

Black Plain 2181

Chapter 2181 Minos' Last Trump

The moment the level 100 alien woman attacked Abby, Gloria and Isabella teamed up to defend their harem sister, joining forces to create barriers between the enemy and Abby.

In an instant, a barrier of flames and another of mercury appeared in front of Abby, while Isabella and Gloria used the maximum of their level 91 abilities to at least deflect the enemy's attack.

"Tsk! Nonsense!" The level 100 woman muttered as she continued to attack, quickly destroying the defenses of the two women.

Pow!

As she did so, the woman felt someone kick her in the head and could barely turn around to see what it was. In a flash, Aarav's right foot smashed into her head, knocking her away from Abby and company.

"You should back off now!" Aarav shouted as they had already done what they were supposed to do. Now, they could no longer fight most of the opponents in the area, so it was much better for everyone if they left.

Minos watched from a distance and realized what had just happened. 'Shit! That bastard almost killed Abby, Gloria, and Isabella!' He shivered with concern and flew towards the three of them to send them to the Spacial Kingdom.

The Mechanical Emperor saw this and changed his expression, seeing a way to weaken Minos and end the battle quickly.

'Let's kill these women!' He shouted to all his allies who were fighting nearby, making them look toward the two red-haired women and the blue-haired woman.

'If we kill them, Minos will put himself in danger, and we can eliminate him before he causes us any more trouble.' The Mechanical Emperor said in his mental communication with the others. 'Once he's dead, there will be no more danger to our domination of this planet!'

Abby, Isabella, and Gloria despaired as they realized their situation. The two redheads were exhausted from defending Abby for only a few milliseconds, while the Empress of the Black Plain Empire was exhausted because of her fusion.

They then flew towards Minos as he flew towards them to send them to the Spatial Kingdom.

In the midst of this, two robot Gods and two biological Gods from the Mechanic Empire moved toward these women, attacking them as if they were their main targets.

Seven of the eleven Gods of the Spiritual World were busy dealing with six alien Gods, leaving only four to protect those women and Minos, who was very weak now.

"Shit! That isn't going according to plan!" Vico moved to Willow's side to protect the low-level Demigods in the enemy Gods' sights.

He, Aarav, and Willow acted simultaneously with Henry to protect Minos and his wives from the attacks of the four enemy Gods that were already attacking them.

Meanwhile, the Mechanical Emperor and his two remaining Gods were preparing to take advantage of Minos' weakness!

'You have taken three of my companions from me. Now, it's your turn to lose companions, Minos!' He said in the mind of this guy who was flying towards his women.

Minos felt a chill in his soul as he saw his four level 100 allies fighting to protect them. Still, then, the God of Space manipulated the surrounding space and appeared behind his women.

"NOOO!" He shouted as he directed his energies at the seraphic wing tattoo on one of his hands, feeling that if he didn't do something, he would lose the people he loved most in this world.

Chaos appeared behind Isabella, the one furthest from Minos, and did not hesitate to use his powers against the woman's body in front of him.

"Die, you bitch!" He said in the language of his people, using his hands to rip open the space inside Isabella's body.

A white glow emanated from one of Minos' hands while time seemed to slow down for everyone around him.lights

Minos' four God allies, who were trying to help him, were busy defending him and his wives from the long-range attacks of four enemies, while looking pessimistically in the direction of the three women.

At the same time, the Mechanical Emperor was smiling under his mask, looking at Minos in anticipation that this man would lose his reason for the death of his wives, which would give the aliens a chance to kill him easily.

But just as Chaos moved against Isabella, the stormy skies from the battle, but also from the Ice Age, changed, and the black clouds there turned golden. Meanwhile, a pillar of light crossed the sky from the stars, illuminating Minos' body.

The tattoo on one of his hands grew, causing a special armor to appear on his body, and in the blink of an eye, six beautiful, magnificent wings emerged from his back.

Amidst this, a huge staff with a golden maltese cross, covered with strange symbols, materialized in one of his hands. Meanwhile, the laws of nature around him seemed to fear Minos, turning away from him as if they didn't want to offend him.

His weakened aura suddenly grew stronger, rising from level 92 to level 100 in a single instant!

Golden rays formed in the surroundings, while everyone on the battlefield looked in Minos' direction for a moment, feeling as if a supreme God had descended to a lower realm.

"What the hell?" One of the Gods who was fending off the suicidal attacks of the Gods summoned by Abby, about to disappear, asked himself, feeling something that he was sure was even stronger than the attack that had killed two Gods moments ago.

Meanwhile, the Mechanical Emperor's expression changed as even the robots at the bottom of the sea fighting the level 100 Sky Whale realized the enormous danger that had just appeared.

"It can't be..."

"Where did he get this?"

Minos clenched both hands on the staff and poured in all the energy circulating in his body, following his instincts to use what the previous seraph had given him.

He looked at Chaos and focused mainly on this enemy God.

As Minos moved, his speed surpassed that of anyone else in the area, and he instantly appeared behind the man.

His wings moved, and as he attacked Chaos' back with the staff in his hands, the man panicked, suddenly feeling that he could no longer manipulate space to escape.

"Shit!" Chaos shouted, but that was all.

After being hit by that staff, his body glowed intensely for a moment before imploding, causing no disturbance to the environment, only releasing a large amount of energy and laws into the environment.

With a single touch of this weapon, Minos killed one of the strongest Gods on this battlefield!

Then, everyone stared at Minos in shock.

But just at that critical moment, he heard a faint voice calling out to him.

"Minos..."

Looking at Isabella, Minos' expression changed utterly from the hatred to fear.

Chapter 2182 Death

Looking at Isabella, Minos saw the woman's internal organs appear as her aura rapidly weakened from Chaos' attack.

Chaos was dead, but before he died, he had torn the space inside Isabella's body, resulting in her body being split in half between her groin and neck!

She had narrowly missed having her head split into two vertical halves and almost died without a chance to say goodbye.

But even though she was still conscious, her situation was dire. With a large part of her body destroyed by Chaos, her chances of survival in the next few seconds were less than 0.01%!

The other women of Minos saw this and turned pale as they approached her, sensing that the worst was about to happen.

"Isabella..." Minos felt as if his heart had stopped beating for a moment, and he didn't know what to do.

"Attack!" The Mechanical Emperor shouted, fearing that Minos would kill more of them now that his wife was mortally wounded.

There was no way Isabella could be cured of what she had just suffered! Minos would surely enter a Berserk state in the next few moments, which would be terrible for the entire alien group.

