

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 781

Thunderstruck, Yates felt like he was thrown into the pit of despair.

I have given up everything! I've even given up my family heirloom just so I could have a chance at becoming the chairman of Leighton Pharmaceutical. But now, it seems that I've been going on a fool's errand...

Alex couldn't stand Nicholas making a fool out of him. he narrowed his eyes and warned, "I'll give you another chance to change your mind and appoint Yates as the chairman of the company. Otherwise, there will be consequences for going back on your words."

Yates was glad that Alex was there since no one else tried to defend him from his shameless father.

On the other hand, Nicholas' expression darkened when he heard Alex ordering him around.

I don't have to listen to him anymore since David is no longer a threat! In fact, I don't think I'll mind offending Tyrael as well!

Finally showing his true nature, Nicholas spat, "Indeed, I have never thought of appointing Yates as the chairman of Leighton Pharmaceutical. I mean, he's merely the son of a country bumpkin. His mother's the worst out of all the ones I've ever bedded. There's no way I'm allowing someone as inferior as him to inherit the empire I've built up!"

He then turned around and sneered at Yates. Every time I look at him, I would be reminded of his countrybumpkin of a mother.

Back in the day, he couldn't stand spending a day without having some raunchy fun. However, because he was forced to spend most of his time at Coldbridge collecting herbs, he couldn't find anyone to satisfy his carnal desire.

If it wasn't because Yates' mother was somewhat of a looker, Nicholas would never consider spending a night with a country bumpkin.

Yates should consider himself lucky to even be acknowledged as a member of the Leighton family! And yet, here he is, pushing his luck on trying to become the chairman of Leighton Pharmaceutical! What a joke!

The veins on Yates' forehead bulged as he couldn't stand Nicholas insulting his mother anymore.

After all, Nicholas was the one who hit on his mother in the first place. Not to mention his grandfather was so pissed off when he found out about this that he passed away.

Thinking about this, Yates rushed over in an attempt to confront Nicholas. However, the other members of the Leighton family got in his way and shoved him aside.

Sprawling helplessly on the floor, Yates glared at Nicholas with his eyes brimming in tears. Gritting his teeth, Yates choked out, “How could you humiliate my mother in front of everyone?”

Gleeful with the turn of events, Callum yelled, “What do you mean Dad's humiliating your mother? He's just telling the truth! You're just the son of a country bumpkin! We can't even be sure if you're related to the family! There's no way we're appointing someone with such an ambiguous identity as the chairman of Leighton Pharmaceutical!”

Eyes reddening, tears started to stream down Yates' cheeks as the others continued to insult his mother.

He brought himself up with his fists clenched as he recalled the sort of humiliations his half-brother had brought upon him over the past two decades.

Never had Yates thought of retaliating against Callum, but he couldn't stand his half-brother making fun of his late mother anymore.

He sprinted over in an attempt to vent his frustration, but it was another futile attempt when another member of the Leighton family landed a kick on him, sending him sprawling to the ground once more.

Just then, someone brought Callum to Yates' side. The former proceeded to spit on the face of his half-brother without any hesitation.

“Who the hell do you think you are to challenge us? You don't think others are going to help an illegitimate son like you, do you?”

Standing at the side, Alex could no longer watch the father and son duo of the Leighton family making fun of Yates. As such, he reached for his phone and made a call.

“Hello? Mr. Jefferson, how may I help you?” Jack answered the call, asking in a courteous manner.

When the people in the hall noticed that Alex was in the middle of a phone call, they turned their attention toward him as they wondered what he was going to do next.

It was the same for Nicholas. He remained silent and wondered if Alex had lost his mind due to extreme frustration.

He's just a live-in son-in-law! I doubt he's capable of forcing me into submission with a call, right?

“Has Four Seas Corporation established any form of collaboration with Leighton Pharmaceutical?” Alex asked in a callous tone.

Confused about what was going on, Jack only knew it wouldn't be wise to question the chairman and dared not ask too many questions.

