

The Hidden Billionaire Heiress (Lyra Melvin) Chapter 81

"It's bygone. Why mention it again?"

Lyra's expression was bland as she raised her glass and took another sip of strong wine down her throat.

Garrett knew he had asked something he shouldn't have, and hastened to laugh and found himself an excuse.

"Right, let bygones be bygones. I heard that the old Lloyd has assigned you a task. How is it? Do you have the confidence to complete it?"

"Of course, I aspire to win."

When it came to work, Lyra was excited, "I recently launched a new reality television talent show. I'm confident it will make Angle Group famous and increase its profit."

"That's nice, but there's one more thing I want to ask you this time ..."

Garrett looked her straight in the eye, and there was a few moments of hesitation on his drunken face.

"You ..."

After thinking, he chose to hide his true inner thoughts and smiled, "I'm interested in working with Angle Group. I was wondering what do you think?"

"Sure, who would turn down a partner that comes to their door?"

Angle Group was now in a position to bring in a lot of resources and talent, and Garrett's proactive partnership will undoubtedly bring her more benefits.

"Then it's a deal." She smiled slyly and offered to reach out and clink her glass.

"It's a deal."

Garrett laughed openly and their glasses clinked hard.

Late into the night, the three ended the meal and returned to their respective rooms to rest.

Lyra was not drunk, but rather more sober than usual.

To take down the Freeman group, she would have to build up her strength quickly in a short period of time.

She pulled out a chair and sat down by a table, ready to make preliminary plans to put the Freeman group out of business.

was real estate, and to beat it, she must have a with real estate, so after thinking about it, she thought it

I want to ask you." She quickly edited a message

me. I'm opened the door and Garrett stood by the window at the end of the almond-like eyes were looking at her estate, but I don't know much about it. I need a favor. This is important to me, so please." Lyra leaned against the window and something about this. I will got his promise, said thanks and went back

the industry,

drifted off to

Frayton and the neighbor city, someone was still preoccupied with a car, smoking and staring gloomily out the

looking for her here

couldn't find or die here. He would find her and back?" A henchman yawned and asked at

you find her,

have passed since Miss Carroll jumped out of the plane. This vast mountain if there is only a piece of her corpse left, bring it back. And if anyone dares to ask such a question again, don't blame me for being calmly, but the tone was cold of the people were scared to death and resigned to off to sleep, Melvin was still awake, with his dark eyes staring out

In the Freeman Manor.

were

really pisses me

“Snap!”

cup hard to the ground, and the in the name of Melvin's fiancée and disgraced the Freeman family! Now even the Matthews family has severed ties with her. Why should we keep her? Tomorrow we'll announce to the public that Melvin's engagement to a couch in exasperation, and her chest was heaving

the nerve to ask me to change Melvin's small family like the Matthews family has the nerve! I didn't agree to this marriage in the first place, but if Melvin hadn't insisted, there would