

Black Plain 1181

Chapter 1181 Aphrodisiac Shop

"Stimulant plants?" Gloria and Ruth asked, frowning their eyebrows without understanding what this meant.

Minos more or less understood the situation due to the knowledge of local geography left by Henricus Longus. "Don't worry. You will get a chance to understand this later..."

Vogel was in an area where some plants capable of stimulating unique reactions in men and women grew.

Because of this, this state had great aphrodisiac products and exported such items to various parts of the Central Continent.

But neither Gloria nor Ruth knew this because most of those who sought these were men or women with more experience in their baggage...

Young women who were virgins until a few years ago would not look for information about this kind of trade, so naturally, the two were ignorant of the subject.

Since both were from the Flaming Empire, an enemy of Vogel, they did not have much information about this place either, which was another reason for their ignorance about this local product.

But they were both curious about this thing now that Minos had said that.

"We'll see about that later..." He smiled at them before turning his attention to the great eagle there. "Tell us more about this state."

"Well..." It then explained the basics of Vogel, from the dangerous tribes they could encounter on the way to the capital to the high-level noble families in the human cities.

Vogel was smaller than the current Black Plain in terms of area, so there weren't as many powers or tribes for Minos' group to worry about as would be the case with the Flaming Empire.magic

The entire Flaming Empire was about the same size as the northern region, a colossus, one of the largest states in the Spiritual World in terms of area.

Because of this difference, they soon learned the basics from that spiritual beast, understanding a little better about the information they already had, about where to pass and what to avoid.

"So, that's it..." Minos sighed as he opened his arms and felt it was time to get back on his way. "Well, I won't make your life difficult since you said all that."

"Leave some of the medicine you have with you and go away." He pointed to a pouch that had wrapped around the neck of that big bird.

Spiritual beasts could also use artifacts produced by humans.

That was rare in the northern region of the Central Continent as there were not many interactions between beasts and humans in those areas. But in places like Vogel, interspecies relationships were much more common, and it was not strange to find beasts with spatial bags or other items.

Since Minos could recognize that this was the storage item usually used by beasts, he did not miss the opportunity to extort this eagle.

Beasts valued medicine much more than spiritual crystals, so it was natural for him to assume that there were some interesting things with that eagle!

Upon hearing that, that creature clawed the ground with its nails, but it did not take long to deliver some King-grade medicines to Minos as payment for its misdeeds.

"Hmm, perfect, big brother!" Kyla jumped in front of Minos and devoured those medicines, filling her belly in a few seconds.

After seeing this with pain in its heart, that creature took Minos' permission and flew away from there, angry at the two snakes that had put it in that situation.

As for Minos' group, they did not waste much time and were soon back on the road, making their way towards the first Vogel city they would pass!

After two days of traveling through the sizeable forested region that separated Vogel from the Cromwell Kingdom, Minos and his group finally arrived in a city called Damiana.

At this point in their journey, they left the two beasts traveling alongside them in the Spatial Kingdom for training and resting since there was no need to have them around inside a human city.

Abby was still in the main room of the lake house, but since Minos could do nothing about her situation, he and his two other wives headed off to visit Damiana.

Before reaching this city, they had fought many times along the way, just as the eagle from earlier had warned them would probably happen if they did not take certain precautions.

But that was just what Minos wanted, fights to train for during this trip to the Flaming Empire!

So, he, Ruth, and Maida had taken advantage of these two days and fought against beasts and even a group of humans.

Because of this, they already felt their cultivation speeds were improving, as they now had stronger opponents to press them, which was impossible to find in the current northern region.

And so, the trio decided to get to know a little of Damiana to relax from the days of fighting!

With that, in this instant, Minos was walking hand in hand with Gloria and Ruth through the central sidewalks of this great human city, getting to know this place that none of them had ever been to.

"This city is truly different from those we find in the northern region or the Empire," Ruth commented to her companions as she looked at the building model and the manners of the people in her surroundings.

"Hmmm." Gloria nodded in agreement. "Just look how coyly the women here dress..."

Upon hearing that and seeing the gestures of his favorite pregnant, Minos looked in the direction of a few women in the vicinity, all of whom were wearing clothes that hid much of their bodies.

In general, only the hands, faces, and feet could be seen unprotected on the women walking through the city's central streets.

At the same time, most men were dressed formally, as if everyone there was a businessman.

As for power, most people on the streets they passed were Spiritual Kings, with significant amounts of Spiritual Emperors coming and going.

And while Minos noticed these things, the people in the surrounding area also noticed them since, unlike many places in the Spiritual World, monogamy prevailed in Vogel!

As such, upon seeing the intimate hand-holding behavior of this group, some could not help but notice that these could only be foreigners.

'How do they accept this?' A middle-aged woman cleaning the windows of a store wondered as she looked in the trio's direction. 'This is a real humiliation!'

'I myself would rather castrate my husband than see him with another!'

As people in the surrounding area judged them, Minos and his wives entered a herbal store in the central part of this city, where he had already received the recommendation when checking into a local hotel earlier.

'Love House.' Ruth read the sign above the front of that store, wondering what the stimulants that eagle had mentioned were.

But as they entered, it did not take long for her and Gloria to realize what Minos was talking about!

When they smelled some herbs there, they soon began noticing some strange sensations in their bodies, which, although faint, were noticeable.

'This...'

Gloria, who was particularly sensitive due to her pregnancy, felt a slight wave of heat as she subtly thought of some special memories with Minos.

"Minos, how do you bring us to a place like this? Don't you think this is wrong?" Ruth stood before him as she noticed Gloria's situation just because they had walked in there.

Minos laughed and hugged Gloria's tiny waist while playing with one of Ruth's hands. "Don't worry. Some of these herbs have no negative effects on pregnancy and even have the potential to increase the couple's power after the act..."

"Don't you want to try it? It's not impossible to become about 10% stronger during the period of effect of these substances."

"That will be very useful in the coming days." Although true, he used that point, which was not the main reason he wanted to try such possibilities...

Chapter 1182 Local History

Upon hearing what Minos wanted by bringing them to this aphrodisiac store, Gloria and Ruth looked at each other in curiosity, trying to understand how sincere he was being.

Neither of them knew about things related to the kind of stimulant Minos was talking about, but they knew their husband well.

"Are you making this up?" Gloria smiled at him as she squeezed his belly through his shirt with two fingers.

Minos looked unjustly at his wife and called one of the attendants in that unique store.

"Hello, how can I help you?" A woman dressed in red and black, extraordinarily sexy but without being vulgar, approached them with a smile on her face.

Minos then said. "I want you to tell me a little about Always Up herb."

Upon hearing the name of the most famous product in this store, that attendant looked at the two women next to Minos and momentarily closed her eyes. "The Always Up herb is a powerful aphrodisiac famous for its reaction in men..."

"This powerful herb was discovered in the remote past when the first state in this area was founded." She began to tell the local history to them. "At that time, the Vogel family had not yet been founded, and another house dominated this area."