After he gathered the relevant information, he answered, “Mr. Jefferson, Leighton Pharmaceutical is but a small and mediocre enterprise unworthy of our time. However, I do have a friend of mine who is the board member of the company.”

“If that's the case, I'll leave this matter to you. I want Leighton Pharmaceutical to go out of business within ten minutes,” Alex said flatly.

Because he did not turn on the speaker, Alex was the only one aware of the identity of the person on the other end of the call.

Nonetheless, his words had managed to take everyone by surprise as they gawped at him.

As capable as he might be as a doctor, there's no way he can put up much of a fight against the Leighton family!

We're well aware of the company's situation. At the very least, our company has a net worth of more than two billion.

There's no way he can get rid of Leighton Pharmaceutical in just ten minutes. He must be delusional if he thinks that we're just going to roll over and die just because he made a phone call.

The members of the Leighton family thought it was merely one of Alex's many bluffs. Only Tyrael and Yates knew that it was over for the Leighton family just when they had sorted out the crisis with David.

“Alex, you need to stop getting so full of yourself because it'll take more than a call of yours to make sure Leighton Pharmaceutical is out of business. Leave now while I'm still in a forgiving mood. A good-for-nothing loser like you is not welcomed here!" Callum warned.

Scoffing, Alex said, "We shall see if I'm lying or not in ten minutes! But don't worry, though, for my goal is not to force Leighton Pharmaceutical out of business. My ultimate goal is to teach both you and your father a lesson you shan't forget!"

Nicholas thought it was a waste of time to take Alex seriously as no one could possibly pose a threat to him when they were at the Leighton residence.

He instructed coldly, "Men, take him into custody for spreading malicious rumors against the Leighton family."

“Why? Can't you even spare ten minutes? Since you're so keen to have some fun, I'll ask someone else to join you!”

With that, Alex sent a message to Flynn to join him at the Leighton residence.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 783

Nicholas wasn't startled at all. He thought it was impossible for Alex to be affiliated with someone capable of going against the whole Leighton family.

Seconds after the Leighton family's men surrounded

Alex, Tyrael yelled at Nicholas, “What the hell do you think you're doing? Is this your way of showing your gratitude to Dr. Jefferson for solving the crises on behalf of your family?”

Pursing his lips, Callum spat, “Shut your d*mn mouth, old man! If it weren't because of my injuries, I would've given you one hell of a beating by now! How dare you refuse me when I've gotten down on my knees, asking you to come with me? Had you followed me here instead of Yates, we wouldn't have to go through any of these!”

Tyrael was on the verge of losing his cool, but Alex tapped on his shoulder, urging the older man to remain calm. He wanted to see just how despicable the Leighton family could get.

“Dr. Jefferson, this is too much! They're trying to take us into custody on top of refusing to honor their promises! There's no way I'm treating any members of the Leighton family in the future!” an enraged Tyrael announced at the top of his lungs.

Alex couldn't care less because he was certain it wouldn't take long until it was over for the Leighton family.

Now that Tyrael had fallen out with the Leighton family, Nicholas and Callum thought it wasn't necessary to show any mercy to Tyrael anymore.

Hence, Callum signaled one of the men to take Tyrael out. The man marched in Tyrael's direction while rolling up his sleeves, planning to teach Tyrael a very harsh lesson.

However, before he could even lay a finger on Tyrael, someone grabbed his arm.

It was Alex. Infuriated, the man tried to throw a punch at Alex.

What the hell? He's just a stupid doctor! How dare he get in my way!

Similarly, before his fist could touch Alex, he was sent flying back until he knocked into another member of the family.

Alex couldn't believe they had the audacity to even consider beating Tyrael up. After all, Tyrael was considered as an elder and should be respected as such.

Just when Alex was about to say something, Yates got ahead of him and bellowed, "How could you! How dare you try laying a finger on Dr. Skyworth? I'm the one you're targeting, so just come after me with everything you've got and leave Dr. Skyworth alone!"

