael, the divine physician! I've heard of tales of wonders from others! Once he's here, I'm sure he can do something about it!”

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 659

Tyrael agreed to come to the Zucker family mansion to treat David after Jordan, the head of the Zucker family, specially came to ask him and offered him quite a sum of money for it.

“Mr. Zucker, I wonder what kind of disease your son has? Why are you so anxious?” Curious, Tyrael asked in the car.

When asked the question, Jordan instinctively looked at Auriel, who was sitting beside Tyrael. He didn't know if he should talk about his son's condition.

Unhappy, Auriel pursed her lips and said, "What's the point of coming to my father for help but not telling him the problem?"

After a moment's hesitation, Jordan finally told them about David's condition.

As he finished, he saw Auriel covering her mouth and laughing secretly, which made him feel a little unhappy. Since she was Tyrael's granddaughter, he didn't say anything despite his discomfort.

When David heard the car stopping in front of the Zucker family mansion, he immediately ran out.

He felt hopeful, seeing that his father managed to bring over the divine physician, Dr. Skyworth.

Tyrael had barely gotten out of the car when David grabbed his arm and talked to him anxiously, “Please save me, Dr. Skyworth. As long as you can save me, I'm willing to pay you any sum of money.”

“Calm down, David. Since Dr. Skyworth is here, he will cure your disease. Let go of his arm, and let's discuss everything in the living room,” Jorden said.

David calmed down and let go of Tyrael's hand. As they headed indoors, Auriel kept staring at David's groin curiously because it was the first time she had heard about his case.

Shortly after reaching David's side, Auriel tapped his shoulder and asked, “Is it true that your penis isn't functioning?”

David was so angry because Auriel was the first woman to point at his groin and ask him about his condition directly after Alex hurt him.

His face turned an ugly shade of black as he panted furiously.

Right then, Tyrael cleared his throat and said, “Auriel, don't spout nonsense. Apologize to Mr. Zucker at once.”

Auriel pursed her lips indignantly and protested, “I didn't say anything wrong, Grandpa! That's the reason he wants us to come, isn't it? What's there to hide about?”

Again, Auriel's words stung. David held his fists so tightly that his fingernails sank deep into his palms.

Jorden was equally furious as well. He would have sent someone to beat anyone that talked that way to death, but since Auriel was Tyrael's granddaughter and they still needed Tyrael's help, he couldn't do anything.

Just bear with it a little longer, David.

Tyrael started to observe David once they were indoors. As the part where he was injured was quite unusual, it wouldn't help much by just taking his pulse.

“Auriel, go out for a while,” Tyrael said.

Auriel grumbled instantly, “Grandpa, how can you do this to me? You've always let me observe how you treat patients.”

“Go out, or I'll never bring you with me the next time.”

Although Auriel was still reluctant, she went out as she was told.

After Auriel left the room, Tyrael turned to David and said, "Please take off your pants so that I can see what's wrong."

After hesitating for a while, David gritted his teeth and took off his pants, showing his groin to Tyrael.

After what seemed like a century, Tyrael finally spoke. "Mr. Zucker, I'm afraid that your son's condition is incurable. His veins in the groin area are completely broken. Anyone who caused this must have done it on purpose to prevent him from being cured."

David's eyes rolled, and he fainted on the ground when he heard Tyrael saying that.

“Please, Dr. Skyworth. You must be able to cure my son with your skills.” Jordan kneeled in front of Tyrael and pleaded, forgetting about his identity as the head of the Zucker family.

Tyrael hurried forward and helped Jordan up. “Please get up, Mr. Zucker. Your son's illness is not completely incurable. Since the person is capable of breaking the veins, he or she must be able to reconnect them again.”

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 660

“Is there any other way?” David asked Tyrael after waking up from his faint.

Deep down in his heart, he knew that Alex would never cure him after deciding to hurt him that badly!

Besides, he couldn't bear the thought of himself, the future head of the Zucker family, going to Alex and pleading with him to cure him.

Not to mention that even if he managed to strangle Alex to death, he would never be at peace with what had happened.

“Hmm...” Tyrael fell into deep thought, trying to figure out who had more expertise in the human body than him.

Tyrael could only think of one person that he admired, which was Alex.

Tyrael touched his mustache and began, “There's Alex Jefferson. He has done a lot of research on pills. I remembered that he once made the Pills of Revival, which could cure your condition.”

Once David heard the name, he leaped up from his seat agitatedly. Subconsciously, he thought that it couldn't be possible that the Alex Jefferson that Tyrael mentioned was the same person as the good-for-nothing son-in-law of the Jennings family.

But still, he asked, “Dr. Skyworth, is the Alex Jefferson you mentioned the loser son-in-law of the Jennings family?”

Tyrael was displeased when he heard David describing Alex as a loser. Not only was Alex a greater doctor than him, but he was also his savior and his granddaughter's mentor.

Tyrael scoffed, “What do you mean, Mr. Zucker? Even if Dr. Jefferson is married into the Jennings family, that doesn't change the fact that his medical skills are better than mine. Besides, he saved my life once.”

If you're saying that Dr. Jefferson is a loser, are you saying that I'm worse than a loser?

David never expected Tyrael to be so protective of Alex and praise his medical skills.

He suddenly recalled that Jason addressed Alex respectfully as Dr. Jefferson a few days ago. Could it be that he is really good at curing people?

Not to mention that Alex was also capable of knocking out ten of his bodyguards all by himself. Is he really a loser?

David started to ponder on the question.

Jorden knew that his son was thinking about Alex when he didn't say anything.

Jorden asked Tyrael again, “Dr. Skyworth, can't you produce the Pill of Revival that you mentioned just now?”

Tyrael laughed bitterly and shook his head. Sighing, he said, “My skills are limited. Dr. Jefferson is indeed a rare talent.”

A rare talent? What a joke! He's just a good-for-nothing!

At that moment, the door to the house was slightly opened by Auriel. Sticking her head out by the door frame, she blinked her eyes and asked, “Grandpa, can I come in now?”

After Tyrael nodded, Auriel entered the living room happily. As she passed by David, she gave him a weird look.

“Grandpa, have you cured him?”

Tyrael shook his head and sighed. “No, my skills are limited. There is nothing that I can do.”

“Haha! Then he won't be able to marry anyone else forever!” Auriel laughed out loud and looked at David with bemusement.

She found it amusing to stir trouble for David because she hated his creepiness at first sight.

“Mr. Zucker, why don't you go to Thornland for a sex reassignment surgery? That way, no one will laugh at you for being impotent,” Auriel suggested.

“Auriel, don't be rude!” Tyrael scolded.

Only then did she shut her mouth.

The longer that David looked at Auriel, the angrier he became. He couldn't stand being humiliated by a little girl so many times.

The worst that could happen was for him to beg for Alex's help. As long as his condition could be cured, he would do anything.

After that, he would find a way to kill Alex.