Before that, the aliens had to ensure his death in the short time they had with Minos in shock and vulnerable to them.

Those who could escape their opponents moved against Minos, concentrating all their strength on killing him in what might be their last chance.

Isabella saw this as she fell from her position and gradually lost consciousness.

She said with difficulty. "Do not waste your time. Kill the enemies and protect our daughter. I have no regrets, my love."

She closed her eyes, and tears flowed from them as Minos began to manipulate time over her body.

'No! No, this can't be happening!' He despaired as he saw the enemies approaching and Isabella's large wound barely changing, even with his time manipulation.

That wasn't a simple wound that would close and save the woman's life by going back in time a few moments. That was the result of a powerful God's attack!

Minos was temporarily at level 100 because of the wings and the weapon in his hands. But his ability to manipulate time had not developed because of the help of that seraph's power. His current high-level abilities were only related to attacks!

So he found himself desperately trying to prevent the death of his wife and to deal with the many enemies who were now acting to kill him and his other two wives.

He closed his eyes for a moment, and tears flowed from them; for the first time since his father's death, he felt that he could do nothing to save the loved one right in front of him.

'I'm sorry.' He said into Isabella's mind with great difficulty as he used his mental power on her before she died, causing her to enter an illusion where they could talk longer than they could in the real world.

A second in the real world could be the equivalent of minutes within this illusion.

Appearing in a quiet, flowery place, Isabella found herself complete as she saw Minos' body materialize in front of her with a desolate expression on his face.lights

She didn't want to die, but she knew there was no escaping what Chaos had done. She smiled bitterly and said. "Do not cry. I was immensely happy at your side and had the gift of giving birth to Lily and watching her grow up."

She approached him and wiped away Minos' tears. "Now, you must be strong. You must keep Ruth, Abby, and Gloria safe. Don't waste this power, and take on as many enemies as you can. When the effects wear off, you'll have to flee."

"I know, but... Isabella... You're going to... I'm sorry. Forgive me for not protecting you." He looked at her hard, feeling guilty about everything. If it hadn't been for his weakness, for the risks he was willing to take, none of this would have happened.

"Don't think like that." She felt pain in her heart and despair that she couldn't be there for him and the rest of the family anymore.

But she knew her pain would soon be over, and it would be he who would suffer for her for who knew how long.

Isabella knew Minos well. She knew that to this day, he mourned the death of companions who had died more than 80 years ago. But what would he be like after her death? Unlike those companions, they had loved each other, lived together for decades, and even had a daughter.

She felt worse about how he would feel after today than the fact that she could no longer live.

"I'm the one who's sorry. Unfortunately, I won't be able to stay by your side... But I don't want you to change, Minos. You shouldn't change your ways or take any more risks. Just think of me from time to time. If there is an afterlife, I hope to see you again."

He cried like a child when he heard that and hugged her tightly as if that could prevent her from leaving this world.

But his mental technique had its limits, and with Isabella's death, he wouldn't be able to stay by her side for long.

Soon, the minutes in this illusion would end, and he would open his eyes back on the battlefield one second after using the Infinite Dream.

Unfortunately, the Infinite Dream couldn't be infinite until he actually became a God. Otherwise, even after Isabella's death, he would still be able to see her in such an illusion.

He didn't want to think about that right now. When he opened his eyes and saw Isabella's lifeless body fall into the sea, he moved as fast as before, using the temporary wings on his back to reach the three women crying at the edge of the battlefield.

He didn't hesitate to send them to the Spatial Kingdom before turning his attention to the 7 Gods in the area who had tried to take advantage of his weakness after Isabella's fatal wound.

He felt his heart beat faster, and the white wings on his back suddenly turned blood red.

Then he spun the staff in his hands, attacking the enemies in his path with the two moves he had left before the serath's aid faded.

Ominous pillars of light emerged from the sky, chasing after the enemy Gods, especially the Mechanical Emperor.

These pillars of light were menacing, carrying the same power that had killed Chaos!

If the alien Gods were hit by it, they would have no chance of survival!

Chapter 2183 The Death Of A Leader

The alien Gods moved when they felt Minos' threatening attacks, frightened to the core of their existence.

But Minos was focused on eliminating the strongest of them and those closest to him, not giving any of these alien Gods much of a chance.

The weapon he had in his hands was supreme, even above the level of Maximilian's trident. This item already put this leader of the Spiritual Church a few steps ahead of his fellow members of the Spiritual World.

As a result, when the pillars of light attacked Minos' enemies, it wasn't long before the first alien Gods turned against each other to save themselves.

The Mechanical Emperor once again tried to protect himself behind his level 100 robots, but this time he also used one of his artifacts to summon one of his men.

The Mechanical Emperor summoned a level 100 man from his empire, who was about to be destroyed by one of those pillars, and said. "You were going to die anyway. Now, at least you'll have a chance to save your leader with your death!"

At that moment, the pillar of light above them shone brightly and made a magnificent thunderous sound, destroying everything in its path.

Suddenly, almost everyone on the battlefield at the outskirts of the North Sea core stopped for a moment and looked in the direction where the Mechanical Emperor, a human, and a level 100 robot were standing.

The only ones who weren't paying attention were the three skeletons, who had only two seconds left to live before Abby's fusion completely lost its effect.

The dragon, phoenix, and level 100 elf joined forces and attacked two of the biological Gods within their reach, surrounding them as their bodies glowed brightly.

"Hahahaha, this is the end for us. Let's leave this world now in an honorable way for warriors!" The level 100 dragon shouted as he made his sacrifice.

"Who knew I would end up like this..." The elf smiled as black flames covered his body, and a strange smile appeared on his face.

Black flames also covered the body of the level 100 phoenix while all his allies in the surrounding area flew away to avoid being caught by the sacrifice of three level 100 beings.

The power of these three Abby summoned was very close to its peak, so when they made their sacrifice, all the others in the surrounding area could do was try to protect themselves by creating Spatial Kingdoms around them and around the focus of the sacrifice.

The only ones who didn't have this option were the two enemy Gods at the focus of the sacrifice of these three, who even tried to protect themselves, but the violet energy of the sacrifice prevented them from succeeding.

"Shit!"

The two shouted as the group of aliens had the worst time of their lives in this confrontation, as several of them were mercilessly shot down by the attacks of the forces of the Spiritual World.

But while Minos and the three creatures Abby had summoned acted to reduce the number of enemies, some aliens did the same against the Gods of the Spiritual World.

By this point in the battle, the Sky Whale had been seriously injured fighting two robots, and the third enemy he had lured to the bottom of the sea had already left the sea to fight alongside its allies.