Moments after Yates finished his orated speech, someone launched a powerful kick in his stomach.

“You bastard child! Who are you to yell at us? It's time for you to learn your lesson as well!” Callum announced with a scowl. He had almost forgotten that his half-brother was still there with them.

He thought of venting his grievances out on Yates after being slapped in the face by Nicholas and beaten to a pulp by David's men.

It took Yates quite a while to pull himself together, for the kick he received was a powerful one. Shortly after he brought himself up, he had his arms wrapped around his stomach.

Gritting his teeth, he announced, “I'm officially severing ties with the Leighton family! There's no way I'm associating myself with such a shameless bunch!”

Those around him looked at him in disbelief and thought Yates must have gone mad after sustaining such serious injuries.

“He's quite a brazen young man, huh? How dare he severs ties with the Leighton family when he's just an illegitimate son?”

“To be honest, it's very foolish of him to sever ties with the family when he's so close to acquiring a fortune from his father!”

“Exactly! He would have secured a few hundred thousand had he sided with his father and brother instead of defending those outsiders.”

Callum beamed in satisfaction since no one was in the run for the family's fortune anymore.

As for Nicholas, he cast his walking stick in Yates' direction and bellowed, "I'm going to chase you away even if you don't sever ties with the family!"

The walking stick hit Yates on the forehead, and blood poured from his wound in an instant.

Alex narrowed his eyes at that. It would be a piece of cake for me to take all these b*stards out at once.

However, he had no intention of ruining the fun. Glancing at his phone, he smirked when he found out it had been a few minutes since he delivered the message.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 784

Before long, Nicholas received a call from Harrison, the person he appointed to take charge of Leighton Pharmaceutical whenever he wasn't around. He picked up the call without a second thought.

“Sir, something's happened at the company! The authorities suddenly showed up for a series of inspections and found that the company's the one behind the inferior products!”

Explaining everything in an agitated voice, Harrison told Nicholas that it was over for both the Leighton family and Leighton Pharmaceutical.

Apart from that, now that the Leighton family's shady deeds were exposed, it was only a matter of time before they were all thrown behind bars.

As the mastermind of the shady trades, Nicholas was certain that it would be the end for him if he were to be thrown behind bars in his mid-sixties.

Because Nicholas had switched his phone to speaker mode when he answered the call, those in the hall heard of the bad news and had their eyes widened in disbelief.

I can't believe it! Alex actually did what he promised to do... Leighton Pharmaceutical has gone out of business in just ten minutes...

Regardless, it was too late for them to come to the realization that Alex wasn't just a wimp now that things had gotten to the point of no return.

Nicholas leaned against the chair to stop himself from collapsing to the ground. He couldn't believe another crisis had befallen the family shortly after he resolved the crisis David brought upon them.

I-Is it truly over for Leighton Pharmaceutical? A-Am I going to spend the rest of my life behind bars?

Just then, Callum shook off the people that were supporting him and made his way to his father before interrupting his father's train of thought with a question.

“Dad, what are we supposed to do when the cops are here? I don't want to spend my life behind bars! Can't you do something about it?”

Nicholas was enraged because his son's ignorance was one of the many reasons they had ended up in such a mess.

Pointing at his son, Nicholas was so angry to the point that he couldn't find the right word to berate him with.

Callum grasped Nicholas' hand and suggested, “Dad, why don't we try running away since the cops aren't here yet? Once we flee abroad, they won't be able to do anything to us!”

Nicholas was just about to reprimand him for being a coward, but he soon figured out that that might be the sole option available for them.

Hence, the father and son duo left everything behind and staggered their way out of the mansion with each other's support.

Those affiliated with the family were on the run as well—they had no intention of offending Alex more than they had.

Meanwhile, Alex remained standing in silence instead of getting in the way of those fleeing. After all, it was impossible for them to run away now that Flynn was about to reach them.

