

Black Plain 2071

Chapter 2071 Those Behind the Terrorists?

On an island in the East Sea that was so small that it could only accommodate a maximum of 5,000 people without becoming overcrowded, human constructions covered its entire area.

But even though it was a tiny place, more than 30 ships were stationed around this island. At the same time, the local population consisted mainly of high-level Sages and some Demigods.

In the center of the island, a large building was built at a higher level than all the others, and it was located at the highest point of this relief.

In this place, a man at level 96 was meditating with his eyes closed and a terrible expression on his face.

This was none other than the leader of one of the most active organizations in the Spiritual World right now, the leader of the radicals who are operating all over the planet!

But while he was meditating to break through to level 97, his sister, the number two of the terrorist group, a level 95 woman, was in charge in the very building where he was cultivating.

She was currently with those who formed this terrorist group about four years ago when they realized the opportunity in front of them.

They were not the first to act on behalf of the weak people of this world who could benefit if the powers of this world surrendered to the aliens.

People who really believed that surrender was the right way to go were the first to start fighting against the official powers of the world, trying to stop the development of new technologies by the strongest in the world.

But as soon as these people found out about the movements that were gaining volume worldwide, they seized the opportunity to profit and began to get involved in the cause of these people for gain.

By joining the radicals, organizing them, and moving them to their own advantage, this group of about 10 people created an extremely lucrative business!

In just 4 years of operation, they had netted over 50 million high-grade crystals, enough for each of them to be considered a powerhouse capable of creating their own state!

That amount was definitely not enough for them to create something of the highest level, such as what Minos was currently doing or what the world's leading powers were investing in.

But with this amount, they could build a state from scratch and bring it to the level of the Black Plain Empire.

Minos had less than that when he started his journey decades ago. So it wouldn't be impossible for this group to do what he had done if they had the time to try.

Of course, time was a problem for everyone, as the aliens and the ice age were about to catch up with everyone.

In any case, these Demigods, who had previously been mere mercenaries in the Spiritual World, had reached a wealth level that only nobles and rulers had!

But they still wouldn't stop what they were doing!

The sister of the leader of this group said to her companions while they were in a large meeting hall. "The world's powers are putting more pressure on us than ever before, and things will be difficult from now on. But that doesn't change the fact that we have a great chance of making crystals.

As hard as it is for us to recruit new soldiers to fight for our interests, the opportunities for gains will not change in the short term.

Our actions over the past few years have already done a great deal of damage to powers around the world. The prices of the products we sell will not decrease in the short term. And given the lack of them on the market, nothing will affect our profits. Even if we stopped using our soldiers now, we could still double our capital in the next two or three years." She smiled.

She was worried. She still wasn't sure if they could enjoy what they had built up over the years. But she believed they could make a lot more.

With more resources, they could get closer to their goal, which was to obtain the best defensive and offensive weapons that the powers of this world would produce in the coming years.

Unlike the fools who had started the terrorist movement for surrender, they didn't believe in this nonsense. They believed the world would be wiped out, and they wanted to get enough resources to buy the technologies that some of the world's strongest powers were developing!

But everyone there believed that these technologies wouldn't come cheap, so making a profit was paramount for everyone.

"We have the equivalent of 20 million high-grade crystals in food and other essential resources that we invested before we launched some of our most serious attacks." The group's number three commander said. "If we look at the current value of these products, our 20 million high-level crystals alone are already worth more than 60 million.

Even if we stop fighting our soldiers, we'll still make a great profit from selling these products."

The people in the hall liked what they heard. As long as things continued like this when they had used everything they could from this operation with the radicals, they could come out of this deal with more than 10 million high-grade crystals each.

With that amount, everyone there was confident that they could at least buy their way into the strongest organizations in the world!

'Years ago, I was just a low-level Demigod, a mercenary on the Divine Continent. But in another year or two, I can surpass all my old acquaintances and buy a place in even the strongest organizations in the world.' One of these individuals thought to himself with a smile on his face.

Another man who thought the same thing said. "We must use the radical cause as much as possible. Even though our current achievements are great, they are not enough.

I recently went to the Central Continent to negotiate with Blackrock to gain a place in their kingdom. But the rulers there won't agree to negotiate what they're getting from Minos Stuart for less than 10 million high-grade crystals. So we need to be able to negotiate those reserves but also make new deals beyond that," He said, determined to scrape together enough to get his deal with that state.

Blackrock did not know who it was dealing with. This man had approached this state, just as others there had tried to approach other places around the world, promising to migrate to places where they could help sovereign families in exchange for opportunities to access alien technologies.

The alien technologies were so rare and high-level that these people were not only willing to pay but also work and advocate for those who had access to these resources.

Not only were they interested in this kind of business, but virtually every state and power in the world with some access to alien technology received proposals of this kind.

So Blackrock didn't know who it was dealing with, let alone the origin of the coins the man had promised.

Others in the room were in similar situations, so they agreed.

"Let's take advantage of the current situation as much as possible. We'll end our operation if we don't have any more soldiers to fight for us or even if the enemies are close to finding out who we are." The faction leader's sister said, and everyone agreed.

Chapter 2072 Encounter Before Seclusion

While the situation of the radicals in the Spiritual World worsened, a few months passed quickly between the crisis of the rebels and the preparations for the beginning of the ice age and the arrival of the aliens.

The cooperation between the world's strongest powers was getting better and better, with each side more easily developing their new ways of using the knowledge from the alien technologies.

After Minos acted to make the most of his commitment to the elves, this tribe and others who acted with him realized the benefits of sharing their discoveries.

Though each was still a bit suspicious of the other and thought they needed to protect some of their advances, many now saw the exchange of information as beneficial.

By sharing information and insights into how other peoples saw the same things they did, different tribes made new discoveries about things they hadn't noticed before, but which could affect them significantly.

As a result, while Minos had made several agreements, tribes such as the dragons, phoenixes, and elves had moved to do the same as him and were already dealing with the positive consequences.

All of these combined powers were getting stronger, which might be a problem in the future, but for now, no side could stand still. With the chance to improve more together, they put aside rivalries to make faster and deeper progress.

Meanwhile, the rebel issue had lost much of its momentum in the months since the news of the radicals' corruption broke.

With incentives from governments around the world, the populations of virtually every state and tribe have become more active in the fight against terrorists.

The result had been the expected weakening of the radicals, a reduction in their numbers, and a decrease in attacks worldwide.