"But the family that would become the first royal house of these areas was formed in this region after being deeply affected by the Always Up, which happened to be named not for its obvious effect, but for what happened at that time."

Gloria and Ruth seemed interested in such a story, while Minos just watched his wives' expressions.

She continued. "After a great calamity, the one who would become the first king of this area had to flee with his brother's wife after a great siege of his family by an enemy power."

"While fleeing, they spent days without access to food until not only the future king, but his sister-in-law ate the said herb without knowing the effects." She strangely looked at the trio in front of her.

"So, he and his sister-in-law..." Ruth was about to say but did not even have to finish her question.

"Yes. This herb made them both extremely horny, which invariably led them to spend days having sex in a cave in the area." She smiled and said. "If you want to know, such a cave has been preserved and is called the Cocoon of Love."

"It is in the capital of our kingdom and can be visited daily."

Ruth and Gloria were surprised by this, but Minos, who already knew the story, did not find it impressive that such a place had become a tourist attraction.

"Anyway, after that taboo situation the two had, they felt the effects of the herb and returned to help their family. And as expected, they got good results and eventually saved their own house, taking the first step towards the rise that would happen a few years later."

"The herb was named that because they both stood on their feet from start to finish on their return to battle, having fought for hours without faltering."

Ruth was open-mouthed but then asked. "What happened to those two after such a situation?"

Minos answered in that woman's place. "The future king's sister-in-law became pregnant in that situation, and when her husband found out, he tried to kill her."

"Unfortunately for him, the future king and the future queen were already in love at the time and acted together against him..."

The attendant nodded and continued. "But both the first king and the first queen were aware that they had betrayed that person's trust and did not kill him. They just imprisoned him for 100 years while they consolidated their power."

"Once the state was formed, and they had overcome for a whole stage the betrayed man, they released him... Anyway, because of this, such a herb became the biggest symbol of this area, and to this day, it is worshipped."

"Every local child learns about its history during the spiritual academy and eventually carries it into their adult lives. There are even some days of the year when couples usually use it in their activities..." She smiled.

"As for its effects, once a man takes it, he will have to stay in bed for two days to relax his little friend..." She blushed a little, even though she was used to working in this place.

"However, as much as this herb is famous for its action on men, it can also be used on women and is just as meaningful on them as on men. The difference is that it's not as visual on them if you know what I mean..."

Gloria and Ruth blushed as they looked at that woman, sometimes spying on Minos with penetrating glances.

The attendant then finished her explanation. "In any case, Always Up has stimulating effects on both men and women and can cause both parties to spend two days in a bed to relieve their 'symptoms.'"

"After this period of extreme pleasure, those who satisfy all their needs will enter a state of 'enlightenment,' which can make them stronger by up to 10% depending on their talents and other characteristics."

"The only drawback is that this can only be used once for each stage of cultivation, as the body creates a resistance to this drug, which is only eliminated after spiritual cleansing during breakthroughs."

"Oh?" Ruth opened her mouth in surprise. "Can that happen? What about the duration?"

That woman in red and black answered without delay. "Yes, this herb is very potent. As for duration, that depends on the level of the one who consumes it."

"The herb has more prolonged effects on people at the 6th stage. Above that, the effects will drop until it zeroes out for Spiritual Demigods."

"For Spiritual Emperors like you, the effects should last two to three weeks." Then, she noticed their powers, noting that Minos and Ruth were at very close levels, but Gloria was far above them.

'It is unusual to see someone so strong planning to have fun with weaker people...' She silently thought as she judged the trio in front of her. 'But it's impressive enough that they are here together... I wonder if they will have a threesome?'magic

She swallowed her saliva, imagining these three making this dream of hers, but it was practically unfeasible to her in this society.

"So, it's true..." Ruth looked at Minos, realizing that her husband was still trustworthy, even in situations involving his greatest weakness.

Gloria ignored her harem sister and asked. "What about pregnant women? Is there a problem with using this herb?"

Seeing how the redhead was massaging her belly, this attendant understood the problem and explained. "No problem, unless the pregnant woman is close to giving birth. After all, this herb causes certain impulses that need to be satisfied. Otherwise, the person consuming it can even go crazy."

"But for pregnant women who are still far from giving birth, the only negative effect is regarding the duration of the temporary power bonus." She looked into Gloria's eyes. "The duration of these effects will drop from weeks to days."

"Oh? It's not so bad..."

After listening to that attendant's explanation, Minos convinced his women that using it once would not be harmful and soon bought that for them.

He also bought something for Abby for when she woke up.

With that, the three left that aphrodisiac store and headed to a restaurant in that city.

...

Chapter 1183 The Awakening 1

After arriving at the main restaurant in the city they were in, Minos and his two beautiful wives soon found a good place to sit and wait for their meal.

As they stood there talking in low voices, they suddenly heard the comments of two men passing by, heading toward another table in their surroundings.

"The royal family has been acting strange lately, don't you think?" One of the two asked.

"Yes. I have heard that they have scaled back their outside actions, calling back special envoys and the strongest guards to headquarters..."

"I wonder what they are planning?" He asked his co-worker as they arrived near their table.

"I don't know. Maybe some kind of breakthrough?"

"Impossible!"

"What breakthrough would make an entire royal family go on alert? King Vogel is nowhere near the end of the 8th stage, so it doesn't make sense."

"Maybe they have discovered something valuable and are preparing for a hunt? It's happened before in neighboring states." The stronger of the two commented as he heard his friend's sigh.

"Sigh!"

"I just hope this isn't a sign of a new bloody war against the Flaming Empire. I heard that before the last occasion of the kind, some royal families in our alliance behaved that way..."

"I hope that is not the case." The other commented, feeling a little worried about the future.

Minos and his wives carefully listened to all that while pretending to be watching and talking to each other.

"Did you hear that?" He asked without taking his eyes off the two beautiful women beside him.

"Yes, it sounds suspicious..." Ruth commented as she looked at Gloria and Minos as she swung a glass of wine in her right hand.

"It looks like they are afraid of something." Gloria's eyes narrowed, and she looked at Minos. "Just when the Church acted in Albano, and that Spiritual Saint died at your hands..."

"That's too much of a coincidence." He agreed with his wives, thinking that moment of the Vogel family's strange behavior was too close to those situations involving the Black Plain.

Since they already had the suspicion that Maisie had passed them over, they soon concluded that there was a high probability that House Vogel was to blame for the criminal actions of Spiritual Saints on the Black Plain!

That obviously was not enough for them to sentence House Vogel or be sure that this organization was an enemy of the Black Plain. But hell, none of them were speaking for justice but themselves!

As such, all they needed was suspicion, and now they were even more motivated to act against members of such an organization to find out more.

Minos then said. "We will be heading to the capital in the next three days. When we get there, we'll use our relationship with the Spiritual Church to get closer to the royalty and find people to talk to."

"Fine." The two agreed with him as a waitress came to deliver their meal.

"Oh? The smell of that is magnificent!" Gloria put aside the previous situation and behaved like a pregnant woman with desire, showing on her face her desire to devour those dishes.