When he saw how Nicholas had ignored Yates and ran away with his useless son, Callum, the duo reminded him of Demi and Jacob.

Back in the Jennings family, Demi had always sided with Jacob instead of appreciating Heather's contribution to the Jenningses.

Even though Heather had rushed to the family's rescue more than once, Demi still thought that Jacob was the reliable one. Alas, the grandson that she favored so much turned out to be one bringing upon her demise, getting on her nerves until the day she passed on.

Nicholas and Callum ran into Flynn and his lackeys the moment they made it to the entrance with the chauffeur of the family.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 785

“Why are you in such a rush, Old Mr. Leighton?”
Flynn teased.

His men had surrounded the Leighton residence, and Nicholas could not run even if he wanted to.

He simply couldn't figure out why Flynn, the notorious King Class warrior of Nebula City, would go after his family.

He turned back to look at Alex and a thought surfaced in his mind, but he quickly shook it off. He's just a conman who helps some of the rich families.

Even though the old man was in a panicked state, he didn't dare to take the matter lightly when Flynn was there at the Leighton residence.

If I were to offend Flynn somehow, I would be killed before the police could even get here.

Though he was feeling extremely anxious, Nicholas said politely, "What brings you here, Mr. Dunn? Unfortunately, I have some matters to tend to, so I'm afraid I can't entertain you right now. Could you let me out now?"

Flynn acted as though he didn't understand what he heard as he stared at the former, a glint of amusement in his eyes. "I'm afraid not. Alex told me to deal with you and your son. What am I supposed to do if you leave now?"

The old man's face paled as he mumbled, "Alex?"

The father and son instantly turned toward the man, and they saw a mocking look on Alex's face.

They then realized that not only had Leighton Pharmaceutical gone bankrupt, but they wouldn't even be able to leave the Leighton family too.

All this time, they had always thought that Alex was just a good-for-nothing who lived off of a woman.

Both Callum and Nicholas fell into despair. Without any hesitation, they kneeled before him and started crying.

“We were wrong, Dr. Jefferson. We have nothing now that Leighton Pharmaceutical is bankrupt. Please don't send us to jail.”

Alex didn't feel an ounce of pity for them. Instead, he glanced toward Yates and said, “I'll let you handle them.”

The latter didn't expect him to not only settle David's matter but also help him. He felt so grateful to receive such genuine help.

“Thank you, Dr. Jefferson. I'll be willing to do anything for you from now on,” he said while getting on his knees.

Alex quickly gestured for him to get up. After that, Yates shifted his gaze toward Nicholas and Callum.

Much to Nicholas' surprise, Alex was letting Yates handle him. The old man was secretly delighted because he had always been a pushover. There's no way he'd be harsh toward me.

Then, he glanced over at his son and said gently, "I'm your father, Yates! I'm the reason you exist on earth! You've been living with the Leighton family for so many years, so you must have developed some feelings for the family and the company, right? Please, tell Dr. Jefferson to let us go."

Callum had similar thoughts to his father. He pleaded, "I'm still your family no matter what, Yates. You wouldn't want us dead, would you? I was wrong about what I did in the past. I admit to my mistakes now. I won't fight you for the Leighton Pharmaceutical chairman position anymore. Please, just tell Dr. Jefferson to let us go."

Yates scoffed at his father's and brother's words. He might have had relented and even been moved by their words if they had said it before everything happened, and before they insulted his mother.

Unfortunately, they had maligned his mother just half an hour ago. They said that his mother was promiscuous and had slept with the country bumpkin. They even said that he was not the son of the Leighton family.

I remember everything all too well.

“I've severed all ties with you previously, Nicholas. I'm not your son anymore. You're the reason my mother died of grief, so I want you to repent for the rest of your life before my mother's grave in Coldbridge,” Yates said coldly.