But they were still at work, maintaining tensions around the world while raising the prices of various common and cultivation products through their actions, which were more and more directed towards financial gain and less towards defending the surrender of the weakest.

Meanwhile, in Dry City...

Minos was currently gathered with his family, his wives' families, his great friends, and, of course, his wives and children in the living room of his residence.

Hollie, Lily, and Rowan, now adults with fully matured appearances and physical forms, were there alongside their closest family members, listening without saying more than they should.

Hollie was currently at level 48, the youngest and weakest of Minos' children. Her twin brother, Rowan, was level 49, while Lily, the oldest of the three, was level 52.

Lily was the most similar to Minos of the three, but that didn't take away from her femininity. She was beautiful with her brown hair and looked a lot like a younger version of Maisie.

As for Rowan, he was also like his father, but everyone said he looked more like Albert, his paternal grandfather.

Hollie, who had brown hair, stood next to her mother, Ruth, as well as her maternal grandparents, Elise and Vince, and her aunt, Talia.

Of the three next to Ruth and Hollie, Talia was currently at level 81, while the woman's mother and father were at levels 82 and 83, respectively.

In addition to Lily and her mother, Isabella, the princess's maternal grandmother, Harold's second wife, Audrey, was currently at level 82.

Neither Harold nor the Empress of the Flaming Empire were around today, as they were both busy with their state and Isabella's younger brother.

Isabella's brother had already reached level 60, although he was born shortly after her marriage to Minos. He was a very talented young man and was currently the heir to this estate.

Meanwhile, Rowan stood next to his father and watched as his old man talked to everyone in the room about the beginning of his seclusion, which would take place over the next two days.

At Rowan's side were Kendrick and two of the local heir's girlfriends, while the latter rested an arm on his younger brother's shoulder.

"Rowan, what are you going to do? Father will be in seclusion for a few months until he reaches the main point of his cultivation when everyone will have a chance to absorb some of the power of the medicine he will use." Kendrick commented softly in one of his younger brother's ears.

He was still at level 71 but very close to reaching level 72.

Sarah was also close to leveling up but was still stuck at level 76.

Rowan looked at Kendrick, aware that his brother was trying to make him choose between staying in Dry City and having fun and cultivating with his old man.

"I'm going with our father. In a few months, he might be able to advance to level 90, so it'll be a good chance for me to cultivate near him. Maybe I can get to level 50 in the meantime."

Kendrick smiled. "Are you sure about that? In 20 years or so, we might all die. Don't you want to live a little before then? Find a woman and have some fun, Rowan. Our cultivation won't make any difference. Either our father wins the war and secures our future, or we all die. There are no alternatives."

Rowan narrowed his eyes and turned away. "It is a tempting thought to run away and live out the pleasures that remain in the last moments before the chaos. But I'd rather reach my full potential in the meantime."

Kendrick said nothing more as he took his brother aside.

"'You're right... I'll go to the Spatial Kingdom to train as well.' Kendrick thought to himself, 'But if I were you, I don't know if I would do the same.'"

On the other hand, Sarah was there with her husband, who was also about to enter seclusion to advance to level 90 and would join Minos in the seclusion he was about to enter.

"You should be careful while I'm away," George said to Sarah, worried about her being away from him for the next few months. "As much as the terrorist attacks have decreased, be careful."

"I know. Don't worry. I will advance to level 78 while you cultivate. The empire will also continue to improve its forces and technologies, so perhaps the situation with the radicals will be resolved by the time you return." She told him when she saw her mother standing beside Minos and Abby.

Minos then raised a glass into the air and finished his speech. "Well, I wish everyone here the best of luck with their missions and goals over the next few months. Next time we meet, we'll have a lot of new things to do." He looked at Harold, Maisie, and Patience as he spoke, seeing the proud and happy looks on their faces.

Chapter 2073 Reaching the Peak of Level 89: Time for the Breakthrough!

After meeting with some of his family, Minos would soon finish his preparations to leave Dry City and begin his seclusion in the Spatial Kingdom.

When he had finished everything he had to do that afternoon, he would leave his imperial palace for the army headquarters, where he would leave with everyone who would be staying with him in the Spatial Kingdom during this period of seclusion.

Much of his family would remain in Dry City to conduct the affairs of the state and protect the family's interests. But several members who were important in the present or the future would join him in this seclusion!

When he arrived at the place of departure, Minos was greeted by almost all of his children, except Sarah, who would remain in the city to take care of the agricultural part of the empire, something she had been doing since the preparations for the ice age began.

Minos' four other children would join him in his seclusion in the Spatial Kingdom for the next few months.

But not only them, Minos' aunt, Angelica, and his grandmother, Patience, were also going to the Spatial Kingdom, while Oswald and Maisie, currently levels 86 and 87, would stay in Dry City and weren't even around to see everyone leave that day.

Abby's parents and Isabella would also go with them to the Spatial Kingdom, while Gloria, Ruth, and Abby would stay in Dry City to attend to the affairs of the imperial family and the Spiritual Church.

In addition to them, some 9th and 10th-stage spiritual professionals would also go to the Spatial Kingdom, where Minos' group would stop studying alien technologies for the next few months to concentrate on raising their levels with their leader.

Minos stood before a group of more than 30 people and looked at his eldest daughter's husband, a man with blond hair and the same level as himself. He asked as he looked at the man who would be entering his Spatial Kingdom for the first time. "Are you ready?"

"Yes," George replied as he greeted Minos, knowing it was with physical contact that they would leave for such a place.

The other people around held hands or touched each other's shoulders until the last in line touched George's right shoulder.

"Alright, let's go to the Spatial Kingdom!" Minos said before using the ring that Henricus Longus had left him to control his coming and going from that space, which quickly caused all those individuals to be covered in a form of spatial energy.

A second later, they all disappeared from the courtyard they were in and immediately appeared in the Spatial Kingdom.

By the time they arrived, almost everyone there was already familiar with the area and quickly dispersed to their places of training or study.

Only George and some of the stronger members of the group stayed near Minos, observing their surroundings.

The Spatial Kingdom of Minos seemed a bit different from what George had expected from such a place. This wasn't only because there were no large buildings, as one would expect from the headquarters of an organization. It was also due to the difference in the energy density of the area, as well as the nature of the free laws in the environment.

'This feeling... Why do I feel this place is more complex than it should be?' George thought, knowing that Spatial Kingdoms shouldn't be like this room.

But when he looked at the plant-covered skeletons at the edge of this place, he understood a bit why this place was different.

