

Chapter 42 She had regained her memories.

She touched her belly, and knew there was already a little life growing in her body.

"Baby, what should I do? Could you tell mom what to do?"

It was so painful to be in this situation!

The door of the ward was pushed open, and Nora knew it was her mother. She cried even more.

She stared blankly at the ceiling and muttered, "Mom, I want to go home."

When Mrs. Hill received the call from Mrs. Mandel, she was overcome with fear.

After knowing Nora was not hurt, she went to see Steward and cried with Mrs. Mandel.

She did not know why her daughter wanted to go home now.

"You want to go home now? Steward hasn't been out of danger..."

Nora closed her eyes and rolled over with her back to her mother.

Mrs. Hill was more confused. She had thought her daughter might cry when she saw her but had not expected her indifferent reaction.

Nora clutched the sheet harder, and she bit her pale lip to red.

She must be lying if she said she didn't care about

Steward, but she could no longer give him her pure and innocent love like she used to do.

At this moment, she was tortured and mixed with different feelings.

She did not want Steward to die but she did not want to get back together with him. She did not know what to do.

The operation of Steward was successfully done. Steward survived and was sent to the ICU.

While Nora was discharged from the hospital and went back to her parents' home.

And she didn't go to the hospital the following days.

The first thing that Steward did was to ask how Nora was so his mother called Mrs. Hill and asked Nora to come to the hospital to see Steward.

But Mrs. Hill said, "Nora was frightened, and refused to go out. She seemed like a different person."

So Mrs. Mandel went to Mrs. Hill's home to see Nora. She found Nora was different.

She was more silent and soulless.

"Nora, don't worry. Steward was much better. But he's worried about you and missed you very much. Could you go to the hospital and see him?" asked Mrs. Mandel.

Nora was afraid to see her eager eyes and what she could do was not to tell them what Steward had done to her so their parents could still be friends. This was all she could do.

Nora shook her head and stayed in silence.

In the past few days, she had been wondering whether to keep the baby in her body.

Why did she have to make this decision?

After Mrs. Mandel left with disappointment, Nora called Mia.

Mia said, "Nora, don't worry. Steward will be OK in a few days. Be good and eat well. You can eat your favorite snacks. If you lost weight, Steward would be worried about you.

"Mia, I am pregnant. What should I do..."

"This is a good thing, Nora. Don't be afraid." After saying this, Mia found something was wrong and she asked her carefully, "Did... Did your memory come back?"

"Yes, I think fate was joking with me..."

Mia didn't know what to say. Previously, she disapproved of their being together when Nora lost her memories. But now, Nora gained her memories and was pregnant.

It was not an easy decision to make.

"Nora, follow your heart," said Nora.

"I don't know what to do and what I really want..."

Nora hung up the phone and said to the baby in her body, "My little baby, it's not the right time for you to come to this world."

Mia bit her lips and did not know how to deal with this situation. She thought for a while and decided to call Gabriel.

Gabriel answered the phone immediately and said excitedly, "Mia, I am really flattered that you called me!"

"How is Steward?"

"He woke up and said he wanted to see Nora when he noticed she was not in the hospital. He also kept asking whether Nora was frightened and why she didn't come to see him."

"I need you to tell Steward that Nora had regained her memories."

Gabriel widened his eyes and murmured, "Not good. Not good..."

He soon went to the hospital and when he arrived, Steward asked him immediately, "How is Nora? My mother told me she looked blue and a little frightened. Please ask Mia to take care of her for a while and as soon as I recover..."

Gabriel looked at his pale face and felt sorry for him.

"Steward, you don't have to do this. The reason why she didn't come was that she had regained her memories."