Then he shifted his gaze toward Callum and said, “As for you, you've been living good all your life. You should accompany Nicholas to Coldbridge and collect herbs there. It's about time you experience how hard it is to collect herbs.”

Coldbridge?

The father and son frowned at his words. It was constantly freezing on Coldbridge, and there wasn't any internet in the mountains. Telling them to go there was basically telling them to be disconnected from the world.

Nicholas had gone there when he was younger because of his business. He had no other choice but to do so. It was already tormenting enough, even though he had only spent a month or two there.

This is even worse than sending us to jail!

Furious, the old man pointed at Yates and shouted, "How did I end up with such an ungrateful child like you? Just look at me. You're telling me to go to a place like that? Aren't you trying to kill me?"

Callum did not expect Yates to send him there of all places either. Not only were the conditions harsh, but there might not be a woman there.

There's no way I'll accept this. I can't go to Coldbridge no matter what.

He grabbed Yates by the collar and scorned, “Who do you think you are? You're just a b*stard at the end of the day. I wasn't even interested in you when you groveled in front of me previously. How dare you retaliate this way? You must be tired of living, aren't you?”

The man then tried to hit Yates. At the sight of this, Alex lifted his leg and sent him flying across the air.

Alex stared at Callum as though he was trash on the ground and said, “I think the punishment for Callum is too light. Send the both of them to Coldbridge and let them stay there for the rest of their lives. Only give them a house that can barely protect them against the weather. As for the rest, they can work their asses off for it. Also, arrange for someone to give Callum one hundred slaps every day till the day he dies.”

One of Flynn's subordinates dragged Nicholas and the still unconscious Callum into a car afterward and drove them to Coldbridge.

It was quite a perfect ending, with Yates' successful revenge. The only thing that wasn't great was that Leighton Pharmaceutical had gone bankrupt.

You can't have whatever that doesn't belong to you, after all. Yates did not take the matter to heart. Instead, he kneeled before Alex and said, “Thank you, Dr. Jefferson. I can't thank you enough for what you've done for me, but I'm willing to do anything you tell me to.”

The latter helped him up in resignation before saying, “I'm just doing my part in return for the snow ginseng you gave me. Besides, one word from me and Leighton Pharmaceutical won't stay bankrupt anymore. You'll be in charge of the company now, so take good care of it. I'll invest five hundred million in the company later on, so I hope you'll do a better job than Nicholas.”

As for the reason why he was going to invest five hundred million in Leighton Pharmaceutical, it was because he felt that it was the snow ginseng's worth.

Besides, Alex had helped Yates because he admired the latter, and also because he saw himself in him.

Yates tried to kneel before him again when he finished speaking, but Alex quickly reached out to stop him.

“All right, all right. Don't kneel for me. Just make it big at the company and share some of the profits with me. That'll be enough,” Alex said.

Tears streamed down Yates' face. There was so much that he wanted to say to the former, but all that he ended up saying was, “Okay. I will.”

Since then, Yates decided to change his surname to his mother's surname, Zimmer.

On top of that, he also changed Leighton Pharmaceutical to Zimmer Pharmaceutical.

Alex stretched after leaving the Leighton residence and could feel his body lighten up.

He was sure that he could get a taste of what it was like to be a Grandmaster after getting the snow ginseng.

Right then, his phone rang. Pulling out his phone, he saw a text from Maggie: Hey, Alex. You promised to attend my grandpa's birthday banquet. There are still three days to go, but I'm just giving you a reminder. Don't forget about it! I'll be waiting for you at Lumenopolis.

She ended her text with a “kissing” emoji.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 787

Soon, Stanley's school holiday was over and it was time for him to return to school. During the holidays, Heather had tried to bring him away, but Alex had rejected her immediately.

Moreover, regarding their divorce that would happen a week later, they would have gotten divorced by now if it weren't for Alex's last-minute work.

He told Flynn that he needed to head to Lumenopolis for three days, and so the latter was in charge of picking up and sending Stanley.