Seeing his wife beginning to eat an amount capable of feeding two people, Minos smiled as he watched her still little belly.

'It looks like my child will be quite talented.' He closed his eyes and imagined such a thing because of the knowledge left by Henricus Longus. 'Such intense signs of desire in early pregnancy usually signify a strong talent.'

Talent was associated with the soul and the Natural Laws. Since such a thing was formed from a fraction of the soul of the mother and father, 'mixed' with the laws, this needed some catalysts to form fully.

Because of this, the stronger the talent of a fetus, the greater the mother's desire during pregnancy for rich and unique foods, those with the potential to mature the embryonic soul of the fetus.

Considering how much Gloria had been eating in the first months of her pregnancy, Minos knew their baby would be no ordinary!

As such, he could not help but feel a particular pride and smile as he enjoyed this meal with his two beautiful women.

'I wonder if it will be a boy or a girl?'

After finishing at the previous restaurant, Minos and his wives went to rest at a local hotel, from where they promptly left for the Spatial Kingdom.

With that, it did not take long for them to test the aphrodisiac herb purchased earlier since they did not have much to do due to the proximity of this place to the capital of Vogel.

As long as they wanted to, they could reach that city in a few days from where they were. So, to take advantage of the special effects of Always Up, they decided not to waste much time!

Because of this decision, the three of them did not take long to enter a state of unusual excitement and join in a long, heated session of animalistic sex.

As they consumed the stimulating herb, all left in their minds was to mate, breed, and feel pleasure.

Every part of their bodies was adequately prepared by that herb for the best result, with certain mechanical impulses for Minos and lubrication for Ruth and Gloria.

At the same time, their organs received impulses to keep them from getting sore from their activities, while their resistances rose to levels they had never felt before.

Because of all these stimuli, the three spent two whole days having sex, not even stopping for water or food!

But they did not truly need to do this often at their current levels, so they had not missed these mortal needs.

All in their minds was a primal desire, something they skillfully enjoyed using in every room in the large lake house within the Spatial Kingdom.

The only place they did not enter during these two days of pure pleasure had been the room Abby was in since they did not want to disturb her with their bestial sounds.

But they had not been so successful in this noble goal...

As they finished taking care of their needs, Abby, who was sitting in a meditative position on the family bed, suddenly opened her eyes.

'Uh? Am I in the lake house?' She looked at her surroundings as her eyes adjusted to the brightness of that room she was in.

But as she did so, she remembered everything that had happened, noting that she had finished receiving the inheritance from the Goddess of Life.

'Minos must have brought me here after we said goodbye to that soul fragment... Hmm, now I have a thousand years to complete the mission of eliminating the traces of the God of Death from the Spiritual World.' She noted this message left by the Goddess of Life in her mind.

Like Minos, Abby now had part of that expert's memories, only in a much smaller amount than he did.

But that was to be expected. After all, the Goddess of Life was weaker than Henricus Longus, had lived less, experienced fewer Natural Laws, and had fewer worries.

Henricus Longus was concerned about the continuity of his descendants in a world dominated by invaders. But, on the other hand, the Goddess of Life just wanted to finish her revenge.

As such, the type of memory left by that man was much more complex!magic

In any case, Abby could not pay attention to these things for long, ignoring that she now had a peak Silver talent because of Gloria and Ruth's moans.

"Mmmmm~"

"Ahhh~"

Chapter 1184 The Awakening 2 (18+)

"What is that?" Abby asked herself as she looked toward the door of that room after hearing the cries of pleasure coming from outside that room.

She knew what was going on, but as someone used to hear the sounds made by her harem sisters, she could not help but wonder at the tones in those two's voices!

Because of this, after having her attention drawn to them, Abby used her spiritual energy to purify the impurities that had gathered on her body and clothes over the past few months and left that place.

"Ahhhh~ Minos, faster, faster~"

"Ahhhhhhhhh~"

When Abby came out of her room, she immediately faced the immoral scene of those three having wild sex. They were in the room across from the one she was in, with the door open, showing everything going on there.

Ruth was lying on the floor below Gloria in a '69' position. At the same time, Minos was on his knees behind Gloria, moving his little brother in and out of this redhead's precious flower.

As he vigorously moved his hips, drops of an immortal liquid energized the black-haired woman beneath this redhead, with herself feeling the delight of Gloria's fingers.

Abby saw all this from a vantage point, from where she could see Minos' rod moving in and out of that redhead's wet cavern, as she saw this woman's face buried in Ruth's open legs.

"Ahhhhhhhhh~ I'm cumming~" Gloria lifted her face and screamed in delight, not being able to contain the sensation in her body and stopping playing with Ruth to look back.

Abby then saw Minos also getting there, with a hungry look on his face.

"Ohhh~"

Minos finally stopped shaking as he held Gloria's beautiful buttocks firmly, his skin glistening from the sweat on his body, a little reddened given the heat generated by Always Up.

Gloria's body fell over Ruth's, and Minos' rod slid out of her hot cavern, giving the black-haired woman a chance to taste the mixture of his seed and the redhead's nectar.

"Mmmmm~" Ruth kissed her harem sister's flower, giving this pregnant woman even more pleasure.

"Minos, what are you doing?" Abby asked after a moment, still watching as they looked like animals in heat, much wilder than they usually looked.

Upon hearing Abby's sweet voice, they all looked in her direction and finally realized that someone else was with them there in that room.

"Abby!" They simultaneously shouted while smiling with joy that she had finally awakened.

Minos then got out of that bed and walked over to her, still with his erection, making his queen look at that thing with interest.

"Abby, how are you? Did you gain much from that woman's inheritance?" He hugged her and asked that as his fingers ran down the buttons of her clothes.

"Yes, now my talent has increased, and I have a lot of knowledge to help me become stronger..." She saw those two women looking at her, their skins reddening from the heat they felt in their bodies.

"What is wrong with you all?" She asked as she raised her arms to make it easier for Minos to remove her clothes.

Gloria smiled at her and said. "Minos bought a little something for us, and we've been like this since the day before yesterday..."

Ruth added. "The effects are starting to subside, but we'll still be like this for at least another couple hours. Will you be joining us?"

Abby laughed and looked at Minos, who had already wholly undressed her. "Do I have another option? I think I'm about to be eaten by our husband..."

Minos laughed when he heard this but continued kissing the body of his queen as he felt her playing with his rod.

She then passionately looked into his eyes and jumped into his arms, quickly wrapping her legs around his waist as he held her.

"What about me? Can only Ruth and Gloria have fun like this?" She asked as she looked into his eyes from a higher position than his.

"I saved some for you, don't worry." He laughed. "But we'd better leave it to use later..."

"Oh? All right, then..." She replied, before attacking her husband's lips in a heated kiss, something she had not felt in months.

"Mmmmm~"

As they kissed, Minos slowly walked over to that bed, bringing Abby into the midst of the mess they had been enjoying for the past two days.

...

After another three hours, the four finished their fun, currently lying on the same bed as before, in the position suggested by Minos months ago.

Gloria was on his left side, Ruth on his right, and Abby on top of this man, with her head resting on Minos' chest.