'It seems that Minos Stuart somehow managed to integrate these things into his Spatial Kingdom... That's why there is so much wealth here!?' He looked in the direction of 38 Divine Medicines, something he already knew was there because of Sarah and some promises he had made over the years.

Initially, there were about 30 Divine Medicines in this Spatial Kingdom. But after Minos brought several giant skeletons and the body of Fah'um of Dunov into this space, things changed, and more Divine Medicines matured.

That's why this whole room seemed different from what George had expected from the Spatial Kingdom!

Minos then said. "Don't touch any plants in this place. Cultivate wherever you want, but don't disturb others with your cultivation. Otherwise, do what you want."

With these words, he went to the central area of the Spatial Kingdom, where he wanted to start cultivating to raise his soul power to the maximum before starting the critical part of his advancement.

Minos wasn't at the absolute peak of level 89 yet, but he would reach it in a few months.

After that, it would be enough for him to collect one of the Divine-grade medicines in the area and do the same procedure he had done before to advance the level and quality of the physique simultaneously.

It would be a great moment not only for him but also for everyone in this place, as they would benefit from the magnificent amount of energy and laws that would become available after consuming the Divine Medicine.

Seeing Minos sitting in a lotus position over a cultivation pillow, George saw that there were more than 300 beings in the Spatial Kingdom at the moment, ranging from humans to beasts and even hybrids.

Kyla and Emlyn were there, going about keeping the Spatial Kingdom organized, with the mother currently at level 85 and her daughter at level 83.

Titus was also there, eager for Minos to reach level 90 so they could finally begin their experiments!

'The time has finally come.' The old white-furred fox thought. 'I'm going to spend the next few months studying the alien items and this corpse, and when he really starts to progress, I'll focus on trying to understand a bit more of our theories.' Titus planned.

George saw the foxes and thought, 'This place is incredible! And with so many resources, Minos could decide the fate of the Spiritual World. I'll find a way to convince him and my mother to make a deal. This could be her chance to reach level 100 and improve our chances against the aliens!

So, the newcomers soon set about what they had come to do in this space, cultivating or trying to improve their understanding of enemy techniques, innate powers, and technologies.

As each sought their improvements, time would begin to pass, and in the blink of an eye, Minos' seclusion would reach the 6-month mark!

But before the 7th month, he would open his eyes, ready to harvest a Divine Medicine for his physique breakthrough!

The time had finally come for him to attempt to advance to the 10th stage and achieve the Divine Physique!

Chapter 2074 Divine-grade Physique!

After harvesting the Divine Medicine in front of everyone in the Spatial Kingdom, Minos sat down again and said in a low voice, causing goosebumps to rise in everyone there. "Get ready. I'm going to start improving the quality of my physique."

After Minos' simple but powerful words, his children, Isabella, relatives, friends, and subordinates changed their mood, and everyone tried to concentrate on the beginning of his advance.

From that moment on, they had to pay attention to everything because they could find many answers during the qualitative evolution from a physique to the Divine grade. The professionals there, who were trying to understand alien technologies or even improve their skills, had a lot to gain.

It wasn't much different for those who just wanted to become stronger, as watching the evolution of a cultivator like Minos would be beneficial to everyone, even mid- and high-level Demigods.

Unfortunately, there weren't many people like that in the entire empire. And those with such characteristics were in the empire looking after the good of the state.

Anyway, with the silence of those people focused on him, Minos took off most of his clothes, leaving only something to protect his groin.

Sitting on a large light green cushion, he picked up the Divine Medicine he had chosen for this moment, something shaped like an apple but shining in rainbow colors.

He looked around and saw everyone with closed eyes, circulating their cultivation techniques to seize the opportunity as soon as possible.

'Time to start...' Minos thought as he looked at the medicine in his hands. 'Time to reach the peak of my physique!'

He took a deep breath and closed his eyes before he took the first bite of this special fruit, expressing disgust, of course, because medicinal fruits didn't taste good despite their especially good properties.

He immediately turned pale as he devoured the small fruit in three bites, trying hard not to vomit.

He had already blocked his senses before he began to 'taste' the fruit, but that had only reduced the horrible taste to an 'acceptable' level.

With the 'apple' in his stomach, he began to focus on the parts of the medicine in his body.

The medicine he had just eaten had more than 100 times the energy his body could withstand, as well as the proportional density of the laws themselves. If he didn't quickly control what he had just ingested, he might not only miss the opportunity created by this precious resource, but he might also explode and take everyone in the Spatial Kingdom with him into their next life!

He quickly directed this energy to promote the evolution of his cells, be they those of his muscles, bones, nerves, in short, everything that was part of him.

That required millimeter precision, and at the same time, he had to endure great pain while transforming his body, controlling the whole process without making a mistake. The slightest carelessness would lead to the worst possible consequences.

Solar God Breath!

He activated his cultivation technique and began to circulate the spiritual energy of his soul throughout his body. By first transforming his cells, the impurities within them would be released, and he could use his powers to wash away these small parts of his being and improve the quality of his body. To do this, he had to use his soul powers and his special technique to promote the best possible result.

His body began to turn redder and redder. But at the same time, small golden inscriptions appeared on his soul, especially his skin, transforming his mortal parts into divine ones.

His bones began to change color, losing their yellowish-white hue to become completely golden. At the same time, his muscles, ligaments, and tendons also evolved to keep pace with his bones.

A stream of golden spiritual energy gradually formed around him, almost like a star shining at its maximum before exploding.

Evolution had begun!

Minos meticulously followed the process of using the energy released by the medicine to evolve his physique. While every part of his body was immersed in a "cloud" of spiritual energy, his soul was growing in size!

Due to the special requirements of the physique upgrade, Minos could not successfully complete it until he reached level 90.

Emperor Stuart couldn't wait for that to happen before starting the process. So he swallowed the medicine and used his cultivation to prevent his body from absorbing all that spiritual energy.

As he was only one step away from reaching the limit of spiritual energy to reach level 90, he gradually broke through the limit and reached the 10th stage, when the whole process took place in his body.

Every little part of him was transformed under the pressure of the spiritual energy of the Divine-grade medicine, as pain even worse than before spread through Minos' body.

His appearance changed as he made a strong expression of pain while every muscle in his body shook violently.

His soul expanded and contracted like a heart, pulsing as it tried to stabilize itself on a new level amidst the unbridled influx of energy and laws within itself. But unlike what would happen with this organ, his soul got a little bulkier each time this happened!