Fortunately, both of them had quite a good relationship. Stanley would still be good with Flynn around even if his father left.

Alex didn't dare to waste any time upon arriving at the airport. Seeing that it was almost time to board, he quickly rushed to the plane after getting his ticket checked.

Though his schedule was packed, everything was still in order. He heaved a sigh of relief when he saw that he was near the plane.

Just then, a young man about twenty years old rushed in Alex's direction as he shouted, "Excuse me!

Coming through!”

The young man was moving quickly, and he accidentally knocked Alex into a woman standing next to him. Luckily, he managed to avoid bumping into her due to his quick reflexes.

He took a deep breath and glanced toward the young man, but the latter had already found his seat.

It was only normal for the young man to be so anxious since time was of the essence when boarding the plane. Alex overlooked the matter and went to look for his own seat instead.

Right then, a woman's angry voice was heard. “Hey! Aren't you going to apologize for bumping into me? How rude of you.”

Upon hearing that, Alex turned to look and saw that it was the woman he had almost bumped into.

She was quite the beauty, and was very tall, with a height of at least one seventy-five with her heels on.

The woman was wearing a revealing top that showed off her curves, paired with a miniskirt and pantyhose.

She looked sexy in her outfit, but her makeup was too thick. Her thin lips also made her look crude and mean, which wasn't Alex's type at all.

After scrutinizing the woman, he said in confusion, “I don't think I even touched you, miss. But if you really want me to apologize, I'm sorry.”

He thought it would be better to avoid trouble, hence he didn't want to make a fuss about it. All Alex was thinking about at the moment was what he should give Richard as his birthday present.

The woman, Clara Wallace, was discontented at the sight of Alex's lukewarm reaction. She didn't like that he wasn't even batting an eye at a gorgeous woman like her.

It was her first time meeting someone who would ignore her like this, and it was the biggest insult to her beauty.

He should have at least said, “Sorry, it was my fault, beautiful, not 'miss'!” Am I not worthy of being called beautiful in his eyes?

Thinking of this, Clara wanted to teach Alex a lesson even more. She leaned closer toward the man beside her, who looked like he was in his forties, and said with a pitiful expression on her face, “Look at him, Shawn. Just what kind of attitude is he giving me? He wasn't even sincere when he apologized earlier. That man bumped into me and even touched me here.” She pointed to her chest. “You're the only one who can touch me here, Shawn. You've got to stand up for me.”

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 788

Clara was a beautiful woman. Now paired with her sweet voice, any man wouldn't be able to resist her. Shawn Chapman was not an exception.

He patted on the woman's back and moved his hand to her butt. “How dare he be so rude to my Clara? He must not have any respect for you, baby. Let's teach him a lesson.”

An evil smile hung on the woman's lips. You're going to get it rough for being rude to me.

This man beside me is no ordinary man. He's the assistant to the mayor of Nebula City. Even though he's an assistant, he still works for the mayor. There's a huge difference between him and other assistants.

Shawn can easily take care of a penniless idiot like him. This man might even get on his knees once he finds out about Shawn's identity.

However, Alex was scrolling through his phone as though nothing had happened at that moment, hoping to find inspiration for what to get Richard for his birthday.

A second later, he felt someone pressing down on his shoulder. He almost dropped his phone because of the sudden movement.

“Hey! You made my baby upset, you know that? I won't pursue this further if you apologize to her properly right now,” Shawn said while glaring at the former.

Clara looked smug at how things played out, and she was staring down at Alex.

To her, he was just a broke idiot in economy class. The clothes he was wearing didn't even cost more than two hundred, and the woman absolutely looked down at him.

She was from an ordinary family and had been wearing cheap outfits since she was young. However, lots of boys had given her gifts during her high school years all because she was pretty.

Back then, Clara had used her pretty face to her advantage and got herself many wealthy boyfriends. Now, with Shawn by her side, she was acting all high and mighty; she didn't fancy a poor person like Alex.