She was smiling at the moment, feeling a good sensation that she had woken up and had been blessed with the service of her husband and the love of her harem sisters.

She could have woken up during their absence and stayed alone in the Spatial Kingdom for hours. So, it had been fortunate for her to have awakened at such an opportune moment.

On the other hand, the other two women and Minos were exhausted, finally feeling the initial effects of Always Up wearing off.

"That herb was extraordinary..." Ruth commented in a low voice as she listened to the breathing sounds of her three companions. "Even after two days of intense mating, my privates are not sore even a little."

Gloria smiled as she blushed, "I don't feel anything either. I'm just worried that Minos has 'drowned' our baby..."

The other two women laughed, feeling extremely relaxed in this moment of tranquility.

"When will it be my turn?" Abby asked her man as she massaged parts of his body.

"Let's do it in a few days. But, for now, let's hold back a bit..." He said that but remembered that Abby did not know where they were. "By the way, we're already out of the northern region."

"What?" She stood up a little, looking him in the eye.

He continued. "You were in a meditative state for months. Because of that, we have already arrived in Vogel and are approaching this state's capital."

"Vogel?" She asked as she remembered Minos' travel plan. "So, we are still at the beginning of the journey?"

"Hmm, we officially left the northern region less than a week ago," Ruth commented to Abby, reassuring this blue-haired woman that she had missed almost nothing.

"Sigh..."

"Good. I thought you had forgotten that I wanted to make this trip too!" She looked at Minos and pouted, but she was relieved.

Minos smiled and said. "I already figured you would awaken soon, so I decided to start our trip before your awakening."

"But everything worked out, didn't it? I even carefully planned for us to do the earlier experiment because I already imagined that you would awaken before we reached the capital of this state."

Gloria and the other two women there looked at each other in doubt. "Was that right?" She asked in a low voice, doubting that her husband had done that math.

"He probably wanted to sleep with us and use that herb. But now that Abby has coincidentally woken up, he's saying that..." Ruth shook her head from side to side with her eyes closed.

Abby laughed and then closed her husband's mouth with one of her hands. "Don't worry, my love, I believe you."

"Anyway, time to talk about serious matters. The Goddess of Life has left some messages behind..."

Chapter 1185 Leaving For The Vogel Capital

"Oh? What's the deadline for us to complete that mission?" Minos questioned the main point.

Abby then answered him without delay. "A thousand years."

"All that?" Minos smiled, feeling that this was enough for him and his group to solve such a problem.

"All that? You think erasing the remnants of someone who supposedly reached level 99 is easy?" Gloria asked him.

"In a thousand years, I will already be at level 100, so yes, it will be easy," Minos answered without false modesty, confident in his abilities.

"Even if that happens, do you think you can circle the Spiritual World and wipe out a person's tracks is easy? Who can assure you that there isn't a cult hidden in the far reaches of the world where we won't be able to investigate?" That redhead questioned him.

"It's true..." Ruth commented as she looked in concern at Abby.

Minos massaged his queen's face and said. "That won't be a problem. I will get a fusion that will give me part of Henricus Longus' innate ability in the future. That will be enough for me to 'see' the remnants of that God of Death."

"Is that so?" Abby asked, confident in her husband.

Meanwhile, Gloria was curious about that. "What was his innate ability?"

"He could see the future." Minos smiled at her. "At that time, he predicted something that hasn't even happened yet in our time..."

"Is that true? How could it? A God has such challenging abilities?" Ruth asked without understanding how a mortal's power could be so extreme when seeing things that would happen millions of years in the future.

Minos nodded while Gloria remained silent. He said. "In his time, humans and spiritual beasts did not get along and had almost exterminated each other in the past. But do you know why the wars ended?"

He saw the curious looks of his two less powerful wives and continued. "It was because Gods began to appear among humans..."

"They didn't know what would happen if Gods fought, so gradually tempers calmed down, until the situation became more peaceful, as it is now." Gloria finished Minos' speech by demonstrating that the books gathered by the Spiritual Church along the river of history were not useless.

Minos agreed with her. "At least in the time of Henricus Longus, there was never a battle between Gods. So, no one knows exactly how powerful they are."

"But their powers are certainly incomparable, and the fear these Gods had of facing each other was real." He thought about the skeletons on Endless Snow Mountain Range, wondering if that had been the problem...

"In any case, I will be able to see the remnants of this fellow. So we can complete this task in time. But, on the other hand, I think I can dispute his inheritance and more easily get the location of his last marks in this world." He said in a relaxed tone, reassuring his women.

Abby relaxed in his arms and continued talking about the Goddess of Life. "Do you think it's a good idea to do that? It seems that those two hated each other, and the moment you find his soul fragment, he will realize the spiritual fluctuation of the Goddess in your body."

"Don't rely so much on the memories of the Goddess of Life, Abby. She was, after all, only a level 99 Spiritual Demigod. Her 'scent' won't stay on me, even if I slept with her." He softly said. "I have a 'cursed' item that will not allow such a thing..."

'In fact, the Goddess of Life and her subordinates only realized this because of her special power. But the God of Death will not be capable of that...' So he thought as he looked at the Spatial Kingdom ring in one of his hands.

'On that account, the ring will erase those traces, along with her presence.'

After hearing that Minos had protection, the three women felt better, while Gloria smiled at the thought of how confident Minos was talking about someone of level 99. 'I wonder if my child will have 1% of their father's confidence?'

After a moment of silence, Abby sighed and said. "Besides, the Goddess of Life asked me to look for the descendants of her family. She had no children, but her family still existed when she failed in her advancement."

"Oh?" Minos thought that maybe that woman had died a virgin...

magic

Ruth then asked. "Do they still have living descendants? So much time has passed, and where she left her inheritance hasn't even had people looking for it..."

'Looking for...' Minos thought of something.

Abby then said. "I think with the Great Migration, her family must have disappeared from the area and lost their roots. But, according to her, she didn't leave that heritage to her family since she wanted someone else to continue her revenge."

"So, they probably don't even know that."

"That's it..." Ruth muttered.

"What if they still exist?" Gloria questioned. "What did the Goddess of Life wish you to do?"

"She wanted me to take a look at the family situation. Help if needed and eventually take them back to their homeland, where their ancestors are buried in our region." Abby said as she watched her husband with a thoughtful expression.

'Do the people behind the pirate groups searching for the map in my spatial ring have any relation to these ancient 'Gods'? He wondered as he thought of this possibility for the first time.

Minos had never thought about this possibility before, but with Ruth's question and the things he had learned about the past in recent months, he had finally pondered it.

The northern region did have a lot of history buried underground, and powers around the entire Spiritual World could have departed from this place at the time of the Great Migration.

Among these powers, some might have forgotten their origins, but others might still be searching for the inheritances of their ancestors!

Thinking about this, he could not help but consider the possibility that the Blood Triangle Pirates group might be connected to the heritage of one of the ancient 'Gods.' After all, the map in his possession was something unique, similar to things he had already found in the heritage of the Goddess of Life.