While Minos endured all this suffering, the people around him were immersed in their meditations. They felt a huge amount of energy and laws at their disposal.

Given the amount of energy that Divine Medicine would release into the environment during and after Minos' ascension, everyone there could achieve improvements in understanding and even levels much more easily.

So everyone was extremely focused at the moment, ignoring how much Minos' aura was increasing to focus on their discoveries.

Crack!

Golden rays of light entered Minos' body, and the typical sound of leveling up echoed through the area, making everyone aware of what had just happened.

'Your Majesty is already level 90!' Several people thought as they tried to take advantage of the opportunity, trying not to lose control of their cultivation techniques.

Black goo began to ooze from the pores of his skin in large quantities but in much smaller amounts than Minos had expelled in previous breakthroughs.

Amid this moment, he trembled and did his best not to fall to the ground, facing the greatest spiritual challenge of his entire life.

Even so, his talent was so high that for him to reach level 90 and improve his Physique to the Divine grade was like ordinary people with golden talents reaching level 80 and a Saint-grade Physique.

"Aaaaaagh!" He shouted in the middle of this important moment in his journey.

At that moment, however, he felt that his Physique was finally breaking through the limits that still stood in its way, breaking through the last barrier to stabilize at Divine grade!

Minos felt something strange awaken in his being as a golden dragon of energy appeared around his body, releasing a powerful aura.

Even without using his Dragon's Gaze, Minos felt this ability of his activating on its own in the middle of the end of his evolution, with this characteristic advancing as well!

Chapter 2075 Level 90!

As the levels changed, everything about a cultivator would change. Their understanding of their techniques would reach a new level, and new doors would open for them to use, which is why cultivators would make progress in their techniques after advancing stages. However, it was not only the techniques that could be affected but also the innate abilities or the abilities that were acquired during the cultivation process.

These abilities were more difficult to influence with a single breakthrough, but they became stronger when one reached a new cultivation level.

But Minos' current advancement wasn't only in cultivation but also in the quality of his physique. By raising the quality of this essence of his to the Divine grade, he naturally raised all the other abilities he had, the Black Sea and the Dragon's Eye!

At the final moment of his evolution, he felt that his Dragon Aura became much stronger, and the characteristics of his physique advanced even further, and he received the final level 100 Dragon inheritance.

At that time, the level 100 dragon soul fragment wasn't able to give Minos and Ruth all of their inheritance because they were too weak. In fact, it was because of his weakness that Ruth was involved in that inheritance. Otherwise, only Emperor Stuart would have received it.

However, a part of what Minos had received lay dormant in his being. The moment his physique and cultivation level increased in quality, what that dragon had given him was finally revealed.

A golden dragon of energy appeared around Minos' body, drawing energy and laws to itself as it marked the human body.

As he felt this, Minos realized that his dragon-related ability would evolve into something beyond the pressure and mental attack he could use before.

However, amid this evolution, he also noticed something in the depths of his being slowly revealing itself.

Remembering the words of the level 100 dragon, he understood what it was.

'This must be what Henricus Longus left me... It looks like I won't be able to use it yet, but now I can feel that he really left me his ability.' Minos felt a very special energy in his being, something that had been sealed within him for so long that not even he could perceive it.

But after this breakthrough, he could sense what the level 100 dragon had sensed in him several years ago!

There was still one last seal that Henricus Longus had left on his body. But it was no longer so hidden that he himself couldn't feel that strange part in his soul.

As he realized this, the energy dragon around him began to dissolve into thin air while a dragon tattoo solidified on his back.

At the same time, Minos felt the amount of energy in his body increase significantly, and his cultivation finally stabilized at level 90, while his energy bonus from his innate ability also stopped increasing.

Before, due to his innate ability, he had an average of 40% more spiritual energy than cultivators of the same level. However, Minos now had an 80% bonus after advancing and reaching the Divine grade!

He had only just reached level 90, but his cultivation base was already as rich as that of a level 92 cultivator!

Now, if he used his ability to steal someone else's cultivation base temporarily, he could go straight to level 92 and have a base similar to that of a level 95 Demigod!

However, it wasn't that simple. By improving the quality of his physique, Minos could now steal his opponent's cultivation base much more easily than before, use it to advance himself even further, and even help his allies more efficiently.

As a result, his current strength was much greater than one would think if one used his past achievements to estimate how strong he would be now!

He realized this for himself soon after he felt his cultivation and physique stabilize, and he noticed that his compatibility and ability to use the giant skeletons in the Spatial Kingdom were much better than before.

He felt those skeletons in a way he had never felt before when he looked at them now, realizing the true power those bones held within them and that his control over them would be greater than he had imagined before this breakthrough.

'The chaotic energy within me has increased by more than five times. What's more, I can now feel the true level of these bones. I think they all have more energy than all the Divine Medicine in this Spatial Kingdom!' He thought to himself as he looked in the direction where Fah'um of Dunov's body lay.

In the case of this corpse, it had much more energy than those bones, a clear indication that the ancient beings of Panvuter were much stronger than Gods.

'Is it possible for me to surpass level 100 by using my ability to steal the laws and energy of these bones and this corpse?' Minos clenched his fists as he thought the same thing anyone else in his situation would think.

But he knew this was far from his current reality, and he still had to survive the aliens before he could worry about that.

'Forget it... The aliens will come when I'm between levels 91 and 92. I don't need to think about something that can only affect me when I reach level 100.' He looked around and saw everyone taking advantage of the cultivation opportunity he had created by consuming a Divine-grade medicine.

Seeing everyone busy, Minos focused on himself, trying to feel his improvements one by one and understand his real situation a little better.

'I can probably start my experiments with Titus now, but I can also experiment with the chaotic energy of the giant bones in the alien robot. But I'll leave that second point for after my agreement with the elves expires in about five years.' He thought to himself as he felt the parts of himself that would be needed for these two tests.

Then he looked over to where Titus was busy improving his understanding. 'But with the evolution of my physique and the new Divine Seal level I've reached, maybe we can do a lot of things in the next few days.' He clenched his fists as he thought about it, finally reaching the point where he could test his theories.

If he was right, he could change a lot of things in his state and make it possible for his people not to be hindered by the Curve of Understanding!

Chapter 2076 Similar Thought ?

In Minos' ninth technique, Divine Seal, he had reached the 2nd grade of mastery with his advancement to the 10th stage of cultivation.

