Chapter 246 A Masquerade Party

Actually, Evie wanted Trevor to ask for 50 business cards of the wealthy people without the help of anyone.

In that way, he could prove that he had been part of the upper class.

As such kind of test was given to him, Trevor felt a headache forming.

His sister was as efficient as ever as she hung up the phone directly without waiting for his response.

Sighing deeply, Trevor thought for a while. All of a sudden, he remembered that Wendy wanted him to organize a party for rich young people.

If he held the party, it wouldn't be a problem for him to collect business cards.

However, he didn't know what kind of party would attract the rich young men's interest.

After thinking for a while, he simply contacted Wendy and asked her to give him any suggestions.

After all, Wendy was a socialite in the upper class. When she spoke her idea, Trevor's eyes lit up with excitement.

Threw a masquerade party?

This would definitely be an amazing experience for Trevor.

And it could be held on his yacht!

An ordinary yacht could only accommodate at most twenty to thirty people.

However, the yacht that Trevor just bought was one of the most expensive yachts in the world and the interior was designed exquisitely.

When he visited the yacht the last time he knew that it was absolutely capable of holding such kind of large-scale party.

This would definitely attract the rich young men's attention.

In the end, he immediately made up his mind to ask Wendy to invite the people to the party.

Thinking about this, he called Jeanne.

"Jeanne, I'm going to hold a masquerade party on the yacht the day after tomorrow. Can you help me prepare it?"

On the other end of the phone, Jeanne quickly agreed and promised that she would complete all the task as soon as possible.

After a pause, Jeanne said awkwardly, "Mr. Sanderson, I apologize for Keanu again. Can you please give me a chance to apologize in person?"

Hearing it, Trevor comforted her, "Don't worry about it. It's not your fault anyway. I am not angry at you. I accept your apology."

However, Jeanne was still uneasy and she kept begging.

In the end, Trevor had no choice but to agree to meet her at the Starbucks on the commercial street.

When he arrived at the Starbucks, Jeanne was already there, looking restless.

Once Trevor came in, Jeanne quickly stood up and greeted him.

"Mr. Sanderson, I'm very sorry. I'm willing to accept any punishment you give."

After talking, she bent her body 90 degrees and bowed respectfully to apologize.

Seeing that Jeanne was indeed sincere, Trevor said genuinely, "Actually, I have already forgiven you. I'm not going to punish you. Just do your job well. Also, don't reveal my real identity to anyone because I just want to live a normal peaceful college life."

Nodding her head, Jeanne heaved a sigh of relief.

However, she still felt a bit uneasy.

Although she had already apologized, her brother, Keanu didn't say anything. Therefore, she was afraid that Trevor would hold a grudge against him.

Thinking about it, Jeanne found an excuse to go to the washing room and called her brother.

Licking her lips anxiously, Jeanne said, "Keanu, where are you?"

When Keanu got a call from his sister, he got a little bit nervous.

After all, he was scolded by his sister after dropping out of school. Since then he had been avoiding her. Therefore, he quickly explained and said, "I'm at a bar on the commercial street right now with my friend."

In a hurry, she said, "Come to Starbucks right now and apologize to the person sitting at Table 16. Do you understand? Don't be rude to him!"