Meanwhile, Aurae and the dragon suffered deep wounds to their bodies as they fought and watched the actions of Minos and the creatures Abby brought back to life.lights

Vico, Willow, Henry, and Aarav were still fighting. Still, they were also fragile, being weaker than their opponents and having suffered much to protect Minos and his women at the beginning of the battle.

Those who weren't under the spotlight of Minos' power or that of those three went into a state of berserk, seeing that if they did nothing, they would be outnumbered by the natives of this world.

"Kill the damned in your path!" Shouted one of the remaining Gods of the alien forces, as the results of the actions of Minos and the beings summoned by Abby began to appear.

The first result was the collective sacrifice of the Gods, with one of the two beings dying instantly while the other miraculously managed to survive. However, even though he survived, this being was extremely injured, having lost parts of practically all of his limbs, having his armor melted over his body, and having his skin deeply burned.

When the sound of the explosions in the surrounding area faded to the point that the battlefield could hear the cries of the wounded, the pillar of light above the place where the Mechanical Emperor was disappeared, while Minos' level gradually returned to normal.

At the place where the three Gods had been a moment ago, the robot and the level 100 alien had vaporized their bodies while the Mechanical Emperor was still there.

However, even though he had left a body behind, the Mechanical Emperor was no longer there, his soul having been extinguished by the supreme light of the seraph.

His body fell lifeless from the sky while many people in the surrounding area swallowed their saliva, watching Gods die as if it were common.

"Wretch!" The strongest remaining alien God shouted as he cut off Henry's head, killing this Spiritual World God, the first level 100 cultivator on this planet to die in this battle.

"Minos, we're still going to kill you, you bastard!" One of the level 100 women from the Mechanical Empire shouted as she flew towards him with the intention of killing him.

Minos felt his level 92 powers stabilizing again, finally unable to fight in this place.

'I have to start my escape,' he thought to himself as his body felt very tired and full of pain.

He was in such a bad state that he didn't understand how he could still be conscious!

He wanted to continue fighting and see the end of more enemy Gods, but from now on, he would not be able to fight. He was afraid he wouldn't even be able to summon his wives of the Spatial Kingdom to escape through the universal wormhole, so he couldn't think about continuing in this place.

While he was thinking about this and the woman who had almost killed Abby earlier was attacking him, Maximillian appeared in front of him to defend him.

"I will escort Minos out of this area. Take care of the enemies in my absence." Maxmillian shouted as he used the trident in his hands to defend Emperor Stuart.

'Where are we going now?' He asked in Minos' mind.

'We are going to the capital of the End Area in my territory. A special spaceship with its crew should be waiting for me there.' Minos communicated as he felt one of the God's hands grab his body and then move through space without hesitation.

Chapter 2184 The End Of The First Battle Of The War

When Minos and Maximilian left the area, the other enemy Gods didn't try to follow them because the leader of the Spiritual Church had suffered the least among all the Gods of the Spiritual World.

Not only that, but he was the one with the best weapon, so he was the strongest one left now that the level 100 Sky Whale had just died and the level 100 Dragon was retreating from the battle with deep wounds on its body.

Meanwhile, the five remaining Gods of the Spiritual World stood side by side, watching the enemy survivors gather with cautious glances in their direction.

"It looks like we have a temporary truce," Willow said as she took a deep breath. "Minos, the summoned Gods, and that guy helped us a lot. We managed to eliminate 9 enemies, and 2 of the enemy survivors are seriously injured." Vico commented as he looked at the two surviving robots.

Only 7 alien Gods survived this great battle, while 6 Gods of the Spiritual World survived. Of the six, only five were left on the battlefield, and four of them were still able to fight.

Meanwhile, only five of the aliens were able to continue fighting. But even though they still had some advantages, the aliens didn't feel comfortable enough to fight in that area again.

As they gathered, the surviving woman said to the others. "Let's retreat for now. It doesn't make sense to keep fighting here. We'll have the advantage if we settle down in this world and begin expanding our territory here."

"With His Majesty's death, we have no choice but to retreat and wait for reinforcements. The forces of this world won't get stronger in a few months, but we can get more Gods on our side in a few months." Another commented as he could hardly believe all that had happened.

"The most important thing is to find out where Minos Stuart went! We must kill him before he can use that power again!"

"Do you think he'll be able to use it again?" One of the two robots asked. The robots of the Mechanic Empire did not depend on the life of the Mechanical Emperor to live. They had to obey him in his presence, even if they were at level 100. But their existence was completely independent of the Mechanical Emperor's.

Also, some of them had been created by the predecessors of the man who died a few moments ago, so they didn't even have the relationship of creation and creator with him.

One of the biological beings said. "Impossible. It's a weapon of a high-level civilization. I don't know how Minos Stuart got it, but after what he did, he will lose it.

However, let's not forget the special power he used at the beginning of the battle. He can kill Gods even without such a weapon!"

While the aliens talked among themselves and decided what to do, Vico said to his group. "Let's stick to the main plan. We succeeded despite the fall of some of us.

We have succeeded in preventing the immediate fall of the Spiritual World. Now it's time to return to our territories!"

Willow looked at Isabella's body and sighed as Aarav clapped a hand on one of her shoulders. "Are you going back to the Black Plain Kingdom?" He asked her as Aurae, the level 100 dragon, and Vico made their way to their groups in the area.

"Yes. I'm going as promised." She said as she flew towards Isabella's body, which was currently floating in the sea in an area where 300 other corpses were scattered.

Meanwhile, more alien ships were passing through the universal wormhole, emerging from the spatial distortion after the worst of the battle was over.

The previous battle had prevented many alien spaceships from passing through the area. However, aliens had been arriving and departing in various directions throughout the battle.lights

With the most crucial confrontation in the area over, not even the experts from the Spiritual World bothered to stop the alien invasion. They knew they wouldn't be able to stop all the aliens coming to their planet alone or today.

They had already reduced the number of enemy experts, which was the most important thing. Now, they had to plan the movement war they would fight against these groups of enemies, which would be very different from this first battle.

As much as it didn't look like a victory on the surface, considering how much weaker they were compared to their enemies, it was definitely a victory.

The Demigods in the area who had survived the confrontation didn't think so. They felt terrible that they had to see enemy troops arrive in their world and that they couldn't do anything to change the current situation.

"Sigh... Unfortunately, we'll have to fight without these four from now on." Old Merritt commented to Wren and Julian, imagining how much they would miss Henry, Maximillian, the Sky Whale, and Minos from now on.

