

Chapter 17 You guys are meant to be together

"But you forced her to donate her kidney to Ann. I just don't understand why Nora owed Ann?" Gabriel was very angry now and could not believe Steward had done so many stupid things to Nora.

But Gabriel was more worried about Nora. He did not know whether she was alive or dead.

"Please tell me she is still alive. She can't be dead..." Steward begged Gabriel because he wanted someone to tell him Nora had not died.

But Gabriel's words, like a sharp knife, kept hurting him instead of comforting him. Steward felt he was pushed into a deeper abyss.

"Even if she was still alive, what could she do when she had lost her sight and kidney? Steward, how could you be so merciless to a woman!" Gabriel questioned Steward.

Gabriel felt guilty. He had not given any help to Nora. He was such a jerk and behaved like an accomplice.

He knew all that Steward did to Nora but he hadn't stopped or even persuaded him. He only once said to Nora, telling her to give up.

If he could travel back in time, he would say to her, "Give up on Steward. He does not deserve you and you deserve a happy life."

Steward covered his eyes with his hands. He did not want to see anything and he would rather stay in the dark.

"I will give the cornea back to Nora! I will give it back to her! I will go to the hospital to ask the doctor to take the cornea off my eyes," Steward murmured and his eyes turned red.

"You are losing your mind! Steward!" Gabriel thumped a fist at him and yelled in order to make him stay calm, "Nora had died! Are you going to make her disappointed in you?"

"I don't believe you. She had not died!" Steward wanted to give Gabriel a fist back, but he failed.

But Gabriel managed to give him another fist.

Their fight caused the security guards to come and Gabriel said to them, "Leave us alone! It is none of your business!"

The manager also asked the security guards to leave for he had recognized these two were VIP guests of their club though they hadn't come here for two years. The manager once talked with Steward and thought of him as a family guy.

Gabriel approached Steward and said slowly in his ear, "Listen! Nora died because of you! You'd better explain yourself to the Hills."

"Nonsense! She told me she had gone on a trip. I will show you her video." said Steward.

Steward sat up and couldn't wait to take his phone out of his pocket without wiping away the blood from his mouth. He showed the video that he got from Mrs. Hill to Gabriel.

"I will not believe Nora's death until I see her in person. Nora must be very angry with me and she just doesn't want to see me," said Steward.

After seeing the video, Gabriel became more convicted of Nora's death.

Steward's phone was ringing and that call was from...

After seeing the caller ID, Gabriel sneered at Steward who was lying on the couch in a dazed state, "You guys are really meant to be with each other."

At the hospital.

Ann, wearing her robe, walked out of the bathroom. Seeing Steward lying on the bed, she wore a triumphant look.

Two years ago, she had already known that she would never be accepted by the Mandels. So she received the money from Steward's mother and promised her she would never come back. She knew how to play hard to get.

As she had expected, Steward couldn't forget her. He chased her to the airport two years ago; he forced Nora to donate a kidney to her. Ann believed that Steward was the man who loved her most in the world.

Even if Steward drank so much, he had not gone wild and vomited. He was lying on the bed quietly.

Ann approached him and lay near him. She stared at his handsome face and said, "Steward..."

Steward was still in a daze and he felt like a woman was approaching him, moving carefully. Thinking of Nora, he smiled unconsciously and murmured, "Now I am drunk, you can do anything you want to me... I will never push you away and never hurt you again. I want you to be with me..."
