

Blessed 262

Chapter 262 A Weird Gambling Game

After some time, Trevor pushed out all the remaining chips and placed them in the small circle in the center, indicating that he was betting them all.

Originally, he wanted to give gambling a try. However, he lost more than eight hundred thousand dollars in the blink of an eye. Therefore, he decided to bet the rest of the chips on the last round.

Honestly, Trevor expected to lose them all.

After all, it wasn't a big deal for the Sanderson family to lose one million dollars in such a short time.

However, he felt a little distressed for the money he lost. In the end, he decided to take it as a lesson.

Thinking about it, Trevor shook his head slightly.

Well, gambling wasn't good anyway. After this time, he would never gamble again.

Seeing that Trevor bet everything this time, the group of gamblers led by Darnley exchanged knowing glances with a greedy smile on their faces.

Actually, they all thought this would be the last chance for them to make money today. Therefore, they all put all their chips in the opposite circle of Trevor.

After some movements of the croupier, the dice cup was placed upside down on the table.

All the people around gathered to see the result, except for Trevor.

However, the result caused an uproar in the crowd!

It was One, Two, Three, Small!

At that time, Darnley and his companions were so furious that they even had difficulty in breathing. Then, they all turned to glare at the croupier.

The whole time, the croupier had been making Trevor lose. Then, why did he let him win the last time?

They had put all their chips on this last game, thinking that they were going to win!

Therefore, it was natural for Darnley and the others to get angry. The muscles on their faces were twisted with anger.

Of course, Trevor was also surprised.

The whole time, he had been losing yet he won in the last round!

All of a sudden, Trevor realized something as he looked at the angry expressions of Darnley and the others.

Since he started gambling, all these gamblers had bet on the opposite side.

Something was weird about it!

Maybe someone had been controlling the gambling game and made him lose all his money. However, he won this time because that person wanted him to win.

Raising his eyebrows, Trevor turned to look at the waiter beside him and asked, "Is there a way of betting that is neither big nor small?"

Obviously, the waiter didn't dare to ignore him and replied quickly, "Yes, we have that kind of game too. You can choose to bet your chips on three dice which have the same number."

With a nod, Trevor stared at the croupier thoughtfully and threw all his remaining chips on the table.

Looking at the croupier directly, Trevor said calmly, "Okay then, I'll bet all the chips on the result where all three dice have one spot."

Hearing his bet, the croupier wiped the sweat that had formed on his forehead.

In fact, he had been working in the casino for so many years. Therefore, his technique was so exquisite that he could roughly control the number of dice. Even for him, getting three dices which all had one spot was a tough challenge.

Gritting his teeth, the croupier had to concentrate on shaking the dice cup in his hand.

With a loud bang, the dice cup was placed on the table.

Everyone held their breath subconsciously as they waited for the result.

With trembling hands, the croupier revealed the result.

The dice cup was opened, revealing all three dice which only had one spot on each one!

Wow...he made it!

Only then could the croupier breathe a sigh of relief and slump into the chair as if all this energy was drained.

At that time, Darnley and the others got so angry that they started cursing directly.

"Fuck! How is this possible?"

At this point, all of them sensed that something was wrong.

They came here as they thought they could earn some money from the casino. However, the one who was in charge of the casino changed his mind.

Originally, they had planned to trick Trevor. However, they lost all their money in the end.

No matter how furious they were, they didn't dare to mess the casino which was belonged to Gavin.

After thinking for a while, Trevor shook his head with a smile.

He won the game when he didn't want to.

The whole time, he had been losing but suddenly he started winning which even made him earn hundreds of chips that were worth hundreds of thousand dollars this time.

He even won when he bet the impossible probability.

Subconsciously, Trevor looked around the casino.

As he expected, he saw Gavin who was standing in the corner.

Seeing him, Trevor asked the waiter to put all the chips away and exchange them into cash before walking towards the corner.

After thinking for a while, Trevor was sure that Gavin was the one who helped him win all the money. Feeling a bit morose, he asked, "Gavin, did you arrange the game to let me win in the end?"
