Chapter 60 Photographed

Bella frowned. If her memory served her right, Annabel was Rupert's fiancée. Meanwhile, Heather was fond of Rupert.

The last time at Brock's birthday party, Heather framed Annabel for stealing her diamond ring to not only embarrass her in public but also drive her away from Rupert. However, Annabel was able to quickly resolve the issue.

Heather took it to heart and held a grudge against Annabel. Heather told her friends more than once that she must figure out a plan to drive Annabel away.

Bella believed if she revealed to Heather that Annabel dated Rory behind Rupert's back, Heather would be thrilled.

But why was Annabel with Rory?

And Rory held Annabel's hands and the body language between them came across as extremely intimate.

Did any secret relationship exist between Annabel and Rory?

How could Rory, the superstar, fall in love with Annabel?

Perhaps she used her beauty to her advantage and shamelessly seduced him.

Bella grew jealous upon noticing Rory's undeniable adoration for Annabel.

She took out her phone, snapped a photo, and sent it to Heather. Heather was shopping with her friends when she saw the photo. However, the figures in the photo were quite blurry and she could hardly recognize who they were. Confused, Heather simply ignored Bella's message. After waiting for a while and with still no response from Heather, Bella sent her another message.

"Heather, have you seen the photo I sent you? Annabel is with Rory." This time, Heather received the message and looked at the photo carefully. Although it was blurry, it was hard to deny that the girl was Annabel.

Did that mean Annabel was cheating on Rupert with another man? Excited, Heather immediately called Bella. "Is it true?"

Annabel is with Rory?"

"Of course it's true. I saw them together with my own eyes." Bella pursed her lips tightly as she set a firm, jealous gaze on Rory.

She didn't understand what was so good about Annabel. Why did Rory keep looking at her with such affectionate eyes?

What was the relationship between Annabel and Rory?

"Where are they now?" Heather asked, deciding to have a look in person. If what Bella said was true and Rupert discovered that his fiancée dated another man without telling him, Annabel would be in big trouble.

A man as proud and noble as Rupert would certainly never stand by and allow his fiancée to betray him. In other words, Annabel would be sent away, possibly to an ever worse fate.

At thought of Rupert sending Annabel away, Heather was thrilled.

She quickly reminded Bella, "The photos you sent were too blurry. Take a few more as soon as possible. You stay there and keep a close eye on them. I'll be right there."

"Okay!" Bella nodded and agreed without hesitation.

She took out her phone and managed to snap a few more photos. However, Annabel and Rory were sitting in a corner of the cafe that was too far away. All Bella could take from her phone were their side profiles. She needed to get into the cafe for a better shot. But just as she was about to enter it, the waiter stopped her in her tracks.

"I'm sorry, miss. A guest has booked the entire cafe today. We're not receiving any other guests right now."

"If you let me in, I'll give you money." Bella took out a stack of cash and stuffed it into the waiter's hand.

"I really can't. I'm sorry." The waiter refused with a smile.

Meanwhile, in the cafe, Annabel pulled back her hand and said, "Rory, I thought I made myself clear. We two aren't meant for each other. You should divert all that attention to your work instead."

"Why?" Rory clearly wasn't giving up. "Is it because of Rupert?"

Annabel pursed her lips and was about to explain everything to him when he said, "Annabel, there's something you don't know."

"What do you mean?" Annabel asked.

Rory opened his lips and said, "Rupert is deeply in love with a girl."

A girl he loved?

"Is it Candy?" Annabel took a deep breath.

"Do you know her?" Rory was stunned.

Annabel lowered her eyes and nodded.

"Well, since you know her, you also ought to know that she's the only one in Rupert's heart. He doesn't truly love you.

You'll never be happy with him."

Remembering that night when Rupert got drunk and called out to Candy, Annabel felt an inexplicable and painful tug at her heart.

She opened her mouth, trying to say something, but then she heard a ruckus just outside the door. Annabel looked in the door's direction and asked, "What's going on?"

"I'll go and have a look." Rory stood up and walked towards the door.

Just now, he was met with a flash of light. It must've been the paparazzi. Bella was still persuading the waiter into letting her in when she noticed a tall figure walking toward her. It was Rory.

Suddenly, her heart was beating faster.

"What's wrong?" Rory asked in a low voice.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Kelly. This lady insisted on coming in," the waiter quickly explained to him.

Rory then gave Bella a cold look. "What's up?"

Looking into his eyes, Bella felt the rush of an electric current flow through her body.

The man in front of her was tall, handsome, and melancholic.

He was more handsome and charming in person than he was on TV. After staring at him for a few seconds, Bella finally came to her senses before replying, "Rory, I'm your loyal fan. You're an absolute heartthrob. Can I have your autograph?"

This was the first time she ever got to see him up close, and it showed in how fast her heart was racing. Bella ended up a stuttering bundle of nerves.

It turned out she was his fan. Rory shot Bella's phone a piercing look. "Were you taking pictures of me just now?"

"..." Her hand holding the phone began to tremble.

"Give it to me," Rory demanded in a harsh tone.

Bella tightened her grip on her phone, not knowing what to do for a moment. Eventually, Rory stepped forward and grabbed the phone from her. "Password," Rory demanded with a frown.

The cold vibe he gave off came at her. Bella trembled and gingerly entered her password.

"Sorry, I didn't mean to take your photos." She bit her lips, feeling uneasy. Rory was angry? Was it because she was secretly taking photos of him? Rory opened the photos she took and deleted every single one with him and Annabel. He made sure that none of those photos were left before returning it to Bella.