Originally, this technique could be used to seal things, seal agreements between people, replace soul contracts and summon objects and beings. In short, its uses were many. These characteristics hadn't changed much as Minos progressed in his understanding. The big change was how he could use this technique on other people.

Previously, he had been able to use the Infinity Seal to connect with the giant bones in the Spatial Kingdom so that he could absorb their energy when he cultivated anywhere. But before, he could only do that with himself.

Now, however, things had changed for him, and Minos felt that he could create seals similar to the one he used with one of the giant bones in his Spatial Kingdom so that his people could enjoy the same opportunity he had.

He would obviously get better results from using it himself. Still, now he could make it so that his companions could absorb the chaotic energy of those bones even when he wasn't around to help them!

This major breakthrough for him could help the empire progress much faster!

'With the Divine Seal in the 2nd phase, I'll be able to improve the absorption rate of the chaotic energy of these bones I've cultivated outside of the Spatial Kingdom and without using my innate ability while allowing many of my people to do what I used to do.' He thought to himself, imagining the implications of being able to do this.

Cultivating the chaotic energy of the giant bones had already proven to be a great advantage in understanding alien technology. Now that he could get his men to cultivate this energy even in his absence, it would increase the speed of the Black Plain Empire's progress!

Looking to the side where his child and Isabella were, Minos clenched his fists anxiously, wondering how beneficial this would be for them.

'I don't know what my seal limit is right now. But I think it's not small. The difference between the 9th and 10th stages is really huge.' He wasn't discouraged by his previous limits and imagined that he could put seals on his wives, children, and even some of the professionals in the empire.

But this was only the development of the technique that he thought could be most useful to him in strengthening the Black Plain Empire. However, Minos had 8 other techniques that had been greatly improved, 7 of which were useful in combat.

Clenching his fists, he felt the new power he had in his hands and found himself in a situation where he couldn't get out of control, or he could cause significant damage to the surrounding space.

His spatial control had skyrocketed, and now Minos felt almost able to tear through the space around him and return to the Central Continent without even using the Spatial Kingdom Ring.

Just by using his defense technique, Indestructible Body, he felt that he could use his bare hands to cut through the fabric of space-time and return north to the Central Continent!

This technique had reached the 8th stage and the point where its defense was so strong that Minos could withstand a few seconds of direct contact with the inner space walls of the wormholes without risking his life. At the same time, the brute strength this technique gave him could make him capable of smashing wormholes with his bare hands!

Thinking about the Devouring Art, he felt that if he activated this technique now, all the free energy in the environment being used by his people would go out of their control and be completely absorbed by him.

'The range of the Devouring Art has reached 1,600 meters from me... Its conversion factor has also improved; I can now use 80% of what it absorbs.' He felt these improvements which would naturally increase his combat power even further.

The secondary ability of this technique, which worked passively on his body, had also evolved. Previously, he had been able to use it on other people by leaving his mark on them, something he had already done to some of his wives and children. But before, he was limited by the number of people he could affect simultaneously.

Before, the limit on the number of people he could give it to was four. But now it had increased exponentially, and he could influence up to 50 people at the same time!

The ability he could give to this number of people had also improved in efficiency, and he was now able to absorb even more energy than before and convert it into power for whomever he left his mark on.

At the thought of the Spatial Sword, Minos' surroundings froze with the aura of this restrictive and offensive technique while a sharp sensation arose amidst the immobility of his surroundings.

'The range of the Spatial Sword is now over 1,200 meters, and every being or object in that space will be under its restrictions. My attacks with it have also become stronger, and I now have a 75% increase in attack power, a 50% improvement over before!'

Now, in addition to being able to create swords in a vacuum and have them attack their targets by surprise, he had reached a new level of mastery in this sword art and could connect his spiritual weapons to the souls of his targets. As a result, he could eventually launch attacks that would only disappear with the end of that soul!

'The Spatial Sword has also evolved to produce something similar to what the Divine Seal can do. I can create an energy sword with a strong space sword aura. This can be used to unleash an attack on someone who uses this item offensively or even trap someone inside a giant sword when used as a seal.'

Thinking about this, he made a small sword the size of a toothpick appear in his right hand, looking at it and feeling like an array that could be used to attack and seal people.

Originally, the power of the Spatial Sword temporarily immobilized my opponents within a certain distance of me. But with it in my hand, I could even seal a level 80 Sage inside the sword for centuries. He thought as he saw how useful this power would be for him to arm his people.

Minos quickly realized that his powers in general had evolved in such a way that they affected those who fought for him more.

Before, his progress had only been in terms of what he could use. But in this evolution, he found that the improvements in his ability to affect his people by giving or lending them his powers were more significant than ever.

He was still the most affected and benefited from the advancement of his techniques. But it was clearer than ever to him that his destiny was to be a warrior capable of lending his strength to large groups.

'It makes sense... Henricus Longus knew I couldn't defeat the aliens alone. He did this to force me to create powerful warriors with me.' He smiled when he realized that he and that God unconsciously thought the same way.

Since the beginning of Minos' journey in Dry City, he had been thinking like that!

Chapter 2077 Major Improvements?

Minos was right in thinking that Henricus Longus' goal was to make him use his powers to create a super-powerful army based on his techniques.

Immediately after he put the Spatial Sword aside, he looked at the Infinite Dream. He could now use this technique to affect 16 people who were 100% stronger than him, a 100% improvement over the previous phase of this technique.

This number of people might not seem like much, but it was just an illusion caused by the number. With this technique, he could now defeat 16 people who were 100% stronger than him with a single glance, who could be level 94 or 95 Demigods if he used his innate ability in conjunction with this technique.

His Dragon's Gaze was superior to this mental technique, so since it had also evolved, Minos felt that it could even affect level 96 Demigods!

Considering how different the levels of the 10th stage were, he still didn't feel he could affect high-level Demigods.

However, not only was Minos now able to defeat 16 people who were 100% stronger than him with the Infinite Dream, but if he attacked weaker people of the level of Kendrick, who was currently at level 72, he could defeat more than 1 million people at the same time!

This was a divine ability! If Minos wanted to, he could use this ability on an entire city and make the entire population live in an illusion under his control!

As for his Bright Eyes, the secondary ability generated by this technique, which gave him the ability to see through people's auras and even through space, had evolved to an unprecedented level.

Before, Minos could spy on people's talents, physiques, and most compatible laws, and even look through space and see enemies hiding in pockets in the vacuum of space. But now, he could see space folds like those in the Spatial Kingdom.