But Minos and Maximillian would soon go to The Adamant Land to prevent other Gods of the Mechanic Empire from coming to the Spiritual World, an extremely important task for the long-term survival of this planet.

So they also left the area, leaving only essential personnel to keep an eye on their enemies.

The extraterrestrials also moved because it was not a good place for them to establish their new base in this world. They needed a secret place with a good geographical location. Thus, none of them would stay behind to try to control their universal wormhole.

Since they didn't know exactly what technological level the Spiritual World was at right now, they couldn't possibly have imagined what Minos' plan was against them!

...

Meanwhile, Maximilian was already with Minos in the capital city of the End lands in the territory of the Black Plain Empire.

He had flown there with all his speed and was now face to face with the most advanced spaceship of Minos' forces, where the crew that was going to The Adamant Land was already waiting for them.

Arriving in front of the spaceship, Minos said to Maximillian. "Give me a minute. I'm going to bring my wives along for the ride."

"Are you sure about that?" Maximillian asked him. "I don't want to poke your wound, Minos, but one of your wives just died. If you leave them in your Spatial Kingdom, they'll be able to grow up in peace for at least a few more months or years. Even the alien Gods will find it difficult to enter your cultivation sanctuary. But if you take them to the Mechanic Empire, they will face dangers equal to or worse than today's battle."

Minos looked at Maximillian and clenched his fists, not knowing what the best decision would be.

Maximilian sighed and advised. "If you want my opinion, listen to this. Bring Ruth with you. She has an essential power for your recovery and can support you in the future. Abby's power is enormous but more useful in the Spiritual World. If she went with us and used it in The Adamant Land, she would only summon more enemies. Here, she can help our forces when she gets stronger.

As for Gloria, she'll be in danger here and there. So it's best to leave her with Abby. At least they'll be able to take care of your children.

That's my advice." Said the God, eager to leave the Spiritual World.

Chapter 2185 Leaving The Spiritual World

After listening to Maximilian's advice, Minos sighed at having to make such a choice, leaving part of his wives in the Spiritual World and risking Ruth's life in an unknown place.

Ruth, Gloria, and Abby would be in danger everywhere. Next to Minos, he could try something and say goodbye to them if the worst came to the worst. But Abby's powers were necessary for the powers of the Spiritual World and could possibly be the salvation for many people in his absence.

As for Gloria, if Maximilian went with him to the Mechanic Empire, as seemed to be the case, then this woman could take over the leadership of the Spiritual Church, as she was the leader of the most powerful faction in that organization now.

With Maximilian in the Spiritual World, no one would support an internal power struggle in the Church. But if he was gone, that would change, and Gloria had a good chance of taking over the organization.

That could help Abby, the Stuart family, and the Black Plain Empire, making it worth leaving her in the Spiritual World with the Empress.

Minos saw that he would have to stay away from them for a while and clenched his fists in anger at the weakness that had put him in this situation.

"Alright, I'll follow the elder's recommendations," Minos muttered quietly as he quickly wrote a letter to Gloria and Abby explaining his motives and plans before sending it to the Spatial Kingdom.

Minos saw that he would have to stay away from them for a while and clenched his fists in anger at the weakness that had put him in this situation.

"Alright, I'll follow the elder's recommendations," Minos muttered quietly as he quickly wrote a letter to Gloria and Abby explaining his motives and plans before sending it to the Spatial Kingdom.

Then, he used what little he had left to activate the Divine Seal and summon Ruth to her current location.

Minos didn't have the energy to travel back and forth from the Spatial Kingdom at the moment. But he had marked his wives with the Divine Seal and could summon them easily as long as he had the peace and a little energy to activate such a technique.

As he did so, he showed pain on his face but held on tightly as a seal appeared not far from him.

Ten seconds later, Ruth's body disappeared from the Spatial Kingdom and appeared where the seal was in front of Minos.

"Minos..." The black-haired woman looked at the barely standing man being held by Maximillian.

Gloria closed her eyes while Abby clenched her fists, feeling it was her duty. She opened her mouth and said. "Minos is leaving the Spiritual World later today. Unfortunately, we won't be able to say goodbye. Gloria and I will stay behind to take care of you and the state."

She looked at Lily. "Lily, your mother... She..." Abby found it difficult to speak as her eyes filled with tears.lights

Gloria swallowed her saliva and took a deep breath, trying to say what she needed to say without seeming overly emotional. As much as she had every right to grieve and feel bad, she was supposed to be the side that would support and console Lily, who had lost her mother and didn't even know it.

"I'm sorry, Lily; Isabella couldn't resist her injuries," Gloria said as she looked at the brown-haired girl, who already sensed something was wrong.

"What?" Lily asked as she felt as if the world had suddenly stopped, her legs growing weaker, her heart beating faster.

Tears welled up in her eyes as the rest of the Stuart family took the news in stride.

Rowan and Hollie approached Lily to comfort her, while Abby found the strength to say everything. "I'm sorry we couldn't save her, Lily. Isabella unfortunately died on the battlefield."

Gulp!

Kyla heard this, and her mouth fell open; she could not believe that someone so close to her had died like that.

Hours ago, Isabella had been fine, but now everything had changed...

"Sigh... How many will fall from now on?" She muttered as she worried about her mother, knowing that Isabella was much stronger than Emlyn and many others who were ready to fight along the empire and the North Sea.

Kyla's concern was justified, and soon, more news of the deaths of family acquaintances would reach them, including the death of Henry Quinn, Emperor of the Western Empire and God's ally of the Black Plain Empire.

Allies, subordinates, and friends of the family had also died on that first day of the War of the Worlds.

Unfortunately, most people couldn't even take the time to mourn their losses, as news of the enemies infiltrating and spreading throughout the Spiritual World would soon reach them.

Thus began a new period for the entire Spiritual World, marking the end of many lives, the beginning of a war, and the departure of the planet's greatest hope to a distant place.

Minos and his crew would successfully leave the Spiritual World later that day and begin their journey to The Adamant Land with what little information they had and the two hostages who had been in the hands of the world forces for the past three decades.

Chapter 2186 Journey And Doubts

Minos and a group of more than 60 people from the Black Plain Empire, as well as Maximillian, were in the spaceship, moving through the universal wormhole.

After passing through the spatial distortion in the Spiritual World through which the aliens had arrived earlier, the group began to make their way through the massive tunnel ahead of them, of which they had no idea how large it was and where exactly they would arrive.

All they knew was that they would reach The Adamant Land if they followed this path.