In other words, such a thing had probably been found for the first time in another ancient ruin in that region!

'What does it lead to?' As he thought about this, his women continued talking about the Goddess, with Abby answering various questions of Ruth and Gloria.

Thus, time began to pass, and soon the group finished their rest, each dressing after a brief shower, preparing to return to the previous city.

Now that they had settled their carnal affairs and Abby had awakened, it was time to continue towards the capital of this state, where they could begin their plans against the Vogel family!

Chapter 1186 Scaring Someone

A few days later...

After leaving the previous city, Minos' group traveled quickly to the vicinity of the capital of Vogel, where they were about to arrive at this time.

This state was not grand in size, and its capital was closer to the northern region than to its great enemy, the Flaming Empire.

With this, even considering the forests with high-level beasts in these areas, this group's journey from the Black Plain did not take longer than it should have.

The four humans and two beasts had fought several times during this period, but this had not been anything that could hinder their travel plans to the Vogel family headquarters city.

And in those days, Abby, who was already very close to a breakthrough before she even reached the crypt in the Kingdom of the Waves, had reached level 61 the day before!

Her talent had increased, and she was already close to a breakthrough. So, with the fights she had a chance to have these days, she had reached the same level as her husband.

As for the two beasts in this group, Maida was not as talented, so she did not have much expectation of advancing in the coming months. Kyla, on the other hand, had advanced just before leaving the Black Plain with her companions, so she needed a few more months of training to reach level 58.

Anyway, they were getting ready to pass through the border control of the capital, where several carriages and people on beasts like theirs were lined up in long lines.

There were all kinds of creatures in the vicinity, with humans between levels 45 and 55, close to the average power of this high-level kingdom.

"Let's go through that other line..." Gloria commented to the two beasts in her group, indicating one of the VIP entrances to this grand city.

"Are we going to use the Spiritual Church to our advantage?" Abby asked as she smiled at her harem sisters.

Minos then took something from his spatial rings and handed it to them. "Put those masks on. Let's hide our faces while we are in this place."

They wore hoods until then, and since they were the last in the line they had just left, no one had noticed them yet. Thus, to avoid being recognized by potential enemies, Minos had thought of this when he saw the royal family guards at that entrance post.

His three wives promptly obeyed his order and put on masks similar to his own, hiding their beautiful faces.

With that, soon, the two beasts arrived at the side of a particular entrance post, where only one carriage besides their group was passing at this moment.

"Oh? This smell..." A young man inside that carriage felt a unique scent coming from outside his means of transportation and felt interested in that Spiritual Emperor emanating such a thing.

He was an aristocrat who liked the smell of every 'flower,' but some emitted certain fragrances that showed their outstanding quality.

He had a theory that a woman with a distinctive scent had characteristics that were just as unique. As such, he could not contain his curiosity to see such a rarity.

As he stuck his head out the window on the right side of his carriage, he saw three women and a man standing on top of a black-furred tigress.

Unfortunately, each of them had a mask covering their face, and he could only tell the quality of their beauty just by their fairy hands and high-standard bodies.

"Hello, my name is Morton Wolf. Can I know from where the ladies came from?" He asked as he stepped out of his carriage, ignoring the guard about to attend to Minos' group.

Minos looked in the direction of that fellow and then gave a short, thick answer. "We are of the order of Iron Hearts from the Sacred Hill." He then showed a symbol of the Spiritual Church that he had received from Margot.

Upon hearing Minos' comment and seeing the symbol of the Spiritual Church, each guard in the surrounding area took a step back. At the same time, as the young man widened his eyes, one of his servants came to his rescue before he met his end.

"Iron Hearts?" He swallowed his saliva as he uttered the name of the order that formed the extermination groups of the Spiritual Church.

Every person who came from the headquarters of the Spiritual Church on Sacred Hill was feared because of their potential within that organization. But those from Iron Hearts were much worse, as they were the enforcers of this grand organization.

They not only punished, they judged, and also sentenced the punishments they imposed on rebels and enemies!

Therefore, when they heard from Minos that his group had this origin, the people in the surroundings trembled with fear of these dangerous beings.

Meanwhile, Gloria was surprised that Minos would say that name. 'I never mentioned that order to him... It seems my husband's knowledge of the Church is quite profound.'

"Sorry for the delay, Your Excellencies. You may enter now!" A guard said this as he opened one of the entrance gates to that city while the others in that area were still scared to death.

Gulp!

"Why are these people here?" One of the guards muttered to his closest colleague.

The colleague then replied. "I don't know. Maybe they are in training. Don't you see? One of them is much stronger than the others, and she wears the robes of the Church, but the other doesn't."

As Minos and his group moved off, the young man from before managed to get into his carriage after much difficulty and help from his servant.

'How could this be? Such a distinguished group came from such a dark place?'

Gulp!

,m 'To make matters worse, from that guy's tone, he sounded angry!' Finally, he paled in fear and looked at his servant. "Let's go away! Let's return home!"

"What? What about the family business?"

"Screw it! That guy will kill me if I stay here. I'm sure!" He shouted in nervousness. "I didn't see his face, but I'm sure he looked at me like I was a dead animal!"

"To make matters worse, the family could get in trouble if we get involved with such dangerous people!"

Meanwhile, Minos and his group were quietly making their way into the interior of the outstanding capital of Vogel.

"Minos, what was that back there? Why did you say that?" Abby asked in curiosity since she was the only one who did not know about that information from the Spiritual Church.

Minos laughed and said. "I just scared that person a little. He was looking at my women, so I just took a few nights of sleep away from him, hehehe."

Gloria then explained to Abby. "Iron Hearts is the order that forms the members of the Church who are responsible for carrying out punishments, among other things."

"It was one of the groups in that order that wiped out that sect in Albano."

"Oh?" Abby gasped in surprise as Ruth looked at Minos and smiled beneath her mask.

This black-haired woman already knew about such a thing, so she had not questioned Minos about it. "But don't you think pretending to be part of such a powerful group is dangerous?"

"No," Minos said. "There aren't many in that order, and those people are too far from Church headquarters to do anything about it."

"Finally, we are visiting the local temple with our identities protected. So there's no danger."

"Sigh!" Gloria then said. "Anyway, don't go off saying such things easily. Next time, let's solve our problems without taking any major risks..."

"Hmmm." He nodded just as they were about to reach the central square of the capital, where the Spiritual Church temple and the royal palace were!

...

Chapter 1187 Situation Of The Empire And Its Four Enemies

Upon arriving in that area of Vogel's capital, Minos' group encountered a place filled with high-level Spiritual Emperors, where they could even sense the presence of Spiritual Saints.

Obviously, they could not sense all the experts in the area since certain places with unique spiritual arrays could block the spiritual probing of people outside their action spaces.

But for Minos and Abby, who were not used to places like these, the number of experts in the surrounding area was already quite impressive.

States like Albano, Vogel and Flaming Empire were considered second-rate in the Spiritual World, while the Black Plain and the northern region were third-rate. But even so, places like these that Minos was in were quite strong and had experts that would rank well anywhere on the continent.