With the help of the Bright Eyes, he saw the folds of this Spatial Kingdom and quickly realized that it was located in the northern region of the Central Continent.

As he had expected, this Spatial Kingdom had been created between the borders of the ancient Brown Kingdom and the Kingdom of Waves, near the western coast of the northern region.

'If I'm going to open a door to the Spatial Kingdom, it has to be in this place.' Minos realized that he would have to move the headquarters of his forces to the vicinity of the old Yellow City if he wanted to proceed with opening an alternative entrance to this region of space.

However, as he thought about the orders he would have to give to make this happen, he realized the implications of this new ability.

'Wait a minute... If I can see through this Spatial Kingdom, doesn't that mean I can see through others similar to this one?' He clenched his fists, feeling that this would give him some very great advantages in identifying and even invading Spatial Kingdoms.

Minos wasn't necessarily thinking of robbing his neighbors in the Spiritual World but rather of exploring some lost spaces in this world, things that perhaps no one else knew about or that had no owners.

The Ancient Dragon Spatial Kingdom he had entered earlier was one such place, and as far as Minos could tell, there was no guarantee that there weren't other such places around the world.

'I'll see about that later.' He kept this in mind, quite excited about his new possibilities.

After thinking about it, he focused on his techniques, causing the aura around him to change and a feeling of speed to come over him.

The surroundings became slightly distorted as Minos felt how the Explosive Steps had developed in this stage.

'While using this technique, my maximum speed is now 800 meters per second, and my senses are 85% faster than before. I should be able to handle surprise attacks from even level 95 Demigods. Only someone above that level would be able to surprise me now!'

The space around him changed again, this time with the gravity changing according to Minos' analysis of his Chaotic Gravity technique.

In the previous stage advancement, he had greatly increased his mastery over his black holes due to the phase advancement of this technique. Now, Minos felt something similar to what he had felt when he reached level 80 when he realized he could further develop what he had done around Dry City in the dome of black holes.

'I have a feeling that Dry City will become a quasi-Spatial Kingdom when I upgrade the defense dome with my new abilities.' He thought with a smile on his face.

This would basically raise the defenses of his capital to a level that would make it difficult for even Gods to enter the place!

'This is perfect. I'll be able to hide my best advances for the next few decades without too much risk.'

Continuing his analysis of his current characteristics, Minos looked at his cultivation technique. It had improved in the speed of spiritual energy absorption, but due to the increased level, it would take him longer to improve from now on.

Even if he used his innate ability to steal the cultivation base of the giant bones in the Spatial Kingdom, it would still take him more than twice as long to advance in this stage as in the previous one!

From what he felt, it would take him about 7 or 8 years to reach level 91.

This was obviously a concern for Minos!

Even though his estimate put him at the top of this world in terms of cultivation speed, it was still a long time for someone like him, who would soon have to face the aliens and defend his family from Gods.

After that, he turned to his soul technique to continue to know his strengths to the best of his ability and also to train to strengthen himself for the arrival of the aliens.

The Space and Time Avatar had improved greatly, tripling the size of his space domain while quadrupling the time difference between inside and outside of his domain.

The bonus he would receive from activating his other techniques in the form of soul projection had also improved, from a 20% improvement before to a 40% improvement now.

After reviewing all of his techniques, Minos sighed in satisfaction at his growth as a cultivator before picking up the last golden scroll he would use to learn something new in this world.

When a cultivator reached level 100, they didn't gain a new place to learn new techniques. They would naturally form a skill that was perfectly suited to them.

Therefore, the tenth technique was the last one for a Spiritual World cultivator!

"I've finally arrived here..." He murmured as he looked at the scroll of the last technique that Henricus Longus had prepared for him.

Chapter 2078 Minos' 10th Technique

The last technique that Henricus Longus had prepared for Minos was a defensive one. This God believed that his chosen one would need an impenetrable defense when the aliens arrived in the Spiritual World.

Henricus Longus' greatest fear was that his homeland would be completely taken over by a distant civilization, wiping out everything of the world he had grown up in. To help his successor deal with the enemies, he had left Minos many valuable items, as well as techniques that fulfilled what he thought was necessary.

Minos had techniques that could block enemy movement, attack enemies mentally and physically, and turn his body into a weapon capable of killing those of a similar level to himself. This was all very good and should have built a warrior of the highest combat level.

However, Henricus Longus had always considered the possibility that invaders from the world would arrive before his chosen one reached level 100. So he had prepared his chosen one's 10th technique as a defensive truffle for Minos.

If his fear came true, his chosen one would at least have a better defense than Indestructible Body to fight against the enemy group that would surely have Gods on their side.

Henricus Longus had no idea whether Minos would win or even survive the war for control of the Spiritual World. But he did his best to consider the worst that could happen to his chosen one.

Minos agreed with the ancient God that he needed a new defensive technique and quickly began to read the golden scroll of a technique called Nullification.

Nullification was a technique with only two phases to understand and could nullify any blow that came within a short distance of its user.

It was not a technique that showed up in the form of attacks or appeared in any way when used. When its user circulates their energies to activate this technique, it will create a kind of field with an initial distance of 100 meters from its user.

Within this field, the technique user could use their power to neutralize attacks or even the power and laws of nature in the environment at will.

This technique had no limits beyond the 100-meter range, and how far the user could reach depended on the amount of energy the user had.

If the user had enough energy to nullify a God's blow, then they could do that!

Of course, having no limits on this point wasn't the same as saying that Minos would be able to fight Gods because he was only a level 90 Demigod, but with this technique, he could nullify attacks that were much stronger than he could defend against, or at least weaken enemy attacks that could kill him to the point of becoming undead.

A great advantage of Nullification was that the allies of its users who were close to them could be protected very effectively by this defensive technique.

This made it a very interesting technique to use on a battlefield where many people were fighting each other!

Minos quickly studied this technique and understood the basics of it with ease, for the point he was at allowed him to read the truths of this world much more easily than in the past.

Perhaps others would need hours, days, or weeks to learn something this complex. But in less than 15 minutes of reading the Nullification scroll, he felt he could activate the technique and did so immediately.

Nullification!

As he made a seal with his fingers to facilitate the activation of the technique for the first time, Minos felt something burst from the center of his existence and quickly covered everything up to 100 meters away from him.

He felt all the remaining energy of the Divine-grade medicine in the environment, along with the free laws there, but also the chaotic energy escaping from the bones of the giant skeletons there.