Alex frowned when he realized that the man holding his shoulder was the companion of the woman he had almost bumped into earlier.

Still, he didn't want to cause a ruckus. He said coldly, "Let go of me."

Shawn did not expect Alex to speak to him like this. He was upset, and he wanted to look good in front of Clara.

"Do you even know who I am? Hurry up and apologize to my girlfriend, or I'll teach you a lesson!"

Right at that moment, an elderly woman about fifty or sixty years old, who was in the midst of taking care of her grandchild, called out excitedly after taking a good look at Shawn, “I can't believe it's really you, Mr. Chapman! I've seen you on television before. I can't believe I get to see you in person today.”

The elderly woman studied Shawn for a moment before flattering him. “You look so much more handsome in person than what I saw on television.”

In truth, Shawn was already in his forties. He had a slightly chubby body since he was always out entertaining people. The word “handsome” didn't quite suit him when he had a beer belly.

Yet, upon hearing someone praise him, he quickly let go of Alex and stood up straight. “Oh, you're flattering me.” He chuckled.

As they exchanged pleasantries, the man was still acting snobbish about being the assistant to a mayor.

Since someone had recognized him, Shawn couldn't stir up trouble anymore. If someone were to take pictures or videos and post them online, he would have to resign because of it.

He had no choice but to console Clara. They then made their way to the first-class cabin, with the plan of teaching Alex a lesson once they landed.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 789

Alex could finally relax after they left for the first-class cabin. There was no way they could cause him any trouble now.

Since the plane was about to take off soon, he had no choice but to turn off his phone. With nothing else to do, he decided to rest his eyes while waiting for the plane to land.

However, someone on the plane was watching a video with the speakers on. It was so noisy that he couldn't relax at all.

Alex turned to look and saw that it was the grandson of the elderly woman who had spoken to Shawn earlier. It seems like he's got the volume at its loudest.

A flight attendant noticed what was happening and walked over. She told the elderly woman with a smile, "Hello. The plane is about to take off soon. Could you please turn off your phone?”

The elderly woman pursed her lips. “What's wrong with my grandson watching his videos?”

Then, she mumbled, “How meddlesome.”

Though she had spoken softly, the flight attendant could still hear her.

At that, the latter froze. She had only become a flight attendant not too long ago. While she had gone through training, she had never met someone like this in real life. Her eyes instantly turned red after being insulted.

Nonetheless, it was still her job, so she couldn't just leave. With the smile still on her face, she said, “Please turn off your phone, ma'am. You're disturbing the other passengers.”

“Who am I disturbing now? My grandson wants to watch his videos. I spent so much money on this flight, but you're not even allowing him to do what he wants. This is so unfair,” the elderly woman persisted.

Then, she patted on her grandson's head and said affectionately, “Not even God can do anything to you, my baby boy. I'm going to let you finish watching your video.”

As she spoke, she glared at the flight attendant as if trying to pick a fight.

The latter gripped the corner of her skirt and could no longer smile. A panicked look flashed across her face as she didn't know how to handle the matter at hand.

Alex couldn't bear to watch her in such a tough position, and they were also delaying their flight. He felt the need to step in and help resolve the matter.

“You're putting the flight attendant in a difficult position, ma'am. Hurry up and turn off your phone,” he persuaded.

To his surprise, the elderly woman became furious at his words. She berated him, “How is this any of your business? So what if I'm putting her in a difficult position? Is it not her job to serve us when she receives such high pay? Just shut up, will you?”

Alex had expected her to be stubborn. He didn't want to continue arguing with her and decided to just snatch the phone from her grandson's hand to turn it off.

Right then, a man sitting behind them spoke up, “Hey, you're the one at fault. Hurry up and turn off your phone, will you? Or you can just get down from the plane.”

Hearing that, the old woman retorted, “Does this plane belong to you? How dare you ask me to get off the plane?”