Now Minos, Maximillian, and Ruth were in the control center of the spaceship, where a group of Black Plain Army soldiers, properly armed with alien-like armor, were making their vehicle move.

Ruth used her powers to treat Minos while he ate and drank food rich in energy.

Maximillian sat next to Minos, curious about everything that had happened earlier.

"Minos, how did you do that in the battle?" He asked as he looked at the wing tattoo on one of Emperor Stuart's hands.

Minos looked at the hand and explained. "I had a chance encounter in the Seraphim Ancient Sarcophagus. It gave me the weapon I used to kill Bella's murderer."

Maximilian frowned, not expecting something so valuable to be kept in that place. 'Is this really true?' He asked himself, but he sensed that Minos was sincere.

And it was obvious Minos had demonstrated seraphic wings and very unusual powers.

'But how? Didn't the Seraphim die long ago when they weren't just Demigods?'

Minos said. "Don't ask me how. I can't explain it. I just found something compelling hidden in the wings of a seraph. In exchange for this weapon, I was given a mission that I must fulfill if I meet the requirements."

"Oh? May I ask what that is?" He looked into Minos' eyes as he put aside the things he had in mind.

There was no way Maximilian could do anything about it. The civilization he would eventually go after was much stronger than he or Maximillian could handle. At the same time, this God couldn't return to the Spiritual World to check on the ancient sarcophagus. Finally, the weapon Minos had received could no longer be activated.

With nothing to lose and no fear of what could happen to him, Minos told the truth. "I have to deliver something to a civilization of a higher level than ours. That's all I know."

Ruth already knew this and remained silent, concentrating on helping her husband.

But Maximillian opened his mouth in shock, the first outside the Stuart family to hear. "How much higher?"

"Well, I don't know. But judging by the level of the weapon I received, you can imagine that Gods aren't a big deal to them."

Maximillian stood up when he heard this, not expecting to hear such a thing from someone after he thought he had reached the maximum level.

'Is it true?' He asked himself. But the level of such a weapon was genuinely absolute. 'For someone to leave something like that as a reward for a promise, they must be very unusual.' He clenched his fists.

"I see... It seems that cultivation is truly infinite." He closed his eyes as he sat down again, finding his situation amusing. "The ancients were right. There is always a higher mountain."lights

"That seems to be the case..." Minos commented. "For all I know, we could just be ants fighting for the entertainment of the real powerhouses of the universe.

But don't think too much about it. It won't be easy to take on such powerful beings, and the aliens seem to have no contact with superior civilizations. At least, none of their Gods seemed to have items as powerful as the one I used."

"That makes sense." Maximillian agreed. "Thank you for telling me the truth. How long ago did you discover all this?"

"A few months," Minos replied. "I couldn't talk about it before. Such information could cause panic and unnecessary worry. I also didn't know how strong this weapon would be to rely on it in our plans."

"I understand. You did the right thing... It's just a pity that we couldn't have prepared ourselves better... Sigh, forget it. There's no point in regretting things that can't be changed now."

Maximillian saw Ruth and Minos' expressions grow more serious and remained silent for a while until he changed the subject. "By the way, can you use your Spatial Kingdom? I've connected to the Spiritual Church's cultivation sanctuary, but I can't sense that place anymore."

"I can't sense my Spatial Kingdom either," Minos replied. "I definitely can't go there or summon things from that place from where we are. But it might be possible to send small things, like letters.

Anyway, I'll have to do the test in the future. But depending on how far away the place we're going to is, even that might not work."

"That's too bad. I imagine you had good riches there." Maximilian commented, thinking about what he would give up on this journey.

Minos nodded in silence, thinking of the things he had collected before leaving.

Minos had not been careless. He had prepared very well, collected 5 Divine Medicines, and stored them in his spatial ring.

He thought that he, Ruth, Gloria, Abby, and Isabella might be unable to access the Spatial Kingdom for many years, depending on their journey through the universe. So, he had prepared for their possible progress toward level 100, away from the Spiritual World.

Now, only he and Ruth would need the medicines and other items he had collected before his group left for the North Sea.

'At least Abby and Gloria will be able to collect their respective medicines if I'm away from the Spiritual World for too long.' Minos thought to himself.

After learning more about time and how to control this essence of the universe, Minos came to the question: does time pass the same everywhere in the universe?

Since he could not confirm this while in the Spiritual World, he feared that even if the journey through the universe seemed short to him, it might be excessively long for others in other places.

For example, one year on a given planet that he could visit in the future could be equivalent to 20 years in the Spiritual World, while 10 short years for him in such a place would be 200 years, enough for Abby and Gloria to reach level 100.

But that wasn't what concerned him most at the moment, so he quickly pushed those thoughts aside and imagined what his journey would be like trying not to think about Isabella all the time.

He would have his time to mourn, but it couldn't be now!

Chapter 2189 The Great Burial In The Dry City

Hours after the great battle in the heart of the North Sea, forces from all over the Spiritual World were already aware of what had happened in that maritime region.

Of the more than one hundred thousand individuals between levels 80 and 100 who were on the front lines facing the aliens that day, about 45% of them died, fighting directly against the strongest or those who had fled the main battlefield.

The survivors were not left behind in their positions after the aliens dispersed in search of places to settle in this new world they were invading.

As such, the survivors did not remain in the North Sea, each returning to their respective forces to join their people in the war of movement that was about to begin.

Because of these individuals, news of the major deaths and what would happen in this world from now on began to spread rapidly within hours of the deaths of the Gods from both sides in this confrontation.

Among the survivors who returned to their forces was Willow Sista, who arrived at the headquarters of the Black Plain Army now, along with Aarav and the 10th stage specialists.

...

Arriving at that place together, Aarav and Willow set off for the Spatial Kingdom of Minos, carrying Isabella's body in a high-level urn that could preserve corpses almost perfectly for short periods of time.

When they arrived at the lake house in the Spatial Kingdom of Minos, the two looked at each other and sighed at having to carry out this difficult mission.

But soon, they were in front of the people who would live there during the war.

"Sorry, all we could do was bring her back," Willow said as she bowed her head in front of the Stuart children.

Abby and Gloria saw the body of their harem sister, the destroyed parts covered, only her face visible.

Isabella appeared to be asleep from a distance. Still, up close, one could see that there was no breathing, let alone the spiritual signs common to higher beings.

Lily saw her mother and collapsed beside the urn, crying desperately while the silence of the surroundings made the moment even more overwhelming.

