

Chapter 7 That girl is a gold digger

Edward dropped a message to his secretary and left with Lala.

Donald Mega estate was indeed the largest estate in the whole of Newland. The estate is estimated to be worth about nine hundred billion dollars. It was the highest investment of Donald's group.

"Why did old Donald leave such huge property for me?" Lala asked Edward who was showing her around.

"The old man trusted you. He believes that his property will be safe in your hands. Moreover, he once told me that he left the estate in the hands of someone that will expand it and bring Donald's name to the world." Edward replied.

"The old man has such great expectations from me. But I can't bring his dream to reality, I don't have what it takes." Lala lamented.

"Well for the little I know of you, you are a fighter and I am sure you will not rest until the old man's dream comes to pass," Edward said as they went back to his car.

"I will see you tomorrow around 10 am for the signing of the necessary document," he said.

"That will be good" Lala replied as the car drove out of the estate.

Lala came back mentally exhausted. She was thinking of how to make old Donald's dream come true when she slept off.

The next morning, Lala went to Mr. Edward's office, the young man welcomed her and gave her a seat.

"Thank you," she said and settled down.

"Here are the files. Please sign here and here" the man said pointing at the places that needed her signature. Lala took his pen and signed the documents.

"I will take you to the bank to see the bank manager so that he can transfer all the money we made in the estate for the past three years.

Just tell me when you will be free" Mr. Edward said

"I am free right now, only if you are okay with it" she replied

"Of course, I am free. Let's go." He said and both of them left his office.

Within a short period, Lala was done with the signing necessary papers, and the money was transferred into her account.

"Thank you, Mr. Edward, but please I still want you to take care of the estate for me, and don't let anyone know that I am the owner for now," Lala said.

"That's won't be a problem. Your secret is saved with us" Edward replied.

Edward dropped Lala at Nancy's house and drove out.

"Sir your wife is here to see you," Kelvin Smith Lucas's assistant said immediately after he came inside his office.

Luca smiled. "I know she will come back to me. She can't survive without me" he thought in his mind and said

"Send her in"

Kelvin left the office.

"Ma'am Mr. Donald will see you now," he said and opened the door for Lala to come in. With her was a very good-looking young man. They both came inside Lucas's office. Lucas, who was smiling a few seconds ago became angry the moment he saw Lala with a man. It was just a few days ago that she left the house and she had started seeing another man already he thought in his mind.

"What are you doing here," he asked forming annoyance.

"As you can see I am here with my lawyer, Mr. Theo Marrow." She replied.

"Mr. Donald, my client here wants a divorce and you can do well to sign this paper without any resistance because she has overwhelming evidence against you," Theo said and gave him the divorce papers which Lala has already signed.

Lucas took the paper and saw Lala's signature neatly signed on her part of the paper. Lucas was boiling inside with rage, however, he refused to give Lala the liberty of knowing how hurt he was. He picked up the papers without thinking and said

"Since this is what you want, then, so be it. But make sure you won't regret it later"

"I can assure you that I won't ever regret it," Lala answered him with so much hate and contempt.

Her words hurt him the more, he only thought that his words will make her think twice, however, she has already made up her mind and she seems so sure of herself. Lucas looked at Lala again and wondered what has gotten over her and how did she change overnight. He signed the paper and handed it over to the lawyer.

"We shall see you in court to proceed with the divorce procedure." The lawyer said and left with Lala.

Luca slumped on his chair and closed his eyes. How did things go wrong like this? Why did he push her this far? She has done nothing but loves him without asking for anything in return.

"I warned you, I told you to stop this game but you won't listen to me now look at what you have brought upon yourself" Kelvin blamed Lucas.

Even though he works as his assistant, Kelvin and Lucas has been best friend since they were in high school. So Kelvin knows how Lala adores Lucas, unlike Dolly who was only after his money and fame.

"You just missed a good woman for that good-for-nothing greedy bitch" Kelvin yelled. Lucas stood up in anger and grabbed Kelvin on his collar then he dragged him to the wall before punching him hard on his cheek. He shoveled him away and left the office.

"Holy shit," Kelvin said spitting out the blood in his mouth. He cleaned his mouth and left the office too.

"I knew that Lala was up to something, she wanted half of your wealth that was why she is requested divorce". Nadia said

"Are you going to grant him that?" Geraldine Lucas's mom asked.

"You can't possibly let her go without making her pay for all the things she has done to you" she added.

"That girl must be insane to think that she will reap what she did not sow. She is nothing but a gold digger." Nadia said.