It would have been better if she had kept quiet. The other passengers started to criticize her and wanted her and her grandson to get off the plane after hearing her words.

She started to panic. It was her first time on a plane and it would be embarrassing if she were to be kicked out right then.

For that, she quickly took the phone from her grandson. After turning it off, she immediately put it into her purse.

Her grandson was obviously displeased at how things had turned out. He cried and begged for the phone, but the elderly woman could only console him.

The flight attendant heaved a sigh of relief when it was finally settled. She then thanked everyone who had helped her earlier.

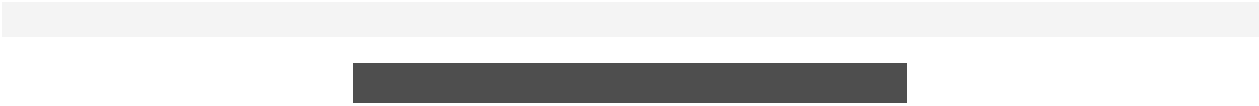

She looked at Alex and said gratefully, “Thank you so much for helping me, sir.”

The man nodded in response and said nothing. But the elderly woman was glaring daggers at him for what had happened.

FINDING OUT THE BILLIONAIRE

Even after the plane took off, Alex still could not catch a break, for the elderly woman and her grandson seated next to him made sure it was so.

The child, Billy, knew exactly what his grandmother wanted him to do when she gave him a look. Smiling deviously, Billy took the gum out of his mouth while he eyed Alex's pants.

However, before Billy could stick the gum onto Alex's bottom wear, the man swiftly grasped Billy's hand and turned it around.

When Billy realized that the gum had ended up sticking on his hair, he cried out loud and buried himself in his grandmother's chest. However, Alex did not see a drop of tear on that boy's face.

Upset that Alex made her grandson cry, the elderly woman looked daggers at the man. “What's wrong with you? Why the heck did you stick the gum on my grandson's head?”

To that, Alex responded with a nonchalant shrug.

“Hey, your boy started it first. He was going to stick it on my pants. Do you have any idea how expensive this pair of pants is? You can't possibly afford to compensate me even if you want to. I only did what I had to do to prevent losses, ma'am.”

Among the clothes on Alex that day, that bottom wear was the most valuable. Maggie had purposely bought the man a full suit to attend her grandfather's birthday celebration.

However, Alex did not like wearing suits and ties, so he only wore the pants.

The slick bottom wear was simplistic in design and had no brand logos on it, but Alex remembered the one hundred sixty-eight thousand and eight hundred price tag that came with it.

The man also remembered that the pants were custom-made by a famous foreign tailor, who he did not recognize because he was not a brand-conscious man.

Even after listening to Alex, the elderly woman remained unsatisfied. “You think that justifies what you did to my grandson? Billy is just a child, and you're an adult, so you should know better than to bully a child. So what if Billy sticks his gum on your pants? How much could your pants be worth? You don't look like someone who can afford anything expensive. No matter how you put it, you're in the wrong for bullying my grandson like that.”

Seeing how adamant his grandmother was about defending him, the child decided to get his revenge on Alex, so he spat on the man's bottom wear several times in a row.

The elderly woman had no intention of stopping Billy's rude behavior. In fact, she was ready to get physical with Alex if the man dared to lay a finger on her grandson.

Even at such an old age, the woman would never let anyone bully her grandson and get away with it. She thought she could probably get some monetary compensation from Alex in the process too.

Billy was still unsatisfied even after spitting on Alex, so he put another gum into his mouth and started chewing.

Not long after that, he took it out and stuck it on Alex's pants. The man was already scowling at Billy when the boy spat on him, but still, he did nothing to stop Billy.

After successfully sticking the gum onto Alex, Billy decided to ruin the man's bottom wear even further since nobody tried to stop him.

The pants were gray, so Billy took out a black marker pen and started doodling on the piece of clothing.

When the boy was finally done, Alex's bottom wear had become a mess.