Gloria took a deep breath and said. "Thank you for bringing her back. In the heat of the moment, we couldn't be bothered to do anything but run from our enemies."

"Don't worry," Aarav commented. "You have done too much for everyone and risked more than anyone could ask. Now, you must deal with your grief and return to cultivating."

Unfortunately, I can't tell you to forget the problems we face. You must prepare for the future, especially you, Abby."

Abby nodded in agreement as she watched Minos' children trying to comfort poor Lily.

"We must give Isabella a proper burial. After that, we'll lock ourselves away to cultivate in seclusion until at least Callie reaches level 100." Abby said as the strongest people there, looking at the place where the ice woman was cultivating.

"This is the best we can do." Gloria agreed before looking at Aarav and asking. "What are you going to do now?"

"I will follow Minos' plans and protect the Divine Continent. Unfortunately, Henry is dead, but I believe Willow and Vico can take care of the Central Continent." He answered her.

Willow said. "I will stay in the Black Plain Empire from now on. I've already spoken to Vico, and he will take care of the continent's southern states while I take care of the north."

Minos and Maximillian have left for The Adamant Land, so we'll have to protect those lands alone for the time being."

"How many hostile Gods are left?" Sarah asked, feeling that much had been lost today.lights

"Seven. Two of them are badly injured, so they may be incapacitated for a while. But the other five should be ready to fight in no time. We can expect to see level 100 battles again in a few weeks at the most."

Fortunately, Minos was able to kill the Mechanical Emperor, and the survivors are some of the weakest level 100 enemies that have arrived in our world. This will buy us some time..." Aarav replied.

"So that's it..." Abby and Gloria looked at each other, feeling that despite their losses and those of the Spiritual World, they had won the first battle.

There wasn't much to celebrate, but at least they wouldn't be in total despair right away!

Anyway, Aarav would leave to join the group that would defend the Divine Continent, leaving Willow's people to take care of the empire.

...

The day after the first battle of the War of the Worlds, Dry City dawned in mourning for the death of Emperor Stuart's fourth wife.

The main streets and avenues of the city dawned closed while flowers and all manner of popular mourning were strewn on the local sidewalks.

Early in the day, the sidewalks were crowded with well-dressed people, handkerchiefs in hand, waiting for the imperial funeral procession.

There wasn't much time for mourning and grand farewells, so the local imperial family rushed everything to happen as quickly as possible.

The funeral procession would take place at the very beginning of the day, followed by the burial in the local mausoleum.

Soon, the people in the city center, waiting to see the First Princess of the Flaming Empire and Queen of the Black Plain Empire, saw her procession pass by.

On the imperial hearse were Harold, Oswald, Minos' wives and their children, but also Isabella's mother, stepmother, and half-brother.

They all had terrible expressions on their faces as Harold, Oswald, Isabella's brother Kendrick, and Rowan held her coffin in the middle of the ceremony.

People on the street mourned the loss of this red-haired woman as they watched the procession pass by. In contrast, others were silent, feeling the tragedy that had happened and would likely be repeated very soon.

How many more would not die in the coming days, weeks, or months? The tragic truth was that Isabella was one of the first in a long list of deaths of people important to this city or any other in the world.

Some thought that their bodies would soon be dumped on the battlefield or taken to the cemeteries, and many were silent as they looked at themselves.

But no one disrespected the moment of Isabella's farewell, and soon, her procession would arrive at the mausoleum of the local heroes.

As the wife of the Emperor of the Black Plain Empire, Isabella would be buried at the highest level of this eternal resting place of the state's heroes.

Harold felt his heart break as he saw his daughter's coffin placed in a hole, but he held back his tears, promising himself that he would one day avenge this loss.

He did not blame Minos. One of the strongest Gods in the Mechanic Empire had acted against Isabella. And, after all, she had chosen to fight in that battle.

The culprit for her death was none other than the Mechanic Empire itself!

'One day, your old man will kill many members of that state, my child. I will bring justice to your name, even if I have to die for it.' Harold thought as he closed his eyes, ready to do whatever was necessary.

Chapter 2187 The Great Burial In The Dry City

Hours after the great battle in the heart of the North Sea, forces from all over the Spiritual World were already aware of what had happened in that maritime region.

Of the more than one hundred thousand individuals between levels 80 and 100 who were on the front lines facing the aliens that day, about 45% of them died, fighting directly against the strongest or those who had fled the main battlefield.

The survivors were not left behind in their positions after the aliens dispersed in search of places to settle in this new world they were invading.

As such, the survivors did not remain in the North Sea, each returning to their respective forces to join their people in the war of movement that was about to begin.

Because of these individuals, news of the major deaths and what would happen in this world from now on began to spread rapidly within hours of the deaths of the Gods from both sides in this confrontation.

Among the survivors who returned to their forces was Willow Sista, who arrived at the headquarters of the Black Plain Army now, along with Aarav and the 10th stage specialists.

...

Arriving at that place together, Aarav and Willow set off for the Spatial Kingdom of Minos, carrying Isabella's body in a high-level urn that could preserve corpses almost perfectly for short periods of time.

When they arrived at the lake house in the Spatial Kingdom of Minos, the two looked at each other and sighed at having to carry out this difficult mission.

But soon, they were in front of the people who would live there during the war.

"Sorry, all we could do was bring her back," Willow said as she bowed her head in front of the Stuart children.

Abby and Gloria saw the body of their harem sister, the destroyed parts covered, only her face visible.

Isabella appeared to be asleep from a distance. Still, up close, one could see that there was no breathing, let alone the spiritual signs common to higher beings.

Lily saw her mother and collapsed beside the urn, crying desperately while the silence of the surroundings made the moment even more overwhelming.

Gloria took a deep breath and said. "Thank you for bringing her back. In the heat of the moment, we couldn't be bothered to do anything but run from our enemies."

"Don't worry," Aarav commented. "You have done too much for everyone and risked more than anyone could ask. Now, you must deal with your grief and return to cultivating."

Unfortunately, I can't tell you to forget the problems we face. You must prepare for the future, especially you, Abby."

Abby nodded in agreement as she watched Minos' children trying to comfort poor Lily.

"We must give Isabella a proper burial. After that, we'll lock ourselves away to cultivate in seclusion until at least Callie reaches level 100." Abby said as the strongest people there, looking at the place where the ice woman was cultivating.

"This is the best we can do." Gloria agreed before looking at Aarav and asking. "What are you going to do now?"

"I will follow Minos' plans and protect the Divine Continent. Unfortunately, Henry is dead, but I believe Willow and Vico can take care of the Central Continent." He answered her.