At the same time, he also noticed his people cultivating. He felt that if he wanted to, he could disturb everyone there, dissipate all those energies and laws, and even mess up his people's cultivation.

Of course, he wouldn't do that, but he couldn't help but smile with satisfaction as he felt the power of this technique.

"This is too much, he thought to himself. "This power seems simple enough, but if I were to use it against a level 96 opponent, I feel that I could nullify all of their movements before their spiritual energy left their body. All I would have to do is get close enough to affect them. Minos analyzed.

Not only that, he also noticed that the technique was very efficient. It converted his spiritual energy into its special power at a higher rate than Golden-grade techniques normally worked.

This meant that one unit of energy he spent would do more for him than the same amount of energy spent by another cultivator using another Golden-grade technique!

'No wonder! Henricus Longus has actually prepared a very special defensive technique!' He smiled as he clenched his fists in satisfaction, feeling much more powerful now that he had mastered his 10th technique.

"The way I am now, I could easily defeat robots like the ones I faced in the North Sea years ago. Back then, I even had to use my supreme weapon, and I had a hard time. But now, I wouldn't have to go that far!

While he was thinking this, Minos felt Isabella raise her cultivation to level 87 and finally stopped thinking about himself, satisfied with her assessment of his current strength.

He would still find someone powerful to train with him to improve his mastery of his new abilities. But for now, his initial post-advancement analysis was enough, and he soon focused on the people around him.

'Now that I've raised my level, let me help you! He smiled as he used his innate ability and quickly began to steal the energy from the giant bones and give it to the beings cultivating around him.

The moment Minos did this, everyone in the Spatial Kingdom felt their strength and cultivation capacity increase significantly, much more than they were used to when their ruler helped them.

Amid this, Minos did not waste any time and put special seals on the giant bones, on his children, and on Isabella as well, something that would help them progress more easily when he left the Spatial Kingdom later.

He also put some seals on some of the spiritual professionals who were close to advancing in level, determined to help them progress faster while they were so close to their breakthroughs.

He looked at Titus and said. "Take the opportunity to improve your understanding further in the next few days. I'm going out to test my strength, and when I return, we'll begin our experiments.

Gulp!

'All right. I hope you will come back soon. That fox said that he was not cultivating, but he was trying to understand the laws of cultivation based on the theories that Minos had taught him over the years.

Chapter 2079 Proposal

Leaving the Spatial Kingdom after delivering his message to Titus, Minos reappeared in Dry City at the same place he had left with a large group several months ago.

Arriving in the large courtyard of the Black Plain Army headquarters, Minos wasn't in a hurry. He sensed the surroundings of this barracks but also of the entire Dry City. He was now able to sense the entire area protected by the local dome.

Not only did he sense the living beings in this city, but Minos also perceived the black hole dome in a different way, feeling he could develop it whenever he wanted.

While the soldiers at headquarters noticed their leader's return, especially his new level, Minos manipulated space, flying upward without destroying the walls on his way until he reached the highest point above the city.

Once there, he activated his abilities using a soldier he had picked up along the way, who was still disoriented and did not understand what was going on.

Minos' cultivation rose to level 92, and his Soul Avatar appeared, causing much of the free spiritual energy in Dry City to fall under his control.

He then began to manipulate the Dry City's dome of black holes, causing all the major cultivators in that place to feel his power and look up to the sky in shock.

'Who is that?' Aarav's eyes widened as he moved from where he was meditating, feeling as if a level 96 cultivator had suddenly appeared in this city.

Not only did this person have an aura as strong as that of exceptional level 96 humans, but he also had a strong dragon aura and chaotic energy stronger than that of the leaders of the strongest tribes in this world!

For a moment, Aarav thought this was an enemy hiding in the city.

However, when he appeared above the local imperial palace, he saw, besides Ruth and Abby, who were still at level 87, the figure of Minos manipulating the local defenses.

"Minos!" The two women exclaimed as Gloria appeared above the Spiritual Church building, also sensing her husband's aura and seeing that he had finally reached level 90 and raised his physique to the Divine grade!

Aarav's eyes widened, "Minos? How?" He wondered. Still, Emperor Stuart's appearance hadn't changed much, and it was obvious that this was him.

lightsnovel However, this man and several Demigods around Dry City, mid- and high-level individuals at the 10th stage who were there to fulfill Minos' ancient agreements, were shocked at how much he had changed in such a short time.

'What happened?' A level 95 Demigod from one of the imperial families of the Divine Continent, who was in Dry City to protect the empire, wondered in disbelief.

Months ago, Minos had an aura as strong as that of a level 93 Demigod, even when he was doing his best and could fight those above that level with his fusions. But this afternoon, he suddenly appeared in Dry City with an aura similar to that of a level 96 cultivator!

Considering what they already knew about Minos, many were shocked by this extreme change, which they knew shouldn't be the full power of Emperor Stuart.

'Bloody hell! How did he do that? If he can still perform his fusion like before, he must be able to fight high-level Demigods now!' A level 94 beast thought, extremely shocked.

Meanwhile, Minos bent the parts of the local defense dome, causing the darkness of the black holes to disappear as daylight returned to illuminate the city.

Meanwhile, those outside Dry City saw that dark place disappear. At the same time, the space inside that area seemed to be swallowed by something and gradually disappeared.

This phenomenon didn't last long, and in less than 6 minutes, the entire Dry City disappeared to those outside the defense dome, as if that area had suddenly been erased and the areas outside the city took over its space.

Everyone outside the city despaired when they saw this, but those inside thought otherwise.

"Minos, are you destroying the Dry City's defenses?" Abby asked, not understanding what was going on, just like most of the experts and people in the capital.

But that wasn't the case, and Aarav was one of the few who understood exactly what was going on!

"This can't be!" He exclaimed as he looked around in horror. "You... Minos! Are you creating a Spatial Kingdom?"

"What?"

"A Spatial Kingdom?"

"How is that possible? Only Gods can do that!"

"His Majesty is powerful, but he is only a Demigod..."

Several people commented as Minos smiled and watched his citizens.

"This isn't a Spatial Kingdom... It's a quasi-Spatial Kingdom." He announced, making it clear to everyone that Aarav was partially right and that he hadn't wiped out the Dry City's defenses either.

Gulp!

