

Blessed 249

Chapter 249 Who Are You

The moment Trevor saw Keanu, he had a guess.

This bastard sneaked in here, relying on his relationship with Jeanne, and got found out.

That was the fact.

Since he was going to be sent abroad again to study, Keanu wanted to have some fun before leaving.

He found out that his sister had been busy preparing a yacht party lately, so he assumed that the party was for him.

Today, he went to the yacht with a couple of his friends in tow and told the captain and the security team that he was Jeanne's brother.

Keanu's friends had never been on a luxury yacht before.

So they tried their best to flatter Keanu for an invite.

Keanu's vanity was greatly satisfied by all the attractive ladies throwing themselves at him.

Keanu was in the middle of having the time of his life when Trevor appeared.

The elated smile on his face turned into a bitter scowl within seconds.

It seemed that he had never been lucky since he met Trevor.

First, he was expelled from school, and then his sister was preparing to send him abroad to study.

What was this loser doing at his party?

Keanu's eyes blazed with hatred.

He groaned, "Oh, for Pete's sake! What the hell are you doing here? You don't belong here! Get out! This is my party!"

Before Trevor could defend himself, Keanu's friends also shouted abuse.

"How did you even get in? Why didn't the guards stop you?"

"Mr. Brown said you're not welcome here, yet you're still standing there like a moron. You're party crashing. You deserve to be beaten to death!"

Frowning, Trevor did not say anything. He just stared at Keanu with a serious expression on his face.

"This yacht is not yours. You have no business taking your friends here and having a party."

The moment Keanu heard that, he laughed unscrupulously.

"You're right. This ship is not mine. But is it yours? Don't act all high and mighty. If you don't leave right now, I'll summon the guards and have them throw you overboard."

Trevor wanted to laugh at Keanu's empty threats. This yacht did not belong to the Sanderson family? Clearly, Keanu had no idea whose toes he was stepping on.

Trevor was about to speak when he heard some noise coming from the yacht's side ladder.

A group of young men and women clad in luxurious designer suits and gowns were boarding the yacht.

Some of them were already wearing their intricately designed masks for the masquerade party while the others were holding their masks in their hands.

One of Keanu's friends yelled in surprise when he saw the new arrivals.

"Mr. Brown, look. Isn't that Mr. Smith?"

"Not only Mr. Smith. There's also Wendy. Those people are Jork's young elite."

"Wow, Mr. Brown. You are so influential that the richest young men and women in the city come to your parties."

Hearing his friend's exclamation, Keanu also turned to the door.

He could not believe his eyes.

It turned out that his sister had been working nonstop to invite the most famous and wealthiest people of Jork to his farewell party.

Keanu was so excited, thinking that his sister really loved him very much.

But he felt a little confused. Why did Jeanne not inform him that she was holding a farewell party for him?

Keanu heard the news from someone else, so he brought his friends to the yacht.

But he supposed that none of that mattered anymore. After all, he was in a yacht, surrounded by his friends and some of Jork's young money.

Keanu was totally immersed in the flattery of his friends. He felt that he had reached the peak of his life and did not have to waste one more minute on Trevor.

He pushed away the two bikini beauties on his flanks and put on his coat.

After tidying himself up as much as he could, Keanu put on a bright smile and walked up to the newcomers. "Mr. Smith, Miss Miller, I wasn't expecting you here at my party. I'm greatly honored to welcome you."

Keanu extended his hand and waited for Gavin to shake it.

He thought that since Jeanne invited Gavin and his friends, she surely had mentioned her brother to these rich young men.

But to Keanu's surprise, Gavin just knitted his brows and cocked his head to the side. Gavin just stared at him like he had just said the most ridiculous thing in the world.

Then, Gavin blurted out, "I'm sorry, who are you?"