Willow said. "I will stay in the Black Plain Empire from now on. I've already spoken to Vico, and he will take care of the continent's southern states while I take care of the north.

Minos and Maximillian have left for The Adamant Land, so we'll have to protect those lands alone for the time being."

"How many hostile Gods are left?" Sarah asked, feeling that much had been lost today.

"Seven. Two of them are badly injured, so they may be incapacitated for a while. But the other five should be ready to fight in no time. We can expect to see level 100 battles again in a few weeks at the most.

Fortunately, Minos was able to kill the Mechanical Emperor, and the survivors are some of the weakest level 100 enemies that have arrived in our world. This will buy us some time..." Aarav replied.

"So that's it..." Abby and Gloria looked at each other, feeling that despite their losses and those of the Spiritual World, they had won the first battle.

There wasn't much to celebrate, but at least they wouldn't be in total despair right away!

Anyway, Aarav would leave to join the group that would defend the Divine Continent, leaving Willow's people to take care of the empire.

...

The day after the first battle of the War of the Worlds, Dry City dawned in mourning for the death of Emperor Stuart's fourth wife.

The main streets and avenues of the city dawned closed while flowers and all manner of popular mourning were strewn on the local sidewalks.

Early in the day, the sidewalks were crowded with well-dressed people, handkerchiefs in hand, waiting for the imperial funeral procession.

There wasn't much time for mourning and grand farewells, so the local imperial family rushed everything to happen as quickly as possible.

The funeral procession would take place at the very beginning of the day, followed by the burial in the local mausoleum.

Soon, the people in the city center, waiting to see the First Princess of the Flaming Empire and Queen of the Black Plain Empire, saw her procession pass by.

On the imperial hearse were Harold, Oswald, Minos' wives and their children, but also Isabella's mother, stepmother, and half-brother.

They all had terrible expressions on their faces as Harold, Oswald, Isabella's brother Kendrick, and Rowan held her coffin in the middle of the ceremony.

People on the street mourned the loss of this red-haired woman as they watched the procession pass by. In contrast, others were silent, feeling the tragedy that had happened and would likely be repeated very soon.

How many more would not die in the coming days, weeks, or months? The tragic truth was that Isabella was one of the first in a long list of deaths of people important to this city or any other in the world.

Some thought that their bodies would soon be dumped on the battlefield or taken to the cemeteries, and many were silent as they looked at themselves.

But no one disrespected the moment of Isabella's farewell, and soon, her procession would arrive at the mausoleum of the local heroes.

As the wife of the Emperor of the Black Plain Empire, Isabella would be buried at the highest level of this eternal resting place of the state's heroes.

Harold felt his heart break as he saw his daughter's coffin placed in a hole, but he held back his tears, promising himself that he would one day avenge this loss.

He did not blame Minos. One of the strongest Gods in the Mechanic Empire had acted against Isabella. And, after all, she had chosen to fight in that battle.

The culprit for her death was none other than the Mechanic Empire itself!

'One day, your old man will kill many members of that state, my child. I will bring justice to your name, even if I have to die for it.' Harold thought as he closed his eyes, ready to do whatever was necessary.

Chapter 2188 Early Days Of The New Era

After Isabella's big and quick funeral in Dry City, everyone involved, especially the family, returned to what they had to do.

Some people, like Lily, were dispirited but still tried to focus on what they could do from now on.

The weakest of the Stuart family, but also some of the great hopes of this world, had to turn to cultivation and raise their levels as soon as possible. No one knew what might happen in the short or medium term, but if there was a chance for them to become stronger, they should do so to help the forces of the world in the future.

That was especially true for Abby, who could even bring Gods back to life to help the Spiritual World.

The further she went, the more the world powers would thank her!

As such, she would soon shut herself away in seclusion in the Spatial Kingdom of her state with the weaker members of her family.

Meanwhile, Gloria wanted to cultivate as well. Still, at the moment, someone had to look after the state and make the best decisions for the future of the family and the empire.

So she was in the Spatial Kingdom along with the others, but unlike Abby, she would be running the state from such a place instead of focusing on cultivating.

She was aware of Minos' plans regarding the Spiritual Church, as well as the need to bring specialists from the Evergreen Empire to the north of the continent.

That would not be easy, nor would it happen overnight, just because Maximilian had left the Spiritual World at Minos' side. Therefore, she would have to work on ways to increase her position and influence for a while until she achieved what her husband wanted.

How long would that take? No one could say for sure. But given what they would learn about the enemy forces in the coming days, it would eventually become clear that it would take months or years for her to succeed.

In the meantime, they would still have to deal with the alien invasion and the catastrophic effects of the Ice Age!

...

So, the first few days after the alien invasion passed, and the world was relatively quiet for most of those days.

Many groups lost important members, but the alien terror wasn't as immediate as many had imagined.

However, this did not mean the aliens could live harmoniously with the natives. That was only a temporary condition due to the situation of the group of invaders trying to begin their project of domination.

The alien forces had lost far more men on their arrival in the Spiritual World than the most pessimistic of their projections for that arrival!

The Spiritual World had lost about 45% of the men they had deployed around the North Sea that day, but the aliens had lost 60% of their men who had fought in the core of the North Sea and 40% of the remaining individuals who had later fled that area.

That meant that they had lost 60% of the strongest group and 40% of the weakest group, which was the most numerous group consisting of biological and artificial individuals between levels 80 and 95.

Even though their total number hadn't decreased much, they had lost a lot of people and a lot of specialists.

As a result, the survivors reevaluated their situation during these first days in the Spiritual World after finding a place to call home.

It had taken them three days to find the ideal location, decimate the local population, and begin building their elemental defenses.

After that, the group began the still ongoing process of reviewing their options and reevaluating their plans.

The goal was still to dominate the Spiritual World and decimate the planet's weaker populations. But now the group on this planet was waiting for news from their state, where a new leader should have been chosen by now.

Until then, the world would have some peace before the local alien forces began to expand their territories!

...

Meanwhile, in the Mechanic Empire...

The news of the old Mechanical Emperor's death had already reached that state, as the man's vital signal had gone out days ago.

By the time the group of survivors in the Spiritual World had managed to contact the forces in The Adamant Land, a new ruler had already been chosen to take the place of the enemy killed by Minos!

The Mechanic Empire was startled by the news from the Spiritual World, and several experts were already discussing what to do. But nothing had been decided yet, for with the rise of a new leader, only that individual could decide what to do.

The chosen one, a cousin of the former Mechanical Emperor, had gone into seclusion after ascending to the position of emperor, a common occurrence in this state.