In the Spiritual World, regardless of where someone was, being above level 70 already meant an outstanding achievement worthy only of experts.

Therefore, being in such a place was a new experience for them, even considering the memories they had in their minds!

And considering that this city of 5 million people had almost 100,000 Spiritual Emperors, they could not help but observe the area and feel what their state would be like in a few more decades.

"This place is pretty strong, huh? Is the Flaming Empire stronger than this?" Abby asked as they walked toward the stairs of the Spiritual Church temple.

Hearing that, both Ruth and Gloria smiled from under their masks.

"Sure, much stronger," Ruth commented. "In terms of cultivators, below level 70, the difference is only in numbers. Precisely because of this, the neighboring states to the northern region are allies against the Empire."

Gloria nodded and continued Ruth's explanation. "But when it comes to experts, the numbers quite different, but also the quality of these individuals."

"Many of the Spiritual Saints from Vogel, or the other three kingdoms north of the Empire, don't have complete sets of Silver-grade techniques, nor do they even have Golden-grade techniques. So, they lose out on quality to those in the Empire."

"Also, the Empire has a greater variety of low-level Spiritual Saints, with professionals of all ranks, many of them to be precise."

"In Vogel, it's not like that. There are even professionals of all ranks, but they are scarce, and there are no high-level grade-3 professionals around here, something that there are in the Empire."

"Finally, while the Emperor is already a Spiritual Sage, the king of this state is only a Spiritual Saint."

Minos and Abby listened to all this carefully, getting some new information from these lines from Gloria.

He then asked. "Why doesn't the Emperor act against these kingdoms and end the problem between them?"

She looked at her husband's mask and laughed at his comment. "Because he is not you, dear. If he were, he would have already unified those four kingdoms and expanded the Empire's forces."

"Hmm, you know me well..." He made his three women laugh.

Gloria then continued. "Besides not being as impressive as you are, the Emperor has two major problems."

"Oh? What are they?" Abby asked.

Ruth said the first. "In the past, the Emperor won a bet with a high-level sect of the Flowers Kingdom. That helped him gain a protector, but also a problem."

The Flowers Kingdom was between the Flaming Empire, Evergreen Empire, and Eastern Empire, a state ruled by women, where men only served for reproduction.

That was the third smallest state in the Central Continent in terms of area and population, but it was one of the strongest in raw power.

Ruth continued while speaking in a funny tone. "If he ever leaves his state, he will have to marry the leader of that sect. Meanwhile, she, a high-level Spiritual Sage, is protecting the Empire from stronger opponents, fulfilling her promise to him in the past..."

"Uh?" Abby did not understand. "Then why is it a problem for him to leave the Empire? Wouldn't marrying a high-level Spiritual Sage be good for him?"

Gloria laughed and explained. "No, because the leader of that sect is rather special..."

Ruth said. "Let's just say she's not the kind of woman men are normally attracted to... So, it would be torture for the Emperor to be with her."

Minos looked in curiosity at those two women coming from the Flaming Empire. "Just say what the problem is."

Gloria said. "She is 3 meters tall, weighs about 200 kilograms, and is said to have an innate ability that when she mates, she devours her lover's testicles."

"What? Does something like that exist?" Abby's eyes widened.

"Hmm, all her husbands have turned eunuch after sleeping with her... But in contrast, she can get pregnant after once with a man. Because of this, she has more than 50 children, a true record in our world." Ruth said.

"Geez!" Minos exclaimed in surprise. 'It's a miracle this woman is still alive!'

Abby was shocked at such gossip, but she did not forget the other problem. "What about the second reason he can't act?"

Gloria then spoke of the second problem. "The kings of the four states north of the Empire have sacrificial techniques that, when combined, can be used to activate a low-level grade-4 weapon that the Emperor is susceptible to."

"So, if he took the risk of fighting, he would have a very high risk of dying along with his enemies."

"Because of these reasons, the Emperor does not act directly against these kingdoms. But it wouldn't be advantageous to fight either. All the states are more or less trying to avoid trouble because of the last war that happened."

"Such a war was so brutal that the power that existed at that time has not yet been fully recovered, even though thousands of years have passed."

"I see..." Minos muttered to himself, more or less understanding the situation these four states and the Flaming Empire were in.

'Well, if the Vogel family did something against me, then all that will change soon...' He pondered as his group approached members of the Church who were on the path to the inside of the temple in front of him.

'I will try to destroy this family with the Church, which will screw up the balance of power of these states. As a result, the Flaming Empire will have to consider the opportunity to eliminate the opponents, and the other three kingdoms will also be on alert...'

He frowned his eyebrows as he remembered something. 'But I have to help Albano. With the contract I signed, I must at least speak on their behalf and try to avoid trouble.'

"Sigh..."

'What a complication!'

'It would be better just to let them fight and open up opportunities for the Black Plain...' He regretted that he had already signed such an agreement.

'Well, I'll have to find a way to resolve any kind of imbalance peacefully.' He saw the Church symbol on the uniforms of the people in his group's path and thought. 'I'll have to use this organization!'

"Welcome to the local temple. Please, your IDs..." Minos heard the voice of one of those men dressed in black.

Chapter 1188 A Bit Of The Spiritual Church

When they were stopped by the guards at that Spiritual Church post, Minos and his two first wives remained silent while Gloria spoke in their place.

"We are from the Temple of Payton. We are passing through the area..." She gave a brief explanation as she presented her identification.

Noting that she was at the peak of the 7th stage and could soon become a Matriarch, those Spiritual Emperors did not make it too difficult for Gloria.

"So, you are friends of the Flaming Empire..." Someone said with a smile on his face, but not so sincere.

The Spiritual Church was an organization that had its ideals above those of states like those in the northern region, Albano, Vogel, Flaming Empire, etc. But every power consisted of living beings with their freedoms and preferences.

As such, there were factions within the Church, groups that could be more or less friendly or hostile to others.

These groups could be influenced by power disputes within the Church or other problems. For example, some factions more or less behaved more favorably toward the nobility and royalty where they were located. In other words, they took the problems present in those states and brought them into the interfactional relations of the Church.

Case in point, the Church branches in the four kingdoms north of the Flaming Empire were of the same faction, one opposed to the one in the Flaming Empire.

Hence, the people of that temple naturally did not look favorably upon the presence of Gloria's group there, despite their respect for someone of her level.

In the future, she could be strong and leave her faction in the Flaming Empire, but even though it was positive to have relations with someone like that, they preferred not to have her around.

One of them then questioned. "Why are the people in your group hiding your identities? In fact, we want the IDs of each of you."

Minos then massaged one of Gloria's shoulders, indicating for her to step back and make room for him.

At the sight of this, the stronger ones there frowned.

How could a weaker individual be so intimate and still tell the stronger one to get out of his way? It was truly remarkable behavior that indicated how unusual these people must be.

Therefore, the elders there paid twice as much attention to Minos, even considering his low level.

"I am an outer member of the Church. These are my wives." Minos showed the token Margot had given him while he pointed to his three women with his other hand.

