

BLACK PLAIN 236

Chapter 236: Tough Battle

Quickly the two opposing sides began to face each other as several spiritual projections appeared on that terrain of the Chambers' base, illuminating the majority darkness of the night.

Some of the bodyguards were protecting their respective leaders simultaneously as they dealt with those guards who got in their way.

Others defended their positions as they kept a close eye on Jamie, ready to strike at any time if this Spiritual King attempted to fight their respective groups.

At first several of them planned to gather to defeat this Spiritual King who guarded this base. However, seeing that he had Minos in his sights, the various level 49 Spiritual Generals who were there decided to wait and see what would happen.

It made no sense for them to expose themselves if the enemy was not interested in them!

They would just stand by, ensuring the safety of their respective protégés. If something changed and Jamie switched targets, targeting the pursuers' groups, then they could go back to the previous plane and deal with this individual together!

These people did not care a bit about the young Stuart's well-being either. They were temporary allies, but their death and life did not matter to each other. As long as they could help each other out for a little while, by taking out some of these guards from the Chambers family, it would be well worth it.

Not to mention that they had all seen how capable Minos was. Hence, letting him deal with the Spiritual King of this place was the best thing to do.

On the other hand, the 56 soldiers of the Black Plain Army had already been subdivided into groups of 3 people each, principally, to face different guards from that place.

They had lower cultivation levels than these people, so they had no reason to act proudly and fight one by one. Teamwork was what they had all learned at Minos army headquarters, and that was what they knew how to do.

Having a good fight with an enemy was exciting and memorable. It could stay in the memory of a cultivator with something meaningful, even after centuries. However, living and ensuring their families' success was their priority, and there was no room for pride at this point.

If the Black Plain did well, these people would have even more opportunities, as would their families. Thus, for this to happen, eliminating these enemies without taking risks was the best way to act!

Anyway, while the soldiers were already starting their battles in groups, Abby and Eda were on the wall of that place, not far from the entrance gate of that base.

Both were keeping an eye on the battles that were taking place, as they were careful not to let any of those individuals escape.

However, because the battle had only just begun and the two sides appeared to be equally matched, there had been not a single attempt to flee this location in the few seconds since the invasion began.

But amidst the flying earth, the sounds of explosions and cuts in the air, it was not long before two individuals appeared near them both, with lustful looks on their faces.

These people were not trying to run away but on the contrary. They wanted to defeat these two women and maybe enslave them. Some women in this group were attacking this base, so these men brought up by the Chambers family could not help but wonder what would happen after these invaders were eliminated...

"If you behave well, you can have a decent life as my slave! Hahaha." One of them said, watching the young Abby's well-developed body with lusty eyes, which showed the obscenities he must have been thinking about right now.

Although Abby and Eda wore cloaks and masks, it was not difficult to see these two female silhouettes.

And hearing that, Eda could not help but furrowing her brows as she made a solemn expression. She could not let two random worms make fun of her young lady, a high-status noblewoman of the Miller family!

It must be said that the Miller family was a far more influential power than the Chambers family in the north of the Central Continent!

Therefore, such an insult to Abby, in a way, it was as if those people were making fun of the Miller story, even though they were in an inferior position!

'By what right does the wolf judge the lion?' She asked herself angrily in her mind as she formed a strong wave of air toward those two.

Boom!

Quickly, the battle began in that part of the base, while Eda took a more active role against those two, and Abby helped her at specific times.

Abby was not like Minos, but she still had good Black-grade techniques, unlike those subordinates of the Chambers family, who were just ordinary individuals, supported by primarily Blue-grade techniques.

Because of that, Abby still had a proficiency higher than her cultivation level and could withstand a good fight with those cultivators 2-3 levels above hers!

Meanwhile, on Kevin's side, this young master had not tried to flee after Minos' group's attack began. He had not sensed any Spiritual Kings in this region, and as strange as he found the unusual strength the young Stuart displayed, for him, it was well within what Jamie could handle.

Even if Jamie could not kill Minos, the opposite would also be true. The two sides seemed to be very close in combat proficiency, so Kevin was not afraid of having to lose the only person who could protect him in this place.

Then, he had decided to stay around and help these subordinates eliminate these invaders. He felt a wave of rising anger in his heart due to the repeated struggles during the previous trip.

Other than that, having his dual cultivation session messed up by the same people as before, these annoying pursuers had pissed him off even more. That's why he wanted to participate in this battle and maybe eliminate some of these people!

And at that moment, Vivian finally managed to get closer to Kevin while having a complicated look on her face. She wanted to kill this guy for several reasons, but she did not feel able to do it alone.

However, today she was not alone in this matter!

At the same time that she had reached Kevin's position, two other young pursuers were also around, ready to fight and steal the Spring of Life.

They all wanted the same item and were competitors. But they understood that the Chambers had great strength in this place. It would not make sense to compete with each other before Kevin and his subordinates were defeated.

Then, they all quickly looked at each other while nodding their heads in agreement, as if they were ready to fight as a team against Kevin's group.

Seeing this, Kevin snapped his fingers as he looked at these people, telling his subordinates. "This time, no one can hold back. Use everything you can! We don't need to save our energies. Kill these wretches, and I will reward you later!"

Upon hearing this, the subordinates who had traveled with Kevin in those days, along with the bodyguard Clive, who was right beside this young master, nodded in agreement, already releasing their spiritual forces, starting another battle in that place.

"Forward! Kill these intruders!"

Boom!

...

Indestructible Body!

Explosive Steps!

Spatial Sword!

Devouring Art!

Quickly, the young Stuart activated all four combat techniques while dodging and trying to counter the attacks that Jaime was launching towards him.

As much as the Devourer Art had little effect on Jaime, Minos could not help but support himself using this technique. And even if he could end up stealing the energy of some of his soldiers by using it in this small space, where fighting took place, overall, the effect would be worse for the side of Minos' enemies.

The young Stuart's soldiers already knew his way of fighting very well. They were fighting in groups against opponents in this place. With that, they were already trying to take their respective fights away from where Minos was while allowing their enemies to be influenced more significantly by the Devourer Art!

Consequently, even though it affected even his allies, Minos thought he would have the upper hand in this situation, so he used such a strategy.

Fighting a level 51, Spiritual King, was not easy for him at his current level, so he had to use all of his trump cards to keep this fight with Jamie going for a while until this man opened his guard!

Swoosh!

Puff!

And so, the tough battle of this base of the Chambers family continued, as Minos and Jamie put pressure on each other, with the Spiritual King's attacks harassing the young Stuart at times, but with Jaime having the upper hand in the general context...
