

Chapter 40 Changes

Steward pushed her under him and said with a hoarse voice, "Do you really want to know?"

Then he gave her the best sex she's ever had, being patient and gentle.

Love can even make a savage man gentle. As a man, this was the first time for Steward to control his desire and prioritize her feelings.

Nora was very shy when she was naked and kissed by Steward but she trusted him and followed his lead.

On the morning of the next day, Nora woke up but still felt a little groggy. When she realized that they were really close to each other and both naked, her face turned red.

Her body temperature went up because of her shyness and how could Steward not notice that?

He smiled and bit her ears, asking, "My dear, how did you know what it is?"

Nora was shy and turned around, saying, "I don't know. Stop asking me..."

"You don't know?" he put his jaw on her shoulders and his waist sank. "let's do it one more time so you will know what it is..."

Her body was soft and shaking because of his movement...

This time, Steward did not control himself and they both had a great time. He hugged Nora who was soft with satisfaction.

After this, they became more like a couple.

After knowing that his son had not divorced and lived a happy life with his wife, Steward's father persuaded him to go back to work and support his own family.

Steward took almost all his work home. If he had to attend a meeting or a banquet, he would bring Nora with him or let her wait in her office. Sometimes he sent her to her parents' home and picked her up when he finished work or social engagement.

He felt more reassured when he was with Nora and he couldn't leave her for one second. He even wanted to take her into his pocket and go everywhere with him.

Knowing they got back together, Leo felt happy for them. He did not expect that there would be one day when Mr. Mandel and Mrs. Mandel finally led a happy life.

This Christmas, the two families stayed together and celebrated the new year.

Steward carefully selected a brilliant blue diamond ring, and had been preparing for a grand wedding without telling Nora. He wanted to give everything to Nora that he did not give her in the past.

Time passed and everything was going well.

But somebody was going to ruin all this.

One day, Steward just finished his meeting and was about to go back home with Nora. But he remembered that he lost an important document in his office. Leo had asked for leave that day, so he had to get the document himself. Nora was waiting in the car.

Only after a few moments, when he came back to the parking lot, he found Nora was not in the car and the window was broken.

After he pulled the security video and it turned out to be Ann.

Ann abducted Nora to an underground clinic nearby. She had long been tormented by the pain of her disease, and she got a gun in her hand. She threatened the doctor in the clinic with a vicious look into giving her a kidney transplant surgery.

"I can't do this!" the doctor cried and screamed, not knowing where this crazy woman came from.

He was surprised that she was forcing another woman to give her a kidney.

Kidney transplant surgery was never easy. It might even result in death.

Most of the operations he did here were abortions...

"You must take the kidney from her body and do the surgery for me!" Ann was haggard and aimed the gun at Nora, shouting, "I'll kill her right now, and you take the kidney out for me!"

Nora was huddling in the corner and cried, "Who are you? I don't know you..."

"You don't know me?" asked Ann and then she crouched before Nora with an awful smile and her gun aimed at Nora's forehead, "I am Steward's girlfriend and he once forced you to give me a kidney. What a pity! That kidney did not work but you've still got one left..."

"You are lying! Lying!" Nora kept shaking her head and could not digest the information.

She did not know what a kidney was but heard "Steward's girlfriend". She did not believe what she said. Nora knew Steward only loved her.
