

Blessed 269

Chapter 269 Was It A Coincidence

When the two of them got back to school, Corrie parted her way with Trevor without saying a word. In fact, she was a little dissatisfied with Trevor.

Because she thought that Trevor dared to make unkind remarks about the mysterious Mr. Sanderson.

Truth be told, she didn't want to believe that Mr. Sanderson looked as ordinary as Trevor mentioned before. After taking a few steps, she picked up her phone and sent a message to express her gratitude towards Mr. Sanderson.

"Mr. Sanderson, thank you so much for saving me today. If it weren't for you, I don't know what would have happened to me. My life would have been ruined!"

"I want to thank you properly in person. Can I see you again, Mr. Sanderson?"

Although Corrie sent several messages in a row, there was no reply.

This made her feel very depressed. She wasn't sure what kind of feeling Mr. Sanderson had for her. Therefore, naturally she was worried.

At least, Mr. Sanderson cared about her safety. Otherwise, why would he contact Trevor to take her back to school?

Wait a minute.

All of a sudden, Corrie came back to her senses and noticed that something wasn't right.

She remembered that she never told Mr. Sanderson about Trevor.

So, how did Mr. Sanderson know that Trevor knew her?

How did Mr. Sanderson contact Trevor to ask for help?

Was it a coincidence?

The day before, Mr. Sanderson took her to the Willard Villa and the next day, she met Trevor at the gate of the Willard Villa.

When she introduced Trevor to the Vitoria Casino to do a part-time job, Mr. Sanderson said that he was in the casino at that time.

The more Corrie thought about it, the more suspicious she became. She started to think about Mr.

Sanderson's figure and appearance.

When she thought about it carefully, she found that Mr. Sanderson's figure was somewhat similar to that of Trevor. Even though he was wearing a mask all the time, she thought that he had some features with Trevor.

Furrowing her eyebrows, she muttered under her breath, "Is Trevor..."

But he doesn't look like a rich man at all."

Corrie was confused as she didn't know what to think. She shook her head heavily to erase the thoughts.

After all, it was just impossible!

In the end, she decided to ask Trevor about it when she met him.

In the meanwhile, Trevor hadn't been aware that he making up the story in a hurry had almost got his identity exposed.

Trevor looked at the series of messages from Corrie with a bitter smile.

Honestly, Corrie was really beautiful. She could even be counted as one of the most attractive girls in the school.

If Corrie didn't treat him bad when they met for the first time, Trevor would probably fall in love with her.

However, now he had fallen in love with another beautiful girl!

When he thought about this girl, a smile automatically appeared on his face. Shaking his head, he put the phone into his pocket.

All of a sudden, his eyes were covered by a pair of small hands.

"Guess who I am..."

Hearing the voice, Trevor's heart skipped a beat.

The vigorous and energetic voice belonged to the girl he was looking forward to seeing.

With a smile on his face, he asked, "Luisa, it's so late. Why aren't you in your dormitory?"

Trevor pulled away Luisa's hands from his eyes. When his fingers touched hers, he felt happy.

Feeling his touch, Luisa got a little shy and put her hands behind her back. With a blush on her face, she smiled and said, "These days I have exams. So, I just came back from the library."

After saying that, she wanted to say something to Trevor. However, on second thought, she decided not to. Licking her lips nervously, she played with the corner of her clothes with her small hands.

In the end, she made up her mind and said, "Trevor, my cousin, Mona is getting married this weekend. Would you like to be my date?"

Hearing her question, Trevor was stunned.

Would she bring an ordinary friend to her cousin's wedding?

Or was it because...

Trevor became overjoyed as exciting thoughts flashed through his mind.

Was Luisa hinting him that their relationship could become closer? Did it mean they could end up being lovers?

At that time, Trevor had to try his best to restrain his excitement just in case he would lose control of his emotions.

With a wide smile on his face, Trevor said, "Sure."

However, the name Mona sounded a little familiar to Trevor.

Only then did Trevor remember that Luisa's brother, Balfour, mentioned about Mona's wedding when he met him in the Scarlet Restaurant.

Trevor became curious as he asked, "But I thought your cousin got married a few days ago."

"Well, I don't know exactly what happened but I heard that something got wrong with her fiancé's company, so the wedding was delayed.

As Luisa didn't know what happened for sure, she just explained as far as she knew.

Nodding his head, Trevor decided not to pay attention to it anymore. After all, he had nothing to do with that matter.

Instead of it, his thoughts wandered about what he should wear. Since it was a wedding, he couldn't dress casually as usual.

Thinking about it, Trevor said, "So, I'm going to buy a suit in advance."

On the one hand, Trevor thought that if he dressed well in such kind of activities, he might not be looked down upon by others.

On the other hand, he mostly didn't want to embarrass Luisa in front of her relatives and friends.

Originally, Luisa was going to persuade Trevor not to spend money for the wedding.

However, when she saw the determined look on Trevor's face, she didn't try to insist anymore. Instead, she was a little excited.

In fact, she had always thought that Trevor would be very handsome when he dressed up. With her eyes filled with excitement, she said with a smile, "Okay, I'll go with you tomorrow then!"