"What, outer member?"

"That's the first one I see..."

"He married an Archbishop who is stronger than he is?"

People in the surrounding area commented, finding the situation unusual.

'Outer member... Only someone with a lot of merits, potential, or greatness has what it takes to get the status of an outer member.' One of the elders there, a white-haired man, thought about it.

The same man who had asked Gloria the previous question then insisted. "And what's wrong in showing your identities?"

"That you don't need to know," Minos said as he looked in the direction of that person's eyes.

"What? I think I do need to know!" He stepped forward, annoyed at the arrogant manner of these strangers. "We will not allow unknown people into our temple. So, show your identities, or you'd better leave!"

Minos then raised his head as if looking up at the blue sky above this area. He then said. "According to the rules of the Spiritual Church, an outer member like me can command those weaker than him in any place."

"Of course, as long as his orders are not contrary to the laws of the Church." He smiled from beneath his mask and looked at the stronger man there. "Are you contradicting your superior?"

The man who had asked such questions looked at the old man behind him, waiting for that individual to give the order for them to expel these people.

The white-haired old man looked with narrowed eyes at Minos and questioned. "Are you saying that you are stronger than all of us? Is that it, or did I misunderstand?"

Minos looked at these Spiritual Emperors who worked as guards in this place, knowing that, unlike Gloria, they had humble backgrounds.

Spiritual Emperors were not necessarily the same. Some were already at their full potential, like the old man who asked Minos such a thing. Others had a long journey ahead of them, like Gloria.

As such, while she was the leader of an entire region, these people had the humble job of ensuring the safety of this temple.

So, their knowledge was undoubtedly different from Gloria's since, while she was groomed to lead, they just grew up to become pawns.

"Do you want me to show you?" Minos asked, but he did not even wait for the answer from that level 65 man.

Chaotic Gravity!

He activated his 7th technique and pointed one of his fingers downward, instantly making the half dozen guards kneel.

,m "What?"

"How can it be?"

"Something is attracting me to the ground..." Someone spoke in difficulty, barely able to breathe. "It's as if my body is heavier..."

"Ahhhh!" Some of them let out sounds of pain as their bones made strange sounds, and it seemed as if their bodies might explode at any moment.

Some of them were only one or two levels above Minos, so if he wanted to, he could even kill them by using gravity to crush their bodies!

Thus, the current situation was uncomfortable for these Spiritual Emperors dressed in black!

Minos continued to hold his finger in that same position for another second before looking in the direction of that strongest fellow in that group. "Are you still going to make things difficult for us? Will I have to punish you for your disobedience?"

Outer members were highly valued in the Church, as only people who deserved it or had a lot of potentials earned that status.

Why had Margot given such a thing to Minos? Besides him being the father of the baby in Gloria's womb, she knew he was talented. So, it was beneficial for the Spiritual Church to connect with him this way!

As such, Minos was using his advantage at this moment, something those individuals knew could harm them since this masked man was stronger than all of them.

"No, Your Excellency need not worry..." That white-haired man said with difficulty as he looked at Minos' feet.

With that, Minos raised his finger, and the tremendous pressure on the bodies of those individuals passed, causing some of them to fall to the ground while hurriedly breathing.

The man who had caused trouble for them looked in Minos' direction with terror in his eyes while ignoring the sounds of smiles coming from Minos' three women.

'Does this fellow have such tremendous power?' He swallowed his saliva in fear.

He had never witnessed anything so terrifying in his life!

Not only were they more numerous than Minos, but they were also all stronger in terms of level than this masked young man. In other words, such a person was defiantly off limits and still possessed a power that was extremely difficult to counter.

That was why this man had been so shocked to realize who he had angered!

As Minos departed that area, another person who had been watching the situation from afar smiled, finding it all interesting.

'Who is that? He has a lot of personality and confidence!'

...magic

Chapter 1189 First Steps To Build Your Own Faction

The woman who had seen all of Minos' actions from afar continued to watch his group entering the Church temple, interested in these visitors.

She had seen when Minos showed the Church symbol, so naturally, she did not think he was there to cause trouble. So, she saw no problem in him teaching those individuals a lesson.

The people in this organization placed a high value on hierarchy. Since Minos was stronger than those individuals and had a special status, he naturally had the right to act that way.

Even more so considering that he had not overstepped his limits.

With that, she soon walked towards him, curious to meet this person.

"Hi, my name is Louise. Do you need any help?" She asked as she approached Minos' group.

Hearing that, the four people looked at this blonde woman, level 67, wearing an outfit similar to Gloria's.

Gloria looked at her and said. "We need to collect some local information. So, you can take us to the area responsible for that."

"Oh? Don't you know the kingdom? Where do you come from?" She looked at Gloria, but she was interested in Minos.

"Flaming Empire."

"Oh? It is unusual for our temple to receive people from this place..." She commented as she looked ahead and began to lead their group. "Why would a group from the Flaming Empire come to our state? Any problems?"

"Several problems..." Gloria commented without giving details.

Minos then said. "Louise, in addition to seeking information, we are searching for Spiritual Emperors of this post who are not so involved in local affairs."

"Can you help us with that? I want to meet my wife's colleagues in this place who can help me regarding something."

'Your wife's colleagues?' She looked at Gloria, who was wearing a church uniform similar to hers. 'So she is your wife...'

She then asked. "People without much involvement in local affairs? There aren't that many people. After all, it's hard not to get involved in one's own reality..."

"Can you explain more about this to me? I am interested in what you intend with these Spiritual Emperors." She looked at him with interest.

Louise had her local involvements, but as someone who was only at level 67, far from the peak of local power, she was still not influential. At least not to the point of being fully committed or limited by local powers.

Minos then said. "We are not from the Flaming Empire. We're just temporarily part of that state's branch."

"Is that so?"

"We are trying to develop our contacts in other branches of the Church so that we have certain options when we are no longer in the Empire." He left out of his comments the northern region and the fact that he was trying to form his own faction.

Naturally, there was a power struggle within the Church. Thus, faction members would not simply help develop or allow new competitors and divisions to emerge.

Therefore, to avoid people trying to sabotage him, Minos wanted to appear as just an individual concerned with his influence within the Church, with the contacts that could help him establish himself away from his 'homeland.'

And that was what Louise understood from his comment, finding it appropriate for a person in his situation not to limit himself only to the contacts he had in the Flaming Empire.

"Where will you go?" She asked.

Minos smiled, making that clear to Louise in his tone of voice. "A place that the Church does not yet have a branch..."

She stopped walking and looked at him with interest since there were few places in the Central Continent where the Church did not have its feet planted.

Moreover, if such a thing were true, would not that mean the Church was working on an expansionist project?

That was important!

'Is it the western region?'

'Apart from the Flowers Kingdom, only states in the western region are free from the Church's presence.' She pondered while looking seriously at Minos' mask.

The western region had three states without the presence of the Spiritual Church. Among them were the two colossi, the Western Empire and Eastern Empire, which were so strong that they only cared about one dominating the other, not caring about the rest of the region.

