

The Hidden Billionaire Heiress (Lyra Melvin) Chapter 95

Lyra got interested, "What's the bet?"

"If the Freeman group wins the bid later, you will strip naked in public and admit you are a bitch who likes to seduce men! Then get the hell out of Frayton and never appear on screen again!"

Her bet asked for so much, and this was clearly a barefaced humiliation!

Cody was beside with irritation and was just about to help Lyra when he was held down by Lyra.

Lyra smiled slightly and took Sheila's words, "I don't ask for much, if another company gets the bid, you just kneel down on the spot and kowtow to me three times."

Sheila stared first.

With that, she felt she wouldn't lose anyway, so it didn't matter what she said.

"Great! I'll be waiting for you to personally strip naked and dignified!"

After finishing her harsh words, Sheila swaggered back to her seat.

Just as she sat down, the host came out just in time to announce the results.

After some official words, he took out the final result sheet and began to read: "The first is for the Goldin Area of Yosan Hill District. Congratulations to Rimsafe Construction for winning the bid ... "

The front was small, insignificant plots of land.

Each time the host read out a winning company, the audience clapped along.

Sheila was very excited and even a little nervous as she listened to the suburban land in the west of the city, which was getting closer and closer.

She subconsciously glanced at Lyra's reaction, but saw that she still looked too calm to speak.

Hum, she would like to see how this bitch will die when it was really announced later!

"Finally, it's the most sought-after land, the suburban land in the west of the city! Who will be the winner of it?"

On stage, the host, with a mysterious expression, finally got to the main event of the day.

The scene followed with a lively atmosphere.

Fiona's heart was a little apprehensive, but saw the host seemed to glance twice in her direction, and was immediately relieved.

"Let's congratulate the biggest winner of this bid ..."

As the host announced the winner, Fiona stood up straight away.

She even turned around, smiled and waved to the seats behind, with a showy expression of having won the top prize.

the west of the city

walk up to the stage to deliver her

Atimber Property?

not the Freeman group...

When did such a small and insignificant company appear? She had never she stood up and

of big slaps in the face that

crowd also began

looking at Fiona,

hell is Atimber Property?

The host blacked out.

after comparing the bids and business plans provided the evidence! Otherwise I'm just not convinced!" Sheila was host was

Where was the evidence?

top secret and cannot be made public, which didn't come up with something, it will make people think they

he did not speak, she snorted in triumph, "As long as you cannot take

"This ..."

not looking good when Lyra looked at Jackie, who was sitting in the corner in the last understood, stood up directly and walked in the

to Miss Freeman to decide if

and

sitting in the back row of such an inconspicuous place, which showed how small the company's reputation

such a small company

the Freeman group. Were they not as good major companies began to echo Sheila's words and demanded crowd's voice was very impassioned for a steadily walked to screen for everyone to see! Let everyone know that we Atimber Property

The crowd snickered.

simply not believed that such a small company

quickly informed the organizers

eventually agreed to Jackie's

later, a large screen began to show the Atimber

first glance, it

read, the more they can find out how strong the person who wrote this the whole industry and the commercialization of the suburban land in the west of the crowd was too shocked to