Such a person was only a level 99 Demigod, so he had to increase his cultivation to lead the empire.

In the meantime, no one was going to make decisions for him, and he hadn't given any orders himself because he didn't have the best information, and the situation in that world didn't seem that desperate.

Nor could he send reinforcements so quickly, for his state had enemies to protect, and they would first have to study how their remaining forces would behave in the Spiritual World.

If they received worrying data, then the state could send more powerful reinforcements. But if the forces in that world managed to get their project off to a good start, then the state could wait or even send weaker reinforcements.

So the state was just studying the matter, trying to identify the weapon Minos had used and its origin, as well as preparing to counter the power of the enemies' faith.

Meanwhile, the Gods at their disposal continued their duties of protecting the Empire's territory and keeping an eye on the enemies' movements in the part of the universe where they were.

The region where the Spiritual World was located was weak, and only that world had powerful beings. But the place where The Adamant Land was located was different, and there were several planets not too far away with powerful beings.

...

Meanwhile, Minos and his crew continued to travel toward the enemy planet, still several weeks away from their destination.

As similar as his ship was to that of the aliens, Minos' ship was still a notch below the ships of the Mechanic Empire. If the alien party had taken six weeks to travel between their starting point and the Spiritual World, it would have taken Emperor Stuart's party twice as long to get to The Adamant Land!

So, the group on that spacecraft continued to travel while they were concentrating on cultivation or training, preparing their plans for where they were going.

Chapter 2190 Options Ahead

Minos' party soon completed their eighth week of travel in the universal wormhole, heading for The Adamant Land.

At this point in the journey, Minos had recovered from about 75% of everything he had suffered previously, with some way to go to reach his best state, but much better.

He had improved a lot due to Ruth's help, the drugs he had taken, and the special powers of the two high-ranking doctors in his crew. The fact that he was still young, had an excellent recovery rate and had a lot of immortal energy in his being helped him a lot.

Therefore, he was finally ready to resume his cultivation while traveling and prepare for the terrible place his party wouldn't be far from.

Minos hadn't just left the Spiritual World with the natives of his planet. His crew also included the two aliens who had been held hostage by the forces of his world for all these years, as well as some alien robots his group had brought from the battlefield.

After the death of the Mechanical Emperor, these creatures were vulnerable to Minos' powers, an opportunity he couldn't help but take advantage of.

These individuals were artificial beings that had never died, so by being dominated by Minos, they now served him in a way that Voyager had never done. Giving critical information about the Mechanic Empire and the plans of this world to the crew going to The Adamant Land!

With the two aliens and the robots now under Minos' control, the group knew they were not far from their goal.

With their imminent infiltration of The Adamant Land, Minos and his group were already preparing for what they were about to do!

...

In one of the meeting rooms of Minos' spaceship, he, Ruth, Maximillian and some high-ranking individuals, including a Gorgon, chatted while alien robots were at their disposal to answer their questions.

"So, when we arrive in the Mechanic Empire, where exactly will we be? What should we expect when we arrive?" Ruth asked one of the robots with them.

"The universal wormhole connected to the Spiritual World is located at the headquarters of the Mechanical Army. All of the empire's wormholes are located on the lowest level of the barracks, in a highly protected area.

Our party can expect trouble when we get there. No one from the empire expects refugees or individuals to retreat, so they'll see us as enemies right away." Said one of the level 97 robots.

"Is there any way we can disguise ourselves and avoid the worst?" Ruth asked with a pessimistic.

"It's not impossible." Another robot said. "The place we're coming to has at least 10 more spatial distortions. If we're fast enough, we can pretend to be returning from another world and pass ourselves off as a group of space explorers. But this will depend a lot on the distraction of the observers in the area.

If someone sees our particular distortion, all is lost."

Maximilian worried about this. "A direct attack would be very problematic. We can't risk starting a battle inside the enemy headquarters."

"I agree," Minos said before asking. "Is it possible to get out of this wormhole before the end of this space tunnel we're traveling through?"

Minos and the natives of Spiritual World were sure that this wouldn't work on their home planet. But the aliens were more advanced than they were, so he didn't rule out the possibility himself.

"It's possible." The strongest robot, level 98, replied. "But the place where we would arrive would be completely random. At the same time, our chances of survival would be less than 30%."

Another robot commented. "The group from our planet that first discovered the Spiritual World reached that land this way. In their case, they suffered from a space storm inside the wormhole they were traveling through.

It diverted their destination to an unknown place, where they spent centuries trying to recover from the technological losses and direct us to create a path there.

The same thing could happen to us if we try anything. We could lose this spaceship, and many of us could die. Ultimately, we could end up somewhere much worse than our planet, or even somewhere very far away that will take us many years to get to the Mechanic Empire or even Irpoll".

Minos and Maximillian's plan was to join Irpoll to undermine the forces of The Adamant Land. But they also had plans to sabotage the Mechanic Empire from within that state.

Either way, they needed to be in The Adamant Land to carry out these two plans since they only knew the way to Irpoll through that other world!

"This is a difficult decision."

"Yes. If we do nothing, we run the risk of meeting several Gods, but if we do something, we could die or get lost in the universe."

The people there commented to each other, not knowing what to do but certain that they were in trouble.

"We have no choice," Minos said seriously. "Going to the end of this wormhole is the most dangerous. Our chances of success are meager. Even if we manage to reach this world without attracting attention, it would be very difficult to pass ourselves off as aliens.

But if we survive the attempt to go somewhere else, we can become space explorers."

"What about our chances of dying?" Someone asked, a little uncertain.

Minos looked at Maximilian and said. "Let us not forget that we have a God in our midst. The group that discovered the Spiritual World didn't have the same, so they went through a drastic situation to reach our planet and finally contact their homeworld.

But with him by our side, we can protect our artifacts and spaceship and eventually protect ourselves from any enemies that might appear along the way."

Ruth said. "And Minos also has very strong space powers. I think it's possible to protect ourselves from what the robots say. The problem will be to find our way to Irpoll afterward."

Minos asked Maximilian. "What do you think we should do?"

Maximilian agreed with him. "Let's try to take an alternative route. Our chances are minimal if we follow the current path. Trying something else will have unimaginable consequences, some of which could even be very positive for us."

"So when will we do it?" Someone asked.

One of the robots suggested. "I think the best time would be in two weeks. By then, we'll be too close to The Adamant Land to try an alternate route."

The group agreed to go ahead with this daring plan in two weeks and venture into the unknown universe!