And considering that in the past, they were one, as well as one of the strongest states in the entire Spiritual World, it was no wonder that the Church had not been able to enter such territories.

The third state without the presence of the Church in that region was the neighbor to the west of the Western Empire. Such a kingdom did not border any other state and heavily depended on this empire. So, naturally, it had stayed away from the 'clutches' of the Spiritual Church.

As for the Flowers Kingdom, that state was unique, with connections in virtually the entire Spiritual World. Thus, without the Queen's own will, the Church would never attempt to set foot in such a place.

That would be looking for trouble over something small!

The population of the Flowers Kingdom was very loyal to its state, so even if the Church had a post there, it would probably have no gain, only costs.

Knowing all this, Louise could only think that Minos' comment indicated shocking changes, probably related to the westernmost state on this continent.

"The headquarters chose you for this? Are they already so far along with the planning that Spiritual Emperors are already being sent?" She seriously asked.

"You could say that," Minos casually commented. 'Gloria truly has been chosen to command the northern region...'

"So, you want to have contacts beyond the Flaming Empire to facilitate business with other states?"

"Not exactly." He replied. "We want to grow within the Church from this post. So, we need contacts with factions in other areas..."

p "I see..." She pondered, not finding Minos' line problematic since someone growing within a Church post would hardly affect the dynamics of factions in that organization. "I am interested."

"I can see that your future will be great. Besides, I'm sure your wife will go very far in the future." She commented in a low voice to Minos while his wives looked strangely at her.

'Do you really understand?' Abby wondered.

As they walked back down a long corridor in that temple, going to the place Gloria had requested, Minos said. "If you are interested, help me find people as I told you. For now, if you can get a half dozen people, it will be fine."

"I will make an offer to you, and we will leave the growth of our network in this post for the future."

She nodded at him. "OK, I can do that."

After that was decided, she left them at a library, where the local information they wanted access to was located.magic

In this place, Minos and his three wives soon began to learn different things about the Vogel family and the kingdom, which was necessary for them to approach this organization.

...

Chapter 1190 The Opinion Of The Experts

While time was passing inside the library that Minos and his wives were in, in another part of that temple, some Spiritual Saints were talking about the arrival of this group.

They were in a large living room, where two brown leather sofas were facing each other, next to a glass wall that overlooked the central area of this city.

At the same time, there was a piece of furniture between the two sofas where several snacks were available in case they wanted to eat something.

Finally, three people were sitting cross-legged there, dressed in red clothes, while people in black stood at this place's sides in silence.

"So, visitors from the Flaming Empire have arrived at our temple, eh?" One of them commented.

"And this level 61 fellow even overpowered some of the guards posted at the temple entrance... That person looks pretty impressive. Didn't he identify himself?" A white-haired woman asked one of the Spiritual Emperors who had seen Minos' action from afar.

After hearing his superior's questioning, that man lowered his head and said what he had heard from the guards who had suffered a bit from Minos' 7th technique. "From what I heard, Matriarch, they didn't identify themselves."

"One of them seems to be a member of the Church in the Flaming Empire. She is at level 69. As for the others, two of them, and the Archbishop in question, are wives of the man who is supposedly an outer member of the Church."

"When questioned about their identities, they refused to discuss why they hid them. Since that man was stronger than the guards in place, they had to accept their defeat and retreat." That person finished explaining the previous situation.

The third of those people sitting on one of those two sofas, a man with blond hair, then asked. "How did a level 61 Spiritual Emperor overpower six higher level guards, one of them level 65?"

The same man from before answered with a slightly nervous tone. "I saw it all happening, but I'm not sure how he did it. First, he moved one of his fingers down, and then there was a disturbance in the spiritual energy in the surroundings."

"Then those guards were pressed against the ground, some of them barely able to breathe as they thought they would explode due to the weight of their bodies."

"In the end, he raised his finger, and everything seemed to return to normal."

"Oh?" The woman looked at her two companions on the sofa across from hers. "An innate ability or a technique?" magic

"If it's a technique, it's a Golden-grade one." The blond man who asked the previous question replied, thinking of the more likely hypothesis.

"If that is the case, then it is not for nothing that this young man has been given the status of an outer member. He will have a great future and serve to help the Church." The second man said, thinking how powerful every person with techniques of that quality was.

Ordinary people did not know, but these Spiritual Saints, who had at least one Golden-grade technique, knew there was a vast difference between the power released by Golden-grade and Silver-grade techniques.

Not only did the energy conversion efficiency have a 100% difference, but the laws involved in each Golden-grade technique were more profound.

That meant that their power was extraordinary, had greater compatibility with fusion, required less power to use, and released more destruction, even though they consumed less energy than those of other ranks.

But not only this, when a cultivator learned techniques, they became part of their spiritual journey, which would influence their soul.

Not only the cultivation technique could influence such a thing!

When someone spent a thousand, ten thousand, twenty thousand years using an attack technique, that technique naturally influenced that cultivator's soul in a certain way.

The result of this? Having Golden-grade techniques from a young age meant that such a cultivator could have his soul affected for longer, which would raise its quality.

And with that, a breakthrough to the 11th stage was more likely to happen in the future!

These Spiritual Saints knew this, so each of them understood what it meant if Minos did have techniques of this rank at his current level.

'That must be the case!' The woman there thought. 'It is no wonder such a girl's post allowed her to marry outside the Church. They must expect a lot from that boy.'

She had no idea about Minos and Gloria's ages, but compared to her own, those two Spiritual Emperors were no more than children.

But unfortunately, she and her two companions had ignored the slight possibility that Minos had impregnated Gloria because of it, had become an outer member of the Church...

He was indeed talented, and Margot knew that he had the potential to bring some benefits to the Spiritual Church. But the biggest reason he had that special status was for Gloria's honor, not his fantastic future.

"Well, this fellow has the right to be arrogant and act against these daring guards!" One of the two men there said while having a smile on his face.

The blond man agreed. "Yes, there is nothing wrong with what he did. In fact, help this young man get what he wants here."

"We're not friendly to the Payton Temple people, but we don't need to be hostile either." The white-haired woman, level 76, agreed with her two colleagues. "At the end of the day, we are all members of the Church, so treating our friends well is important."

The Spiritual Emperors in the surrounding area heard all this with wide eyes, surprised that these millennial experts could speak comments of that nature over a level 61 young man.

'Are they giving importance to that fellow? Do they need to speak those excuses to try to get on his good side?' One of those people thought about it in silence, surprised that his bosses seemed to want to have a good relationship with Minos.

But even if they wanted that, those Spiritual Saints were not willing to bother associating with Minos right now. It would not be suitable for their images if they gave relevance to a level 61 young man.

So they would let their subordinates take care of the matters related to this for the moment, and who knows when Minos became someone of their stage, they would sit at the same table.

By then, the help from afar should be good enough for them to maintain positive contact with this promising young man.

With that, it was not long before the subordinates of the three Spiritual Saints left there to carry out their orders.

They would pass on the order for people from this temple not to stand in the way of Minos' group and even help them in their local affairs.