Several people swallowed their saliva at such information, not knowing what would happen from now on, only knowing that Minos was a monster. ησνε[ημ[κ.ζση

Minos said. "Dry City will not become a Cultivation Sanctuary just because of what I've just done, nor will it be as difficult to detect as one of those special places. But the local defenses will now be difficult for even the Gods to penetrate. Meanwhile, the city will become richer in spiritual energy, and we will no longer need artificial light as we have in the past decades."

With this confirmation, all the Demigods near Minos began to comment to each other on how incredible it was, while his wives approached him to hug him after months of not seeing each other.

He confirmed their questions and those of other individuals interested in his progress in stage and quality of physique, making them either very happy or curious about his situation.

Among them, Aarav couldn't help but look at Minos differently, seeing that he still underestimated this young man, even though he expected great things from Emperor Stuart.

However, this level 99 Demigod couldn't help but overlook one important thing. To improve the quality of one's physique from Saint to Divine, one should have one Divine Medicine!

He approached Minos and mentally asked. 'Did you have any Divine Medicine? You should have saved it for the future...'

Minos looked at Aarav and then said in the old man's mind. 'Elder, I have a proposition for you. Why don't you join my state from now on? The medicine I used to increase the quality of my physique wasn't the only one I had. If you become the full-time protector of the Black Plain Empire, I'll give you another Divine Medicine that I have.

Let's get strong together and defeat the damn aliens, elder!'

Chapter 2080 Minos' Plans

After hearing Minos' suggestion, Aarav was silent for a moment, thinking about the young man's current situation, what he could achieve alongside him, and what would be best for them in this situation.

'Minos can probably fight high-level Demigods these days... This means he'll probably have the fighting power of a level 99 Demigod when the aliens arrive. That's good. It will be a great help in the battle for the Spiritual World! Aarav thought, and the thought of betraying Minos and stealing the Divine Medicine did not even cross his mind.

Aarav was very experienced and saw things differently than people who would consider betraying anyone, depending on the circumstances. This old man could see the bigger picture and easily understand the consequences of certain decisions.

Seeing that Minos had been able to create a quasi-Spatial Kingdom after only reaching level 90, it was obvious this young man's power level was not normal. As long as he had time, he could surpass all the experts in this world.

Considering the 32 enemy Gods, Aarav would never have thought of betraying Minos in this situation. On the contrary, he saw the young man's proposal in a very positive light.

He was an exclusive member of the Pantheon of Honor, but for the sake of one Divine Medicine and the survival of humanity, he was very willing to give up his exclusive membership to join the Black Plain Empire!

'Maybe this is my chance to reach level 100,; he thought. 'At my age and with my strength, I would never be able to compete with the level 99 experts of the Spiritual World for something like this. This could be my way out!'

He said to Minos, 'I'm willing. But what about the other people? They'll also conclude that you used Divine Medicine. What do we do with them?'

Minos said in Aarav's mind while talking to the others. 'We will do nothing. I had a single Divine Medicine in my Spatial Kingdom, and I used it to increase the grade of my physique. This may be frowned upon by the world's powers, but it was the act of a leader desperate to strengthen himself.

Considering my position and the technologies I'm developing, I'm sure we'll be able to handle the pressure that will come after this!

"That's a good plan. But we need more! Aarav said. 'At least we need more powerful people to back you up!

Minos replied with a nod. 'I'll manage that. How about we bring Julian's whole faction into the empire? Besides, I intend to take a short trip now to test my new powers. I'll go to Sista on this trip and try to talk to Willow. I'll try to win her over to our side as well!

"That's... Aarav knew that would be good, but it would be a competition for him.

Minos smiled as he realized the problem. 'I actually have four Divine Medicines. I won't give them to just anyone who is level 99. I'll only give them to those committed to becoming protectors of the empire and make deals with me.

'Okay! Aarav immediately felt relieved. 'Willow will be a good addition. You want to keep one medicine for yourself, right? Who will be the third level 99 Demigod you intend to bring into our group?"

'Emperor Quinn. He recently reached level 99, but that's enough. A lot of people have misconceptions about Divine-grade medicines. Level 99 Demigods don't need to be at the peak of their level to absorb them. From the moment you reach level 99, you can take one Divine Medicine at any time. So, even if you've recently increased your level, you can still do it!

'Oh? I didn't know that! Aarav commented, not doubting Minos. 'Very well, let's make a deal. I agree to your terms and will act in the name of the Black Plain Empire until my last days in this world.

With that settled, Minos would make a deal with Aarav based on the powers of that level 99 Demigod, who had sworn an oath to the heavens promising to do what he said if Emperor Stuart kept his part of the promise.

With that done, Minos didn't waste much time celebrating locally. After speaking with the city's most important names, he would summon three level 89 Sages and set out in pursuit of his goals.

"Your Majesty, where are we going?" One of the three distant relatives of the Goddess of Life asked as he flew south alongside Minos.

By now, the outskirts of Dry City had calmed down from the fears of a few moments ago when the capital had disappeared.

By the time this group flew over the area, the people in the empire's core had already learned of Minos' advance and the changes he had made to the capital's defenses.

That's why the four didn't see the people on their way, who had become agitated earlier when Dry City disappeared.

Minos answered the question of the woman who was about to reach level 90, the strongest of the three: "First, I'm going to visit an old acquaintance on the border of the empire and Albano.

In any case, I intend to keep my promise to you on this trip. After I pass through this area and settle my affairs there, we'll go to Veora. We'll settle your affairs with the royal family of that state."

"What?" The three asked, not expecting that they would be doing this now.

But they didn't know that the moment Minos had advanced a level, he had perceived a new kind of energy, which was also one of the reasons why he was already so strong.

Minos sensed millions of people throughout the realm as he advanced in level, and he could easily hear and sense the intentions of some of his worshippers.

At that moment, he had experienced and felt the so-called power of faith for the first time, something he wanted to explore now that he had become a Demigod.

The relatives of the Goddess of Life had gotten into trouble with the Veora family over a sacred item of theirs that could collect the power of faith. So Minos wanted to combine the useful with the pleasant, help his subordinates take revenge, and collect something precious to him.

'If I can collect the power of faith that's available in the empire, I'll be able to grow faster during my journey in the 10th stage! He thought to himself as he watched the three. They were not expecting to get their chance for revenge so soon.ησνε[ημ]κ.ςom

"Get ready. In a day or two, we'll visit Veora to meet the royal family of that state. After that, we'll settle everything."

With these words, Minos manipulated space and took the three of them to the area that had been the home of the Ancients Folk's nemesis.

Minos wanted to revisit a certain curse that had hindered him decades ago!
